King Orange Is the Juiciest Yet; Silver Festival Lights Up Miami

Splendor Dazzles Half a Million On Line of March

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled party that lighted up downtown Miami like a birthday cake.

The King Orange Jamboree was a brilliantly wrapped present for the record-breaking half a million spectators.

They jammed 19 blocks of Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., peeked through hotel and office windows, packed the courthouse steps and sat on roofs.

A bright and beautiful two-hour parade, it was tuneful and it was noisy. It had 35 bands and 50 elaborately decorated and lighted floats among its 107 units. It had gorgeous girls, funny clowns, breath-taking scenery and rib-tickling balloon monstrosities.

Maestro Ernie Seiler boasted that this was the proudest effort in the quarter-century of Orange Bowl Festival history, and probably none of the onlookers would argue with him.

Even the weather cooperated to make this Silver Anniversary March a special production. Earlier threats of rain vanished and the sparkling pageant proceeded under a starless velvet sky, with 10-to-12 mile southeast breezes circulating the 74-degree air.

By 6:55 p.m., when the parade got under way, five minutes before schedule, there was not room to take a deep breath along the entire route.

Inspector Paul Denham, who has been estimating King Orange Jamboree crowds for generations, swore that 500,000 people attended. This beat the previous attendance record of 450,000, set last year, and was way ahead of the next highest mark, 350,000 in 1954.

The parade not only started ahead of time, to allow the Metro Traffic Division motorcycle acrobats to perform for five minutes in front of the reviewing stand, but it kept going on time. The last float left the Dupont Plaza assembly area at 8:50 p.m. and crossed the finish

New Year's Storm Hits Midwest

CHICAGO —(UPI)— A New Year's Eve snowstorm spanned the Midwest Wednesday night, icing roads and heightening the dangers of holiday traffic.

The snows were driving eastward through the Ohio Valley and sent out advance warnings in the form of thickening clouds into the Northeast.

The storm climaxed the nation's coldest December since 1917 and left scores of towns and cities digging out in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roads opened in the West, clearing the way for hundreds of motorists to continue their holiday travels, but snow piled up rapidly along roads in Missouri, eastern Kansas, and western Illinois. To the south, snow and freezing rain spread a sheet of ice along highways from south central Missouri across Illinois into western Indiana.

As the storm moved eastward, heavy snows began falling on Chicago and threatened to mount to four inches deep. Weathermen predicted up to five inches of snow through southern Wisconsin, northern Indiana, Lower Michigan and Ohio.

Although the snows which swept the plains were not rated in the blizzard class in most areas, they were listed as the cause of at least 16 deaths.

In Oklahoma City, hazardous roads were blamed for poor business in downtown stores and the Tinker Air Force Base urged its 14,000 workers to take their annual leave but avoid traveling.

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivals will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback. Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on option.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Some Eastern Planes to Start Flying Friday

By DOM BONAFEDE and BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writers

Eastern Air Lines and its flight engineers announced a dramatic Happy New Year message just before midnight Wednesday.

"The strike is over!"

For 16,000 EAL employes it means a return to jobs left idle since Nov. 24 when the company's flight engineers and mechanics walked out to begin one of the most severe airline strikes in history.

The airline will resume operations Friday, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, EAL board chairman announced.

The agreement, signed after all-day talks with federal mediators participating, eliminated the controversial "third man" issue. EAL agreed not to require the engineers to take pilot training to fly jetliners.

Eastern's 550 flight engineers sparked the walkout in protest over a company demand they be pilot-qualified.

* * *

Pilots Add Gloomy Note

The only gloomy spot in the New Year's Eve strike-ending news was an announcement by the Air Line Pilots Association that the line's pilots "are not going back to work until we know what we're doing."

G. M. Sheridan, chairman of the ALPA master executive council, told The Herald:

"No pilots are to report for scheduled or revenue operations until approved by the association. A back-to-work agreement is first necessary to protect the rights of all pilots in accordance with the current working agreement."

Sheridan contended the pilots union is concerned about the engineers' alliance with Teamsters Union Boss Jimmy Hoffa.

At a nod by Hoffa, the Teamsters approved a $200,000 strike loan to the engineers. His action was interpreted by many as a means of getting his foot into the airline industry labor field.

Although not directly involved in the strike, the pilots hovered in the background as a strong force favoring three pilot-qualified crewmen in jet cockpits.

Rickenbacker, however, commented after the contract signing that he did not expect any trouble from the pilots.

"They will understand this is the solution to the problem until 1960," the famed flier remarked. "And in the meantime it is subject to federal regulations."

Eastern said its personnel would start to be recalled immediately and that ticket offices and other facilities would start taking reservations at once.

* * *

Contract Terms Not Told

Terms of the contract, which were not disclosed, run until April 1, 1960.

It was learned, however, that the engineers will receive wage increases, increased vacations and expenses and other benefits.

Jack Robertson, regional vice president of the FEIA, announced in a statement:

"We consider it a very good contract. It has adequate job security in it. We will be back flying as soon as the planes are made available."

O. N. Roberts, Miami FELA president, noted that the engineers "regret the inconvenience to the public and everyone concerned."

Economically, the strike was estimated to cost the Greater Miami area some 17 million dollars.

Other airlines flying the same routes as Eastern — the nation's largest passenger carrier — added extra sections and took up some of the space slack.

An Eastern spokesman said by Friday the company

Everyone Lost $$$ As Result of Strike

By CHARLES TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

Here are some estimates of the cost of the 38-day Eastern Air Lines strike:

TO FLORIDA, about 25½ million dollars. The First Research Corp. has estimated that after Dec. 18, when the winter tourist season got into full swing, the strike cost about $950,000 a day.

TO GREATER MIAMI alone, about 17 million dollars, or between $500,000 and $600,000 a day.

TO EASTERN'S 7,000 EMPLOYES here, well over four million dollars. Eastern's Miami pay roll totals 42 million dollars a year—nearly a million a week.

TO EASTERN ITSELF, "a million a day," according to the company's estimates.

TO GREATER MIAMI BUSINESSES—from the big hotels to little apartment houses, stores and restaurants —roughly $35 a day from each of an estimated 6,000 passengers flown daily into the area by Eastern at this time of year. Many of these, however, came in on other lines.

TO THE MACHINISTS UNION, over a million dollars in $35-a-week strike benefits to some 5,500 employes working for Eastern. The union continued paying benefits, although it settled its dispute a week ago.

TO THE FLIGHT ENGINEERS UNION, about $175,000 in $55-a-week strike benefits to 550 system-wide employes for Eastern.

TO FLORIDA TAXPAYERS, nearly five million dollars in lost revenue from tourists, according to an estimate by Dade County Rep. Cliff Herrell.

Batista Troops Pound Rebels From Province

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Government foot troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respites for the rebels," declared a source close to President Fulgencio Batista."

Batista remained in the presidential palace amid reports he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over Castro's insurgents soon.

Santa Clara's streets were described by a Batista spokesman as strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated that 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expects their flight toward easternmost Oriente province to gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle - raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive will be intensified once the rebels are pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there.

A late dispatch Wednesday night said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there harbored 200 rebels in a church and came out crying for peace although he carried a machinegun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American embassy to go to the U.S. Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the U.S.

Officers Hunt Firebug

Men, Planes Fight California Flames

TOPANGA CANYON, Calif. — (AP) — A wind-driven fire, believed started by an arsonist, sped wildly through the Santa Monica mountains Wednesday night, burning homes and forcing thousands to flee.

An estimated 50 homes and cabins have been destroyed and 3,000 acres blackened. An army of men aided by fire-bombing planes fought the blaze.

The fire started near Woodland Hills and, swept along by gale-like winds, raced up the inland slope, over the crest and down populous Topanga Canyon to the sea.

In the canyon community of Glenwood, at least 35 structures were razed, Fire Capt. Jack Connors said.

Dozens of homes were in its path as the fire headed toward the Pacific.

The Pacific Coast highway was closed as flames raced down the hillsides to its edge.

Flames leaped 75 feet in the air. Beach property was endangered.

Two hours after the original fire broke out another started two miles west, also in Woodland Hills. This, too, threatened homes.

Said Assistant County Fire Chief Paul Clark: "We better catch this little firebug. He's set 20 fires in this area in the last three days. This is definitely arson."

Half a dozen fire fighters were hospitalized, most for treatment of smoke inhalation.

Authorities said the Topanga fire showed signs, at least in the initial stages, of being much worse than the Malibu Beach blazes of early this month and of 1956.

They feared it would sweep to the sea.

Authorities declared the blaze a major disaster. The Red Cross set up an emergency evacuation center.

Prospects of Peace Good, Says Nikita

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, in a New Year's message, said Wednesday "It is my conviction that the prospects for preserving peace in 1959 are good."

His prediction was contained in a statement sent to the Mutual Broadcasting System in response to a request for his opinions on world peace prospects.

Khrushchev's statement will be read on a nationwide radio program by Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov.

The Soviet leader said peace prospects depend "on the desire of the peoples, and at the present time there is not a single people in the world that desires war.

"We in the Soviet Union," he continued, "believe that the American people, whose creative genius we value so highly, and the Soviet people, who strive for peace and friendship among all countries, should and will play their outstanding part in strengthening peace.

"And I think that nobody will deny that their is a particularly great responsibility for the destiny of peace resting on the shoulders of our peoples, the responsibility to decide whether fear of another war will continue to alarm mankind or whether mankind will breathe with relief ridden of the threat of war."

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

Moon Mute Too Soon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's big Atlas satellite stopped "talking" Wednesday and the Defense Department indicated it believes the moon's batteries are dead or dying.

The department said Army ground stations were unable to trigger the Air Force satellite's transmitter.

The satellite was scheduled to receive and send back messages for 20 days but apparently has run out of steam after 12 days. It is expected to continue orbiting the earth until about Feb. 1 and then burn up in the atmosphere.

Arizonan Peeks, Sees New Flag

NOGALES, Ariz. —(AP)— A new American flag, apparently following the government-approved design recognizing Alaska as a state, arrived in this Mexican border town Wednesday.

Publisher H. R. Sisk of The Nogales Daily Herald, who got a peek at the flag in a stationery store, said it consists of the present 13 stripes and has a square blue field containing seven rows of seven stars each.

Wear Your Drip-Dry Shirts

You may not need it, but . . . Take a raincoat to the Orange Bowl game today," the weatherman advised.

"If I were going, I'd sure take one," said Forecaster William McGehee Wednesday night.

There's a rain area moving eastward that may hit us, he said.

"If it goes a shade north, we're OK," McGehee said. "If it moves straight east, I'd say showers were likely."

If a drop falls, it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25-year history.

But Orange Bowl fans at least will be shirt-sleeved while spectators at other major bowls shiver.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasadena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

No Strikes, He Says

Hoffa Will Organize Police 'If They Ask'

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa said Wednesday his union will try to organize policemen only if they ask to be organized. Even then, he said, they should not be allowed to strike.

Hoffa also ruled out any attempt by the Teamsters to halt deliveries to the New York police department in a drive to organize that city's law officers.

Hoffa's comments, issued by his headquarters in response to newsmen's requests for a policy statement, conflicted with an earlier announcement by Henry Feinstein, head of a New York City Employes' Teamster local.

Feinstein had said union members would cut off deliveries to the police department by setting up picket lines which members of the huge truck union would refuse to cross. Later, however, Feinstein retreated and said deliveries would move across picket lines.

Hoffa said "there will be no such service interruption by this international union now or at any time in the future." He said any talk of service interruption is "sheer nonsense."

Hoffa said his union plans to organize all public employes, not only policemen.

A Teamster spokesman said any picketing would merely advertise the intention of the Teamsters to organize New York's policemen.

But he said that even if policemen were unionized they should not have the right to strike because of the "emergency nature of their service to the general public."

The Teamster leader said police should be unionized to obtain machinery for arbitration of their grievances.

"We also feel that machinery is needed to eliminate the practice of leaving the police officers' welfare to the whims of department heads who quite often decide human relations on the basis of favoritism and politics," Hoffa said.

500,000 See Parade

Silver King Orange Juiciest of All

line, at Seventh Ave. and Flagler St. at 9:40 p.m.

Close behind came the bands, the marching units, the floats and the baton twirlers in dazzling array.

To the delight of the children there were clowns aplenty, and gigantic balloons that ranged from a plump turkey to a 55-foot-long Viking ship with crew.

The youngsters — and their parents — probably never will forget the exciting picture of the Western Express, drawn by four plunging horses, carrying a shotgun-armed guard and a driver, pursued by two masked bandits on foaming horses. This was a masterpiece of the balloonist's art.

Parade participants outdid themselves in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally to cover the city float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright — if artificial — flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. exhibit.

And one of the most effective floats was that of Coral Gables, carrying the Queen and King of Youthland—Hillary Willis, 13, and Richard Roellig, 14. It was heavily hung with red roses.

There also was other royalty in the parade.

Far to the front, in a Pepsi Cola Bottling float, was Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, 21, of Rankin, Miss.

And in the very last float, on a throne befitting her position and her beauty, was Her Majesty, Nanita Greene, the Orange Bowl Queen.

The queen rode in one of the 10 theme floats prepared by the Orange Bowl Committee.

This year's theme was "Memoirs," and depicted various phases of Orange Bowl Festival activities, ranging from "Music" to "Events" and "Models" to "Costumes."

The commercial floats showed a wide range of imagination.

Of course there were animals and birds of all kinds. Hialeah race track even had live flamingos on its float. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; the dog tracks featured greyhounds; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriner hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a kangaroo.

Fish there were in profusion, with the biggest, a 10-foot bass leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Three university bands took part. The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University musicians drew partisan cheers along the way. The football teams from those two schools have some business together in the Orange Bowl this afternoon. The University of Miami band was neutral.

Four drum and bugle corps participated along with seven out-of-state high school bands, and seven high school bands from Florida, outside of Dade County.

All in all, King Orange had himself a championship jamboree. It'll be hard for him to better himself next year.

Eyeballs Popped on Stand, Too

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

Meanwhile, what was happening in the reviewing stand where all the VIP's watched the parade.

Their eyeballs were popping as the pretty gals passed by, just like the eyeballs of ordinary folk. Male eyeballs, that is.

And the four Air Force cadets from Colorado Springs, who are escorting the princesses of the Royal Court, sat with the dignity of generals.

And the generals, Marine Corps wheels, having made the grade, were able to smile at the gals as you would expect the cadets to do.

Nothing moved those cadets from their immobility. When a Marine Corps unit passed by, and the generals applauded, the Air Corps cadets looked pained.

The Syracuse band marched by and the Syracuse dignitaries got off their dignity and shrieked in glee. Oklahomans shrugged their shoulders.

Soon a band from Norman, Okla., came by and there was a roar from the assembled Sooners, led by U.S. Sen. Mike Monroney, that sounded like a gusher coming in.

Dapper Florida Sen. George A. Smathers jumped to his feet when the Miami High band strutted by and called for others to stand. Despite his senatorial prestige he stood almost alone for his alma mater.

Loaded with a choice assortment of precision - engineered gals was the Eastern Air Lines float. Someone commented: "Wonder, where the pickets are?"

To which County Commissioner Faris Cowart thoughtfully observed: "I don't know — but I'm glad those girls didn't go out on strike."

At long last an Air Corps band from Ramey Air Force Base tootled by and the Air Force Cadets sprang to their feet at stiff attention.

The generals applauded mildly . . . sitting down.

But the cadets finally went all the way when the Royal Court came along and their lovely dates waved at them.

Yep, they waved back—and even smiled.

My, how they smiled.

48 Below Zero Is Forecast

FAIRBANKS, Alaska —(AP)— A spine-chilling 48 below zero was predicted here by the weather bureau for Wednesday night as the winter's worst cold spell confronted New Year's Eve celebrators.

The mercury dropped to 46 below here Tuesday night and at College Road, two miles outside the city limits, the unofficial reading was 56 below.

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

will be able to have at least 38 flights in the air, with 3,400 seats; by Saturday, 82 flights and 6,800 seats; and Monday, 120 flights with 10,000 seats.

The mechanics — who struck with the engineers Nov. 24—signed a settlement Dec. 14 but refused to cross the FEIA picket lines.

They now will return to work also.

At Wednesday's lengthy sessions, besides Rickenbacker, Robertson and Roberts, were S. L. Shannon and Joe Brock, EAL vice presidents, National Mediation Board Member Francis O'Neil Jr., and Warren Lane, NMB mediator.

In a prepared statement, Rickenbacker said:

"The strike should never have taken place. It grew out of what the NMB called a bitter jurisdictional dispute between the Air Line Pilots Association and the Flight Engineers International Association over who will do the work of the flight engineers on jet aircraft."

He recalled that the company had accepted the recommendation of a presidential fact-finding board that the flight engineers should take pilot training.

This action, he said, led to the strike, which ended more than a year and a half of contract negotiations.

About half of the strikers were based in the Miami area.

With the ending of the engineers' dispute, Eastern must next face negotiations with its stewards and stewardesses over a new contract.

'About Time,' Say Hotelmen

Miami Beach hotelmen got the news of the Eastern Air Lines strike settlement Wednesday night just a few minutes before the confetti flew to welcome the New Year —and they let out an extra whoop of jubilation.

"What a wonderful New Year," exploded Ben Novack, president of the Fontainebleau Hotel.

"God bless Eddie Rickenbacker and everydoby concerned," he said.

Other hotel owners and managers were equally jubilant over the news. But Larry Tisch, owner of the Americana, remembered the damage caused by the strike.

"It's about time it ended," Tisch said. "The damage is already done. Now it's a question of getting back to normal in a hurry."

Tisch said the major hotels on the Beach "were very fortunate to fill up for the holidays. But the Beach as a whole has suffered a great deal. It's a shame the strike lasted so long."

He called for "a vote of thanks for the other airlines that worked so hard to fill the gap."

Morris Lipp, Miami Beach city manager, spoke the sentiments of most Beach officials:

"It's wonderful news. We're sure to have a great season."

Robeson in Russia

LONDON —(AP)— Paul Robeson, the American singer, and his wife arrived in Moscow to start a month's stay in the Soviet Union, Moscow Radio said.

Mexican Boats Machinegunned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A press report Wednesday said Guatemalan planes machinegunned Mexican fishing boats off Guatemala's coast and some Mexicans were believed killed. There was no official confirmation.

The afternoon newspaper Ultimas Noticias in a dispatch from Salinas Cruz said the incident took place at the mouth of the Suchyate River, which divides the two countries.

Onetime Hotelman Dies at 90

Andrew "Charley" Anderson, 90, onetime hotel owner and 40-year Miami resident, died Wednesday in Victoria Hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Anderson, who came from New Jersey, lived in the Patricia Hotel in his later years.

From 1919 to 1943 he operated the Commodore Hotel, NE Eighth St. and Miami Ave.

He was a member of the Hotel Greeters of America and the Florida and National Hotel Associations.

Surviving is one daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Rigby, of Wellsville, Pa.

Funeral services will be at 4 p.m. at the Philbrick Miami Chapel, followed by private burial at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Takes Command

MANILA —(AP)— Maj. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, brother-in-law of the late President Ramon Magsaysay, took over top command of the Philippine armed forces Wednesday. He succeeded Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, who retired after 32 years service.

A Glorious '59, If –

The New Year Is Here!

HAPPY NEW YEAR to all our readers!

The next 12 months will be happier than the last in Greater Miami if:

Warm weather continues until spring, drawing record crowds of sun-seekers here.

Metro gets into high gear, providing better local government services more efficiently and economically to the 900,000 people who will be living here before the end of 1959.

Interama, our long-sought Inter-American Trade and Cultural Center, becomes a reality at last to make this city truly the meeting-place of the Americas.

A causeway is built from the mainland to the Upper Keys, opening up miles of new waterfront and speeding the development of South Dade County.

•

ALL FLORIDA stands to gain in the coming year if:

The rest of this winter brings weather favorable to tourists, citrus, vegetables, flowers and forests.

The Legislature, meeting in April, balances the state budget without raising taxes.

New industries keep arriving to provide payrolls and strengthen the whole economy of Florida.

Community First

Strike's Over

Eastern Air Lines and its employes gave Miami the best hope for a happy New Year shortly before midnight last night — they settled amicably a strike of more than six weeks duration.

This means that the Great Silver Fleet can, in part, take to the air almost at once. And in relatively short order, it can completely restore service, return thousands to their jobs, and stimulate the economic life of the community as we enter 1959.

The Herald, which had expressed the hope that the strike might end when and as it did, congratulates all parties involved in this happy settlement. We believe they have put the community interest first.

And This One's THE Day!

THIS is it! New Year's Day and the Orange Bowl football game.

For those who never have seen one of these Jan. 1 spectacles, there will be gasps of excitement at the color and pageantry unduplicated anywhere.

For those who have watched the classic grow to celebrate its silver anniversary, there will be thrills anew. This one never is old hat.

A tip: get there early and get settled. The pre-game show starts at 12:30. It alone is worth the price of admission, a rainbow of color that inspired the late Henry Fillmore's "Orange Bowl March," which will echo through the steel and concrete walls of the stadium.

Another tip: Don't go wandering around at halftime. It's hard to outdo the opening presentation, but Ernie Seiler's intermission show does. It's worth the price of admission.

THE FOOTBALL game, oh yes. It could be a corker.

Bud Wilkinson, the personable young philosopher who turns out these precise Oklahoma teams, isn't in the habit of losing. Oklahoma has a proud bowl record of six wins and two defeats. The Sooners haven't lost here since 1939 in a wild one with Tennessee, then the nation's No. 1 team.

Syracuse, the underdog, has a lot going. Ben Schwartzwalder's Men of Orange will be shooting for the school's first bowl victory in three invitations and will be trying to erase memories of the 1953 Syracuse annihilation by Alabama.

The elements are there. And this is the day when everything goes. It's the Orange Bowl!

OTHERWISE

The 10-Year Miracle

THIS IS the time of year for stock-taking.

Looking back over recent developments that contributed to the welfare of mankind, we would like to nominate medical science for any awards that may be available in this field.

It is astonishing to consider that in a brief decade, medicine has added five years to the average American's life span and has reduced deaths due to common infections by 80 per cent, from influenza by 91 per cent, and appendicitis by 76 per cent.

In that same ten years medicine developed broad spectrum antibiotics which can track almost any infection to its lair; the Salk vaccine which has just about conquered paralytic polio (if we would but take advantage of it), and the great family of tranquilizers which guarantee peace of mind not only for humans but for dogs.

Physicians now have steroids to help the body produce hormones, radioisotopes to fight cancer, and a pill instead of an injection for diabetics. Surgeons transplant arteries, skin and bone, as well as corneas for blurring eyes, and can operate directly on the heart.

It sounds miraculous. It is just that. The American people took advantage of these medical wonders by visiting their doctors 890 million times in 1958.

In the face of such achievements, unmatched since man first began to cast spells and brew potions against the devils of illness, medicine is not at rest but has drawn bead on the remaining killers — heart disease and cancer — and on the painful, chronic ailments of old age.

It is in this area that the medical history of the next ten years will be written. Since the results of research tend to increase in geometric progression, one discovery leading to two others, that future seems full of promise for human kind.

Hoffa Shows His Bold Hand

THE SINISTER power of Jimmy Hoffa, teamster union boss who aspires to set up a labor dictatorship, has been plainly revealed by the manner of his drive to bring the 24,000 policemen of New York City into his union.

Hoffa's henchmen announced they would set up picket lines in front of every police garage, depot and supply station in the metropolitan area and order teamster unions not to cross with vital supplies.

The union decree said this was to give New Yorkers a taste of "the economic force and pressure of the teamsters union."

The threat stung New York officials into angry protest. If it were carried out every police vehicle could be forced to a stop, sooner or later. The safety of 8 million people and of property worth billions would then be in the hands of a grounded and shackled police force.

The implications were terrifying — so frightening that Hoffa spoke up. He tersely announced the picket lines would not interfere with regular police operations.

Hoffa didn't have to go through with his threat. He had driven home his incredible point. Without controlling the police through union membership, he still could hamstring them to a point where they would be powerless in this motorized age.

It is the same tactic that Hoffa is threatening in his move to control the airlines. By shutting off gasoline supplies through his teamster drivers he could ground the planes of the nation.

That such power should rest in any hands is contrary to American ideas of free enterprise and fair play.

Something must be done to protect the public and serve the honest unionist. One answer, of course, is that Congress should give early consideration to measures to curb union racketeering and violence and put such men as Hoffa under tight control. There are indications that some members are in a mood to act quickly, and this is heartening.

Something New Is Subtracted

DON'T HIT the ceiling when you see your next pay check or open your next pay envelope. The boss won't be cutting your take-home pay—Uncle Sam will.

If you earn more than $92.30 a week, the reduction in your take-home pay will be around 50 cents. The less you're paid, the smaller the cut.

This is because the deduction for Social Security, required by federal law, goes up today. Starting with your first pay day in 1959, you and your employer each will send the Social Security fund 2½ per cent of your earnings, up to a certain figure. The total of 5 per cent contrasts with the 4½ per cent in effect during 1957.

The new percentages apply to the first $4,800 of your earnings in 1959. Last year, the ceiling was $4,200.

So, if you're getting more than $4,800 a year, you and your employer will contribute $120 each, instead of last year's $94.50 each.

This is quite a jump from the figures when Social Security first started back in January, 1937. Then, the rate was only one per cent each on the first $3,000, or $30 from you and $30 from your employer.

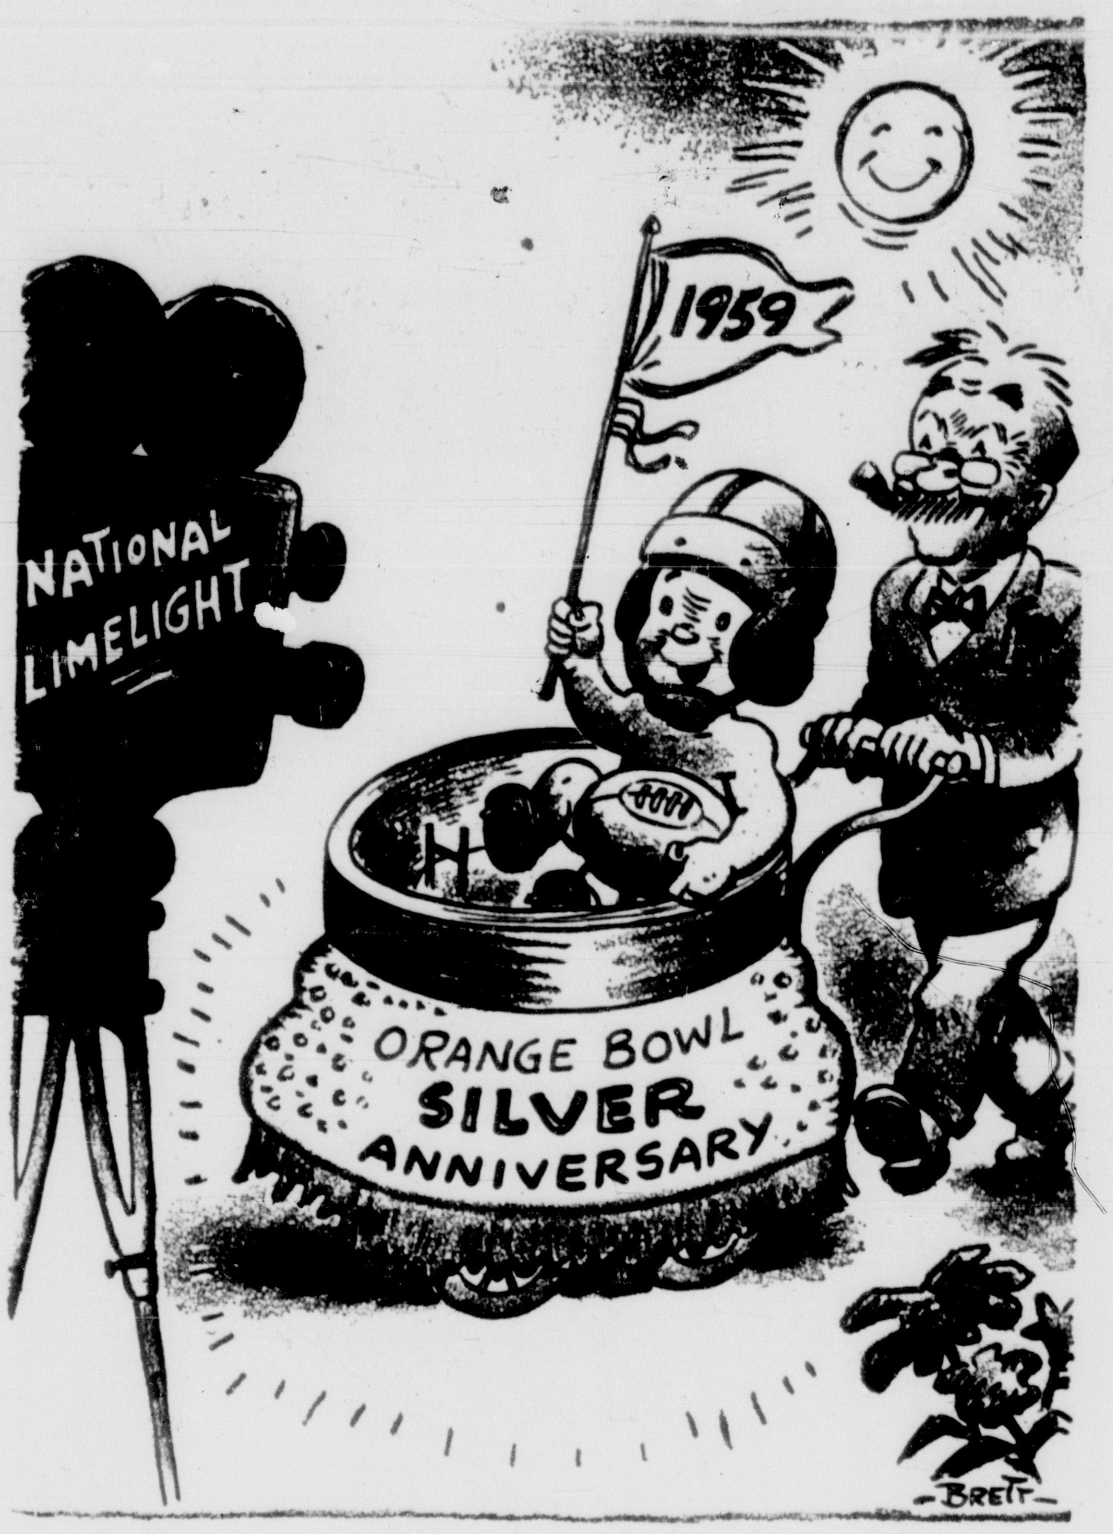
Thus, the top contribution has increased 300 per cent since Uncle Sam began providing income for the aged, the widows and orphans of workers under Social Security.

What you'll get for your money at age 65 has gone up, too, during those 22 years. And more groups of workers have been brought into the compulsory insurance program.

Something else enters into the bigger benefits and higher costs. It is the fact that the buying power of the dollar has shrunk in half since 1937. That is the effect of inflation.

For that reason, you won't be able to "live it up" when you start drawing the new, larger Social Security benefits available now any more than you could on the much smaller pensions provided at far less cost 22 years ago.

'Happy New Year EVERYBODY!'



Voice Of The People

Gambol With The Colts Today

Editor The Herald: Sydney Harris seems to fog the issue, if there is one, of the date of the New Year.

The winter and summer solstices and the spring and autumn equinoxes were very important to primitive man who lived in cold climates where the seasons were important. Stonehenge, for example, is so oriented that the sun on Midsummer Day shines directly down the avenue onto the altar, where a human sacrifice was made on that day.

Midsummer's Day was important in England in Shakespeare's day. It also looms large in Kipling's "Rewards and Fairies."

The new year of the Orthodox Jews started with Nisan — that is, April — as close as they could get to the vernal equinox.

Apparently Christmas and New Year were an attempt, at a time when astronomy was faulty, to place these holidays at the time of the winter solstice, already an important holiday in Northern Europe.

As to the two Christmases, that is merely an example of the unwillingness of the human mind to accept change. For a long time Twelfth Night was spoken of in the South as "Old Christmas." The song, "The Twelve Days of Christmas," represents the fact that we still cling to the older chronology.

I think that, on the whole, primitive people tended to begin their year with the spring equinox, at least as near as their methods of observation could place it. Certainly the Romans for some time did.

After all, what difference does it make when the New Year starts, except to thoroughbred foals, which become one year old on that day? Certainly the government's New Year, July 1, is quite real to federal personnel, I can assure you.

Man In Middle Getting Gravy

Editor The Herald: Being a retired Florida farmer I read with much interest Nixon Smiley's article on tomatoes. In Melbourne I priced tomatoes at 25 cents per pound. That is $15 per bushel, a "luxury" price when, as Smiley says, "No. 1 tomatoes are selling for $2 per bushel."

Now what makes these $2 tomatoes cost Mr. Consumer $15? That's a question Smiley might delve into.

Is it poor distribution, too many middle men or greedy retailers, or wholesalers?

I once sold a grocery pineapples at 35 cents, and before I got out of the store, saw them sell at 65 cents. Took me a year to raise a pineapple at 35 cents, and the store got 30 cents for passing it across the counter.

Colored Lines For Safety Sake

Editor The Herald: An idea has just occurred to me that could cut down the auto accident rate in Florida. It would not entail much greater expense to the state than is now incurred in the present speed marking system.

The idea is to color code the speed zones by using different colored paint in marking the center stripes in all highways and streets.

LAVENDER!
THERE ARE ALWAYS SOME COMICS

For example, in 15 miles per hour school zones, red might be used; 25 miles per hour city zones, blue; 35 miles per hour city zones, green; 45 miles zones, yellow; 65 miles zones, white.

This color code system would constantly remind the driver of the speed zone he is in.

Kelly Is Right On Killer Corner

Editor The Herald: I am very much in agreement with Safety Director Thomas J. Kelly in regard to the crossing at 183rd St. and Route 9.

I cross this intersection at least twice a day and it is a potential killer. Must we have citizens killed to awaken our engineers to this fact?

BURT A. STEWART

Industry Would Bridge The Gap

Editor The Herald: The recent editorial in The Herald reporting that the firm of Arthur D. Little, Inc., was engaged by the Florida Development Commission to make a survey of Florida's population trends and industrial development was most interesting.

The population of Florida continues to grow at a greater rate than the increase in tourist business; therefore, it is obvious that this gap must be closed by industrial development.

The people of Florida are concerned because of the fact that the services in the state are growing, thereby requiring greater expenditure of tax money. Some people undoubtedly believe the solution to be a reduction in the services; others believe that the services should be continued but that taxes should be raised.

If Florida's industry were increased, new tax revenues would result so that the services could be maintained, and even improved, without any additional taxes.

Bell Would Make Wise Magistrate

Editor The Herald: Loyala Lee Hubbard's letter attacking Jack Bell's humanitarian views on suspending drivers licenses was the most heartless, unfeeling and intolerant position regarding human rights that I have ever observed.

"Saving lives" is a mere pretext to screen a high handed threat to our basic liberties. There is a thin line between rights and privileges and when municipal judges begin authoritatively interpreting American liberties as privileges rather than rights then we are going down the sad road of tyranny, on a municipal level.

Miss Hubbard had no sympathy for the victims of Judge Mitchell Goldman's toughness because "they broke the law." She had nothing but scorn for Jack Bell.

I cannot agree that toughness in a judge is commendable or desirable. A considerate, humane judge, on the order of Jack Bell, would be my choice to administer justice in our municipal courts.

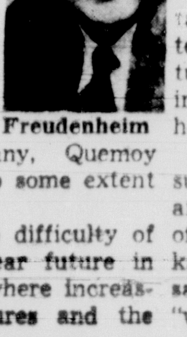
The Freedom Ledger

Balance Sheet In Our Favor

By MILT FREUDENHEIM
Miami Herald-Chicago News Wire

NEW YORK — The world balance sheet on freedom appeared "to be turning in our direction" as 1958 ended, Brooklyn College president Dr. Harry D. Gideonese, head of Freedom House, believes.



Freudenheim

"The status-quo survived in ways unpleasing to the Kremlin and Chinese Communist leaders," he says, in Germany, Quemoy and Matsu and to some extent in the Mideast.

He stresses the difficulty of foretelling the near future in the Arab world where increasing Soviet pressures and the surprise coup in Iraq vied with American and British military support to Lebanon and Jordan this year.

* * *

COMMUNIST China's failure to capture the Quemoy and Matsu islands; the West's firm stand on Germany; West Berlin's "near-unanimous rejection of Communism" in the recent elections are scored as credits for freedom by Gideonese.

"The blundering Soviet attacks on (writer) Boris Pasternak which aroused intellectual circles even behind the iron curtain" also helped us, he suggests.

But Gideonese finds losses suffered in domestic American affairs. He lists the re-election of Gov. Orval Faubus in Arkansas, the closing of Arkansas and Virginia schools, and "widespread complacency about the weaknesses" of American schools in this column.

* * *

DRAWING attention to reports that Soviet scientists and engineers develop new missiles in less than half the comparable time it takes American industry, he calls this "a major challenge to American industrial and political ingenuity."

At the same time, Dr. Gideonese notes it takes at least 10 years to "produce" new college teachers, while enrollments of potential professors in graduate schools are "woefully small."

"Inertia and complacency in both the industrial and educational fields are inevitably and inextricably interwoven," he says, adding that "the great challenge of 1959" is to put top national priority on "training our best minds to their full potential."

Behind The Front Page

These Bowl Fiestas Don't Just Happen

By JOHN PENNEKAMP

THIS BEING the morning after New Year's Eve, the day of the Orange Bowl football game, and all that, it may not be amiss to talk about a somewhat related earlier day, similar event.

That was before Bayfront Park was completed, and a place of various amusements including a dance hall operated as Elser's Pier approximately at the foot of Flagler Street.

All of the community's civic thinking was directed at attracting as much national attention as possible to the salubrity of Miami's winter climate.

So, some spectacle under the bright sun, on Biscayne Bay, was an invariable order.

* * *

ON THIS OCCASION an attention-arresting football game was planned, with props taken from other places.

Pennekamp

The game, for instance, was a pre-Orange Bowl imitation of the Rose Bowl.

To precede it the arrival in a Spanish galleon of a "king and queen" of the event was scheduled at Elser's Pier. Something like Tampa's Gasparilla Festival.

It was to be followed by a parade to the field in imitation of Pasadena's Tournament of Roses. Of course, the word imitation was not in Miami's vocabulary.

All these events were original. Had anybody suggested a borrowing of ideas, he'd have faced prosecution.

* * *

SOME DAYS before, a tall, handsome young fellow was seated in the office in which he was employed, his feet on a desk, reading, when his boss came in.

"What," he asked, "are you doing with your feet up there?"

"I decided a long time ago," the personable young man responded, "that a man should keep his brains above his head."

That lost him his job, and, being unemployed he became a successful candidate for the kingship.

In Hollywood, Fla., there was an attractive, regal appearing young woman who made a living modeling silk stockings. She was selected as the queen, and that part of the world which would listen was told that the queen was from Hollywood, name of the state omitted.

* * *

THE TWO and their courts were properly outfitted and coached in their parts, and the galleon, bearing them all, arrived at Elser's on schedule.

The performers, to put it lightly, were unsteady.

Some said it was something they had et. Others that they were just nervous, being amateurs. Still others held that only seasickness produced such wanness and unsteady perambulation.

However, the entourage got to the motor vehicles in which they were carried in the parade. The heat of the day did little to improve their, let us say, health.

* * *

EVENTUALLY, the plaudits of the watchers still echoing, they arrived at the hurriedly erected, temporary "stadium" where an enormous papier-mache arch had been erected to frame the royal entrance.

It was at the precise moment that they walked through it that the queen swayed, stumbled and fell. Some said that the supports of the articles of commerce by which she made her living had broken, and she tripped on her falling stockings.

His highness tried to help her to her feet. But his crown slipped foolishly, and his face grew more ashen. He gave up, completing the triumphal entrance alone and to the regal box where he fell asleep.

It should be added that an important detail had been overlooked.

The playing field was unsodded with the football stars participating "up to their knees" in sand.

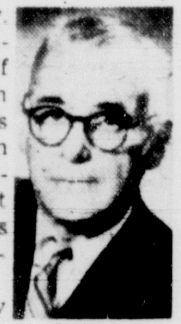
Of such pioneer preludes are today's bowl festivals made.

We Keep Hands Off

Bloody Cuban Revolt Could Go On And On

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief of Our Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON—The United States used to keep a bung starter handy to slap down the citizens of Cuba when they went gun-happy.



Lahey

But this country swore off intervening in Cuba's affairs in 1933, when the late President Roosevelt proclaimed his "Good Neighbor" policy.

That policy still prevails.

There is a natural concern here for some 4,000 U.S. citizens who are permanent residents of Cuba. These U.S. citizens help administer some $350 million in U.S. investments in that unhappy island.

But the policy of non-intervention requires Uncle Sam to stand with the rigidity of a Buckingham Palace guard while the Cuban blood-letting goes on 90 miles across the Strait of Florida.

* * *

OBSERVERS here believe that Cuba is in for a considerable period of bleeding.

Despite the new burst of fighting between Fidel Castro's revolutionaries and the Cuban armed forces, Washington officials are cautious about predicting the downfall of the government of President and Dictator Fulgencio Batista.

They believe it possible for the rebel and government troops to nag each other with moderate deadliness for some weeks to come, without settling the issue, at least so long as Batista hangs on to Havana.

* * *

THE REAL crisis in the Cuban revolution may come about Feb. 24, the date that Batista's hand - picked president - elect, Andres Rivero Aguero, is scheduled to take office.

If Castro and his rebels cannot destroy the Havana government by then, he may become a bore.

The young revolutionary landed on the southeast coast of Cuba 25 months ago with 80 cohorts who shipped out with him in a 60-foot yacht from a Mexican port.

All but a handful of the "invaders" were killed by the Cuban navy at the time. But the revolutionary Castro is still in business, with an armed force now estimated at 5,000 men. His revolt has been financed by shakedowns of sugar planters and by anti-Batista forces outside Cuba.

* * *

ANYTHING can happen if and when the Batista government eventually falls, but whatever follows is almost certain to be chaotic.

In addition to Castro's rebels, there are other political groups aligned in the fight against Batista. The only thing that unites the opposition is their hatred for the ex-army sergeant who has dominated Cuban public life for a generation.

With Batista gone, a vicious fight for the corpse of Cuba will follow, in the view of observers here.

Even though the average Cuban citizen appears to visitors to be willing to bid adieu to Batista at the earliest possible moment, the Cuban dictator cannot be written off while his army and the Cuban labor movement stay bought.

The government's armed forces are still shooting their brethren, despite reports from Cuba that they lack the old team spirit. And the labor movement, under the firm control of a Batista henchman, has refused to join so far in any political strike against the government.

* * *

THERE IS still another reason why the Batista government will have to stay for a while.

I was driving through a beautiful residential section of Havana a few weeks ago, and had pointed out to me a subdivision that is being developed by one of Batista's sons.

Batista can't very well give up the government until the boy sells the rest of those lots.

This sounds a little silly, but Latin Americans take a very practical view of these matters.

Cabinet: '59 a 'Dilly'

By JOHN BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

ERVIN

MAYO

GREEN

GRAY

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins and members of the State Cabinet sized up young 1959, and their predictions indicate the year ought to be a dilly from the standpoint of both prosperity and politics.

There was a degree of caution in the outlook, but Gov. Collins sounded the key to optimism with the observation that "Our economy probably is in better overall shape than at the beginning of any year."

And he sees plenty of political activity, too. "The 1959 legislative session will likely be the last session during my term as governor. I will not follow the usual pattern of term-ending governors, and seek to get by with as little controversy as possible. I intend [illegible] present a full legislative program this April."

Here is the composite forecast of the state's executive branch:

Radical legislation to deal with racial problems will be avoided, but local school administrators will be given greater flexibility, under the laws, to solve their own problems.

Continued growth will soup up the state's economy. Governmental revenue will improve, but it is unlikely the state will undertake new programs calling for substantial spending. The state should be able to get by without any tax increase.

There is hope for an equitable settlement of the reapportionment issue and a generally satisfactory revision of the state's constitution.

Traffic safety legislation will receive greater attention from the incoming Legislature, because high auto insurance rates are affecting constituent's pocketbooks and population growth is clogging urban roads with cars.

Wrinkles in Florida's new Division of Corrections, coordinating the state's penal institutions, will begin to smooth out and further advancement will be necessary in the fields of community planning, mental health, and recreation.

Tourist-wise 1959 should prove a banner year if there is an early resumption of normal airline service.

Industrially, Florida will continue to be the fastest-growing state in the Southeast.

By summertime, the natural gas pipeline will be completed throughout the Florida peninsula. This will attract new industry.

Agriculturally, the state should continue to expand. In the face of a 15-per-cent decline in farm income nationally, Florida's has increased seven per cent since 1950.

Gov. Collins believes "perhaps our biggest industrial growth this new year can be expected to come in the electronics field. And we should also experience a sizeable growth in our food processing industry."

The governor said he is not ready to detail his legislative program, but he is determined "that we can meet our responsibilities adequately without additional taxation—that we can cut our cloth to fit the pattern—that we can tailor expenditures to the existing revenue."

Collins said "We still have great legislative goals not yet met — constitutional revision and fair reapportionment of the Legislature, just to name two. I shall continue to press for their accomplishment to the fullest extent a governor lawfully and properly can."

Attorney General Richard Ervin declared the legislative year "should bring an end to much of the misunderstanding and mild frictional differences between sections of our state. The issues before the Legislature relating to reapportionment, state finances, and public functions are susceptible of being resolved harmoniously and fairly to all areas of the state.

Ervin predicted "The Legislature will not launch statutory programs widening the breach between the races, although it may find it advisable to allow a large degree of flexibility and local option to local school administrators and their people in solving local school problems."

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo believes that, "barring any unseen freezes or floods, Florida's commercial truck crop growers should come out in the black this year. Planted and harvested acreage for vegetables will slightly exceed that of 1956-57—the year before last winter's freezes and floods—with increases in yields for all crops expected.

"Citrus production came back faster than was expected and current indications are that there will be produced some 85 million boxes of oranges, 34 million boxes of grapefruit, and 4.5 million boxes of tangerines," Mayo reported.

State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson predicted "The Legislature will pass a realistic safety program, which will go a long way toward saving lives on our highways and reducing the terrific property loss from auto accidents.

"Much progress has been made," Larson said, "in gaining public support for recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Highway Safety.

Larson forecast that "as Florida grows in other industrial fields, it will continue to attract insurance companies which are planning major expansions.

State Comptroller Ray E. Green asserted "The best days are still to come.

"I certainly see continued growth ahead for Florida. The pace, however, may have been slowed and our rate of growth and expansion may not meet previous high levels. The new growth is cautious and sound, and in the long run very substantial and solid.

Green said "We saw, graphically in 1958, how a recession, or a slowdown in business, in the rest of the nation can affect our state's economy. We also saw, equally as graphically, however, how our diversification of economic interests and our new industrial growth saved Florida from the severe and crippling recession pains suffered by other states.

Superintendent of Schools Thomas D. Bailey warned "It will take full resources and concerted efforts of all interested in the welfare of our boys and girls to combat the isolated attacks on our schools, to seek solutions to many serious problems facing our educational system, and, possibly, even to save our free public school system from actual destruction."

However, Bailey predicted "The people of Florida will rally to the support of public schools. Despite isolated talk of curtailing school funds because of the state's present financial condition, I believe Florida's school programs will be financed in full.

Secretary of State R. A. Gray, whose office issues charters for new business firms, said the trend of business activity is indicated by record daily output of new charters.

"We thought that, one day after Thanksgiving, we had reached an all-time high with 106 new charters in a single day, but the day after Christmas we had 144 — in one day.

"This indicates a much more rapid growth in corporations than I had ever imagined we would reach. This, boiled down, means we are having a lot of new business, whether small or large.

"I have always been an optimist," Gray said, "however, I think we should go into 1959 with cautious optimism, testing our way step by step.

Glance in Morror Shakes Him Up

Lone Resolution Will Not Shatter

By JIM BISHOP

THIS IS THE TIME for New Year's Resolutions.

At best, the resolution is nothing more than a moral crutch. It is a statement of intentions, not deeds.

BISHOP

This year, I will not make a lot of them and keep none. Instead, I will make one and keep none.

My resolution is that I promise to trim my weight. Instead of looking, in profile, like a little old pregnant lady, I'm going to look like a little old pregnant man.

My trouble is twofold: (1) I like food; (2) I earn my living sitting.

My friends assure me that I look fine. That's how we remain friends.

However, I have two lying mirrors in my bedroom. One covers a whole wall; the other is set length-wise in the bathroom door.

When I come out of the shower, I look like a busted barrel. Some of the staves are intact, but the hoops are shot.

From hammertoes to top of gray head, I measure five feet seven and a quarter inches. The scales say that I weigh 174 pounds.

There is a slight falling of the chest and the nether parts are reminiscent of a king-sized cherub being tossed out of heaven. The thighs would be attractive on an ox.

* * *

Something has to be done. I abhor exercise in all its dreadful forms. I wouldn't walk out to the front gate for the morning mail if I could use the car.

Deep knee bends and pushups are for uninformed peasants who do not know how to use their energies. Manual labor is found in the dictionary under M.

To me, food is no more important than the next breath.

I am up at 9:30 a.m. and I partake of orange juice, a big bowl of cornflakes, and two cups of coffee.

At 12:30, I have lunch at the bar in the living room. This consists of a bowl of soup, four slices of rye bread, a sandwich, a cup of coffee, and a piece of cake.

Dinner is served at 6 p.m. I open with tomato juice, follow it with a roast leg of lamb, or pork chops (two apiece), or meat loaf (three slices for me, one for her) and a big baked potato, peas, a tossed salad with French dressing, hot biscuits, and a wedge of homemade layer cake (chocolate or coconut).

At 10 p.m., I watch television and work my way through a dish of ice cream.

After the late show, I waddle off to my boudoir, turn on the brass tulip lamps, and read.

At 1 a.m. I am starved. I get out of bed, undulate to the refrigerator, and give the contents a going-over.

This concludes my food day — a thing for which I apologize because it would hardly keep an anemic parakeet alive.

* * *

HOWEVER, I MUST DIET. It is no accident that the first three letters of that word spell Murder.

I will start by giving up the 1 a.m. snack. This will be followed by a no bread, no potatoes routine.

Last, and not least, I will cut down on the desserts.

In six weeks, I expect to have a terrific figure and a lousy disposition . . .

And Saved Money, Too, Back in 1925

Bishop Worked Here for $22 a Week

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

There isn't a gent in the word-putting-together business who's a better old pro than syndicated columnist Jim Bishop, whose column appears in The Herald.

Jim has millions of daily readers, several successful books to his byline and a wealth of writing experience.

But his success never seemed quite real to his mother — up to the day she died, she wondered when her boy would get over his "writing whim" and get into some solid work.

Bishop, a handsome, slender blue-eyed Irishman, will celebrate 30 years of following his particular "whim" on Jan. 2 right here.

He's in Miami for the first time since 1925. One of the first things he did was to visit The Herald newsroom and talk shop.

He also talked wonderingly about the changes in these parts since he worked in Miami back in 1925.

Seventeen years old at the time, he worked for The Miami Screen Works.

"Made 22 bucks a week and I'll have you know I even saved some money on it. Don't think I can do that in Miami today," he said.

And he talked about the nickel-fare jitneys; a girl friend in Coral Gables "whose old man owned a drug store," and a fellow named Jan Garber had a band and that was the place to go."

Bishop, who is always on the side of the little man, and would just as soon write about the fascinating minor themes of life than tomes of social significance, went to work for a New York City paper Jan. 2, 1929.

"I never wanted to be the best editor in the world, or the best writer. But I wanted to be the second best of everything in the business," he said.

In pursuit of this goal he eventually handled every type of writing, every facet of executive work on newspapers and magazines.

He was executive editor of Liberty, had an executive job with Collier's, and turned out a tremendous amount of material for various publications.

Along the way he became one of the very finest chronicleers of the average Joe's pursuit of life, liberty and income tax payments.

"But mother never really took my work quite seriously," he recalled.

"I had been 25 years writing, and rather well-established, when I finished and sent off the manuscript of 'The Day Christ Died.'

"I remember talking with my Dad about the book that day. Mother heard us. She looked up and peered at me over her glasses, and with all the love in her heart, said, 'Jim, if this book isn't a success do you think you'll go out and look for a job?'

"Later, when the book sold well and was a Literary Guild selection, she was reading it again. And she looked up while reading and said to me: 'What a pity; you would have made a great priest.' "

No Compromise Rule Holds Good

1958 Pessimists Due Back in 1959

By FRED SPARKS

HAVE AMERICANS good reason to celebrate the New Year? We have, indeed!

During the year just ended, we dispelled the scary smog generated by our professional cry babies, their knees shaking like Las Vegas dice, who cried:

SPARKS

"Soviet Science has outdistanced us! The recession means an end to our economy of plenty!"

They were echoed by grumpy, gloomy pundits in Washington's martini-lined foxholes who, with the hysteria of fire-engine gongs, declared: "America is fast becoming a second-rate power!"

But 1958 made their goblins as terrifying as crushed Halloween pumpkins in the city dump.

Let us look back at their shadowy worries — then look ahead with fresh determination:

* * *

REMEMBER WHEN the Soviets hoisted the initial sputnik? The spineless and the appeasers united in wailing chorus to assure us it would be years before we could equal such an accomplishment.

And, because of Moscow's lead, we could never, never catch up in outer space.

We were urged to run, not walk, to the nearest conference table to seek an accommodation.

WHAT HAPPENED In 1958? Standing in Cape Canaveral's sandy scrubs I saw us send into orbit, with train-schedule regularity, a fistfull of satellites. Our latest—Atlas—is grander than the mightiest sputnik. And it is no dumb heavyweight monster, but a delicately instrumented brain that sees and talks — with more freedom than any commissar.

* * *

REMEMBER THOSE who told us the recession was but the advance agent of crippling depression, collapse? With them all was panic. Bust had replaced boom. The free enterprise system had gone malignant, doomed.

WHAT HAPPENED in 1958? The economy shook off the recession like Floyd Patterson would shake off a Civil War veteran's right hook. In recent weeks, touring the industrial heartland, Michigan, New Jersey, Illinois, I found assembly lines humming with orders for today. And laboratories researching miracles for tomorrow.

* * *

REMEMBER THOSE pessimists — and how they spoke falsely in 1958? Watch out! They'll be back. Khrushchev needs make but one threat, one demand, and they'll again dance attendance.

"Compromise on Berlin!" they'll wail. "Compromise on Red China! Compromise on nuclear testings!"

As if any compromise with the anti-Christ would satisfy him a second longer than it takes to serve his ugly cause, which remains world domination, slavery. When our pessimists say "compromise" don't they mean "crawl"?

U.S. Is Well Off Despite Big Debt

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Uncle Sam may owe a lot of money, but it turns out he owns almost as much as he owes.

In fact, a House committee reports the latest count shows that if the recently-acquired Hope Diamond is included and a realistic price is put on such things as the White House grounds, still carried at $1,000 because that's the original cost, the balance sheet might even come out in the black.

The House Committee on Government Operations says it prepared the inventory, for the fourth straight year, as a sort of report to the stockholders.

The report showed that as of last June 30 federal agencies owned land, buildings, and other things, all over the world, worth 262 billion dollars.

On the same day the national debt stood at about 276 billion dollars.

Although much of the increase represented steadily rising assets, a committee spokesman said a further factor was that government agencies keep coming up with property they didn't know they had.

A Cracker Viewpoint by Nixon Smiley

If Young, He'd Resolve To Try These Concepts

EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT ME many things which would have been helpful in my youth, had I been able to gain the knowledge through the genius of intuition and had I possessed the wisdom to use it to advantage.

SMILEY

But I was not blessed with intuition, and had I been I would have lacked the wisdom to use it.

And now, that experience has filled in where intuition failed, I'm a bit too old to be guided by resolutions, the implication being that it's hard to change an old dog's ways.

However, it might be entertaining to imagine one's self in his late teens, impatient to explore the unknown future, but with his mind filled with the normal conflicts of youthful optimism and doubt.

If you could go back to the time you stood on the threshold of life, at a time when you "held the world in your hands," as the poets say of youth, what resolutions would you make?

* * *

I WOULD MAKE the following:

TO HAVE PATIENCE with my elders, realizing that they are hopelessly ignorant, but because of their experience their opinions might be of some small value.

TO EXERCISE my blood pressure none over the apparent inability of humans to solve the problems of the world, always remembering that I am one of these idiots too.

TO BE A SAGACIOUS doubter; to believe firmly in nothing that is told me or that I read, unless there is ample evidence of its truth, and even then to reserve doubt until I have a chance to double-check the facts.

TO FOLLOW NO TENETS promulgated by individual philosophers or by groups, but to weigh the facts of life and nature as I understand them and draw my own conclusions.

TO FOLLOW NO POLITICAL line or party, and, to be distrustful of politicians without being over cynical.

TO JOIN NEITHER the chorus of the optimists nor that of the pessimists, for both may be wrong.

TO NEVER WORRY about things which it is impossible for me to understand in the light of current knowledge, but to be content with whatever facts may be discovered through research by dedicated individuals.

TO READ WITH RESERVE — If at all —any publication issued under approval of the state or by any group.

TO ARGUE WITH NO ONE about anything, since it is difficult enough to convince others of your own viewpoint, even with the help of demonstration, whereas argument alone convinces no one.

TO NEVER LAUGH at the peculiarities of another human, unless through my travels I run into one who is odder than I, and then I will unashamedly indulge in a belly laugh.

TO MAINTAIN AN EVEN disposition—even cheerful when possible — and to be as generous with others as I can without becoming a sucker.

TO NEVER BECOME a slave to any person or group, nor to any creed, fad or habit,

TO KEEP OUT of my neighbors' business.

TO NEVER COMPARE myself with another in order to get comfort from some imagined physical or mental superiority.

TO FIGHT FOR PRINCIPLES in which I sincerely believe, but never to be afraid to run when I'm outnumbered and outgunned in order that I might fight another day.

Forget Private Worry Today

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Thursday, January 1, 1959
New Year's Day

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget that private worry that could today make you lose out on the many prospects that are present for increasing revenue, especially from data and ideas gleaned from your newspaper. P.M. avoid sarcasm or you will regret it sadly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Give an ear to the suggestions of true pals instead of following advice of advisor or own intuition. Be very factual in all that you do in late p.m. and steer clear of one who has too much imagination and an overly inflated ego.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Many strange situations come up concerning other folk, but that is no reason why you should become involved in what does not concern you personally. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for February send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895, Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Imperative you take it very easy in earliest part of the day, and give particular care to matters of diet. Remainder of day excellent to size up relative position with all others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Last night's merriment makes it necessary you spend this morning quietly reading or listening to good programs on the air. Run through your newspaper carefully for wonderful ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid argument ensuing during a.m. between an associate and a family tie. Think out ways and means of making your daily living more economical and profitable.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may think that those outside duties awaiting you are matters of life and death, but you can easily put them aside and save your strength and health. Also, don't be sardonic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't be extravagant in social or other affairs that have long lost their savor. A good day, also, for putting aside serious matters that require much thought.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A perfect day for getting into a perfect stew over matters at home. Don't be guilty of inciting matters even one least little bit. Then you can forget money worries.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) More generosity to start the year right will ease morning tension considerably. Spend rest of day putting abode in more charming condition, but get tips from mate, who is good with color especially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Guard against being greedy or overly ambitious during a.m. Then it will be possible to get in contact with those persons who can make your just and fine ambitions an actuality in the very near future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Avoid that political or other public connection in a.m. or you are bound to commit yourself financially far above your means. Late p.m. a real friend comes along who helps you.

Peter Tangvald Aboard His 45-Foot Wooden English Yawl

. . . he calls his trip—alone—a "great adventure"

Never Again, Says Mariner After 13,000 Mile Voyage

LONG BEACH, Calif. —(AP)— "Never again," says handsome 34-year-old Peter Tangvald after a harrowing one-man sailing voyage halfway around the world. "It is too much for one man."

He should know. Tangvald sailed his 45-foot wooden yawl, Windflower, from West Mersey, England, to Long Beach, on the Southern California coast.

The 13,000-mile voyage took more than 14 months and nearly cost the Los Angeles design engineer his life.

He battled mountainous seas for four days in a hurricane, sailed 31 days without spotting another sign of human life, spent 48 unbroken hours at the tiller during a heavy fog without sleep, food or water, and broke two fingers which he bandaged himself.

The bearded mariner was following in the footsteps of his ancestors. He is of Norwegian descent and started sailing when he was 14.

He hadn't planned to make the trip alone. His attractive wife, Lillemore, accompanied him from England to France in the fall of 1957. Rough weather on that shakedown cruise led her to fly home to California.

"I tried to recruit a crew in England but all the seamen said it was 'the bad season' and refused to go," Tangvald says. "It was sail by myself or spend the winter in that miserable climate."

He set sail for Vigo, Spain, and spent most of the nine-day trip fighting a fierce storm in the Bay of Biscay.

A three-month layover in Spain found him still without a crew, so he set out alone. The Windflower covered the 3,100-miles from the Canary Islands to Antigua in the West Indies in 31 days. The sailor says this is the second fastest time on record for a sailing vessel.

Did he get bored? No, he was too busy working 14 to 16 hours a day. His sleep—eight hours a day—came in naps of two or three hours each.

After he passed through the Panama Canal into the Pacific Ocean in August Tangvald ignored advice not to sail along Mexico's west coast in hurricane season.

"This was almost his undoing. Halfway to Acapulco a storm with winds raging up to 70 miles an hour struck the vessel.

"It was the one time I regretted making the trip," he says. "I thought it was the end for sure."

But he managed to limp into Acapulco. There he stayed until Oct. 1 when all possibilities of coastal storms were considered past.

And despite his "never again" remark, the solo voyager adds: "It was a great adventure."

No Formal Ceremony

CAA Is No More; FAA Takes Reins

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Civil Aeronautics Administration vanished Wednesday from the aviation scene it long has dominated. It merged quietly into the swiftly expanding new Federal Aviation Agency.

FAA also absorbed an important segment of the CAA's companion agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, by taking over the rule-making functions of the CAB's bureau of safety.

The transition marked the assembly for the first time of all the major elements of the over-all agency ordered by Congress last fall to take over the reins of civil and military flying.

There was no formal changeover ceremony. FAA came into being Nov. 1 by absorbing the Airways Modernization Board, its 200 employes and its 30 million dollars of appropriations. The modernization board now operates as the FAA's bureau of research and development.

Next month both men and 550 staff members will move into a completely renovated office building, formerly a hospital, near the White House.

Wednesday's post-midnight transition involved the transfer to FAA of more than 27,000 CAA employees and 24 CAB workers, along with 365 million dollars in CAA appropriations and $102,000 allotted for CAB safety rule functions.

FAA also acquired 135 officers and enlisted men of the armed forces, the first of 15,000 military communications and traffic control personnel who will be permanently assigned to the mammoth new agency.

Heading the FAA is E. R. Quesada, former presidential aviation adviser. James T. Pyle, CAA administrator for the last two years, is deputy administrator.

Student Music Award Planned

The most accomplished student musician in the Dade County school system will be awarded a newly established music scholarship in June by the George Gershwin Lodge 196, Knights of Pythias, Miami Beach.

New lodge officers are Harry Eilen, chancellor; Louis Speilman, vice chancellor; Louis Hoberman, prelate; Michael Jerome, master of work; William Reimer, master of arms; Irving Weinstein, treasurer; Harry Waldman, financial secretary, and Max Grossman, secretary.

Sailor's Trick Backfires

It Costs an Appendix To Stay in the West

SVENDBORG, Denmark —(AP)— A young Polish sailor got himself rushed to a hospital so he could stay in the West. His ship sailed without him, but the sailor paid for his freedom with an appendix he didn't need to lose.

The 22-year-old seaman complained to the captain of the Polish ship that his stomach was aching violently. He was allowed ashore to see a doctor.

He went to the office of a shipping company which called an ambulance.

At the hospital, doctors removed his appendix without a diagnosis.

Conscious again after the operation, the sailor admitted he had feigned illness to get away from his ship.

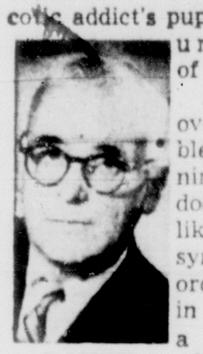
It's the Revolt

Hotels Hit A Wallop In Havana

Havana used to be known as one of the Caribbean's gaiest cities. Not any more. Fidel Castro's revolution has changed all that.

Empty divans in luxury hotels that were built only a year or so ago, covered gambling tables, and a rush to convert Cuban pesos into U. S. dollars tell a tale of woe for Cuba. Something's going to give. But what?

By EDWIN A. LAHEY
Chief Of Our Washington Bureau



LAHEY

HAVANA, Cuba — A tiny symptom can reveal a vast disorder. Like the future of a narcotic addict's pupils to contract under a beam of light.

A nylon cover over a crap table in the evening hours doesn't seem like much of a symptom of disorder. But here in Havana it is a reminder of what the political uncertainty in Cuba has done to the tourist business.

A cover over a crap table in a casino that should be jumping is pretty sad. It's like a sheet over a body at the scene of a tragedy.

But the covered crap table tells the story of Cuba's economic deterioration during the revolution. More so than the idle bellhops and the empty divans in the lobbies of the luxury hotels that were built here a year ago in the hope of making Havana a new and better Las Vegas.

Another telltale symptom of the basic disorder of this island is an increasing desire of Cubans to convert their pesos into dollars. Banks in Miami have noted an abnormal flood of Cuban money in search of dollars for deposit in the U.S.

In the official black sedans that come roaring away from Fulgencio Batista's presidential palace, you note extra rear view mirrors inside, which enable the fearful passengers always to have their eyes cast over their shoulder.

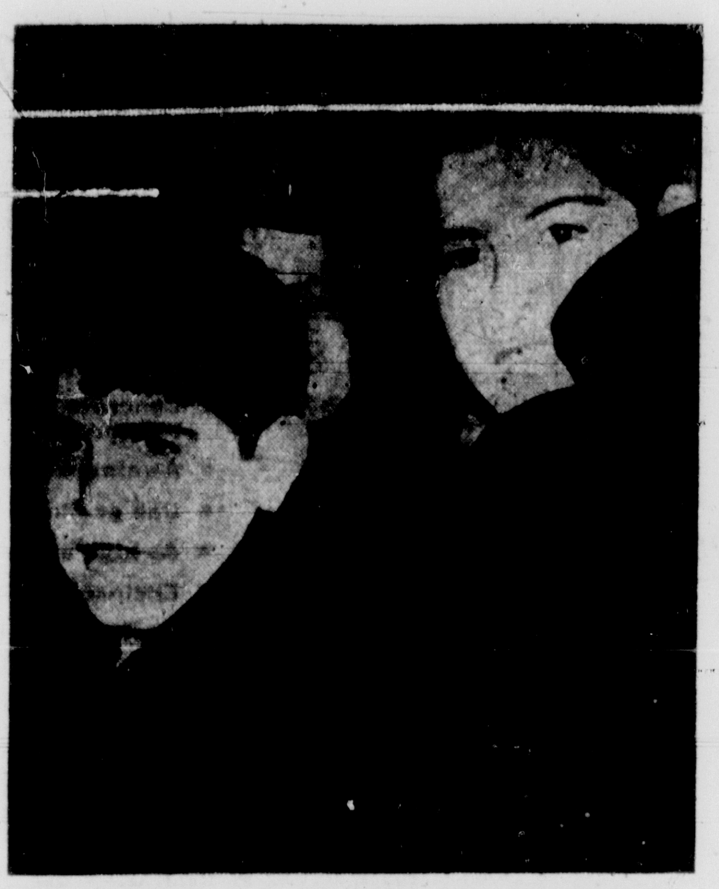
And while I was sitting on a park bench in front of the palace, catching some sun, a passerby told me furtively in Spanish that "the government doesn't like you to sit there."

Fidel Castro's two-year-old revolt has created a sense of futility about national life. The average Cuban is disenchanted with the Batista regime, but not enthusiastic about the rebel leader.

Something will have to give. The fate of the Cuban sugar crop will be settled in the next few weeks.

And on Feb. 24 Batista's hand-picked president-elect, Andres Rivero Aguero, is supposed to take office as Batista's successor. This poor stiff now lives under a maximum security guard, and cannot even go to the bathroom without somebody covering him with a machinegun.

However and whenever the political uncertainty in Cuba ends, it has been a nightmare for the hotel and casino operators, who stand idly waiting for paying customers in what should be the gayest playground of the Western Hemisphere.



THE TWO SONS of Cuba's President Fulgencio Batista, who flew into New York Tuesday, are not running away from the Cuban revolution, Havana government officials say. The boys, they added, will return to Cuba after a New Year's holiday in New York. The lads are Carlos Manuel, 10, left, and Roberto Francisco, 12.

Senators Will Probe Cuba Policy

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — A Senate foreign relations subcommittee Wednesday sought "official clarification" of U.S. policy toward the Cuban revolution.

Assistant Secretary of State Roy Rubottom was expected to be questioned in closed session about reports the U. S. might send troops to Cuba to back up the regime of Fulgencio Batista.

Subcommittee Chairman Wayne Morse (D., Ore.) said he was concerned about such reports.

The State Department has insisted, however, it was keeping "hands off" the touchy internal affairs of the beleaguered Cubans.

Rep. Charles O. Porter (D., Ore.), an outspoken critic of the Batista regime, predicted the Batista government would fall within two weeks. Fidel Castro, leader of rebel forces in Cuba, has launched a new offensive to overthrow the government.

Rubottom was called before the subcommittee on American Republics Affairs. The full Foreign Relations Committee was invited to attend.

The hearing came after sharp congressional reaction to the arrest of two American teachers who were seized at Havana aboard a homeward bound airliner for allegedly shouting pro-rebel slogans.

The Americans, James W. Reid and Louis F. Brantley, both of Louisville, Ky., were forcibly removed from the airliner Monday and charged with "committing a public disturbance."

But they were released late Tuesday by Cuban authorities after the U.S. embassy entered the case. Rep. Wayne L. Hays (D., Ohio) had urged the government to send troops to Cuba if necessary to free the two Americans.

Grads Meet After Game

The Greater Miami Syracuse University Alumni Club will hold a get-together in the El Centro Room of the McAllister Hotel after the Orange Bowl game today for grads living in South Florida and those here for the game.

Cyril Smith, president of the club, said more than 8,000 tickets to the Syracuse-Oklahoma game were sold in Syracuse, many of them to alumni.

Smith said some 260 Syracuse Alumni Club members living in Greater Miami hope for a big turnout of alumni visitors at the McAllister meeting.

Dr. William Tolley, chancellor of the university, addressed the alumni club at a meeting Tuesday.

Sugar Firms' Bribe to Cuba Rebels May Be Deductible From U.S. Taxes

By DAVID KRASLOW
Of Our Washington Bureau

KRASLOW

WASHINGTON — American taxpayers may have to pick up the tab for the protection money U.S. sugar companies are paying Cuban rebels.

Internal Revenue Service officials say the harassed companies may be able to deduct the payments as a business expense on their income tax returns.

Rebel Chieftain Fidel Castro is exacting payments of 15 cents a bag in return for the promise not to interfere with harvesting of the sugar crop.

Informed sources here say the payments will total several million dollars.

Rebel forces control a substantial portion of the sugar-growing area, perhaps as much as 60 or 70 per cent.

Eleven American companies operate 30 sugar mills in Cuba and control roughly one-third of the annual crop. The country's total crop is worth over 800 million dollars.

Internal revenue officials are reluctant to go out on a limb without further study.

"But there's no question that those companies would have a fighting chance in claiming a legitimate business deduction," one said.

"They're obviously being forced to make those payments. If they didn't make them, they might be out of business."

A claim of the sugar companies would have to be studied in the light of the law passed by Congress last July.

The law, sponsored by Sen. John J. Williams (R., Del.) prohibits American companies from claiming tax reductions for "improper payments made to officials or employes of foreign countries."

The crusading Williams campaigned for the law after learning a New Jersey company was allowed to claim as a busniess expense $1,800,000 in bribes and kickbacks paid to officials in the Dominican Republic.

The revenue service ruled this was an "ordinary and necessary" expense where the foreign government demands, or acquiesces in, such payments.

Tax officials stress that the law deals with payments to "officials or employes of foreign countries."

They point out that Castro—at this stage, anyway — is not an official of the Cuban government recognized by the U.S.

Church Group Hits Idea

N.Y. Mayor Asks Off-Track Betting

NEW YORK —(AP)— Mayor Robert F. Wagner thinks legalizing off-track betting and then collecting a tax on it is the best way to get more city revenue. A Protestant church group has denounced the idea as spreading the gambling fever.

Wagner said the city has to have new tax revenue from somewhere to meet the anticipated need for 135 million more dollars than in the current two billion budget.

He said taxing off-track betting is better than increasing present taxes, such as those on sales and cigarets.

The Protestant group, led by 23 clergymen, said off-track gambling would create grave social and moral evils, undermine the democratic concepts of thrift and industry, and encourage the fundamentally immoral belief . . . in gambling as a source of family revenue."

Off-track betting would have to be legalized by the Legislature. At present parimutuel machines at the track are the only legal way of betting on horses.

Collins May Visit Russia in Summer

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins may visit Russia next summer.

He said the trip has been suggested for the nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference but "no arrangements have been made so far as I know. The whole project remains in an exploratory stage."

COLLINS

Collins said he could sum up the reaction of the council in this way:

"If the trip would likely result in good for the nation; if there is a request that we go from an approved sponsoring agency which is willing to pay the cost from non-tax sources; if the trip is approved by our own State Department; and if the Russians will welcome us, then I think the governors will go."

He asserted "it is premature to say that all of these ifs have been settled at this time, because I frankly do not believe that they have."

He said he hoped that all problematical factors will be cleared up by Feb. 23 when the executive committee meets in Biloxi, Miss.

Collins explained that the idea for the trip originated with Dr. John Ivey, executive vice president of New York University, who is a former executive secretary of the Southern Regional Education Board.

Confessions of a Hatchet Man
. . . would be fascinating to listen to. However our connoisseur of the chopping block is kept so busy selecting the most succulent tid-bits of chicken, pork, ham, beef, lobster and shrimp for delectable dishes, it's improbable you'd ever get together. The Town Crier

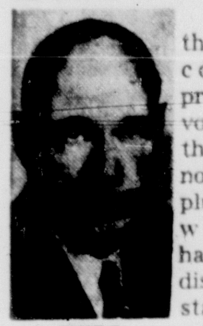
BY Jack Bell

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.



BELL

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeessh."

Safety Campaign Pays Off

Dade's Accident Total Is Cut 1,200

By JOE REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

Dade stared death to a standstill in 1958.

For the first time in recorded history, the county started a New Year at midnight with a sharply reduced accident toll.

For the first time in four years, it began a New Year even with the board on fatalities—148 to 148.

In a hard-fought tug-of-war, the county tottered but toed the line on fatalities in a photo finish to its all-out safety campaign.

It sped ahead significantly in accident figures, shaving the total under last year's by some 1,200.

In Opa-locka and North Miami, New Year's Eve celebraters drink to the achievement of free coffee parties sponsored by police departments and auxiliaries.

Though the record was marred by a double death within hours of year's end, safety experts termed the final score "excellent."

Jacob I. Jackson, director of the Dade Citizens Safety Council, hailed the cut-back in accidents as "a remarkable achievement." The toll has been jumping annually by some 18 per cent. Estimated figures show Dade with 28,958 accidents for 1958 against 30,158 for 1957, a slash of 1,200.

Capt. Tom Joyce, Florida Highway Patrol's safety officer for the South Florida area, said "breaking even" on fatalities is good, particularly in view of the heavy influx of December tourists. Last season's cold weather brought a poor tourst season.

The record was achieved in face of an increase in auto registrations over last year of some 24,000. Last year, 456,000 tags were issued in Dade. I. D. Smith, agency director, said 480,000 will be sold in 1959.

With registrations spiraling, auto insurance rates spiraling, accidents spiraling and death on a rampage, The Herald challenged readers to live out the last six months of the year. The number of accidents at that date stood 14,935 against 1957's 14,746 — and the most dangerous days had not yet come. Accidents began to skid as the safety campaign progressed.

Dade overcame its worst traffic tragedy in history — when seven were killed Aug. 24 in a two-car collision on U.S. 1 — to even the fatality score.

Capt. Joyce said results of the safety campaign will pay off far past midnight.

"We, on the road, have noticed a definite improvement in speeding and general observation of safety rules and precautions," he declared.

"In our group meetings around the area we've noted increased interest in safety, greater knowledge. This will bear fruit in months to come."

And so, today Dade starts off with a clean slate. Officially, The Herald's safety campaign is over. But the challenge remains.

Can you live out 1959?

Stripper Struts Into Wrong Act

By TONY PATRUS
Herald Staff Writer

Seemed like everybody wanted to get into the Orange Bowl Parade act Wednesday night. And at least two people who did wound up in the jug.

Scantily clad stripper Jennie Wanick was arrested as she paraded between bands along Biscayne Blvd. and NE Second St., handing out leaflets proclaiming her special talents as "The Bazoom Girl."

Miss Wanick, 29, of 5333 Collins Ave., was booked and released on $75 bond after being charged with passing handbills without a license and failing to obey a policeman.

Said five-foot-five Jennie, as she shivered in her short shorts, flimsy bra-halter and high heels, "The crowd liked me, I don't see why the cops didn't."

The crowd wasn't nearly as pleased with George F. Simon, a 20-year-old sailor, who was picked up for drunkenness as he staggered in and out of parade ranks near the east side of the Flagler bridge.

By the time police got to him, Simon had been clobbered over the head and punched in the eye by irate spectators.

New Causeway Is Speech Topic

How much will the Miami Beach-Key Largo Causeway cost, and why do we need it?

These are the questions Frank Smathers Jr., president-elect of the Taxpayers Association, will discuss at a 12:15 p.m. meeting of the Miami Beach President's Council Monday at the Delano Hotel.

If You're Going to Game

Leave Your Car At Home, You'll Make Better Time

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

While Orange Bowl officials work to make today's festivities "the biggest and the most," Miami traffic police will be striving to keep the football game traffic jam "the littlest and the least."

"As many persons as possibly can should use public transportation and leave their cars either at home or well away from the stadium area," Inspector Paul Denham of the traffic department said.

Besides the regular bus runs, Miami Transit Co. will operate its "Stadium Specials" from downtown direct to the south gate of the Orange Bowl. The buses will leave the corner of SE First St. and Miami Ave. at five-minute intervals beginning at 11 a.m.

For those who must drive their own cars, the city is opening a special parking lot for several thousand autos on NW 12th Ave., just north of the bridge.

"This parking is free," Denham said, "and the lot will be supervised by officers who will direct parking, watch over the cars and speed up the exiting traffic."

Private lots throughout the stadium area will be charging their "regular" Orange Bowl prices of $2 to $3 per car.

"Both those driving and those coming by bus should remember the pre-game entertainment begins at 12:30 p.m., and the game itself has been moved forward to 1 p.m.," Denham said.

More than 135 officers, including Florida Highway Patrol personnel, will be in the stadium area to handle the traffic and the mass exodus when the game is over.

"Take any street away from the stadium that will get you out of the area," Denham told drivers.

A helicopter, with traffic experts aboard, will hover over the streets at the conclusion of the game. Motorists can get helpful suggestions for avoiding jams by turning 710 on their car radios.

Denham said this would be the first year that Bowl-bound traffic meets Tropical Park traffic going in the opposite direction. "Tropical's customers can help a great deal," he said, "by staying out of the Orange Bowl area enroute to the track and keeping well to the west."

It's One for the Books

Just Wait'll You See This Halftime Show!

With one spectacular built upon another, today's gigantic Orange Bowl halftime show will go down in history as the "tops" of them all.

Still a super-secret except to a few, Orange Bowl Committee members say Maestro Ernie Seiler "has outdone even himself this year."

To celebrate the Bowl's Silver Anniversary, Seiler has put together 20 to 30 minutes of beautiful music, beautiful girls and super-floats.

More than 70,000 persons are expected to witness the extravaganza "first hand" from their Orange Bowl seats, and the television audience throughout the country will add millions more.

No one actually will get a glimpse of Seiler's newest ideas until they are trucked onto the field between halves of the Oklahoma-Syracuse football game.

And even then, only a bit of the glamor and color will be evident immediately. This year's show calls for an "unveiling" of each float — with the climax, as usual, a new and novel presentation of Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene and her court of princesses.

Almost as intricate as his halftime presentation is Seiler's setup for the pre-game show, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Oklahoma, Syracuse, U.S. Fleet Marine and six other high school and college bands will "do their stuff" for the pre-game crowd.

And there will be a new version of the American flag background for "The Star Spangled Banner."

Bordering the field for the pre-game festivities will be huge wooden footballs containing the scores of the 24 previous Orange Bowl games.

Instructor, Student Die

Plane Crash Kills 2 Men

By AL FINKELSTEIN
Herald Staff Writer

A North Miami student pilot — five hours away from winning his commercial pilot's license — and his Hialeah instructor were killed Wednesday afternoon when their Cessna 180 plane nose-dived into the ocean off Fort Lauderdale Beach.

The Coast Guard said the body of Clair W. Barron, 27, of 230 E. 57th St., Hialeah, was picked up by a fishing vessel, the Peggy Anne, an hour after the unexplained 3:15 p.m. crash.

But choppy waters prevented search boats from probing for the body of Lynn Jones, 23, of 12500 E. Randall Park Dr., North Miami. The search continued at dawn today, the Coast Guard said.

Eye-witnesses said the plane "dropped in a flash . . . and was gone."

Jones would have had "the license he had always dreamed of" on New Year's day, said his father, Francis M. Jones.

And with his commercial license, the youth planned to be a pilot for the firm that was teaching him to fly — Airlines Training Inc., Fort Lauderdale.

New Year's Day, too was to have been something special for the boy's instructor.

He and his wife would have celebrated the first six months of their marriage.

But Mrs. Barron had a heart-pounding warning that celebration would never be realized.

Secretary for Airlines Training, she plugged in her telephone switchboard for an incoming call at 3:15 p.m.

It was the Coast Guard. Did she know the name of the pilot and his student? Nothing else was asked.

"Waiting . . . waiting . . . waiting," she said, "and praying." The Coast Guard's second call would not confirm her frightening suspicions. Inside her, it did.

Mailmen Get Today Off

Today is being observed as a holiday by the Miami Post Office. There will be no delivery of mail by city or rural carriers.

Only special delivery mail will be delivered. Special delivery windows at the main office, Little River, Biscayne Annex, Ludlam and Ocean View branches will remain open. Collections are on a Sunday schedule.

Godfrey's Yacht Stalls Traffic

Arthur Godfrey's 50 - foot cabin cruiser limped up the Miami River honking the emergency signal for bridges to open Wednesday after a Gulfstream accident put one of its engines out of commission.

Capt. John Howes, who skippers the "Mary B" for the radio-television star, told Miami Patrol Officer Herb Freedman that Godfrey was not aboard the boat when the mishap occurred.

Howes said he was fishing with a party of Godfrey's friends when the boat snagged a floating patch of debris, stripping the gears in one of the Mary B's twin engines.

He dropped the fishing party off at Miami Beach, he said, and headed down the Intra - coastal Waterway to Miami. Howes made his trip up the river about 5 p.m., the Harbor Patrol said, just when downtown traffic was jamming up for the Orange Bowl Parade.

Howes told the Harbor Patrol he had to use the four-blast emergency signal because boats normally are not allowed through at that time, but that he was afraid the changing tide would bring more debris down the river in the dusk to threaten his crippled vessel.

Damage to the Mary B, which tied up at the Florida Yacht Basin, was estimated at "better than $1,000."

Yearned for Farm

Newcomer Hangs Self from Tree

A missing, 79-year-old newcomer to Miami was found hanged to death Wednesday near Pompano Beach, eight days after walking away from his new home in a state of despondency.

The body of John Dereckskey, a Hungarian who until last week lived on an Ohio farm, apparently had been hanging from a tree by a rope for "several days," Pompano Beach police said.

Death tentatively was termed a suicide by police.

Dereckskey and his wife, Julia, 67, sold their Ohio farm and moved to Miami Dec. 22. The next day he walked away from their temporary home at 1237 NW 37th St., and vanished.

Miami detectives said the elderly man apparently was homesick for the farm.

Investigators were unable to learn how Dereckskey got to Pompano Beach, some 50 miles north of Miami. He had about $50 in his pockets, police said.

Two boys playing in a remote wooded thicket near the Seaboard railway and Ocean Blvd. found the body.

Take a Look into Dade's Crystal Ball for 1959

By The Herald Staff

Metro's two top-salaried officials, County Manager O. W. Campbell and Port Authority Director George E. McSherry, will ride out a stormy year unscathed. But first they will bow to some Metro commissioners' demands for more administrative authority.

MIAMI WILL HOLD THE LINE on 1959-60 tax millages in spite of some big bites, including $1.5 million for the police and firemen's pension fund and loss of $750,000 to Metro from City Court fines. City Manager E. A. Evans says only one-fifth of a mill will be needed for the pension fund at the rate of $150,000 a year.

London Paper Dubs Sinatra 'Lord Rude'

By Herald Wire Services

FRANK SINATRA was dubbed "Lord Rude" in an imaginary New Year's honors list compiled by London's tabloid Daily Sketch.

The Sketch said that while most show business celebrities were generous about meeting fans and cooperated with the press, Sinatra "refused to meet them on his romantic visit to Britain" recently. "He's the bitter, chip-carrying man with an unsweet nature," The Sketch pouted.

The newspaper said it gave Prime Minister Harold Macmillan the title "Lord Pound-Proud," even though he would like to be known as "Mr. Britain." Tina Onassis, wife of Greek Shipping Magnate Aristotle Onassis, was named "Lady Fashion," and TV Comic Benny Hill was dubbed "Lord Fun."

British Navy Chief Moves Up

ADM. EARL MOUNTBATTEN, 58-year-old service chief of the Royal Navy and one of the British nobility's brightest figures, will become the country's first military man next July.

The government announced Tuesday that Mountbatten, first sea lord since April 1955 and the uncle of Prince Philip, would become chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee, the British equivalent of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Mountbatten as first sea lord has been the Navy's representative on the committee. He will succeed Marshal of the Royal Air Force Sir William Dickson, who is retiring.

Adm. Sir Charles Lambe, now British and NATO commander in the Mediterranean, takes over from Mountbatten at the admiralty.

"pull up a chair!"

Five years ago I first used those words in Miami. The doors of our first store opened and our first customer walked in. That's a pretty exciting moment, especially when you are trying something new. The idea was simple. We would specialize in the manufacturing and retailing of fine Danish style furniture, that's all. We'd find the world's finest woods, highest quality components—textiles with a modern flair, and TEXFOAM by B. F. GOODRICH, exclusively. We'd gather a staff of unexcelled designers and craftsmen . . . and to each individual customer we'd offer individual service with our "Fashion for Florida" styling. New? Perhaps not, but we would use prices as low as possible, consistent with quality and common sense. The reaction of that first customer was frank disbelief It was what we had hoped for. Reactions like that helped us grow from one store on Flagler St. to a second on N.E. 163rd St., to a third to be announced shortly. Bigger outfits in town offer a much wider variety of furniture, in most cases they buy from reputable manufacturers, we urge you to use their services if you are NOT looking for hand finished, custom-designed, Danish modern lounges, convertibles, and chairs. But if you are looking for dramatic styling, individual service, finest in workmanship and materials . . . at a price that will astonish you . . . drop in at the FOAM RUBBER CENTER . . . where it costs no more to get the finest . . . the first friendly words you'll hear . . . Parades All Over The Place

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Ten thousand parades tromped through Miami last night.

It was different every half block.

At one corner, police commandeered a station wagon from a fish restaurant, used wire snippers to undo Miss America's skirt from her parade perch, and whisked her down the sidewalk behind people who were looking the wrong way. Then they spirited her away on the Harbor Police patrol boat down the Miami River — all to avoid the admiring crowd.

At another corner, far from the battery of 108 bright lights at the reviewing stand, the tractor pulling the Kwik Chek float steamed and spouted like a geyser gone amok.

The parade that the tail-enders at NW Seventh Ave. saw bore no resemblances whatsoever to the flashy, high-stepping, snazzy line-up that dazzled the Biscayne Blvd. spectators.

It arrived wheezing, frazzled, panting and accordion-like with long empty five-and-10-minute gaps.

When the Miami Beach High band reached the Miami River bridge, it disbanded, meandered over like Sunday school picnickers, and reformed.

Even the giant balloon-pulling clowns, who take great delight in frightening curb sitters out of their wits, were practically fagged out.

The crowd at NE First Ave. saw a lenient cop let a happy drunk gurgling from a baby bottle march by undisturbed.

For a high-winding view, Harry L. Horand, of Augusta, Ga., rented out an $85-a-day Presidential suite atop the McAllister Hotel. The crooks in County jail 21 floors up, got an even better view.

Burdine's hired a stern-faced Pinkerton detective, and put him out a window onto the marquee to keep little boys from climbing up street poles.

The Walgreen's at NE Second Ave. and Flagler St. leased out its lunch mezzanine table seats at $6.50 a head, and thoughtfully provided dinner.

Why Sit, Wait For 8 Hours? It's M-A-G-I-C

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

The seats were front-row center on Flagler St.

Some were camp stools brought from home, and some were simply prize spots on a hard sidewalk.

In them, by noon, were Miamians settling down serenely to a long wait for the 1959 King Orange jamboree.

Why will people sit out the equivalent of an eight-hour working day to view a parade?

Two little girls provided the answer. A big girl confirmed it.

Pigtailed Rachel Cronan, 11, of 1637 SW Ninth St., and brown-eyed Patricia Ferber, 10, of 2126 NW Third St., spread out their newspapers on the sidewalk and tucked up their legs.

They were armed with a game of "Racko" and a portable Christmas radio.

"We'll hold the place and Mom will join us when she gets off work about 5:30 p.m.," Rachel explained. "She'll bring us something to eat and some wraps."

It was Pat's first Orange Bowl parade but Rachel explained she'd seen all of them.

"At least, all since I was born," she conceded.

What does she like best?

"The big balloons. They're so friendly and funny — and they almost nuzzle right up to you."

And why would a couple of little girls sit for hours on a cold, hard sidewalk to see a parade?

"When it comes," Rachel explained, "you feel all good and bubbly inside . . . like jumping up and running and running."

Pat nodded in understanding: "And people are happy."

"It makes you feel like a kid again," Rachel said.

You see, sometimes the world is very serious and girls worry about things.

"Like what you are going to look like when you grow up," said Pat. "Will you be pretty or not pretty—things like that . . .

"But everything is beautiful and magic — and like real fairyland in the parade," Rachel announced softly.

"You feel thrilled . . ."

Down the street a grown-up child sat equally patient in her folding chair. Her hair was white and her voice was sweet.

She was Mrs. Mary Wagner, 1721 SW 19th St., and she was 73.

"I came promptly at 12 noon," she said, smiling.

Why?

"I love EVERYTHING about a parade," she declared firmly.

"The music, the marching, the color, the fairyworld floats—the thrill of it. Cares float away."

And there it was, the answer:

For two wonderful hours, Miami is magic.

2 Giggling Tots See It All (Though Blind)

By TOM LOWNES
Herald Staff Writer

Giggling and waving, two little Hialeah girls saw the color-bright Orange Bowl Parade in the dark Wednesday night.

For nine-year-old Pamela Drake and seven-year-old Barbara Gibert, it was a wonderful pageant that no one else could see.

The bands played louder, the beauty queens were prettier, the floats were bigger and brighter—because both Pam and Bobbie are totally blind.

Together with their fathers, B. A. Drake of 1501 Palm ave. and Arnold Gibert of 74 E. 6th Pl., they sat in box seats provided by the Miami Lighthouse for the Blind.

They saw everything and did everything that little girls do at their very first parade.

After the first few bands and floats had passed, Bobbie, a second grader at Miramar School, turned to her father and earnestly declared, "I want to go again next year."

Then another band blared by and the girls squeeled and balanced their soft drinks and peanut bags on their laps so they could clap.

Pam, a third grader at Miramer, held her hands over her ears as a row of bass drummers pounded out a vibrant tattoo. "I like everything but the pum-pum-pum—it's so loud," she laughed.

The girls' fathers described the floats and named the bands—and answered the dozens of questions the keen little girls fired at them at a mile-a-minute pace.

"What are they wearing? Is the airplane (on the Pan-Am float) bigger than even you, Daddy? I know what kilts are—but what color are the kilts?"

A helicopter hovered overhead. "It's a whirlybird!" shouted Bobbie, without looking up.

"No, it's a 'copter," kidded Pam. And the girls rubbed shoulders and laughed at each other.

They stood up to cheer the passing of the Hialeah High School Band, but agreed that the Norman, Oklahoma, band was best.

Bobbie decided she liked the pink floats most of all. Pam preferred the blue. "But we're very good friends," Pam explained.

During short lulls the girls talked about their families (Pam has a younger brother and Bobbie has two brothers and a sister) and their school work (their favorite subjects: "reading and writing.")

For the girls, the clowns were the high point of the parade.

Even after the parade, as they walked through the crowds back to their car, Pam and Bobbie were still laughing about how Glumbo, one of the clowns on WTVJ's float, lost his pants.

"And he was wearing red underwear, wasn't he Daddy?" said Bobbie.

And they laughed some more in the dark.

Even General Bows to Ernie

By BOB HARDIN
Herald Staff Writer

A little guy in a green jacket bawled out a general —and got away with it—as the Orange Bowl parade marched off.

"I'm fed up. Get your motorcycles to move on, for cryin' out loud," hollered parade director Ernie Seiler.

"Okay, Ernie, okay," said the general.

He was Sheriff Thomas Kelly, decked out resplendent in his Army brigadier general's uniform.

Later, they had their arms around each other's shoulders.

That's the way it was behind the scenes in the Orange Bowl staging area near the mouth of the Miami river: Hectic.

★ ★ ★

MISS AMERICA'S FLOAT moved on toward the reviewing stand, and a series of lights were aimed right at her eyes.

Seiler ran alongside. "Can you see all right?" he yelled.

It wasn't the lovely lady he was talking to, through. His concern was for the driver.

★ ★ ★

HE GUIDED the giant floats along the narrow path from the staging area onto Biscayne Blvd. Even Ernie was impressed by the color. "Great show," he said.

★ ★ ★

SHOUTING ORDER and directions to his helpers, Seiler had little time for others.

One fellow walked by and spoke. Seiler didn't even nod.

It was his son, Pete.

They Gave You A Front-Seat View

Once again, a top-notch team of Herald photographers, headed by Chief Photographer Tony Garnet, has come up with a package of pictures which give you a first-seat view of the big King Orange parade.

GARNET

Using a special flash unit developed by the Herald, the lensmen shot pictures from every conceivable angle, then rushed the pictures to the Herald darkrooms, where another team processed them.

Photographers were Lyle Byland, Bob East, Ray Fisher, Mike Freeman, Doug Kennedy, Bill Kuenzel, Lewis McLain, John Pineda, Bill Sanders, John Walther and Steve Wever.

JACK ANDERSON—About TV

It's All Fluff as Girls Go After a Millionaire

ONE OF THE MORE engaging pieces of fluff on television this season is a series called How to Marry a Millionaire at 10 Sunday nights on WPST-TV (Ch. 10).

I've been watching it steadily since it began. I don't know why. It's like developing a craving for a food no more substantial than watercress.

ANDERSON

The weekly episodes are filled with every cliche and plot contrivance known to show business and were it not for its trio of stars — three highly ornamental frails — the series could be consigned to the graveyard where they've buried a lot of exceedingly more worthwhile TV entertainment these past several years.

The girls are Lori Nelson (Greta), Merry Anders (Mike) and Barbara Eden (Loco). They share a terrace apartment on what appears to be New York's Park Avenue.

* * *

HOW THE GIRLS, all of whom have ordinary workaday jobs, can afford to live on a scale worthy of Gloria Vanderbilt is another of those questions better left unanswered.

Not unless you're the type who insists that the preposterous be called the preposterous.

Anyway, the girls are perpetually on the hunt for millionaire husbands.

In the interest of continuing the series for its 39 episodes, however, they never land one. The fun is in the fruitless pursuit.

Greta and Mike of the trio are straight women to Loco, the bird brain apartment mate whose malapropisms and near-sightedness provide most of the laughs each week. It is Loco's ill-timed comment and behavior which safely fouls up not only her own but her pals' bird-dogging for money type males.

The three girls are real lookers and thoroughly charming.

Barbara Eden, particularly, has a fine sense of comedy, as well somebody on the show had better have or "How to Marry a Millionaire" would burst like a bubble into a complete nothing.

HERE'S THE NETWORK guest list for Miami Beach this month, as furnished by Miami Beach publicity mentor, Hank Meyer.

The NBC Treasure Hunt show with Jan Murray and CBS' Arthur Godfrey both arrive Jan. 19 Treasure Hunt will be originated for three weeks from the Fontainebleau Hotel. Godfrey will headquarter at his Kenilworth Hotel and do his shows from a number of locations.

Red Skelton will tape his CBS show at the Fontainebleau Jan. 26. The show will be used on the network some time in February or March.

Skelton's visit will be preceded by two weeks and followed by two weeks of plugs for Miami Beach.

LORI

BARBARA

A visit from the Jack Paar show again is definitely off. Instead, Paar and his associates will head to California again.

* * *

CBS IS DISCARDING both the Jackie Gleason Show and Trackdown Jan. 9. The 8 to 9 spot Friday nights will be filled with—so help me—a new 60-minute western called Rawhide.

This one was originally scheduled for launching last fall but CBS couldn't find a sponsor. In the meanwhile, Gleason's ratings have gone into a tailspin. Which explains his trip to the chopping block. Trackdown will return later this month in a new time slot.

Persons and Programs

CBS' TO TELL the Truth will start taping its show on Jan. 6. The reason: Ralph Bellamy, who'll soon rejoin the panel, and Polly Bergen are both involved in Broadway shows . . . Jack Benny will star in two live hour specials for CBS on March 18 and May 23 . . . When Milton Berle fades off his NBC show in March, his sponsor will spell him with a variety show fronted by either a singer or another comic.

BELLAMY

POLLY

BOONE

Lindsay, Dennis and Phillip Crosby and their den mother, Gary Crosby, are ticketed for Pat Boone's ABC show Jan. 29.

Music Corporation of America, a talent agency, wants Barbara Bel Geddes to star in a new filmed series, Bringing Up Katie . . . Herbert Leonard, producer of ABC's Naked City, planning another series, Brute Force, about engineers who roam the world.

Opening lead: King of ♥.

Declarer received a gratuitous tip today from an opponent who began to gloat prematurely over his partner's alert defense. East's impropriety led to an abnormal play that enabled South to land the contract.

The bidding was straightforward and against three no trump West opened the king of hearts and was permitted to hold the trick. The continuation was ducked and declarer took his ace on the third round. A low spade was then led with the intention of playing the nine from the dummy. Conceding a space at this point virtually assures declarer four tricks in the suit which with the five fast tricks in the other suits brings declarer's total to the objective.

West, however, alertly inserted the ten of spades and thus prevented a duck in the suit, for if he were permitted to hold the trick he could cash enough hearts to set declarer down. So South went up with the queen and played the king to see if the jack would drop. He was on the point of playing a third round when East entered the scene with an ill timed compliment for West. "You're my favorite partner," he announced in a voice that carried as much gloat as it did tribute.

Declarer, about to reach for the ace of spades, decided to take East at his word and abandoned that line of play. He cashed the ace and king of clubs and then the two top diamonds. When West dropped the jack of diamonds, declarer guessed to play him for a doubleton in that suit and led a third round of diamonds. East won the trick and cashed another diamond for defensive trick number four, but he had to surrender the last two tricks to dummy's ace-nine of spades.

Singletons To Organize

Mrs. Merle Gailbreath, 5991 SW 47th St., has been appointed organizing secretary of the Miami chapter of the United States Singletons.

Named to the organizational committee by Richard B. Kay of Cleveland, national president, were S. Curtis Ulmer, Hollywood; Barbara J. Tulare, Clarence E. Caines, Gladys E. Budelman, Pat Sherman, Bonnie Cross, E. W. Smith, William C. Hardwick and Mrs. Gailbreath.

The Singletons is a civic and social organization limited to single men and women between 25 and 50. Men must have an income of more than $5,000 and women in excess of $3,600 a year.

Those eligible can contact the secretary at MO 7-4368.

Extends Holiday

MONTEGO BAY, Jamaica—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles has extended his vacation at this exclusive Caribbean resort another two days and now plans to return to Washington Saturday.

Daytime TV Shows

7 A.M.

7 — TODAY — Dave Garroway will visit Pasadena, Calif., for the last-minute preparations of the annual Tournament of Roses Parade and Charles Van Doren will discuss the new ice age that is approaching.

8:45

4 — MOVIE — "Too Many Husbands," (1940), Jean Arthur, Fred MacMurray, Melvyn Douglas. A widow marries her former husband's partner and then learns that her first husband is still alive.

11:30

7 — ROSE PARADE — The Tournament of Roses Parade in Pasadena, Calif. will be covered by two networks. All the floats, riders, cowboys, stars, bands and assorted marchers will parade into your living room if you let them. The ABC contingent will be headed up by Audrey Meadows, Ronald Reagan and Mel Allen, while NBC has Betty White and Roy Neal as their first-string voices.

10 — ROSE PARADE — (See highlight above.)

12:45 P. M.

4 — ORANGE BOWL — This is the first game to hit the home screens, as Syracuse meets Oklahoma in Miami. Syracuse, which got pasted by Alabama, 61-6, in the '53 Orange Bowl, will be out to atone for that ghastly performance, and they might do it. But Oklahoma is always strong and fast.

Best Bet

1:45

7 — SUGAR BOWL — The New Orleans event this year brings together the top-ranking team in the country, Louisiana State, and another powerful group, Clemson. LSU, with its three separate teams has a wideopen offense, great depth and a standout back in Billy Cannon. But Clemson should make it a battle.

Best Bet

3:30

4 — COTTON BOWL — Air Force Academy, concluding its first big season, makes its bow in bowl competition in this Dallas game, meeting Texas Christian. TCU should be favored, for they are big and strong with depth in every position. The Air Force Falcons, who tied Iowa, are a light but opportunistic bunch.

Best Bet

4:45

7 — ROSE BOWL — The granddaddy of them all this year will have the exciting Iowa team meeting California in Pasadena. Iowa has a slick offense and a good, tight defense and figures to be heavy favorites. California's offensive system is a throw-back to the old split-T days, with variations of the quarter-back option plays.

7:30

4 — WHIRLYBIRDS — "Father and Son."

7 — COLONEL FLACK — Flack finds a museum curator being blackmailed and turns his museum inside out to discover the culprit.

10 — LEAVE IT TO BEAVER — Beaver is talked into spending money on himself that had been earmarked to buy a birthday gift for his brother.

Jerry Mathers and Rusty Stevens Buy Gift

4 — MACKENZIE'S RAIDERS — Mackenzie finds himself taking part in a raid on one of his own supply wagons.

7 — ED WYNN — John goes to New York to persuade the owners of a pajama factory not to close the plant.

10 — ZORRO — Zorro decides to call it quits and reveal his true identity.

8:30

4 — DERRINGER — Yancy learns that he has an imposter who is committing robbery and murder.

7 — IT COULD BE YOU — live.

10 — REAL McCOYS — The family opposes Luke's taking a part time job until he gets fired. Then the McCoys rally to his defense.

9:00

4 — ZANE GREY — That rawther dashing English cowpoke, Michael Rennie, is back in the saddle again. He's starring as a cattleman who goes to great lengths to protect his cows and, incidentally, his son. Rennie likes doing Westerns — "There's a little boy in all of us," he says — and has made a pilot film for a Western series of his own. Another actor in the cast is Fritz Ford, who's been doubling and stunting for a long time for Chuck Connors.

7 — CLOSED DOORS — A British atomic scientist steals secret information and is met in the moors by a Russian helicopter.

10 — PAT BOONE — As his New Year's treat, Pat has invited one of his top rivals, Johnny Mathis, over. There'll be no audience, no scenery, no nothing but the two boys and an orchestra. They'll just talk and sing and it should be a grand chance to compare the singing styles.

9:30

4 — PLAYHOUSE 90 — Tonight's play is "Face of a Hero," from a novel by Pierre Boulle, who wrote River Kwai. Jack Lemmon is the lawyer, and it's by far his most dramatic part. Other good actors in the cast are James Gregory, Rip Torn, Larry Gates, Henry Hull, William Hansen and Anne Meacham. They've written it so the story is told in flashback form.

7 — ERNIE FORD — Danny Thomas guests — live color.

10 — ROUGH RIDERS — The trio becomes involved in an election when Flagg recognizes one of the candidates as a ruthless former colonel who led troops into a massacre for personal glory.

10:00

7 — GROUCHO MARX — film.

10 — PROJECT VANGUARD — Story of the methods, operation and launching of satellites and missiles.

7 — MASQUERADES — Among the merry masqueraders is one who is stately in name and slight in frame. The problem will be to unmask her (or him). Doing the unmasking of this and other disguised subjects will be Faye Emerson, Audrey Meadows, Lee Bowman and Sam Levenson.

11:10

10 — MOVIE — "Crack-Up," (1946), Claire Trevor, Pat O'Brien. An art museum curator battles elusive murderous maniac operating forged art masterpieces racket.

11:20

7 — JACK PAAR — Comedienne Jane Connell and Arquette visit with Jack.

11:25

4 — MOVIE — "The Time, the Place and the Girl," (1946), Dennis Morgan, Jack Carson, Janis Paige, Martha Vickers. An operative family tries to prevent the opening of a nightclub in their neighborhood.

Facade of the Greater Miami Federal Savings
. . . firm will occupy its new building at 101 SE Second Ave. Friday

Meet the Men Who Made Greater Miami Federal

The six members of the board of directors of Greater Miami Federal who have guided the progress of the association have all made their individual mark contributing to the growth and development of the community.

R. B. Gautier Jr., vice president, says: "When Greater Miami Federal was founded, it was, from the very first day, anchored on the foundation of integrity, security, confidence and service. The trust placed in us by our members is like a savings account. It must reap dividends."

It is apparent from the many civic and charitable activities of the members of the organization that this obligation has been met.

The Greater Miami Federal team has accomplished much in business and in the community.

* * *

HOKE T. MAROON is chairman of the board. Successful in the grocery business, real estate and banking, Georgia-born Maroon's charities have become almost legendary. Despite the responsibilities of his many business interests, he seems always to find time for worthy causes, particularly the Mercy Hospital fund campaign, and for his work as a member of the Church of the Little Flower in Coral Gables. He was awarded the Junior Chamber of Commerce "Civic Merit" Award in 1951.

* * *

ROBERT M. MORGAN, association president, has been a resident of Dade County 21 years. He is known for his able stewardship in the Miami-Dade County Chamber of Commerce, serving as president for two terms. Voted Dade County's Outstanding Citizen for 1955, he received the Variety Club Great Guy Award the following year. Much of Morgan's civic activity centers around the University of Miami where he is presently serving on five committees. A certified public accountant, he is the senior member of the firm Morgan, Altemus and Barrs, and is a director of the Industrial National Bank of Miami and the North Shore Bank of Miami Beach.

* * *

JAMES W. BURDIN, executive vice president, was graduated from Miami Senior High School and attended the University of North Carolina where he majored in economics. He then joined the accounting firm of Ring, Mahoney & Arner, an association that lasted for seven years. He is a certified public accountant and a member of the Florida Institute of Accountants. Burdin is active in the Miami Kiwanis Club and Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

* * *

R. B. GAUTIER JR., director, is a member of the law firm of Worley, Gautier & Dawes. He served Dade County in the House of Representatives in 1943 and 1947. In 1948 he was elected to the State Senate where he served through 1955. A member of the Dade County Development Committee, he was appointed to the Florida Development Committee in 1958 by Gov. LeRoy Collins. Gautier is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Miami, the Riviera Country Club and the Indian Creek Country Club.

* * *

LEE M. WORLEY, secretary-treasurer, is also a member of the law firm of Worley, Gautier & Dawes. Widely respected in legal circles, Worley has been a practicing attorney since 1925. He has served on many committees and fund drives for the Kiwanis Club of Miami and has been active in the work of the community. He is a member of the Bath Club.

* * *

W. SLOAN McCREA, vice president and member of the board of directors, is a longtime Miamian. A native of Peoria, Ill., he came with his family to Miami in 1926. McCrea is head of the team which operates the Earl V. Wilson Co., food brokers. In addition to his activities with the Kiwanis Club of Miami, he has served as director of the Community Chest and Red Cross and as a member of the Welfare Planning Council. McCrea is presently chairman of the National Food Brokers Association, the first Floridian to occupy this post. He is a member of the Miami Club, the Coral Gables Country Club, the Coral Reef Yacht Club, and a director of the Commercial Bank of Miami and the Merchants' Bank of Miami.

Modest Oklahoman Wills $2,600,000 to Charity

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — An Oklahoma City man, who was believed to be of only modest means at the time of his death last January, left more than $2,600,000 to charity.

This was disclosed when County Judge C. J. Blinn closed the probate case of Harry M. Kirkham, 67.

Kirkham was an early-day drug salesman, and at the time of his retirement several years ago was listed as a farmer and retired pharmacist.

In the final distribution, $1,300,000 was ordered turned over to the Salvation Army Inc. of Georgia at Atlanta, with a provision that part or all of the money be spent in Salvation Army work in Oklahoma.

Another $1,300,000 was given to the Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children in Chicago.

A brother, Ben F. Kirkham, Alva, was left $1,000, and a niece, Miriam Paxton, San Diego, Calif., received $5,000.

Kirkham came here about 20 years ago and reportedly invested in drug firms. He also owned considerable farm lands in Kansas.

Building Marks Firm's Growth

By CHARLES TAYLOR
Herald Staff Writer

The Greater Miami Federal Savings & Loan Association, its seam-splitting growth a mark of South Florida's booming economy, opens new headquarters Friday at 101 SE Second Ave.

Florida Keeps Growing

President Robert M. Morgan said the modern $400,000 structure — built with materials from four foreign countries — is only for the present. Ten additional stories are planned for future expansion.

"We know we are going to have to expand again and there is no place to go but up," said Morgan.

The building is located directly across the street from the association's present offices in the Ingraham Building, and on the site of the old Seven Seas Restaurant, a downtown Miami landmark for years.

Morgan praised the work of architect Edwin T. Reeder, who designed the building, and said the 10 additional floors are planned "soon."

Provisions have already been made, he said, for the necessary additional electrical and air conditioning machinery and telephone equipment.

Hoke T. Maroon, board chairman of Greater Miami Federal, called the new headquarters "a testament of our community's faith in us and our faith in the community. This building is deep and solid—as deep and solid as our faith in the future."

Directors of the association will be on hand throughout the day Friday to greet visitors. There will be gifts for the first 5,000 persons attending the housewarming and balloons for the children.

Greater Miami Federal's move to new quarters comes after only four and one-half years of existence.

The association was founded in June of 1954 with $300,000 initial capital and over 300 shareholders. Original offices were on the ground floor of the Ingraham Building, 211 SE First St.

After six months of operation total savings and assets of the association had jumped to more than 2½ million dollars. Additional space in the Ingraham Building was leased for the firm's mortgage department.

But at the end of the association's first year, savings accounts totaled nearly five million dollars and assets had more than doubled the figure for the first six months. Planning started soon after for the new headquarters.

By 1956, total assets of Greater Miami Federal stood at better than eight million dollars. Officials said assets will be over the 15-million-dollar mark when the move is made into the new quarters.

An Added Service

Greater Miami Federal Savings & Loan Association will stay open Friday, Saturday and Monday until 9 p.m. during the first 10 days of its housewarming celebration, James W. Burdin, executive vice president, announced. "The extra evening hours will enable many of our friends who can't come in during our regular hours to come later and visit us."

Business hours on other days will be from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The building provides 18,800 square feet of floor area, of which 7,800 feet is rental space. The 10-floor expansion will add another 89,800 square feet of floor space, some 63,800 square feet of which will be usable.

More than 600 tons of concrete and 221 tons of structural steel went into the building, which features modern "curtain-wall" type construction.

Emerald pearl granite, quarried in Sweden and fabricated in Germany, went into the facings of the structure.

Externally, the building is a combination of pearl, beige, black and gold.

From Italy came the beige tile used on the street floor of the building. Alabama white marble with inserts of Venezuelan glass mosaic tile is used in flooring elsewhere. Walls are paneled in American cherry with walnut formica inserts.

On the main floor of the building, a cherry, white and walnut color scheme is used to create a light atmosphere.

Ceilings of the public lobby are installed with luminous plastic louvers for even lighting, and acoustic tile is used in ceilings throughout the building.

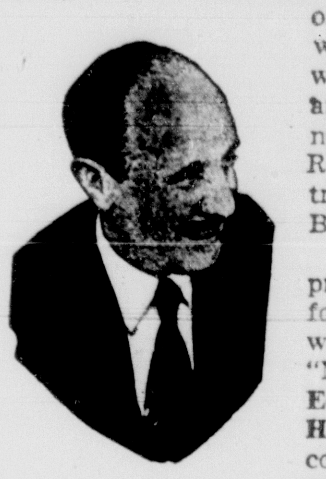
Nightlife with George Bourke

Rodgers to Do 'Babes in Arms' at Palm Beach



RICHARD RODGERS, composer half of the successful Rodgers and Hammerstein musical comedy team, will come down to Palm Beach soon to stage a new version of "Babes in Arms," which he wrote in 1937 in collaboration with Lorenz Hart. Paul Crabtree and Frank Hale will present the new production at the Palm Beach Royal Poinciana Playhouse. Crabtree says Rodgers plans a later Broadway run.

"Babes" is just one of several pre-Broadway attractions planned for the Royal Poinciana. Others will be the British mystery hit, "Not in the Book," starring Edward Everett Horton and Ann Harding; Crabtree's own "Beachcombers," with Fernanda Montel and Arthur Treacher; "Pound in Your Pocket," a new musical, and Elliott Baker's "States with Pretty Names."

Overheard (but not by us) at the Place for Steak: "Conceit is a queer disease. It nauseates everyone except the fellow who has it" . . . Overheard at Tennessee Williams' "Period of Adjustment" at Coconut Grove Playhouse: "Beer is a narcotic invented by Madison Avenue to make television viewers more tolerant of commercials." Or something like that. Stay out of Milwaukee, Mr. Williams! . . . Pinkie Lee, a couple of seasons ago's Wyatt Earp — (he means juve's TV favorite) will take over as headliner at the Latin Quarter next Thursday.

Were You on the Titanic?

WHERE WERE YOU on the night of April 15, 1912? If you were on the slanting deck of the "Titanic," Florida State Theaters in the Olympia Building would like to hear your story. J. Arthur Rank's "A Night to Remember," which is a film version of the sinking of the Titanic opens at Paramount, Coral and Colony on Jan. 14. Near relatives of survivors, or crewmen of rescue vessels are also being sought . . . ABC network disc jockey Martin Block will originate his show from the Montmartre in February . . . Continental String Duo is providing the oral atmosphere at the recently reopened Riccio's on 79th St., where Jerri Riccio is hostess.

The Riot Room's Treniers never played the Palace, but they were featured at the Brussels Worlds Fair this summer . . . Dick Fincher and Gloria DeHaven have been frequent visitors to hear Buddy Rich at Johnina Dream Bar—so Buddy dropped into Dick's place of business and bought a 300 Series Mercedes! . . . Barbara Carroll, who alternates her progressive jazz with Horace Diaz' Latin American rhythms at the Diplomat Tack Room, was dubbed First Lady of the Piano by Dave Garroway. So where does that rate the late Helen Morgan and the current Pat Morrissey!

* * *

Meet Another Lovely Gabor

AS YOU KNOW by now, Eva, Zsa Zsa and Mama Gabor are at the Eden Roc, but there is a fourth show biz Gabor in town too—Fay Gabor, one of Lou Walters' modern Ziegfeld Follies girls in his Carillon Hotel Revue . . . China Gerard, one of E. M. Loew's show girls in the Latin Quarter, has press agentry in her blood. She was herself press agent for Capitol records. Her father is head of the public relations staff for a government bureau concerned with jet propulsion at California Technical College.

If you see the Arthur Newmarks at every opening, be it night club or restaurant, don't chalk them up as gadabouts. Newmark is a meat provisioner and sells steaks to most of the spots, both here and in Cuba.

Lili Clements is doing Tirza's wine bath act at the Gaiety—but it isn't a case of larceny. Lili is Tirza's daughter-in-law, we're told . . . Costumes adorning the chorus beauties in Havana Mardi Gras at the Lucerne are the creation of Anido, of Havana . . . Ruth Palmer started her second season at the Pump Room of the Ivanhoe last night. She's Our Beautiful Town's First Lady of the Accordion. So there, Dave Garroway! Gene Baylos replaces Buddy Hackett on Cugat-Lane bill at Deauville tonight.

* * *

Yma Sumac to Star with Chevalier

HARRY HARDEN, Versailles Hotel bandleader, was in our office the other day with a seven-year-old lad when we were out. "Sorry we missed you and your son," we said later. "That's all right," he replied, "but it's my grandson, thank you" . . . Carmen Cavallero follows Yma Sumac as Mike McLaney's star at the Hotel Nacional's Casino on Jan. 14. Sumac then heads for Spain and a co-starring bit with Maurice Chevalier in Paris.

Don Rickles will have to report in Hollywood, Calif., not later than Jan. 22 for a role in Burt Lancaster's "Unforgiven." He will probably remain at his Admiral Vee lounge job until Jan. 15 . . . When we saw the amazing Holger execute adagio lifts and tosses with Dolores, his partner at the Latin Quarter, we observed that he made it look too easy. It is easy for him — he was the strong man with a Swedish circus.

Fans at the Neptune Room in Washington held a long distance wire open for 45 minutes to hear the Dante Trio perform at their Apache motel opening.

Ingrid Happy That She Has Poor Memory

PERRY COMO'S secret for success: "If you get lucky and do what people like, then you last" . . . Ingrid Bergman's philosophy: "Happiness depends on two assets which fortunately I have. They are good health and a poor memory" . . . The Rodgers-Hammerstein batting average: only one of their shows, "Pipe Dream," broke even. All the others made money . . . Paramount offered Warner's $175,000 for Clint Walker (star of "Cheyenne") who is on strike. The studio wants him to appear opposite Sophia Loren in "Feller With a Gun." Jack Warner turned it down because he would have had to give in to the actor's demands.

Ingrid Bergman . . . glad

* * *

PLAYWRIGHT Dore Schary and wife decided to sell their swank home near Movietown and dwell in N.Y. He is writing two new plays, "The Unsinkable Mrs. Brown" and "A Majority of One" . . . Composer Jule Styne played his "Gypsy" score for Ethel Merman, who was so thrilled she cried . . . Lou Levy, music publisher, once managed the Andrews Sisters. He married one. Today he is a top notch Tin Pan Alley citizen. Just turned down three million for his music firm. He started it with a borrowed $50.

Perry Como . . . secret

Alan King's teevee deal in England was a reward for going over so well with audiences there. He was telling friends: "It's different in Britain. When you flop over here they drop your option. Over there they just deport you!" . . . Asia Mercoolova in "Whoop Up" was born in Shanghai of White Russian parents. Her first name (Asia) is pronounced "Ah-See-Ya" . . . You'd be amazed at the number of people on the coast who suspect Julie London and Bobby Troup secretly wed long ago . . . we doubt it. Staying single she gets $18,000 alimony from Jack Webb . . . Sophie Tucker, who is almost 76, opened the Latin Quarter (Miami Beach) season with her usual thunder and lightning. Big hit . . . How come the Indians in Westerns shoot everybody except the star?

Dore Schary . . . moved

* * *

"THE WALTER WINCHELL FILE" (Desilu) will soon be syndicated in Australia and the Philippines . . . Lines that stay in the ears from "The Disenchanted" drama: "After a while you don't count your years, you count the number of your disenchantments" . . . This is the lure of show-biz: over 285 auditioned for a two-minute role in the musical, "Destry" . . . Overheard about the newspaper strike: "Oh, it wasn't so bad, teevee and radio kept you up with the latest news" . . . "I know, but how did you keep up with the latest scandal?"

Ethel Merman . . . wept

* * *

HOLLYWOOD is currently ruled by golden kings. They include such stars as William Holden, James Stewart, Gregory Peck, John Wayne, Frank Sinatra, Cary Grant and Kirk Douglas. All of them earn fabulous salaries plus a percentage of a film's profits. For a single flicker, they often collect several million $ . . . What success means in Movieville has been realistically described by Kirk Douglas: "The sad part — the frightening part — is that when a lot of us in movies reach the top, and we have contracts and agents and business managers and publicity workers and such trappings of success as a little place in Palm Springs and a heated swimming pool with underwater lighting, we're scared to death. We're afraid that the whole glittering blob of quicksilver will slip through our fingers."

The penalty for success is the fear of failure.

* * *

The Pied Pipers tootle a golden melody in the strange land of Doremi. How does it happen? There are no formulas. Often, the creative process has the strangest origin . . . A songsmith was walking in the street when he suddenly had a thought: "This is the year for sounds. How about an animal or butterfly or insect singing?" Out of that silly thought came a zany tune, "The Chipmunk Song," which will make its composer, Ross Bagdasarian, a mint.

* * *

GOLD is not always golden, folks. A national mag breathlessly reports that William Holden is paid a salary of $750,000 per flicker. That is accurate. The periodical, however, makes no mention of taxes and expenses . . . Several months ago, in an interview, Holden graphically described his financial position: "Do you know what I'm looking forward to right now? The martini I can have on Sunday afternoon. I'm working all week for that martini. Monday I work for my lawyers, Tuesday for my agent, the other four days for the government. Sunday, if I'm lucky I may have the afternoon off and I'll have the martini."

JANUARY 1959
SUN. MON. TUES. THUR. FRI. SAT.

OFF ON THE RIGHT foot, or rather, leg, is Debbie Reynolds this year as she has a ripping good time breaking through January for a Happy New Year picture in Hollywood. Let's hope all the months have similar attractions to offer.

'Rocket Trip' At Museum

"Rocket Trip to Outer Space," on which visitors to the Museum of Science and Natural History will take a make-believe but realistic trip beyond the earth's atmosphere, will open a series of film showings at the museum for the New Year.

"Rocket Trip" will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Friday, 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday, and at 3 p.m. Sunday. On Saturday and Sunday Walt Disney's nature film, "Nature's Half Acre," will be shown following the rocket film.

There is no charge for the showings.

OPEN SYMPATHY is attempted by Rita Hayworth when she listens to the problems of a shy Deborah Kerr and finds they are both in the same boat as far as romantic problems and entanglements are concerned. Scene is from "Separate Tables" which co-stars Burt Lancaster and David Niven and opens at the Carib, Miami and Miracle.

Hayward, Niven Honored

'The Defiant Ones' Named Top Movie

NEW YORK — (AP) — New York film critics have picked "The Defiant Ones," a movie about race prejudice, as the year's best picture.

Susan Hayward
. . . best actress

The film starring Sidney Poitier and Tony Curtis as a Negro and a white man who escaped chained together from a prison gang, won the critics' 24th annual award.

The critics also picked Susan Hayward as the best actress of 1958 for her role in "I Want to Live."

David Niven was named best actor for his performance in "Separate Tables."

'Unforgiven' Visit

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(UPI) — Director John Huston heads for Mexico City to start production of "The Unforgiven" co-starring Audrey Hepburn and Burt Lancaster.

Happy New Year, Hollywood; You Keep Us Smiling

By FRED SPARKS

May I wish Hollywood Happy New Year?

We need Hollywood. We need mad doings as an escape valve for mounting global miseries. Things are grim and you think the next headline will be: Everybody Dead! Then a Hollywood silly item renews our faith. Man can smile as well as grimace.

Sparks

Take the teeth of Eddie Fisher and Elizabeth Taylor. Now, there are as many dentists in Hollywood as elsewhere. More. Good teeth are essential in a profession where the close-up makes one cavity look like Grand Canyon.

But, no. When Mr. Fisher and Miss Taylor needed dental work they sent for Dr. A. Pearlman. He flew from New York and spent a week saying to the stars: "Open wider, please."

That's Hollywood. If one star can import a hairdresser from Paris another can import a dentist from New York.

Then consider Rock Hudson, Frank Sinatra and Marilyn Monroe. Reporters disturb them. Mr. Hudson is tired of being linked in the press with different girls. Frank Sinatra just plain hates reporters. Miss Monroe, who in calendar-girl days was cooperative, is now difficult to interview.

Strange. Because publicity is to Hollywood what dividends are to American Telephone and Telegraph. But A T & T does not depend on talent — and temperament.

* * *

A TYPICAL history of the press and a star concerns (the mythical) Gloria X. Miss X, born to gladden all men, wins a smalltown beauty contest. On to Hollywood! Before she rents a room she rents a press agent.

He takes a columnist to lunch and says: "Miss X is the biggest discovery since penicillin. And talent! George, she's Garbo, Novak and Bergman rolled into one bathing suit. How about a line?"

Gloria gets a small Western role. The script reads: "Gloria, in snug riding habit, stands in background looking sultry." A very small role. But she's very sultry. From then on she's "Sultry Gloria."

She's photographed in zebra skins, palm leaves on Oriental rugs at Palm Beach, Santa Monica Beach, Coronada Beach and at the opening of a supermarket. She appears pinned up on 189,000 barrack walls. She's linked with Rock Hudson.

Finally it's whispered she's seeing a psychiatrist. She's reading Boris Pasternak.

And she announces: "I'm through being sultry. Through with pinups! I told Max to release me from my contract unless I can play Joan of Arc."

It's inevitable. The next step is to flee reporters. She wants privacy, registers under fake names, wears heavy veils. That's Hollywood. Happy New Year, Hollywood.

$500,000 to Aid Youths in Arts

NEW YORK —(AP)— A half million dollar fund has been entrusted by the Carnegie Corp. to the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts "for scholarships and other assistance to young artists in launching their professional careers."

The Lincoln Center, a mile up Broadway from the present theatrical area, is being constructed during the next four years as a headquarters of music, opera, dance and drama.

Hubby Urged: 'Get a New Hair Do for the Big Game'

O-K-L-A-H-O-M-A! Whether it's the Sooners or Syracuse in the Orange Bowl today, this hair style is a winner anytime. Created especially for this pert Florida newcomer from the western state, it features heartbreaker bangs.

By ELEANOR HART
Herald Glamour Clinic Editor

Glamor Clinic

Pretty Mrs. Sooner (she's from Oklahoma, of course!) had a problem—her husband was tired of her hairstyle.

"While watching Dorothy Collins on TV the other night, I commented that I had never seen such a change in a person," she says.

"He looked at me and said, 'Maybe you should get your hair done a different way.' This from my husband of nine years who has always said, 'Don't ever change. I like you the way you are!' "

A recent transfer from Oklahoma City, this trim, blue-eyed mother of two preschoolers, was particularly eager to look glamorous today for the BIG GAME. "I want my friends who are coming here for the Orange Bowl festivities to see a new me," she said.

Thirty years old, Mrs. Sooner had worn her hair in the same style since she was 12—no wonder she decided it was time for a change.

"I've visited beauty shops occasionally to have a permanent, but I've never been successful in getting them to style my hair differently," she said with a sigh.

Well, changing a hair style is never a Glamor Clinic problem!

First, the stylist gave her a permanent to create sufficient body, in the hair, then he cut it—really short. "Her hair is no more than 2½ inches any place on her head," he said proudly.

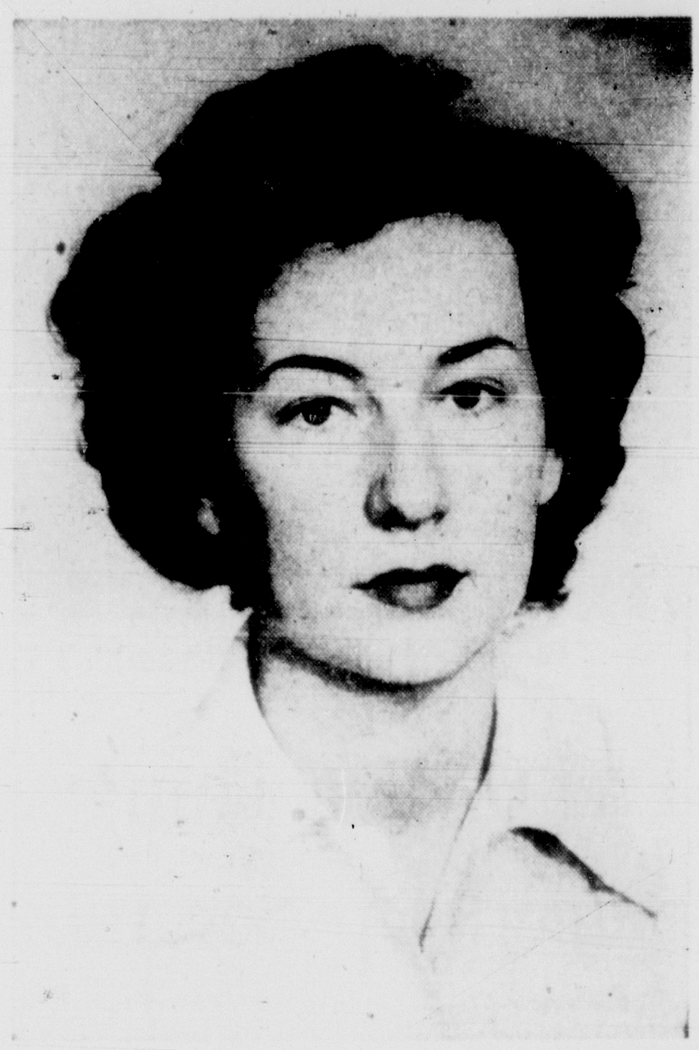
The style is a combination of the Chemise and the Bubble, with fitted sides, a swirled neckline and heartbreaker bangs. It's easy to keep," he insisted, "particularly if she follows the coiffure style chart I've prepared for her."

The stylist's wife, who is also a coiffure expert, helped Mrs. Sooner with her make-up, arching and penciling her brows, adding just enough blue eye shadow to make her blue eyes appear bluer.

And what did Mr. Sooner say when he beheld the transformation?

"I like your hair," he said, "but get that stuff off your face, the sooner the better."

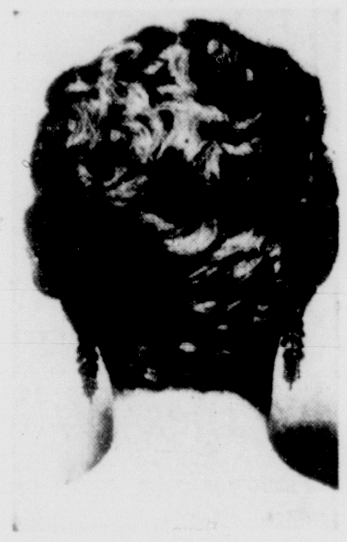
Men!



BEFORE GLAMOR, Mrs. Sooner wore her hair like this, "as I have been doing since I was 12." Now 30, both Mrs. Sooner and her husband decided it was time to change.

—Herald Staff Photos by Lyle Byland

BACK VIEW — long and scraggly, before styling. Hair is light brown, has beautiful texture.



SWIRL NECKLINE with petal-like waves, is contrast to "old look." It's easy to keep, too.

New Year's Eve: A Great Night To Have a Party

By NORA OPHULS
Herald Staff Writer

North, east, south, west—all around the compass last night our town was jumping with New Year's Eve celebrations. Bearded men and fair-haired babes hobbled and gamboled from Paradise Point to Haulover Cut. The parties reported here are only a drop in the champagne cooler.

* * *

Bachelors

A massive affair was thrown by the Bachelors, who never do things half-way. Bachelors, associate Bachelors (those who've made the altar trips), Spinsters and guests produced a celebration of 500 in the Sky Room of the Dupont Plaza.

New president Clarke Jones and v.p. Jim Hartnett and their dates made up the receiving line. Some of the guests present when the balloon bags burst at midnight were Mills McNeil with Sandra Balfe, associate members Tom Huston Jr. and David Alter and their wives.

* * *

University Club

An added attraction at University Club's party was the helium which sent the gay balloons skittering hither and yon. Ed Claughton Jr. went all out to get a complete repertoire of noisemakers and hats so the 400 guests, who filled the entire main dining room of the Urmey Hotel, could give 1959 a rousing welcome. Dick Adams was chairman of the party, and Richard Malloy is president of University Club.

If you were looking for well-thought out and artistic decor, you should have stopped by Coral Reef Yacht Club last night. Mrs. Charles Miller and Mrs. Wilton Adams had turned the place into a fantasy of coral, white and gold. Fluttering 18-inch fringe hung from gold hoops suspended from the tent top on the club lawn by coral, gold and white ribbons.

A 45-minute floor show entertained the guests, followed by a champagne breakfast at 1 a.m. Among the celebrants were Mr. and Mrs. James Wenck, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Little, Mr. and Mrs. John Mercer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Peters Jr., Cmdr. and Mrs. George Downing.

* * *

Rod and Reel

Rod and Reel Club was all a-glitter, too. From the backdrop of the stage which held the orchestra Father Time and Baby 1959 bade the guests goodbye and hello. Pre-midnight dinner (filet mignon) and dancing made up this party, and among the partiers were club President and Mrs. E. S. Corlett, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mathers, Mr. and Mrs. Gar Wood Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bryson and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Schettler from Buffalo.

* * *

Junior Assembly

They may not have had champagne, but Junior Assembly members had champagne glasses at their party in the Miami Woman's Club. Each got a stemmed glass with the occasion inscribed in gold on it. From them they drank white grape juice which looks and tastes for all the world like the real fizzy stuff—even the bottle corks pop—but has nary a trace of alcohol.

Red, gold and white was the festive color scheme with balloons in those hues and gold and white drapery festoons. Some toasting JA's were Mary Dodd Trammell escorted by De Blois Milledge Jr.'s Emory roommate Bert Culpepper, Demi Zachar with Peggy Basten, Nancy Scheets with Ben Davis, Linda Walter with Steele Reeder.

Suleskys Mark Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Sulesky are celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary today with an open house for friends at their home, 1335 N.W. 74th St.

They were married in Punta Gorda in the Sacred Heart Catholic Church by Father L. J. Flynn, and have been members of St. Mary's in Miami for 22 years.

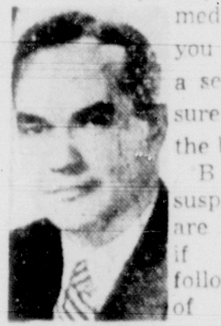
HOW TO KEEP WELL

Use This Check List For Healthy New Year

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

Resolve this year to pay more attention to those telltale symptoms that may indicate a serious disease.



Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

Consult your physician immediately if you feel pain or a sense of pressure beneath the breastbone.

Be doubly suspicious if you are over 50, or if the bouts follow a period of stress, unusual fatigue, or exertion. You may have angina pectoris.

Glaucoma is the most common cause of blindness.

It can be treated successfully when detected before the eyes are damaged beyond repair.

In this condition, it is difficult to adjust vision to changes of illumination or to see well even after frequent changes of glasses.

Health Hint

Don't broil your skin.

Vision becomes blurred or foggy, more so when rainbow colored rings are noted around lights at night.

* * *

AN ANNUAL chest X-ray is an excellent investment.

It may help detect tuberculosis or lung cancer months before the development of cough, blood-streaked sputum, or chest pain.

The earlier these diseases are uncovered, the less complicated the treatment and the better the outlook.

Indigestion is a vague symptom but it often acts as the initial complaint among victims of heart trouble, peptic ulcer, gall bladder disorders, or stomach cancer.

All of us are entitled to a bout or two of gastric distress but we should seek medical attention when it persists or recurs.

* * *

MAKE a resolution to have the larynx examined should hoarseness last more than three weeks.

It might be a cold but it could be cancer.

Changes in bowel habits after midlife call for X-ray of the intestine.

Bleeding from a body opening or a sore or ulcer that fails to heal may be a sign of cancer.

Our senior citizens with poor circulation may be able to prevent gangrene by keeping their extremities clean and avoiding injury, strong antiseptics, and hot water.

Keep the mind strong thru positive thinking and good mental hygiene.

Avoid anger, jealousy, and hate.

Pity is the only emotion that does not raise the blood pressure or produce heart trouble.

Always write to Dr. Van Dellen in care of The Miami Herald. Questions will be answered in his column as space permits. For a personal reply, enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual cases.

Love Letters In the Sand

ATHENS, (WNS)—Archeologists in Greece have dug up elegant sandals for women that produce surprising results.

Happy New Year To Sue Marsh And Bridegroom

By HELEN WELLS
Herald Society Editor

Quiet, please! And tell Anna, the Siamese cat, to cease stomping across the floor. Whether your head throbs from New Year's Eve revelry or you spent a quiet night at home as we did, a Happy, Happy New Year to all.

* * *

GLAD NEWS on this bright New Year's Day is word of the marriage Wednesday of Sue Marsh and Alfred Gustinger Jr. in the Riviera Presbyterian Church.

Sue Gustinger

Only the family and a few friends were present.

Suzanne is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Homer F. Marsh, 1500 Country Club Prado in the Gables. The bridegroom is the son of Alfred Gustinger, 3416 SW 17th St., and the late Mrs. Gustinger.

A spinster, Sue attended Oklahoma A and M and graduated from University of Miami. Alfred graduated from University of Florida and University of Miami law school.

After a brief local honeymoon the newlyweds will be back in circulation on Monday.

* * *

Sailing to Orange Bowl

They won't have to fight Orange Bowl traffic today — — the friends Col. and Mrs. Henry Dutton are taking to the game aboard their yacht, Argus.

In the party sailing from the Flamingo docks and walking from the river to the Bowl are the Charles Lockwoods of Colorado Springs, William Bemis and the Arthur Ammiots from Cleveland.

* * *

For Your Date Book

"Black tie" say invitations from Marie and Fred Freeman, Ruth and Dr. Will Mitchell who are joining forces to host a dinner dance. Date is Jan. 12 at the Rod and Reel Club.

Future date for Feb. 4 is the cocktail buffet Ivan and Neil Miller are planning at their home on Sunset Island II.

* * *

Phillips' Party Canceled

Don't go knocking on Carlie and Dr. Roland Phillips' door after the Orange Bowl game today. They have canceled their annual after-the-game party because of illness in the family.

More on the sick list include Phoebe Morse who had a heart spasm and was in the Heart Institute, and Frances (Mrs. Anton) Loeb who is celebrating New Year's in St. Francis.

* * *

Deduction for Clines

"We planned it well, tax-wise," chuckled O. B. Cline. He was speaking of his and Babe's new son Scott, born Dec. 30 at Doctor's Hospital, a bouncing boy of six pounds 14 ounces.

The Clines' seven-year-old "Buddy" (O. B. III) was another nice deduction who arived Dec. 30! One birthday party will do for the two boys but older sister, Susan, 10, has her own.

* * *

From Cairo, Ga., are Mrs. Sara Wight and her daughter, Mrs. Louisa Sheehy, who are staying at the Dupont Plaza. While here they are visiting with Mrs. Wight's brother, George A. Wight and his wife, Annie Ford Wight at their apartment on Biscayne Blvd.

* * *

A cocktail soiree for out of town visitors was given by Betty and John Gilbert at their home on SW 15th St. Their honor guests were John's sister, "Sis" and her husband, Donald E. Stewart of Raleigh, N.C.

* * *

Pink Theme for Soiree

Fifth fabulous Soiree Symphonique, annual ball of the Symphony Club, Jan. 15th at the Fontainebleau, has a pink theme. The invitations and menus are in two shades of pink, the co-hostesses, Elsa (Mrs. William) Stubblefield and Celeste (Mrs. Charles) Moon are wearing pink ball gowns.

Advisory committee Nancy (Mrs. Robert) Greene, Perley (Mrs. Howard) Cummings, Edna (Mrs. William) Pawley and Ricky (Mrs. Phil) Wylie head the 34 member general committee. Mrs. Pawley and Mrs. Wylie were cochairmen last year.

Tariff for the ball is $25 minimum, High C tables are $100 per plate and Golden Note tables are $1,000. There are already 13 Golden Note tables and five High Cs.

* * *

Dorothy and Dean Murphy are telling of Dean's experience when he took their terrier Little Mr. Murphy shopping. Dorothy made this engaging creature a sable coat out of part of an old one of hers. A lady in the store approached Dean and commented "Sir, is that a sable coat your dog is wearing?" "Oh, no," Dean replied. Thereupon she leaned down and blew on the fur and indignantly retorted "It certainly is!" Dean said he fled with Mr. Murphy, followed by a stream of women wanting to see the sable coat. "Felt like a shop lifter!" he commented.

Orange Bowl Festivity

So much Orange Bowl Brass in one place gave Mr. and Mrs. Hood Bassett's party at the columbus hotel New Year's Eve lots of shimmer. Oklahoma U's president Dr. G. L. Cross and his wife, Syracuse chancellor Dr. William P. Tolley and his wife, University of Miami president Dr. Jay F. W. Pearson and Mrs. Pearson were the scholastic names in lights, plus Reeves E. Peters, commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, and his wife from Kansas City.

Also present for cocktails and late dinner were Sen. and Mrs. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma, Oklahoma governor-elect J. Howard Edmundson and his wife. The three Orange Bowl vice presidents Stephen Lynch Jr., Everett Clay and Jess Yarborough, received with Mr. Bassett.

Surprise Folks with Scrambled Eggs a New Way

. . . serve anytime from breakfast to late supper

Treat for a Hungry Family: Spiced Up Scrambled Eggs

By JEANNE VOLTZ
Herald Homemaking Editor

Jazzed up scrambled eggs can be the main attraction when folks get hungry at your house — breakfast, brunch or after-the-game supper.

Daily Food Guide

The menu — and the eggs — can be adapted to what is on hand.

The eggs are spiced with bitters, served with broiled tomatoes. If you don't have tomatoes, garnish with asparagus or artichoke hearts — canned, of course. If there's no bacon, sausage, ham, canned luncheon meat or turkey hash go well with the eggs.

NEW YEAR'S BRUNCH
Chilled Orange Juice
Scrambled Eggs and Tomatoes with Bitters
Crisp Bacon
Spiced Crabapples
Toast, Marmalade

If you have a chafing dish or automatic fry pan, the eggs can be cooked at the table.

SCRAMBLED EGGS AND TOMATOES WITH BITTERS

2 large tomatoes, sliced
2 teaspoons butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons salt
Angostura bitters
Canned mushroom slices
1 dozen eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon Angostura bitters
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Put tomato slices in greased pan. Dot with 2 teaspoons butter, sprinkle with 1 teaspoon salt and a dash of bitters on each tomato slice. Top with mushroom slices. Put in broiler under low heat and cook until tender but not mushy, about 8 to 10 minutes.

Beat eggs in large mixing bowl. Add milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon bitters and pepper. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in skillet. Pour in egg mixture. Cook over low heat, stirring often, until eggs are done as desired. Remove eggs from heat, top with broiled tomato slices and serve at once. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Good Orange Dessert Recipes Will Pay Off

Floridians who have good recipes for orange desserts are invited to enter them in a contest.

It is the first All-Florida Orange Dessert Contest. Sponsor is the Florida Citrus Commission, with power companies in the state cooperating.

Almost $6,000 in prizes will be awarded. Eleven semi-finals winners will be given deluxe electric ranges.

The recipe should be typed or written legibly and sent to the commission with an entry blank. The entry must be postmarked not later than midnight Jan. 31.

A contestant can enter as many recipes as desired. But each entry must be accompanied by an entry blank.

A recipe must use at least two fresh oranges or one cup of juice to be eligible.

Entry blanks will be available in food stores, appliance stores and offices of Florida Power and Light Co., co-sponsor in South Florida. People living in areas where entry blanks are not available may write the citrus commission in Lakeland for one.

Contestants who go to the semi-finals will cook their dishes for judging. The state finals, when dishes will be prepared again, will be held in Lakeland March 19.

MRS. FDR:

Love Counts Most

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

NEW YORK — This is New Year's Day, ushering in 1959.

Shall we make wishes for the new year? Or have we made so many in the past that we have become discouraged?

Mrs. F. D. R.

Shall we make new resolutions or repeat old ones, wondering whether we will be able to keep them?

I hope that everywhere in our country the majority of the people will be able to find something for which they can be grateful on this New Year's Day, if it is only gratitude that they are still alive and can hope for better things in the new year.

For myself, I shall wish for sufficient power of appreciation so that I can be fully grateful for the family and friends and other people who are constantly around me and who really make my enjoyment in living.

Love and its expression is the most important thing in our daily lives. One of the thinks I rejoice in most is the great privilege, whenever it is granted me, to be able to give, either in material things or in loving companionship, something which may enrich a little the lives of those I love.

For people everywhere, let us wish this New Year's Day that the opportunities to live a richer, fuller life will develop through international understanding and international effort.

Let us remember, nevertheless, that international achievement depends on individual achievement, that what we achieve in our own minds and hearts and in our own surroundings will spread out like the ripples when we throw a pebble into an unruffled pool. No one can say what happens to an individual is unimportant, for no one knows how some individual act may ripple out even into international channels.

Mrs. Jansen Heads Lodge

New officers of Allapattah Rebekah Lodge 40 will be installed at an open 8 p.m. ceremony Friday in the lodge hall, 2801 NW. 15th Ave.

Mrs. Andrew Jansen, 1912 NW 47th St., is the new noble grand (president) of the 100 member lodge. Mrs. Theresa Cave, 4621 NW 4th St., is the vice grand.

The lodge supports many charities, including muscular dystrophy, the nationally sponsored charity of the fraternal group.

Mrs. C.U. Bay To Wed Today

Mrs. Charles U. Bay

Mrs. Charles Ulrick Bay, widow of a U. S. ambassador to Norway and first woman to head a major New York Stock Exchange member firm, will be married in Palm Beach today.

She and Capton Michael Paul of New York, a long time friend, will be married at noon in Mrs. Bay's home on N. Ocean Blvd.

Mrs. Bay became chairman and president of A. M. Kidder & Co., in 1956 after the death of her husband, who had been almost sole owner of the firm. She is a member of the executive committee of American Export Lines and she owns the Connecticut Railway Lighting Company. She also heads a philanthropic foundation valued at five to seven million dollars.

She says her marriage will not interfere with her business career.

Mr. Paul has many and varied interests, including oil and art.

Mrs. Bay will wear a white Lanvin dress for her marriage. Following the wedding the couple will go to Jamaica.

Mrs. Bay plans to be in South Florida for the racing season. She has nine horses stabled at Hialeah, including the sensational filly, Idun, named for a Norwegian goddess. It was at the Bay home in Palm Beach that the late Crown Princess Martha of Norway and her two daughters were guests. Mrs. Bay herself has three children.

Miss Gough Is Bride Of Harry G. Kitner III

Mrs. H. G. Kitner III

Miss Merry Carol Gough and Harry Glenn Kitner III exchanged wedding vows Wednesday in Our Saviour Lutheran Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Quin Hall, 1595 Bay Dr., Normandy Isle, and the late Albert Gough. Mr. Kitner is the son of Mrs. Dolla Kitner, 7701 NW 31st Ave.

After a honeymoon in Miami Beach, the couple will live at the 31st Ave. address. Both are former residents of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The bride graduated from Miami Edison High School and attended the University of Miami where she was a member of Delta Zeta sorority. She now attends Charron-Williams Commercial College.

Mr. Kitner graduated from Miami Jackson High School.

Fashion Show Season Is Here

By BEVERLEY WILSON
Herald Fashion Editor

Fashion show fever has attacked Miamians once again.

Everybody, it seems, is thinking of staging a style parade, even men's groups.

It might be an elaborate luncheon at a private social club, with Miami's highest priced, highest fashion models gliding among guests with $5,000 worth of gown and fur riding on their backs.

Or it might be a simple event staged by local woman's club, in which every member throws herself enthusiastically into the act -- modeling the clothes themselves writing their script, delivering their own show commentary, planning their publicity and ticket campaigns.

One of the most celebrated winter fashion show series, the weekly luncheon for Surf Club members and guests, gets underway Jan. 7. First show will be staged by DePinna.

For the event, an especially glamorous designer collection by Samuel Winston will be flown down from New York.

In addition to the regular Winston resort collection, the clothes will include some of the famed Medeira embroidered dresses designed for Winston by Roxanne.

One of a kind items, they contain so much fine Old World handwork that you'd be tempted to keep them as show-pieces instead of wearing them.

Lowe Gallery Members Invited To Preview

A reception and preview for members and their guests has been scheduled by the Joe and Emily Lowe Art Gallery, at the University of Miami from 3 to 5 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 18.

The event will launch an exhibition of 50 paintings from the fourth international Hallmark Art Award competition.

The show, now on a national tour, will be open free to the public beginning Tuesday, Jan. 20 and will continue through Feb. 15. Artists from 16 American and European nations are represented in the exhibition. Included are paintings by 28 Americans, one Canadian, four Latin Americans and 17 artists from 10 European countries.

On hand as special guest will be Vladimir Visson, director of exhibitions for the Wildenstein Gallery, New York, which commissioned the 50 artists to compete for $7,000 in cash prizes awarded by Hallmark Cards.

As in the seven other cities where the show has appeared, ballots will be distributed to viewers enabling them to indicate their favorite paintings, according to C. Clay Aldridge, director of the Lowe Gallery. Additional prizes will be awarded on the basis of these selections at the end of the 1959 exhibitions season.

CHALLENGE AND ACCEPTANCE

CENSORSHIP AND DICTATORSHIP ON LINCOLN ROAD

DEAR PUBLIC

Due to an intended and deliberate interference by persons who, perhaps, believe they have a sacred privilege and right of stampeding the progress of an ethical Merchant who has been your Retailer for approximately the past fourteen years. Attempts have been made to make me curtail the mechanics of legitimate Mark-downs.

This "Holier than Thou Tyranny" is a mask, as it were, of Angelic policing the methods of modern merchandising.

Pictures were taken of our Show Windows to try to discredit the integrity of the House of Gainsborough. The following statement was made about me:

"We can prove that you are not selling the group of shoes in your window, and those represented as such, as being sold at half-price." We defy anyone, emphatically and legally, to disprove any of our statements.

Until such time as these unwarranted methods of attacking this Retailer cease, we offer you in retaliation for the Black Jack Methods of Censorship, and what I believe to be, a distinct interference with my rights as a citizen and an individual and a Retailer, without hesitation or equivocation, the following:

The majority of our brand new Gainsborough Originals at one-half off the original prices marked for legitimate retailing, there are no ifs and ands. More than that I assure you that the shoes being represented as being one-half price are exactly that, on my honor as a Man, Retailer and a respected Resident in this Locale.

Plus the following:

A group of Gainsborough Originals sold absolutely below wholesale cost for a limited time only. Watch our Windows, look forward to the Display Advertisement in the Miami Herald and other Publications.

The subjugation of a Nation, a Minority, a small Group or an Individual Retailer is, and only can be tolerated under a Dictatorship. Those are the tactics to which I have been subjected. I refuse to be brain-washed by anyone.

We have stirred up, literally, a hornet's nest. A sacrilegious act has been committed on Lincoln Road. Shall Rock and Roll prevail for the many or Beethoven Symphonies for the very few?

Friendship and not Censorship is the balancing power of successful ethical business. We believe such tactics are a flagrant violation of the gymnastics of modern operation of business.

The Right shall inherit the Earth, but who shall judge the Right?

I am an American and intend to stay that way and demand my rights as such, and will go to the far ends to protect my inherent privileges.

Faithfully and Obediently yours,

Jacques Gainsborough

Elegance Is It in Home Decor

By KAY MURPHY
Herald Decorating Editor

A touch of elegance may be all you can afford for the new year. But if you intend to keep abreast of the fashions in home furnishings in 1959, elegance is essential.

How can you add this touch to the surroundings you lived in so serenely last year?

Here are a few suggestions from the people who are fostering this return to elegance, the designers and manufacturers of home furnishings:

Buy an occasional chair that has a French accent to its styling. Not a provincial accent this time but the more courtly intonations of Louis XVI.

Or a classic Venetian table could supply that touch of elegance you need.

If these are too rich for your budget, then look for a mirror or clock framed in the highly-ornamental manner which was characteristic of most 18th Century European design.

Choose an elegant fabric to reupholster the sofa to hang at your windows or over your bed. Yes, the canopy is back in the bedroom.

Cut velvets, brocades and tapestries are elegant enough to stand alone on your sofa. Other patterned fabrics need the support of quilting to enhance their elegance. Embroidery provides the pattern on some cottons and linens.

The swag treatment is being revived in draperies. Documentary prints — usually French or Italian — on paper-thin sheers are the most popular fabrics used for this treatment.

Put a sunburst on your wall. This, too, is a royal symbol of 18th Century France. Or give your living room a lift with fabrics in sunburst colors —the golds and rods of the spectrum.

If the paint pots are your only resources, use them to to achieve the gilded look on an accent piece. Or the Oriental lacquered look.

Paint you walls in Empire stripes. Try a free-hand mural in the Roman classic style. A plain wall this year is as passe as saving pennies.

There's always wallpaper for the unsuccessful painters. It, too, is more elegant than ever. Mural designs are handprinted on paper, canvas and silk and have all the charm of the old — and new — masters.

'My Husband Is a Fine Man But He Never Keeps Promises'

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I have a fine husband in every way of except one, and I suppose I should be happy and not complain—he even tells me so!

But one thing he does that gets on my nerves—he never keeps promises. In fact, not one, in the eight years we've been married.

If I say "Honey, let's go to dinner Saturday," he'll say, "Fine." All week I plan waht I'll wear. But Saturday night rolls around, he forgets—said he never said any such thing.

He promised me a parakeet for Christmas, and my Christmas, was a flop because I didn't get one.

Even minor things like laundry. He promises to take the laundry out (I have no washer), but he doesn't until I nag him. He says I'm getting to be a nagger. Well, whose fault is it? If it's mine, I've been pushed to it.

He sent all his relatives money for Christmas, but I had to nag him to send my mom money.

THE NAGGER

Don't nag—but do remind him "sweetly" at intervals of his "promises." If he's promised to take you to dinner on Saturday, mention it every day or every other day casually, and on Friday ask if he's chosen the place, or what time should you leave, etc.

Household details, like taking out laundry, can be a headache for the man who works all day. So unless you can't drive, or never have access to a car, try to handle that detail yourself.

As for the parakeet and mom—well, she did get her money, and maybe you'll get the parakeet come St. Valentine's Day, if you don't nag in the meantime. Happy New Year!

She Cannot Quit Smoking

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Is there a Non-Smokers' Club in Miami? I am terribly ill from cigarets and don't have enough will power to give them up on my own. I'm ashamed to admit I need help, but I do.

> ### Thought For the Day
>
> "The first thing education teaches you is to walk alone."

There's a club for alcoholics, why not for smokers? Cigarets are just as deadly. I've tried pills, books, gum, candy, even went to a hypnotist, all to no avail.

PUFFER

I have never heard of a Non-Smokers' Club, but it sounds like a great idea. Alas, none of the puffers I've known who gave up puffing had any elaborate program . . . even tapering off doesn't help. You just have to make up your mind to quit.

Today is the day for New Year's Resolutions, you know . . . Good luck !

Proxy Granny Sounds Fine

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

Betty, as the "worn out" grandmother, prompted this letter. She thought a mother of four had nerve even suggesting a proxy grandmothers' club.

I am one of the mothers young enough to want an evening out once in awhile, old enough to appreciate an experienced grandmother, but broke enough that if we can afford the evening out, we can't afford the baby sitter.

Betty also said her daughter with two children is worn out. I have five, the oldest is five and on down the line. Sure, I'm tired by late afternoon, but I would never consider myself "worn out."

I take an hour off while the children nap and practice painting and drawing. If I don't take time to learn now, I'll never find time later!

I read during my solitary lunch, also during nap time.

My children's real grandparents have never left the "old homestead," so my children know them only by name. A proxy grandmother would make a vague, empty word a reality to mine.

LOLA

She's Proud Of New Twins

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I would like to tell Betty that all grandmothers aren't worn out. My daughter has a 15-months-old son, and gave birth to twins Dec. 23. I am so proud, I can't do enough for them.

I told my son-in-law I would take care of all three this summer so they could take a vacation. If Betty could have the pleasure of being grandma to twins, her blood pressure would go down and her spirits up.

HAPPY GRANDMOTHER
(Sebastian)

What a happy new year you've insured for your family . . . Just don't bend over backwards and spoil 'em.

DEAR ELEANOR HART:

I must apologize to you because I thought your column was phony. Now I realize that when people get stirred up, they are glad to have someone like you to write to.

I live near some people whose homes are spotless, yards beautifully kept. But they themselves are questionable . . . their unsightliness hidden.

Yet the good man, like the minister, has the unsightly yard that stirs up such a commotion!

A Woman's Prayer

By JOSEPHINE ROBERTSON

Father in heaven, at the beginning of this new year hear my fourfold prayer:

I PRAY for health, that I may live fully and be strong to work and serve.

I PRAY for deeper ties of love uniting me to family and friends and reaching out to others around the earth.

I PRAY for absorbing work which will use all my abilities fully in thy service.

I PRAY that in this year mankind will come ever closer to the goal of lasting peace, and that I, as one of millions, may take my share of responsibility in working for this shining goal. Amen.

Former Miamians Are Here For Orange Bowl Activities

Former Miamians Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. McCandless and Mr. and Mrs. John P. Evans are visiting here from Jacksonville for the Orange Bowl festivities.

Both are former South Florida managers for Southern Bell Telephone Co., and are now state officials for the company. The two couples are staying at the Columbus Hotel.

Today they'll be guests at an after-the-game cocktail party and buffet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben B. Brown, 6810 Tordera St., Coral Gables. Mr. Brown is the new South Florida manager.

Daylight OES Names Mrs. Hart

Mrs. Joe B. Hart, 44 NE 29th St., will be installed as worthy matron of Daylight Chapter 206, OES, at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in Biscayne Masonic Temple, 120 NW 15th Ave. The ceremony is open to Masons, OES members and friends.

Projects of the chapter include supporting the Masonic home in St. Petersburg, furnishing a room at the home and supporting an OES member who lives there. Another project is a student loan fund. The chapter has about 160 members. Secretary is Mrs. Linda Campbell, 498 E. 40th St., Hialeah.

Mrs. Marion Neeb, past grand matron of Florida and now worthy grand Martha of the general grand chapter, will be installing officer.

Miamian Heads for California

John I. Varner Jr. 3090 Lime Ct., Coconut Grove, will be moving to San Diego, Calif., soon where he has a new job with Convair Astronautics as service training instructor. That company developed the Atlas ICBM.

Mr. Varner was with Pan American World Airways, and has taught public speaking in the evening division of the Univeristy of Miami. He is a graduate of Miami Senior High School and the University of Florida.

Research Group's Forecast

Our Latin Trade May Drop 10 Pct.

By STAN JOHNSON
Herald Business Writer

Miami exporters will have to cope with a 10 per cent drop in trade with Latin America during 1959, a research organization says.

Members of the Dade-Miami Chamber of Commerce were given this rundown by McGraw Hill International Corp. on prospects for trade with Latin American countries in the New Year:

ARGENTINA — Economic situation, already bad, will worsen. Peso will sag beyond 100 to the dollar and imports will be cut.

★ ★ ★

URUGUAY — With Russia cornering a lion's share of its wool market and Communists in control of many of its unions, Uruguay offers little promise. The peso, which lost 300 per cent of its value in 1958, will regain some stature but economic woes will remain.

★ ★ ★

CHILE — More stringent fiscal policies are slated for 1959. Prospects for Chilean copper prices, consumption and output portend a stronger economy, but the new oil strike in Southern Chile will not be profitable for another year or two.

★ ★ ★

PARAGUAY — Surprisingly, this is a promising small market for U. S. trade. The exchange system initiated a year ago has brought some stability, but importers want long-term credit.

★ ★ ★

BOLIVIA — Higher wages and runaway inflation will force the government to fix another, lower rate for the bolivano at around 12,000 to the dollar. Establishment of the Inter-American Development Bank is the only answer to stepped-up purchases from the U. S.

★ ★ ★

PERU — Continued decline in value of the sol and higher duties will slow Peru's ability to buy from abroad. More inflation is likely. Her capacity to export expands but lack of markets and low prices for products hurt.

★ ★ ★

COLOMBIA — If coffee prices plummet further, real hardship is in store for the economy. The present import level of 23 million dollars monthly will be maintained while exports will gain slightly. The recently signed "little common market" with Ecuador, Panama and Venezuela will have slight effect.

★ ★ ★

ECUADOR — Downward trend in all phases of economic activity will not be arrested unless prices for raw materials climbs. Dollar balances will not recover 1958 losses and caution is the watchword.

★ ★ ★

VENEZUELA — Sharp reduction in foreign capital entering non-petroleum industries will continue, at least through first half of 1959. Drain on dollar reserves will be partly offset by rising oil exports—now heading toward 1957 peaks. New government will demand higher royalties on oil, probably on a 70 to 30 per cent basis. American exporters will sell about 10 per cent less than in 1958, but Venezuela will still be the best Latin America customer.

★ ★ ★

PANAMA — A broad program to attract U. S. and European manufacturers to the Colon Free Zone will create more jobs and bolster the economy in general. Although Panama is a relatively small market, the consumer potential is growing steadily.

★ ★ ★

COSTA RICA — No currency devaluation likely, despite rumors to the contrary. Low coffee prices have not hurt the Republic and the trade balance is largest in years. U. S. exporters should not overlook this growing market.

★ ★ ★

HONDURAS — The drain on exchange balances will continue as a result of financial and labor problems. More dollar aid is the only salvation. Additional tax-concession decrees to attract foreign capital can be expected.

★ ★ ★

EL SALVADOR — Growing unemployment is behind the U. S. and U. N. aid to increase the country's output. Japanese and Swiss are making inroads here while imports on dollar goods are being tightened.

★ ★ ★

GUATEMALA — Progress continues to be slow. The government will limit importation of many items, including foodstuffs, textiles, cosmetics and vehicles.

★ ★ ★

MEXICO — Optimistic business conditions are forecast. Mexico is in a good position to benefit from the U. S. economic upsurge. Dollar income will be cut by about 70 million dollars from U. S. lead and zinc quotas. Peso will probably not be devalued.

★ ★ ★

CUBA — The civil war is slowly strangling the economy. Business faces tough times in 1959 and non-military imports from the U. S. will be down nearly 20 per cent. Once the war is ended prospects will be bright.

★ ★ ★

PUERTO RICO — The 3 per cent drop in imports from the U. S. will be more than offset in 1959. Purchases will exceed 626 million dollars, with big increases in drugs, dairy products, cigarettes, tires and tubes, building materials and textiles. European cars now account for 41 per cent of new registrations, unprecedented under an American flag.

Judge Saves Police Pay

Circuit Judge Pat Cannon turned a deaf ear Wednesday to a North Miami city plea that there is no money in the treasury to pay eight police officers who were cut out of the budget by the city council.

He said the city must keep the men on the payroll until police Chief Karl Engel's suit to prevent the council from chopping up his 34-man police department is decided by Circuit Judge Ray Pearson.

Engel's attorney, E. E. P. Brigham, drew out testimony that the city now has $1,800,000 in a bank.

The eight men were to have been taken over the Metro Public Safety Department.

Synagogues Elect Officers

New officers of the South Florida sub-region of United Synagogues of America are: Jerry Sussman, Miami Beach, chairman; Sy Mann, Hollywood, vice-president, and Jerry Cavell, North Miami Beach, secretary.

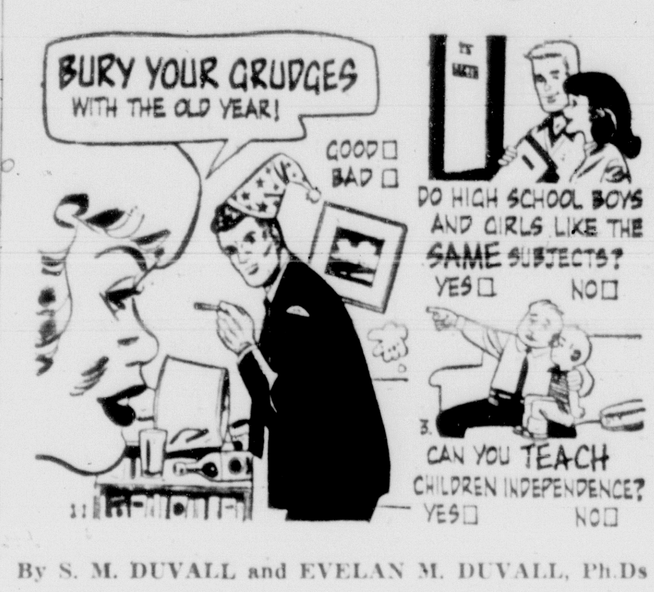
Forget Grudges



BURY YOUR GRUDGES WITH THE OLD YEAR!
GOOD ☐ BAD ☐
1.
DO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS AND GIRLS LIKE THE SAME SUBJECTS?
YES ☐ NO ☐
3.
CAN YOU TEACH CHILDREN INDEPENDENCE?
YES ☐ NO ☐

By S. M. DUVALL and EVELAN M. DUVALL, Ph.Ds

GOOD. LET BYGONES be bygones, now that the old year is past. Don't carry over into the next year the grudges that have accumulated through the past year. Such burdens can be bitter cargo over time, and hurt no one more than you. This is the time to wipe the slate clean of the regrets and insults of the past and give yourself the freedom to make the most of the New Year.

2. No, according to at least one study of 49 classes in five high schools. Boys were most interested in mathematics, physical education and the sciences. Girls preferred language study and physical education. Neither liked music or citizenship courses. As the boys became older their preference for the sciences increased. In the senior year, the social sciences rose rapidly as subjects of interest.

3. Yes, you not only can, but you should. You can do this first of all by giving them a certain amount of good, wholesome neglect. Don't try to do everything for them. Next, give them something that they can do and a place where they can do it without having some adult constantly interfering. Children who are encouraged to take initiative usually learn to do so.

EVERY investor should own some of this property, with a bright future soundly based on the growth of Greater Miami. Located north of the Tamiami Trail (U.S. 41). Excellent average elevation 8 Ft. Less than 20% of Dade County enjoys such high elevation. Miami Beach has an elevation of 5 Ft.
BANKERS, Hotel owners, Attorneys and Businessmen are among those who have purchased some of this property through us. These men recognize a wise investment. Land of this elevation in Dade County at such a low price presents an outstanding opportunity for enhancement.
$550. ALL cash for 10 acres. 29% down for larger parcels. We can't sell this land for a few dollars down and a dollar a week—if we did, we'd have to raise the price greatly. We'll pass the savings on to you.
NO ROADS or utilities as yet. The wise investor purchases undeveloped land at a low price, and profits manyfold later. Only a limited quantity is available at this price, and this offering is subject to prior sale.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Oklahoma Has the Best

AT THIS TIME every year I am privileged to introduce those brass-lunged visitors from Oklahoma who come to Miami regularly to see their football team beat the best that can be put up against them.

It's no wonder we're loud, partner, we got reason to be loud. Why we have the only state capitol in the whole world that doesn't have a dome on top, but has oil wells in its back yard.

We have more oil wells per square foot than Standard Oil has filling stations, and our oil is the oiliest that ever came out of the ground.

We have more Indians and we have more millionaires than any state anywhere.

Our millionaires are richer and our poor people are poorer, our politicians are louder and our pigs are fatter; when white faced cows die they go to our Hereford Heaven, and when a black Angus smells Oklahoma soil he snorts and yearns for home.

Our soil is redder and our clay is gummier; our dust is thicker and our rains are wetter; our tornadoes make a hurricane look like a spring breeze and our floods make a tidal wave look like a ripple in a bathtub.

When it's hot in our country, brother, it sizzles, and when it's cold, it would freeze an icicle's heart.

Our weather is as contrary as an old maid, and we have more of those than any place else, just like we have more pretty girls and they're the prettiest that ever came down any pike.

We've got the roughest roads and the best turnpike, we have the whitest cotton and the biggest boll weevils, we have the tallest corn and the spittinist grasshoppers, our rivers run dry when they feel like it and they change courses at the drop of a dewdrop.

I'm telling you, man, everything we have in Oklahoma has character.

The biggest catfish come from our state and so do the smallest scrub oak. Our dog wood is a sight to see, and when the wheat is good, it's so good the panhandle gets out of debt.

Our men have the toughest whiskers and our women folk bake the best biscuits. We have more bootleggers and more Baptists than the rest of the world put together. We have more churches and we have more juke joints, we have taller cowboys and buckiner bronchos, we got more of anything than anybody or anywhere.

Oh, sure, Texas claims a few more acres but how about the time Alfalfa Bill Murray called out our National Guard and threatened to invade Texas if they set foot on our side of the Red River?

The Texans shut up right quick, that's what happened, and if we have any trouble with this new state of Alaska, we can whittle her down to size the same way.

A lot of people get us confused with Texas, since they talk so big, but there's one way you can tell us apart. We Oklahomans are modest.

WE WERE ASKING awhile back about why women used to put egg shells in their coffee, and Teresa Fernandez, 820 NW 130th St., comes up with this explanation:

"Egg shells were put in boiled coffee to make the grounds settle and clear the coffee. In this day of percolators, drip, vacuum and automatic coffee makers, it's not necessary."

Our readers know the answers to about everything, particularly in the scientific world.

MR. AND MRS. R. RICKETTS, 537 SW 10th St., are natives of Kentucky. "We went on a vacation last summer," she says, "and ended up in Dead Horse Holler, and drove up Stinking Creek, to visit my brother."

Mrs. Ricketts also tells of the first day her son, now grown, attended kindergarten. The teacher had each pupil draw a picture and take it home to mother.

Her son drew a house with a fence around it and a long line of clothes hanging in the back yard, but there were two suns in the sky.

Mrs. Ricketts asked how come, and he said he wanted the clothes to get dry in a hurry.

NOW IS THE TIME to look back and figure out how much we accomplished during the past year. I think I'd better not do it. I'm afraid I wouldn't feel very accomplished.

Democratic Club At Beach Elects

Wally Gluck has been elected to succeed Harry Levy as president of the Democratic Club of Miami Beach.

Other officers are Arthur M. Nemser and Herman Barnett, vice presidents; Louis Hoberman, secretary; Albert Sirks, financial secretary; Mrs. Herman Smith, recording secretary; Sam Madison, sergeant-at-arms, and Jacob Fishman, assistant sergeant-at-arms.

Named directors were Fishman, Smith, Sirks, Resnick, Newser, Dr. Samuel A. Gluck, Joseph Elman, Romeo Shepard Sr., Dr. Abraham Nemser and Marvin Pliskin.

THE Last Word

By DR. BERGEN EVANS

QUESTION: What do we mean when we wish a friend "many happy returns of the day?" — M. C.

ANSWER: We are expressing the hope that his birthday will recur many times and that each recurrence will be a happy occasion for him. In other words, we are wishing him a long and happy life.

The phrase has become fixed with us solely as a greeting for birthdays. Until quite recently, however, it was applied to other occasions. Dr. Johnson wished his friends many happy returns on New Year's Day. And Charles Lamb wished his friends many happy returns of April Fools' Day.

I'm happy that you asked the meaning of this phrase because for years I was uncertain about it. Birthday presents played a large part in my childhood speculations and I thought returns here meant profit, like "returns on an investment." And I assumed that when you met a friend on his birthday you expressed the rational hope that he had received — or would receive — plenty of valuable presents.

Jack Kofoed Says

New Year Sends Us Off into Mad Whirl

Welcome 1959

Are you ready for the count-down?
 Are your bells and horns in place?
Are your glasses poised for toasting
 To a year of speed and space?
Are you full of resolutions
 That you'll break in '59?
Are your eyes a little misty
 As you sing of "Auld Lang Syne?"
Well, the mistletoe is waiting,
 And the magic moment's here,
So relax, and God be with you
 For a happy, bright New Year!

—MAURINE C. DuPUY

* * *

THE NEW YEAR came in on the stroke of midnight, with a bellowing welcome, highballs, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Here in Miami celebration will continue throughout the day, marked especially by a football game between Oklahoma and Syracuse in the Orange Bowl.

Tomorrow the big bazoo is over, and we'll begin to wonder what cheer and woe 1959 has in store for us. Wonder, guess and hope.

There's only one thing certain. Problems are endless, and of tremendous import.

We have emerged into the jet age from a horse-and-buggy era, through tremendous technological advances, without having learned much more than in the old days about getting along with others. Our spiritual muscles have not grown in proportion to our scientific ones.

* * *

THERE ARE touchy war potentials in Berlin, Quemoy, the Middle East. Though it is unlikely the United States or Russia would make an overt move that bring about the hydrogen fissions which could destroy civilization, a spark might set off a conflagration they could not control.

That is the biggest and most dangerous possibility. There are others closer to home. Integration is one, and integrationists and segregationists seem as unable to meet on common ground.

Inflation is regarded by many as a normal trend, though the tradegy of a runaway inflation is visible in France at this very moment.

Mr. James Hoffa, a labor leader with unlimited ambitions, offers another problem. He wants to unionize policemen, firemen, government employes. If successful, he would have the nation in the palm of his hand. We have an example in Florida of how a strike of even a comparatively few men can hurt a community's economy. Should Hoffa gather all the people he wants under the banner of his Teamsters' Union, he could strangle the United States.

Much of the wealth and scientific knowledge of this nation goes into the development of satellites and missiles . . . some to go into orbit around the earth . . . some aiming at landings on the moon . . . others designed to destroy cities and millions of people.

* * *

IN 1918 men marveled at the German Big Bertha, which could hurl a shell 40 miles, and at flimsy planes, fighters called "flying coffins."

In 1944 they gaped at lumbering, pilotless buzz bombs.

But, we go so fast that what seemed a marvel even in 1958 is obsolete in 1959.

There are brush fire wars and revolutions, like the ones of bloody Algeria and Cuba. Some are against what is left of colonizing empires . . . some against dictators, who are of the same breed as those who try to unseat them.

There are a thousand other things of international, national or local importance to puzzle and frustrate. Few were settled in 1958. Probably not many will be resolved in the year, beginning today.

Then, each one of the several billion people on this earth has his own personal burden. Some break under it; some gain what they seek. No one, who breathes, can walk through the days of his life without a share of sweat and tears. Some years bring more, some less, and no one knows what '59 has in store.

* * *

THIS IS the dark side, the deep, dark side. No one escapes by refusing to look at it.

But, there are compensations. We Americans have more than any other people in a material way, and if prognostications of experts are correct, 1959 will be at least as kind, possibly more so, than the year which has passed.

But, beyond the necessities, and perhaps a few luxuries, if we have love and thoughtfulness in our homes, a few staunch friends, an understanding attitude toward others which cuts to a minimum the selfishness inherent in everyone, we won't find 1959 too bad.

Faith in God's goodness, the courage to look catastrophe in the eyes without flinching, an intelligent approach to whatever difficulties we meet, and love in our hearts are enough armor for anyone in any year.

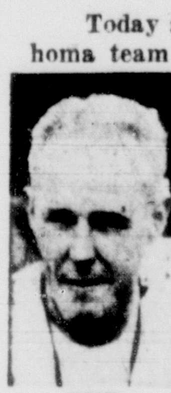
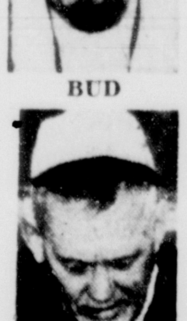
Orange Bowl in a Nutshell: Oklahoma 28, Syracuse 7

WHEN YOU get around to Orange Bowl picking, Oklahoma's Sooners are something like the Yankees in the World Series. They seldom let you down.

Today against Syracuse, Coach Bud Wilkinson's Oklahoma team seeks its fourth Orange Bowl victory in six years. I think the Sooners will make it, 28-7.



BUD



FLOYD

This is based on the assumption the Sooners have more team speed and stronger depth. It also involves the belief Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder's club will not make as many mistakes as Duke did last year.

The Sooners exploded for three touchdowns in three minutes and 21 seconds of the fourth quarter to bring about the 48-21 rout of the Blue Devils. The Sooners were great opportunists, cashing in on intercepted passes, blocked punts and fumbles to make their six touchdowns easy.

Past performances indicate Syracuse is stouter, better balanced and more determined than Duke. Regardless of the outcome, the Orange Bowl Committee made the best possible choice in its new "half-way open" policy. The Big Eight continues to supply the host team for two more years of the present contract.

◆ ◆ ◆

No Guarantee Is Offered

THERE IS no guarantee of what kind of a game you'll see in an Orange Bowl classic, no matter how carefully the teams are matched. Football players, like race horses, feel better some days than others.

Chances are the emphasis will be on fine defensive play, this being considered the best defensive eleven of the four Wilkinson has brought here. The Sooners don't go for long runs, being satisfied to grind out yardage.

Neither are they concerned with who scores. They just try to hammer the ball down to the goal line and shove it over, a policy at which Oklahoma elevens have been most successful.

◆ ◆ ◆

Music, Beauty, Pageantry Help

This 25th Orange Bowl game will be rated by the competitive football produced, but there will be other features . . . Ernie Seiler's pre-game and halftime shows will add to the enjoyment . . . You can miss fun in the sun (hope the weatherman is listening) when you have so many beatiful girls, tuneful bands and striking floats.

Recalling Thrills of Past

THIS WILL be the 20th Orange Bowl which your reporter has witnessed — the 16th I've reported for The Herald.

It goes without saying there is not likely to be a thrill to eclipse the one experienced when Al Hudson ran 89 yards with an intercepted pass to beat Holy Cross in 1946, 13-6. Time ran out as Hudson raced over Holy Cross' 35-yard line.

Alabama's perfection in smashing Syracuse, 61-6, was the greatest display of offensive power ever witnessed in the Orange Bowl . . . Santa Clara's upset of Kentucky in 1950, 21-13, was something to remember.

LSU's 19-14 upset of Texas A. & M. in 1944 is still a pleasant memory, because I was one of the few who thought Bernie Moore's Tigers would get the job done.

Today there'll be new thrills and another bright chapter written into the story of a dream come true.

◆ ◆ ◆

Let's Go Bowling

ROSE: Rated the best offensive team in the nation, Iowa will flex its scoring muscles and beat California, 27-14 . . . The Golden Bears are dangerous.

COTTON: Provides best chance for upset, but TCU has too much beef and versatility for daring young Falcons and should win, 14-7.

SUGAR: Speed and three fine teams make LSU look like a runaway, but Frank Howard's teams fight hard. LSU will take it, 27-7.

Impatience Costs Man $1,187

ONE OF my New Year's resolutions is to be more patient. It was inspired by the price a friend paid for his impatience at Tropical Park Wednesday.

"I went to the daily double window to buy five 9-6 tickets," the friend reported. "The fellow in front was getting so many different combinations that becoming impatient, I stepped out of line and didn't bet."

Ocean Blue (No. 9) and Kildee (No. 6) produced a daily double payoff of $237.40. This means the impatient chap woulda collected $1,187.

Agreeing on Stan Musial

NORMALLY BASEBALL would have been the chief conversation with Bing Devine, Cardinal general manager, but he was here to see an Orange Bowl game for the first time.

DEVINE

Bing did digress from football chatter long enough to report the Cardinals had a great time on their trip to Japan, and declared the Japanese are great sports fans.

And, we agreed that no athlete in any line has topped the Cards Stan Musial as a competitor and fine sportsman.

"I've never heard anyone say a word against Stan," said Bing. "If I did, I'd be inclined to question the complaint."

'I Like Oklahoma for 3 Reasons —Speed, Heat and Bud Wilkinson'

By VOLNEY MEECE
Oklahoma City Times Sports Columnist

A Sooner View

"Why do you think Oklahoma will beat Syracuse?" the man asked. The answer, in a few words, is speed, heat and Bud Wilkinson.

Oklahoma has the speed and the Wilkinson. Miami has the heat.

If this Orange Bowl was to be a match of physical strength, I don't think the Sooners would have a chance because the Orangemen are too massive and muscular.

And speed alone wouldn't be enough to overcome Syracuse's physical edge. But, parlayed with Miami's traditional game-day heat and humidity, speed can be very effective.

It's no secret—certainly not to Ben Schwartzwalder and his Orange coaching cohorts—that Oklahoma will try to sap Syracuse strength by making the hefty easterners run from sideline to sideline chasing the light, swift Sooner backfielders.

The Sooners have used similar strategy on many occasions, most notably in their 20-6 victory over Maryland in the 1956 OB game.

There's no doubt that Syracuse players are in good shape. But this Miami weather works in Oklahoma's favor. The Sooners are used to heat while the Orangemen usually play in much cooler climes.

I don't think the Sooners can make a runaway of this game. But they should win handily by dominating the second half.

All of which brings up Wilkinson. An integral part of Bud's coaching strategy is telling the Sooners not to worry if they're behind at the half, or even at three-quarter.

"If you keep after 'em all-out for 60 minutes," his figuring goes, "eventually you'll break through the other team."

Wilkinson is a master at preparing teams for bowl games.

All this will be too much for Syracuse.

I think — and hope.

Oklahoma! And These Sooners Come Sweeping Down the Orange Bowl Plain

Found: 17 Votes for Orangemen

By ARNOLD BURDICK
Sports Editor, Syracuse Herald-Journal

A Syracuse View

I like Syracuse against Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl today because:

1. The boys from Syracuse are no musical comedy!

2. Syracuse's power and ball-control game is better than Oklahoma's.

3. Its passing has been more accurate.

* * *

4. ITS PLACE-KICKING — by Bob Yates — is better.

5. Its punting — by Ed Keiffer and Tom Gilburg — is as good.

6. Syracuse is as deep as Oklahoma.

7. Its quarterback, Chick Zimmerman, has been directing the team all year.

8. Zimmerman is a bowl veteran.

9. In Ron Luciano and Rog Davis it has the two best interior linemen in the '59 Orange Bowl game.

* * *

10. SYRACUSE HAS played a tougher schedule.

11. It will outhit Oklahoma.

12. It has better balance.

13. It is a quiet, aggressively confident group.

14. Winning here, after the loss six years ago, has become a crusade.

* * *

15. SYRACUSE is in top-notch condition.

16. The law of averages in bowl competition figures to catch up with Oklahoma, and also give Syracuse its first winner.

17. And because I'm a boy from Syracuse!

SUGAR BOWL

NEW ORLEANS — Louisiana State University vs. Clemson, 1:45 p.m. Ch. 7 television, 610 radio.

COTTON BOWL

DALLAS — Air Force Academy vs. Texas Christian University, immediately following Orange Bowl (approximately 3:15 p.m.) Ch. 4 television, 710 radio.

ROSE BOWL

PASADENA, Calif. — Iowa vs. California, following Sugar Bowl (approximately 4:45 p.m.), Ch. 7 television, 610 radio.

But Manage to Bounce Back

Mucho Woe for Sooner QBs

Coach Bud Wilkinson has experienced poor pre-Orange Bowl luck with his Oklahoma quarterbacks over the past five years.

But each time the Sooner signal-callers have rallied to the task.

In 1954 when the Sooners made their first appearance in the Orange Bowl as part of the Big Seven-Atlantic Coast Conference tieup.

Gene Calame's shoulder was hurt during the first half. But it held together long enough for Calame to provide the pitchout wich beat Maryland, 7-0.

In 1956, Starter Jimmy Harris was in good physical shape but Reserve Pat O'Neal wasn't. Both boys played paramount roles in the Sooners' 20-6 victory.

Last year's No. 1 signal caller, Carl Dodd, was a doubtful participant. He played masterful, however, — as did his substitute, Dave Baker, in the 48-21 romp over Duke.

Now it's 1959, and the story is much the same.

Only this time the Sooners' top quarterback, the same Dave Baker, won't even be in uniform. He dropped out of school early in December.

Today Sophomore Bob Cornell and Senior Bobby Boyd will have a chance to follow in the footsteps of Oklahoma's unhealthy — and uncanny — quarterbacks.

Jimmer Battles Handicap Field This Afternoon

By JOE McLAUGHLIN
Herald Turf Editor

A Happy New Year may await thoroughbred fans at Tropical Park today.

Headlining the first Jan. 1 afternoon racing program in the Miami area in nearly a quarter of a century will be the $10,000 added New Year's Handicap. It will send Myron N. Goodwin's top-weighted Jimmer against nine formidable rivals including an entry representing Hasty House Farm.

If all 10 start, the race will carry a gross value of $11,425 with the winner netting $6,730.

Jimmer will be seeking his second stakes victory of the meeting. If he succeeds in adding the New Year's to the City of Coral Gables conquest earlier in the meeting, he will join Hoop Band as a double stakes winner at Tropical this season.

In scoring by a head over Talent Show in the Coral Gables, Jimmer turned in a high-class performance. He was at equal weights with Talent Show at 118 pounds and gamely survived his rival's strong closing rush and finished out the six panels in a blazing 1:09.

Today Jimmer carries one pound more than Talent Show. But he will have an advantage of moving in to the No. 4 post position and his early speed should enable him to avoid any traffic jams.

Larry Gilligan will again have the mount on the Goodwin speedster, and Jack Leonard is scheduled to pilot Talent Show. It will be Leonard's final appearance before he sits out a 10-day suspension.

Hasty House Farm's Arcandy, a winner of a division of the Hurricane Handicap on opening day, is ranked close up to the top pair. Weighted at 118 pounds, the Irish-bred will have the services of Bill Hartack in the saddle. Arcandy's running mate, Solution, will be ridden by Johnny Sellers.

The Miami-owned Hubcap, whose victory in his most recent outing gave promise that he is approaching his top form again, and R. R. Dunlop's White Cachet who is working on a skein of six straight victories is regarded as the dark horse of the field.

Completing the field will be Apostle, Sonny Dan, Hip Hip Hooray and Olympia Blend.

Post time is 1:30 p.m.

JOCKEYS Walter Blum and Jack Leonard escaped serious injury in a two horse spill during the running of the sixth race at Tropical Wednesday, but one of the horses, Appleton 3rd, fractured his right shoulder.

Appleton 3rd, an Argentine importation ridden by Blum, went down at the half-mile pole in the six furlong sprint and Early Warning, with Leonard aboard, toppled over the prostrate horse. Leonard, who was tossed over the inside rail in the accident, and Blum were moved to the track infirmary.

Appleton 3rd, a $60,000 purchase from the Argentine by Louisa Carpenter of Wilmington, Del., was making his first appearance in this country. The horse arose from the accident and returned to near the finish line limping badly. He was taken from the track in a horse ambulance.

Tropical's handle went over a million for the third time this meeting, with the crowd wagering $1,031,948 on the nine races.

LSU Expects Bruising Day With Clemson

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— Louisiana State, holder of the 1958 collegiate football championship, risks its prestige and glory today in the Sugar Bowl against Clemson.

LSU is favored by two touchdowns. The forecast is for a gray, cool day with the drizzling rain that fell on New Orleans Wednesday ending during the night.

A sellout crowd of 82,000 is assured. The game, which starts at 2 p.m., EST, will be televised nationally by NBC.

Adverse weather might give Clemson its best opportunity for an upset, since the South Carolina team is big and rough and LSU depends on dazzling speed.

LSU in four Sugar Bowl appearances has yet to win a game. Clemson on the other hand has yet to make a poor showing in a bowl game although its selection here was severely criticized at the time.

Both teams are in as good or better physical shape than they have been all year. The only question mark is Harvey White, the ace Clemson quarterback, who was reported to have bruised his ankle in practice Tuesday, but White declared he was not hurt and "I'll be ready to go."

This is the first time this season that LSU has been nationally televised and viewers will be watching for the three superb teams that Coach Paul Dietzel has developed — the "White" team that can play either offense or defense with Warren Rabb, Billy Cannon, Johnny Robinson and J. W. Brodnax in the backfield; the "Go" team that specializes in lightning offensive thrusts; and the "Chinese Bandits" which is toughest on defense.

Says Coach Frank Howard of Clemson: "I believe all that about us not being a worthy opponent is a little unwarranted. We certainly have been belittled more than we should have. But we're not going to call off the game."

Says Coach Dietzel: "I look for them to try to overpower us, out-muscle us. They'll try to beat us up badly and wear us down. I don't mean they'll play dirty. I mean they'll hit hard and try to take advantage of their extra weight."

Carrousel Won By St. Francis

CHARLOTTE, N.C. —(AP)— Undefeated St. Francis won its seventh game in a row Wednesday night, surviving a rousing last half comeback by Fordham's rapid Rams to win the Carrousel Basketball Classic, 74-71.

The Frankes from Loretto, Pa., led all the way, but after building a 20-point lead early in the last half they blew all but two points of the bulge as the New Yorkers made a gallant late run at them.

AF 'High' For Clash With TCU

DALLAS —(AP)— Air Force Academy's Falcons, with the spirit of sophomores and the aplomb of seniors, go for the big one — the windup of a great season — in the Cotton Bowl today against tough, deep, bowl-wise Texas Christian.

Opportunity knocks for them —they are expected to battle the Horned Frogs on a dry, fast field in perfect weather conditions. They are filled with desire to hand up a tradition —victory in their first bowl game in the year they have their first graduating class — and they face a team that doesn't appear to have hit emotional heights equal to their own.

A warm morning sun hastened the thaw of a snowstorm and ice coating that had caused a pall of gloom to settle over the Cotton Bowl Tuesday. Prospects were for clear, cold weather, with a dry footing and a capacity crowd of 75,504. The field has been covered since Sunday.

Rich Mayo, a lean young man with a rifle for an arm, leads the "Cardiac Kids" — an appelation hung on them for their glittering finishes — against stolid, efficient Texas Christian, an outfit appearing in the school's tenth bowl game and sixth Cotton Bowl test.

Mayo, one of the nation's top passers — he threw for 1,019 yards and 11 touchdowns in the glamorous undefeated campaign of the Falcons — is the man Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian has tabbed as his No. 1 menace.

On the basis of football ability—veteran strength and depth at all positions — Texas Christian will enter the game a touchdown favorite. This doesn't take into account the Air Force intangible of great spirit and lucky alertness. And it doesn't consider the fact that the Falcons will be about the best-conditioned football team ever to step on the craggy turf of the Cotton Bowl.

Barnes Surprises Neely in Beach Tennis Tourney

Rio de Janeiro's steady Ronnie Barnes gunned down Atlanta's Ned Neely, 6-0, 6-2, 6-1, to win the boys 18-and-under title in the Orange Bowl Junior Tennis Championships Wednesday.

Barnes, second Brazilian to win the OB net title, relied mainly on a fast, accurate forhand and a chopping backhand to outsteady the suddenly erratic Neely.

The new champion used overhead smashes when he needed points, but for the most part stayed back, drove deeply and let Neely make the errors.

Neely, ninth-ranked U. S. Junior and a member of America's entry in the Junior Cup matches starting today, was far off the form which Tuesday earned him an upset victory over top-seeded Chuck McKinley of St. Louis.

Clarke Graebner, U. S. boys 15-and-under titleholder from Lakewood, Ohio, defeated Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico, 8-10, 6-2, 6-1, to win his division championship.

Nicolas Kalo of San Jose, Costa Rica, gave that country its first Orange Bowl tennis title by stopping Alfredo Alvarez of Mexico City, 0-6, 6-2, 7-5, in the boys 13-and-under finals.

Carol Ann Prosen of Orlando clipped Sandy Warshaw of Tampa, 6-3, 6-4, for the girls 15-and-under crown.

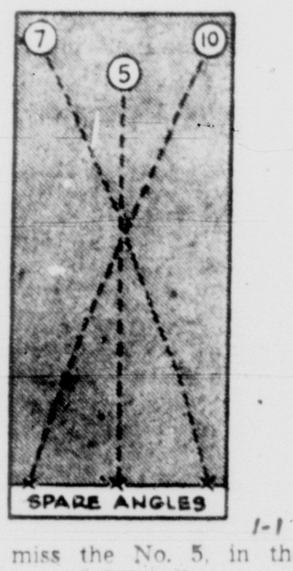
Work Toward 'Break'

By BILLY SIXTY

To most bowlers, the No. 7 pin at the extreme left of the alley or the No. 10 at the right are difficult challenges. It might be wise and profitable for them to consider how often they miss the No. 5, in the exact center of the alley.



1-1

Jimmy Blouin, when he was match champion, told me something about spare shooting that I've never forgotten, and that I'd like to pass on to you. It's this: regardless of the position of the target pin, you should develop a point of ball break about three quarters of the way down the alley.

Today's sketch lets you visualize what happens. For the No. 10 spare, stand well to the left of the center of the alley. For the No. 7, shift to the right. The idea is to make the angle work for you.

Spare shooting also involves a healthy mental attitude. Think constructively—in terms of making whatever pin or combination of pins confronts you.

Change your starting position if necessary to capitalize on the best possible angle, but stick to accepted bowling form. Proper push-away, correct footwork and smooth armswing will make any forcing or straining both unnecessary and unnatural.

Glenn Davis Wins Top AAU Award

NEW YORK —(AP)— Glenn Davis, Olympic 400-meter hurdle champion, was named winner of the James E. Sullivan AAU Memorial Award Wednesday.

The award is presented annually by the AAU to the amateur athlete chosen in nationwide tribunal who "By performance, example and good influence did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

It is named in honor of James E. Sullivan, a founder of the AAU.

In making the announcement, the AAU said that the voting this year was the closest in the 29 years of the award. Davis, 24-year-old former Ohio State student, gained 1868 points. Rafer Johnson of Los Angeles, world decathlon champion, was second with 1793 points.

During 1958, Davis set world records for the 440-yard run and 440-yard hurdles in a one week period.

Olmedo Wizardry And Jones Dream Produced Cup Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

BRISBANE—The Davis Cup, symbol of world tennis supremacy, is headed back to the United States today thanks to the dream of a 70-year-old Californian and the racket wizardry of a nerveless young Peruvian.

It was Alejandro Olmedo from the land of the Incas who scored the vital three points needed to crack Australia's monopoly, but it was Captain Perry Jones who organized and masterminded the successful campaign.

"It was a team job, the organized efforts of many," said Jones, the Los Angeles tennis executive who fought to have Olmedo named to the squad over protests that a foreigner should not represent the United States. Then he recruited the best brains in the sport to help bring Olmedo and the United States to a 3-2 victory.

At the end all the knowledge and inspiration of pro Promoter Jack Kramer and his king of pros, Pancho Gonzales, were thrown into the fight. Jones welcomed the help of the pros despite criticism.

Olmedo, a national hero in Peru and a celebrity in the United States, made himself the darling of Australia Tuesday when he beat the recognized best amateur in the world, Ashley Cooper, in the deciding match of the challenge round, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Perfectly poised and playing with an artist's skill and touch, the 22-year-old son of a Peruvian court caretaker completely outclassed the holder of the Australian, U. S. and Wimbledon championships.

Afterwards the crowd of 18,500 at Milton Courts interrupted the formal stiff-backed ceremony with cries of "we want Alex, speech Alex, give us Alex."

Then Olmedo stood at the microphone, his teeth glistening against his dark, chiseled face, and in an accent clipped with Spanish thanked the people for their support and added: "I am happy for the United States and Peru that we were able to win."

Limp and let down from cheering his teammate, Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, lost the final match to Mal Anderson, 7-5, 13-11, 11-9, double faulting at match point.

Olmedo won the opening singles over Anderson and teamed with Ham Richardson, America's No. 1 player, to win the doubles over Anderson and Neale Fraser. MacKay lost the opening day's singles to Cooper.

Olmedo at times made Cooper look like a frustrated weekend player. As if working on a geometric design, Olmedo kept the ball shooting off at sharp angles. He mixed lobs with drop shots until Cooper shook his head in disbelief.

Olmedo immediately dispelled rumors that he might turn pro.

He said he was headed back to Los Angeles after the Australian national championships in late January to complete his studies in business administration at the University of Southern California.

He wants to win the Wimbledon or U. S. championship before succumbing to Promoter Kramer's gold.

Olmedo said that tactical tips from both Kramer and Gonzales helped to bring him through. He also credited the inspiration of Jones from the sidelines.

"Gonzales told me Cooper couldn't move well and that I should keep him scurrying around the court," Alex said. "And Jack advised that when Cooper missed his first service I should start jumping around to worry him on his second."

The U. S. team planned to take a rest before returning to Perth for the Western Australian Championships.

The Davis Cup success was a monument to Jones' perseverance in the face of criticism and many distractions.

First he was derided in some quarters as captain because of his age and his lack of experience in the tactical end of the game.

He was resisted when he sought to have Olmedo, one of his long-time proteges, named to the squad.

Once in Australia, Jones drew additional criticism because of the presence of Kramer, who at the time was engaged in a personal war with Australian amateur officials over the use of Australian courts.

Additional barbs were heaped on the aged captain when he slighted Richardson, the No. 1 player in the U.S., and used MacKay and Olmedo in the singles. Richardson himself issued sharply worded statement denying Jones' allegations [illegible] Ham's physical fitness.

But the captain, in the final analysis, came out smelling like a rose.

Cal Tackles Iowa, 'Jinx' In Rose Bowl

PASADENA, Calif. —(AP)— California's underdog football forces Wednesday night stood dedicated to accomplish something the experts almost to a man say cannot be done.

The job: To defeat Iowa, champions of the Big Ten, in the Rose Bowl today, and break a pair of jinxes in the process.

Sunny, warm weather is promised for this 45th annual clash in the Tournament of Roses post season series. A capacity crowd of around 100,000 is expected for the 13th straight battle between representatives of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences.

Kickoff is set for 2 p.m. PST (5 p.m. in Florida). The contest will be screened across the country by the National Broadcasting Co. (Ch. 7 in South Florida).

The Big Ten champions continued to rule as favorites by 18 points, a spread that the rival coaches, Pete Elliott of California and Forest Evashevski of Iowa, refused to discuss.

The 1958 Golden Bears of California may not appreciate it, but their colors—blue and gold—dipped in defeat the last three times they appeared in the big bowl. In each case—1949-50-51—the Bears lost out in the final stages of close ball games.

That's one jinx. The other is the well known domination of the Big Ten over the PCC in 11 of 12 games in the string.

Neither team has a solid defense. So, as Elliott admitted, the scoring may be "considerable."

Iowa, on the brilliant passing of All-America Randy Duncan and the exceptional running of a brace of fast backs, can score on one play.

Observers don't think much of the middle of the Hawkeye line. But they agree that on offense, Duncan, Halfbacks Willie Fleming, Bob Jeter, Ray Jauch and Kevin Furlong, along with Ends Curt Merz and Don Norton, can be disastrous in a matter of seconds.

California's hopes are based on Quarterback Joe Kapp, Halfback Jack Hart and Fullback Bill Patton, and a considerable amount of desire.

The Bears, winners of only one game last year, weren't expected to go anywhere this year. They indicated they weren't going anywhere by losing the first two games. But here they are, champions of the conference. And they are also, on the surface at least, completely unconcerned by their status as 18-point underdogs.

Iowa has better speed and, at an average of 220 pounds to 194, a decided weight advantage. Statistically, on the season records, Iowa has a tremendous margin of superiority. The won-lost record is 7-1-1 to Cal's 7-3.

California has, if nothing else, a chance to score a shocking upset.

Lane Bangs Out Decision Over Ortiz in Beach Bout

By MEL DERRICK
Herald Sports Writer

Southpaw Kenny Lane, a minature mad bull over the final rounds, banged out a nationally televised majority decision over Carlos Ortiz New Year's eve that assured him of a very Happy New Year.

Lane's victory, built on a determination — right hook-straight left parlay before an estimated 2,000 at the Miami Beach Auditorium practically assured him of a lightweight championship shot in 1959.

Lightweight Champion Joe Brown reportedly signed Wednesday afternoon for a title fight with Johnny Busso in Houston Feb. 11. Lane is expected to meet the winner — for the championship — in Miami Beach's new exhibition hall sometime in April.

Before Wednesday night, Lane was ranked No. 1 lightweight contender by Ring Magazine; Ortiz, No. 1 by the National Boxing Association.

Judge Barry Pearlman gave Lane his widest margin over Ortiz, 98 points to 95 under the 10 must scoring system. Referee Billy Regan had Lane ahead, 97-96. Judge Carl Gardner — and The Herald — saw it even 96-96.

Ortiz' Trainer Sam Cherin, didnt' see it that way at all. "We got the business," he shouted in the dressing room. "Didn't you notice the referee (Regan) jump in and break them when the kid (Ortiz) was punching."

"It's all right, Sam," said Ortiz.

"It's not all right, Carlos," shouted back Cherin.

Ortiz manager, Ed Ferguson, summed it up with more calm, but with just as much cut.

"Everything," he said sarcastically, "is all smiles."

Lane, a slow starter Wednesday night and handicapped by a deep gash under his eyebrow from the sixth round on, ripped back to win three of the last four rounds—with one even on The Herald scorecard.

He powered out a strong left-right combination in the seventh, staggered Ortiz with an overhand right in the ninth, and won the tenth round slugging bee with a variety of punches that included a slashing uppercut.

Ortiz, who took most of the early rounds with a strong body attack that churned Lane's rib cage into a mass of red welts, switched his attack to the eye cut after the sixth round but couldn't zero in.

"His body punches bothered me some," admitted Lane, "but I started slow tonight, and maybe that's why. I knew I had him at the last."

Despite the apparent promise of a title fight with the Brown-Busso winner, Lane's co-manager Doc Kearns said, "If Kenny fights Brown again (Lane lost a title decision to the champion; he'll lick him good," Kearns promised. "But if we don't get some quick action from Brown, we'll go welterweight and try for that championship."

In a 10-round heavyweight semi-windup, England's Dave Rent won a unanimous decision from Syracuse's out-classed George Kartalian. Other preliminaries:

Dan Toriani decisioned Billy Hall, four rounds, lightweights; Jimmy Calcutt decisioned Bill Orias, four rounds, lightweights; Ray Sheppard and Cat Robinson fought to a four - round middleweight draw.

Beach Slates 2 Marathons

Two Grade A races over the O. P. Smith course and a pair of marathon Rickard course events will be featured tonight at the Miami Beach Kennel club.

The eighth and ninth races bring out some of the top greyhounds at the track. In the eighth race Sad Sammy, a kennelmate of Pretty Pam, faces a tough field.

Hollywood Features Marathon

Two Grade A races, one to be staged over the marathon course, highlight tonight's greyhound program at Hollywood Kennel club.

The marathon is set 10th on the slate and matches Rug Bug, Soapy Jones, Runyonese and BD. Farrago against Mazola, Persian Slave, Tight Line and Shore Line over the 3-8 mile course.

Three Guesses will be in the spotlight in the Grade A ninth as he steps with a trio of last out winners—Fedo, Pictureman and Kay Ring. Three Guesses has scored a pair of firsts and a second in three official starts.

300th Winner

ARCADIA, Calif. — (AP) — National riding champ Willie Shoemaker closed out 1958 at Santa Anita by winning four races Wednesday, including the $17,650 Los Feliz Stakes aboard the 8-5 favorite, Royal Orbit. It was Shoemaker's 300th winning ride of 1958.

EL PASO —(AP)— Wyoming turned two Hardin-Simmons mistakes into touchdowns in the second quarter Wednesday, then spent the rest of a bright, crisp afternoon fighting off the determined Border Conference champions for a 14-6 victory in the 24th annual Sun Bowl game.

Wyoming, the Skyline Conference boss, intercepted a pass and pounced on a fumble inside the Hardin-Simmons 30-yard line to set up both its touchdowns within four minutes.

Hardin-Simmons drove 49 yards in ten plays for its third quarter score, and twice within that period had thrusts stopped on the Wyoming 10 and 1.

Wyoming's defense was led by Guard Leonard Kuczewski who intercepted the pass that set up Wyoming's second touchdown and was awarded the annual award as the outstanding player in the game. It was the first time in Sun Bowl history that a linesman took the award.

N.C. State Wins Classic

RALEIGH, N.C.—(AP)—North Carolina State swept into an 11-point first half lead and went on to defeat Michigan State, 70-61, Wednesday night to win the Dixie Basketball Classic for the seventh time in 10 years.

N.C. State, always tough on its home court, was never greater in handing the Spartans their first loss in seven games. The Wolfpack fell behind by seven points in the first 10 minutes but came back with a surge that was led by little Lou Pucillo, whose shooting and play-making were outstanding.

OCEAN BLUE sent between horses to make his bid, rallied to pressure and was up in final sixteenth. MISTER O. gained command from outside on turn, drew clear but had little left to repel belated bid of winner. YOUR AMOUR tired from his early efforts. ADMIRAL'S WATCH improved his racing position steadily but could not menace top pair. BLIND FURY could not keep up. DOUBLE SPURS was through early.

SCRATCHES: Three Way Flip, El Choclo, Greek Count, Rochelle, Naughty Betty, Djonesy.

Killdee $15.30, 8.00, 4.60; Adormidera 21.10, 10.70; Star Chimes 5.70.

OWNERS: 1. Keystone Stable; 2. Gladeview Farm; 3. Mr. & Mrs. H. L. Hill; 4. Happy Acres Farm; 5. I. Neuman; 6. L. Rodriquez; 7. G. Bills Jr.; 8. J. J. Gregory; 9. H. Fiol; 10. Catherine Callery; 11. Newland Stable; 12. Wends Stable.

KILLDEE had speed from start, saved some ground turned back ADORMIDERA while drifting out slightly through stretch run. Latter followed in closest pursuit of winner from start, raced slightly wide and appeared to hang in closing stages. STAR CHIMES came extremely wide into stretch following which he lugged in through final drive. GAME HEART went evenly. MT. BRILLIANT broke tardily and saved ground while improving his position. ROSEARDAN was always outrun.

SCRATCHES: Pambo, Far Drait, Nirgal Lad, Horsepower, True Buckeroo, Risk Again.

Florann $7.70, 3.60, 4.30; Bull Curtain 4.90, 4.90; Chipp's Jill 4.30.

WINNER SELECTED BY: Harris, Ortell, Brooks, Consensus.

OWNERS: 1. Florann Stable; 2. G. Lotti; 3. C. Withers & Ethel Farris; 4. Mrs. J. Miron; 5. D. E. Loveman; 6. J. Matters; 7. J. Marrone; 8. I. Littman; 9. Mrs. N. Feingold & Mrs. H. Sepler; 10. V. Mistro; 11. A. J. Ostriker; 12. R. S. Lytle.

FLORANN unhurried early, moved willingly when ready to gain command in midstretch and was hard ridden to hold BULL CURTAIN safe. Latter gained a position at once, raced slightly wide and finished gamely. CHIPP'S JILL held on fairly well after showing the way to midstretch. DEAD INDIAN found his best stride too late. HOT COFFEE also closed strongly.

SCRATCHES: Shaft, Hi Judge, Pie Time, Phils Task, Tad, Willing Warrior.

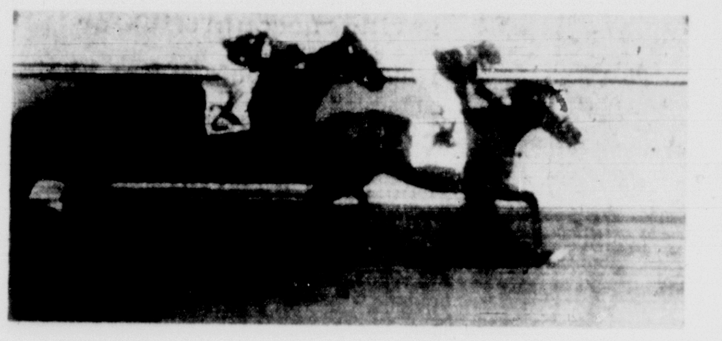
JET FUEL restrained off lead to final bend where he was sent along outside and wore down COLONEL BLACK in midstretch. Latter disposed of ACCOMPLISH when ready to draw clear in upper stretch, was put to a drive and could not handle belated bid of winner. SIR HAWLEY improved his position but could not threaten top pair. AM PAUSING was never a serious factor. ACCOMPLISH tired badly from his early efforts.

SCRATCHES: Apple Spy, Annsie Pie.



267—SIXTH—Purse $2,700, 4-year-olds and up.

OWNERS: 1. W. Jones Jr.; 2. E. Dolce; 3. P. A. B. Widener III; 4. Al-Rag Stable; 5. Mrs. H. Sadacca; 6. Springfield Stable; 7. Old Rose Farm.

MISS ERLEN had her speed, moved along outside entering stretch and under pressure wore down INFORMANT. Latter saved ground and held on stubbornly. GUNMAN moved up strongly through stretch to be easily best of others. DYNAMIC was never a factor. EARLY WARNING hobbled after colliding with APPLETON III nearing half mile ground and unseated his rider. APPLETON III lugged in badly while racing between horses nearing half mile marker, stumbled after being struck from rear and fell. LORD ESSEX refused to break from gate.

SCRATCHES: Feast.

Old OB Heroes Scatter

By EDWIN POPE
Assistant Sports Editor

It would take a mighty big rake to pull all the Orange Bowl heroes of yesteryear together today.

They're almost everywhere, doing almost everything, from furniture-dealing (Frank Sinkwich, Georgia tailback of 1942) to insurance-counseling (Bob Ison, Georgia Tech end of 1941).

A lot of them coach football. Three of the Orange Bowl's brightest stars are now head coaches at major schools — Tennessee End Bowden Wyatt (1939), at Tennessee; Georgia Tech Quarterback Frank Broyles (1945), at Missouri, and Boston College Fullback Mike Holovak (1943), at BC.

Of all the coaches who have directed teams in the 24 previous games, though, only eight remain in their jobs. They are Wally Butts (Georgia, 1942, 1949), Bobby Dodd (Georgia Tech, 1948, 1952), Andy Gustafson (Miami, 1951), Frank Howard (Clemson, 1951, 1957), Dallas Ward (Colorado, 1957), Bill Murray (Duke, 1958), and today's two head coaches—Bud Wilkinson (Oklahoma, 1954-56-58) and Floyd Schwartzwalder (Syracuse, 1953).

LSU's Bernie Moore (1943) now is commissioner of the Southeastern Conference.

One of the best old Orange Bowlers will help describe today's game to a national TV audience. That's Paul Christman, Missouri tailback of 1941.

And another will be too busy with speed problems of his own to watch flying football. That's Al Hudson, who enabled Miami to beat Holy Cross, 13-6, with and "overtime" 89-yard interception return in 1956. Hudson now is a jockey's agent.

Distance Stars Go At Flagler

Flagler helps usher in the new year with the climax to the toughest distance grind in greyhound racing, the $2,500 added Orange Bowl Endurance Stake, plus a special sprint trophy race honoring today's Silver Anniversary football participants.

The endurance final will feature the eight distance stars who attained the highest point standings in two previous rounds.

The favorite's role goes to Lester Cole's Whirling Jet. The Jet gained victories in each of the two 3-8ths mile rounds for a total of 32 points.

In tonight's 7-16th mile run he faces stern tests from a pair of heavy point winners, Happy Stutz' Nervy and Ray Randle's Say It, both with three winter wins.

Also in the strong field are Rio Grande Rose, Barracuda, Mr. Tears, Why the Rush and Blazing Pearl.

The companion feature, the Oklahoma-Syracuse Trophy Race, will send a fast field of early speed runners over the 3-16th mile sprint course.

219	1	Rhoda May	S. Brooks	113	20-1

a-E. L. Cotton & Miss Ethel Pepper entry.
b—J. M. Grant & W. Mills entry.

U.S. JET is seeking third in a row; CAMDEN has returned to best form; SHOW BRIDGE could be the winner at long odds; POWHATAN's races at Chicago were real good.

278—EIGHTH—Purse $10,000 added 3-year-olds and up, New Year's Handicap, 6 furlongs. Post—4:39.

50 Crewmen Harnessed For Telecast

What does it take to put on a national telecast of the Orange Bowl game?

Fans around the country will sit back in their easy chairs and watch the telecast of the 25th annual Orange Bowl classic with little realization of the manpower and equipment that goes into a national sports telecast of this stature.

The Orange Bowl telecast is one of the featured New Year's Day productions over CBS. The Cotton Bowl from Dallas takes the air immediately following the local bowl game.

The Miami production involves some 50 persons. On hand for the Bowl festivities is Bill MacPhail, CBS director of sports.

CBS has transported 16 technicians from its main headquarters in New York City specifically to work on this telecast.

Headed by Sam Levin of the New York office, they have been working on placing a Zoomar camera and microwave link in the Goodyear blimp which will be used for the first time anywhere in bowl coverage.

More than 16 tons of equipment have been sent via air and truck to Miami for use in the telecast over 187 stations of the CBS network.

In addition to the engineering personnel on hand, Judson Bailey, executive producer for CBS Sports (Television) heads a crew consisting of Producer Hugh Beach, Directors Frank Chirkinian and Jimmy Holmes, and three announcers—Joe Boland, Paul Christman and Jim McKay.

Seven cameras will be used in the telecast. Six will be used in the bowl proper, with one (and two cameramen) on-board the blimp. Other personnel will be on the job in New York.

CBS radio also will broadcast the classic for the 23rd consecutive year — starting with the 1937 game.

James M. Dolan, executive producer of CBS sports for the radio network also is here. He and Ted Husing broadcast the first Orange Bowl game on radio. This one will be broadcast over 202 stations.

Jack Drees and Joe Foss will be at the microphone for the radio broadcast.

Both broadcasts will start at 12:45.

Syracuse's OB Records All Bad Ones

By DICK EVANS
Herald Sports Writer

Syracuse, which meets Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl today, has the dubious distinction of sharing 19 Orange Bowl records.

The Orangemen, however, can take sole credit for the only one of the records. Most of the plaudits belong to Alabama.

Syracuse allowed these records to be set in their 61-6 rout by Alabama in 1953:

Joe Curtis caught the most passes (8); Bobby Luna scored the most points (19) and kicked the most points-after (7); Cecil Ingram turned in the longest punt return (80 yards); Alabama posted the biggest victory margin (55 points) and scored the most points (61).

Alabama also completed the most passes (22) and had the best passing percentage (.667).

The Tide broke the first down record (25) and gained the most yards running and passing (588). In that game Alabama used 47 players, kicked seven conversions, picked up 304 yards while scoring nine touchdowns.

Shared records included most first downs (Bama 25, Syracuse 15); most passing yards (Alabama 300, Syracuse 156), most yards covered on TD plays (Bama 304, Syracuse 156) most yards running and passing (Bama 588, Syracuse 231) and most players used (Bama 47, Syracuse 37).

Syracuse's Pat Stark shared the record for most pass completions with Frank Broyles of Georgia Tech. Each completed 17.

Other top Orange Bowl records:

Longest Kickoff Return: Camp Wilson of Tulsa vs. Georgia Tech in 1945—90 yards.

Longest Run from scrimmage: Mississippi's Ned Peters against Catholic U in 1936—67 yards.

Longest Pass Play: Boyd Brumbaugh to Ernie Hefferle of Duquesne vs. Mississippi State, 1937; Bob Scheidenbach to Ed Lutes of Miami vs Clemson, 1951—72 yards.

Longest Field Goal: Bowden Wyatt of Tennessee vs. Oklahoma, 1939—22 yards.

Most Yards Gained Rushing: Steve Van Buren of LSU vs. Texas A&M in 1945—160 yards.

Most Yards Gained Passing: Frank Broyles of Georgia Tech vs. Tulsa, 1945—276 yards.

Most Yards Running-Passing: Frank Sinkwich of Georgia vs. TCU, 1942—382 yards.

Best Average Per Play: Mike Holovak of Boston College vs. 1943—15.8 on 10 plays.

Most TDs Scored on Passes: Georgia against TCU, 1942—4.

Longest Run with Intercepted Pass: David Baker of Oklahoma vs. Duke, 1958—94 yards.

Record Attendance: Oklahoma vs. Maryland, 1956, and Oklahoma vs. Duke, 1958—76,561.

Most Yards Penalized: Tennessee (130) vs. Oklahoma (91), 1939—221.

Arakistain, Orbea Eye Third Try

Orbea and Arakistain, who have turned in solid individual performances thus far at Miami Jai Alai Fronton, try to make some harmony together tonight in the third round of the world series.

Orbea, in 14 starts in the 11th game, has been in the money six times, winning three. Arakistain has done almost as well. He's won a pair, finished second and showed on four occasions.

However, in world series play, the combine — defending champions — is far back in the field. They have managed only a single third in two tries, netting one point. Guara-Guarita, the United States team, is 1-3 in two attempts and lead the pack for six points.

Laca Takes Star Role At Dania

Although the ninth game singles championship appears a close match between three players, Laca will probably go to the post favorite tonight at the Dania Jai Alai Palace.

Laca leads in victories, followed by Bari and Ignacio. Only one game separates the trio.

Laca is a small but spectacular player. Last season Laca started late but he held many titles at Dania in former years.

Fish Join Holiday Spirit, Too, Promise Big Weekend Catches

By VIC DUNAWAY
Herald Fishing Editor

Florida's finny tribe has joined in the holiday spirit with enough enthusiasm to keep anglers busy at all points from the mainland through the Keyes.

And it will take a sudden and drastic turn of events to deprive fishermen of continued good luck over the long New Year weekend.

The Keys are busting with sailfish from Key Largo through Marathon. Mackerel are thick along the reefs over the same territory. Though most abundant from Marathon south, kingfish are supplying waves of red-hot action everywhere.

Word from Jewfish Creek promises long stringers for small boat fishermen. Harry Gilbert says bluefish have been swarming in Barnes Sound all week, and plentifully enough for boats to average from 15 to 20 each.

"Best method," Gilbert advises, "is to troll a small jig with a strip of mullet attached. Besides the bluefish, this has payed off in mackerel — not so many, but big ones—and has surprised a few fishermen with kingfish.

"Over in Blackwater Sound, conditions are right for fine trout fishing, but everybody is concentrating on the bluefish."

One of the top catches out of Jewfish Creek was an 8¼-lb. Spanish mackerel taken Wednesday by Charles T. Futrell of Washington, D.C. On Tuesday, W. D. McCann of Midland, Mich., bagged 15 bluefish, a mackerel and two kingfish.

* * *

Shoulder to Shoulder on Causeway

I DROVE across Rickenbacker Causeway to check on mackerel success from the middle bridge. At the eastern half of the span, anglers were lined shoulder to shoulder, and a sprinkling of mackerel lying here and there on the concrete indicated some good success. Most people don't let their fish bask in the open sun, so I figured that for every one in the open, many more were safely tucked in buckets and ice chests.

This guess proved correct after I parked and talked with a couple of fishermen. Allen Ripple of Miami said he had taken 17 mackerel, most of them in the early morning. It was then after 10 and he was wrapping up his gear.

"Small ones today," he added; "but I've been here every morning this week and sometimes schools of great big ones move through."

I then drove over the last big and counted several bluefish, some jacks that averaged better than five pounds, and two or three more mackerel.

* * *

Bluefish Strong in South Bay

OFF MIAMI BEACH it's boom and bust for kingfishermen. The kings provided a couple of days of wild striking, skidded to almost nothing, then picked up again to a halfway decent level.

Prospects are intriguing enough for anglers to give the kings a good try this weekend. It's almost certain to pay off in a few fish, and possibly you might land in the middle of the same frantic action that marked the early part of the week.

Chartgr boat anglers in the Miami area also are basking in a solid run of sailfish, plus interim strikes from bonito and small tuna. And, like fishermen aboard drift boats, they have occasionally fattened up on kingfish. Even a few wahoo have been showing up in the Gulfstream.

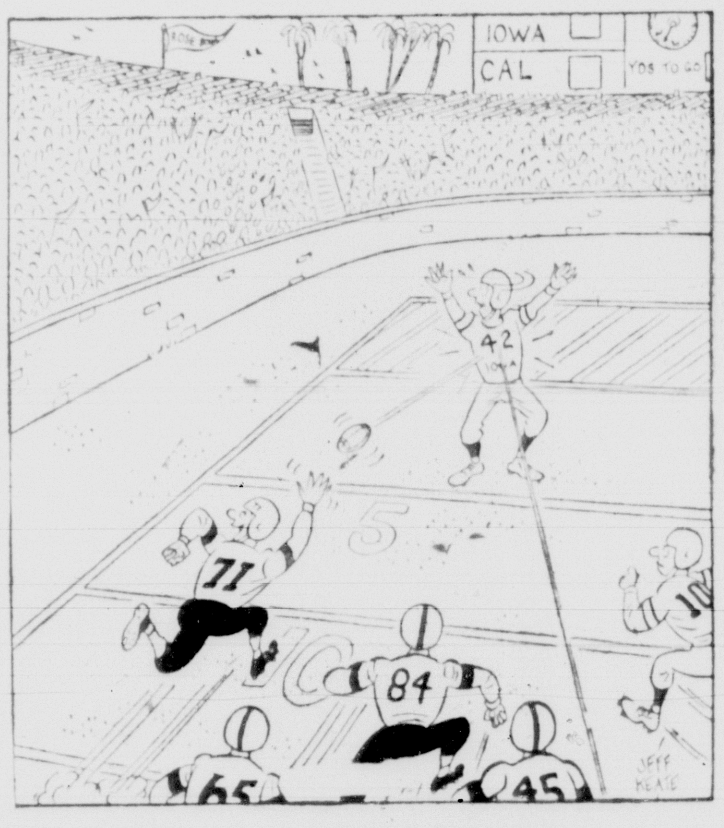
As for other weekend possibilities in Greater Miami, bluefish and mackerel figure strong in South Bay; bluefish and hard-fighting jacks await light tackle offerings at Norris Cut (bonefish too); while some mackerel and plenty of hungry panfish are in the spotlight off MacArthur Causeway.

More and more kingfish are being counted on Sunny Isles and Haulover fishing piers, and mackerel are holding well in the same places.

The South Beach Pier deserves attention from bluefish and mackerel fans.

A note for freshwater devotees comes from Richard Griffin at Uncle Joes Fishing Camp on Lake Okeechobee in Clewiston.

Griffin says bass are striking like mad in Turner's Cove and Moonshine Bay. Included in one two-man limit were six bass weighing better than five pounds. Largest catch of the week was taken by Thurmond Wehrs of Cadiz, Ohio — a bigmouth scaling 8 lbs., 3 oz.



"Hi, Elizabeth Taylor! Hi, Kim Novak!"

'Creeping Inflation'

The High Cost Of Living Is Going Higher

By SYLVIA PORTER

We're entering 1959 with our cost of living hovering at an all-time high and we'll enter 1960 with our cost of living even higher.

Only a fundamental change in the American way of life or a major business slump could alter this outlook, and neither the fundamental change in our way of life nor the economic slump is on the horizon.

As 1958 ends, the official consumer price index is almost 2½ per cent above the level of December 1957.

SYLVIA PORTER

In less than three years the prices of the goods and services have climbed almost 8 per cent—which, provocatively, works out to a price increase averaging around 2½ per cent annually. From a base of 100 in 1947-49, the Bureau of Labor Statistics' index rose to 123.9 at the last reporting date in November — meaning it takes about $1.24 to buy the goods and services that $1 bought 10 years ago.

In only a handful of months since the spring of 1956 has the price index held steady or dropped a bit. Month after month, the trend of prices has been unmistakably, markedly upward.

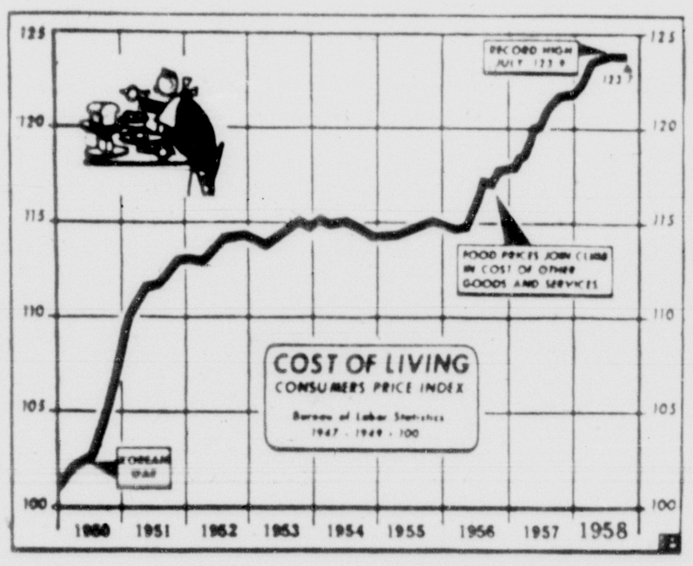
And in only two of the six recessions of the past 35 years (excluding the chaotic depression of 1929-33) has the consumer price level declined—and in both these recessions the declines were minor. Contrary to the general impression, in modern times, prices do not tend to slide in recessions. But they do tend to rise in recoveries.

* * *

THIS IS YOUR COST of living and mine about which I'm writing here. This is about as basic a bread-and-butter subject as there is.

On what premise do I dare to predict so positively that even today's record high level of prices will be topped a year from today? Here is the reasoning:

In general, the American family spends a little less than 33 1-3 cents of every dollar for food, a little more than 33 1-3 cents for goods of all types, another 33 1-3 cents for services of every description.



* * *

CONSIDER FOOD—which takes the first big chunk of our dollar.

The key explanation for the decline in the food index last month was that prices of pork products — bacon, pork chops, frankfurters — went down and prices of many fruits and vegetables dropped seasonably. Prices of beef and lamb rose, though; because of seasonal factors, tomatoes soared more than 30 per cent in the month, lettuce rose almost 10 per cent, potatoes, more than 2 per cent.

Big crops and food supplies give us a basis for hope that food prices will be fairly stable in 1959 and will drop seasonably in the next few months. But nothing more than this is at all probable.

* * *

CONSIDER GOODS of all types—which take another big chunk of our dollar. Even assuming auto prices follow a normal trend and decline as the new model year progresses, the weight is heavily against price slashes in most goods we need and want in a phase of rising business. Not many prices were cut during the 1957-58 recession and now that the economy is clearly on an uptrend, most businessmen won't voluntarily reduce prices. And the pressures for higher prices because of wage hikes, increases in raw materials prices, are still obvious.

* * *

CONSIDER SERVICES of all types—which take the third chunk.

Can you see the cost of public transportation going down? Hardly. Rather, hikes in rail and transit fares are the prospect. Can you see the costs of medical care going down? The pace of the increases may slow, but the direction of hospital rates, medical fees, is upward. And you know as well as I the trend of TV repairs, auto repairs, auto insurance, auto registration, postage rates, gas and electricity, beauty shop service, newspapers, magazines, laundry service, dry cleaning, etc., etc., etc.

The price trend is up; there's simply no missing it.

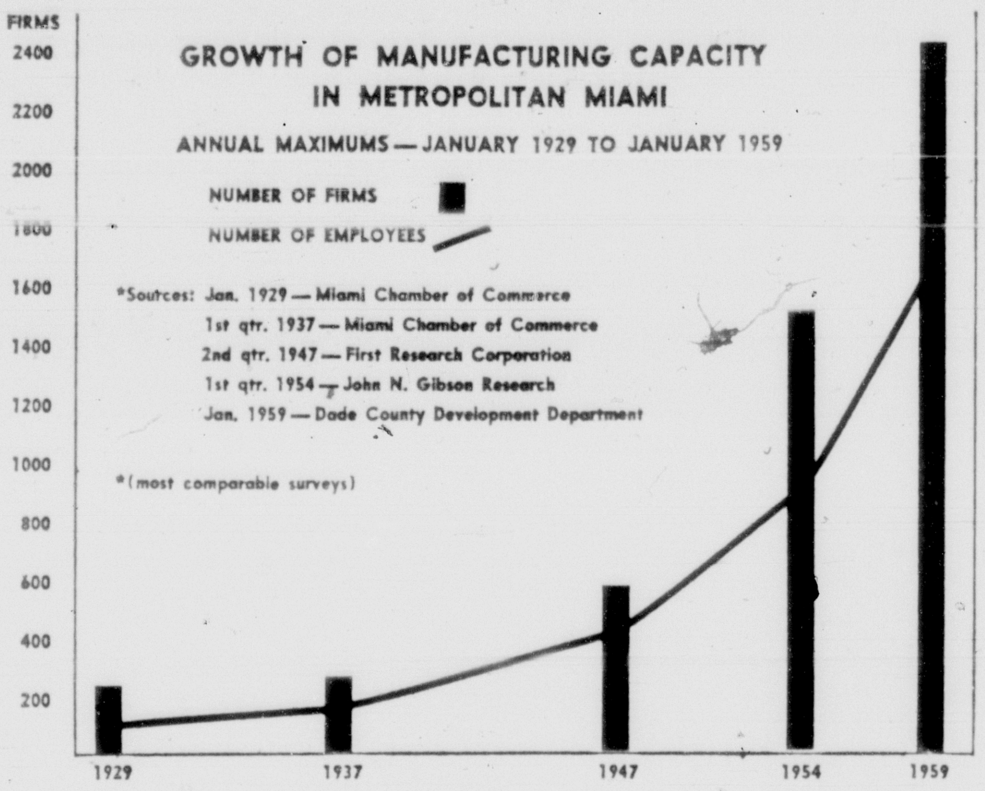
* * *

"LET US NOT BE misled by comments to the effect that the consumer price level is now stable," warned Federal Reserve Board chairman Martin a few weeks ago. "The process of inflation in this country started over 10 years ago during our wartime period and with minor interruptions from time to time has persisted ever since."

That says it. Actually, against the record of most years since World War II, the rise in prices of "only" 2½ per cent since last December shapes up as modest!

We have been, we still are, in a cycle of creeping inflation.

Dade Industry Boom Ahead



But How Much Is the Question

You Should Be Better Off This Year Than in 1958

NEW YORK —(AP)— You can count on being better off in 1959 than in 1958. Economists are not agreed, however, on how much better off.

The recession is over. It was short and not sweet. Recovery started in the spring of 1958 and continued at a steady pace until fall. Then, the economic indexes began to slow up over the rate that had been predicted.

Reading these figures as a fever chart, it might be concluded the patient had a slight relapse. However, the economists say he is in good shape and that full recovery will come by the end of the new year.

Your situation in the new year shapes up something like this:

* * *

TO THE NEARLY five million out of jobs, the immediate prospect for a resumption of paychecks is not bright. There probably will not be a measurable cut in unemployment until the middle of the year.

There are several reasons for this. Automation in industry is going ahead at such a fast clip that fewer workers are able to turn out more and more products all the time.

While the economy is steady and going forward, the kind of production that will enable extensive re-hiring of workers, is not expected to come until about mid-year.

* * *

IF YOU ARE SELLING things, the prospects are brighter. Consumer buying was maintained during the recession and constituted one of the really comforting aspects of the down turn.

The indications are that people will be in more of a buying mood in 1959 than in 1958. Personal income is expected to increase and, in point of fact, it rose for seven straight months, beginning in February last year, but declined slightly in October.

Labor disputes in some major industries were held responsible for the dip.

* * *

PEOPLE FEAR further inflation, which may have a softening effect on buying. But, government economists are hopeful that the price lines will hold relatively steady for the first half of the year. After that, if the momentum of recovery continues as expected, price increases are expected.

The University of Michigan, which does a good job of anticipating consumer temper, reports its latest poll showed more families now say their financial situation has improved; they have hopes for higher income and a better year in 1959 all around.

* * *

The gross national product, the total of all goods and services, is expected to reach 460 to 470 billion dollars in 1959. It was around 450 billions at the end of 1958. That pretty well tells the story of what's ahead for the new year—good times but not boom times.

How we fare in the coming year is going to depend a great deal on how the 1959 automobiles sell. The industry is hopeful it will dispose of five and a half to six million cars in 1959. If it does, times should generally be good.

* * *

Recovery from the slump this year demonstrated the ability of the economy to stand up under a sharp blow. Built-in stabilizers worked well. Unemployed received some income generally from federal or state funds. There was no panic, although many people suffered severely.

Adding everything up, you can enter the new year with the firm hope that times will be good and get better.

200 New Firms Coming in '59

By JOHN GIBSON
Director, Dade County Development Dept.

Dade County should exceed all previous years in industrial growth in 1959, with well over 200 new manufacturing firms entering the area.

This prediction is based on continued national recovery from the recession of 1958, with no local depressants such as bad weather or transportation difficulties.

Miami already leads all large metropolitan areas in the nation in the rate of growth of its manufacturing industries, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce.

It attracted almost 150 new plants in 1958, bringing the yearend total to more than 2,400. Metropolitan Miami has had a 300 per cent increase in industry in the past 10 years.

It has become the industrial center of Florida, with twice as many manufacturing employes as Jacksonville, the former leader.

The gains in manufacturing employment provide the brightest spot in the area's labor picture.

Employment in the retail, wholesale, and construction trades declined in 1958 and hotel and service trades remained unchanged.

The tourist business is now increasing at about four per cent per year in a linear projection. About 65 per cent of the work force derives its income from tourism.

The permanent population is increasing at almost twice the rate of the tourist business.

The area can only maintain its prosperity by supplementing its economy with industry of the proper sort. This will require the efforts of a united community.

HELICOPTERS TO ALASKA

FARMINGDALE, N.Y. —(UPI)— Oil and other mineral exploration in inaccessible regions of Alaska provided a big market for the civil helicopter industry in 1958, but other sales outlets narrowed Republic Aviation Corp. said in a year-end report.

MIAMI BEACH RECOVERING FROM BAD LAST SEASON . . . JOBS PLENTIFUL IN TOURIST SEASON . . .

The Beach and Its Future

Hotelmen Say: Rooms Full, 1959 Outlook 'Excellent'

New Hotels Still Opening Each Year at Miami Beach

Woes of 1957-58 Just Memories

By GENE MILLER
Herald Staff Writer

Miami Beach's tourist industry has a light-switch personality.

ON, it's more brilliant than the perpetually-advertised sunshine when the rooms are full.

OFF, it's darker than 80 fathoms under when the rooms are vacant.

Godson

Lansburgh

As of now the switch is "on." The 1959 outlook: "Excellent," say the top hotelmen. The rooms are full. The Beach is jammed. The sun is shining.

Last season's much-publicized toe-numbing cold and the subsequent 40 or so bankruptcies, foreclosures and dispossessions seem only a nightmare best forgotten.

The real unsolved woes — too much congestion, overexpanison — don't seem quite as important.

Architects, working without benefit of fanfare, have at least five hotel-apartment projects on the drawing boards for mile-long "millionaire's strip," finally opened up in 1958 after a long and bitter legal fight.

Some of the same hotelmen who fought the rezoning, fearing new competition, now are scrambling for the land.

The Beach City Council, cognizant of frequent in-season bumper-to-bumper traffic jam-ups, hopes to expand and possibly relocate Collins Ave. to an eight-lane thoroughfare north of the Eden Roc along the strip. This may well get underway in 1959.

Most hotelmen say they are unworried about competiton from the Caribbean area and the casinos of Havana.

"The 7,000 rooms we have on Motel Row alone," said one big operator, "are more than the entire Caribbean islands have."

Including all Dade County's hotels, inns and for-tourist apartments, the area has approximately 60,000 rooms, the largest concentration in the world.

For the first time in ages, Beach officialdom and hotelmen are meeting quietly with Dade business and industrial leaders to see if they can't come up with a concentrated, conserted promotion program for the entire community.

The Beach considers itself "the General Motors of the tourist industry — without a chairman of the board."

Said Morris Lansburgh, president of the Miami Beach Hotel Conference:

"Our Christmas has been phenomenal. The advanced registrations for January are very, very good. The weather has been superb and the only fly in the ointment at present is the airline situation, which of course, is extremely important."

Reginald W. Godson, president of the Greater Miami Motel Association said, "The tourists are over the weather scare and those that missed last year are determined to come this year."

'Busiest' Airport In Sight

By BERT COLLIER
Herald Staff Writer

This should be the year that Miami's airport becomes the busiest in the nation.

Aviation expansion here has been faster than anywhere else in the country, and the lead will be increased as time goes on.

Eight domestic airlines and 19 foreign air carriers operate out of this airport. They handle an average of one passenger every 10 seconds around the clock.

Miami International, currently undergoing a mammoth face-lifting, is now the second busiest commercial airport in the country. But it soon will take the lead away from Chicago.

Landrum and Brown, a Cincinnati firm of consultants which recently studied Dade County's past, present and future in aviation, reported that while U.S. air traffic increased 3.4 times since 1948, Miami's air traffic had increased 5.7 times.

In 1948, Miami handled 1.88 per cent of all the U.S. commercial airline passengers. In 1956, last full year the figures were available, Miami handled 3.07 per cent of all airline passengers in the country.

In the international picture, Miami's importance is obvious. For the past ten years, one of every four air passengers entering or leaving the country went through the Miami International Airport gateway.

A new 26 million dollar terminal will be formally opened this month to serve all the scheduled domestic and foreign carriers.

The Signs Point Upward in Dade

This Should Be Another Good Year for Building

By DOM BONAFEDE
Herald Staff Writer

All signs point upward for construction — both business and public — in Dade County during the coming year.

With the recession on the wane and money getting looser, non-residential building in the county figures to pass 1958's estimate of $140,000,000 with ease.

Federal, state, county and city projects will hit the 70 million dollar mark, with business construction near 100 million dollars.

Graphically reflecting a rosy optimism is the City of Miami, which more than doubled its building outlay for 1959.

* * *

In 1958, the city spent some four million dollars in its building program. The coming year will see it sink almost nine million dollars in municipal construction.

This includes 1.5 million dollars for the proposed Coconut Grove incinerator and half a million dollars for a 350-car parking garage in downtown Miami.

Metro, meanwhile, has earmarked close to 23 million dollars for construction, including $14,375,000 for a new jail and Criminal Court building.

* * *

The U.S. government will chip in 12 million dollars for a federal building and a Veterans Administration hospital. And the state is set to build a 2.5 million dollar general office building.

Also on the horizon are 200 new industrial plants in Dade, an increase of 50 over last year.

John Gibson, director of the Metro economic research development department, pegs Dade industrial production for 1959 at 40 million dollars.

"All indications are 1959 will be our biggest industrial year," Gibson reported.

* * *

"Delayed plans now being carried out because of accessible money and a general air of optimism," Gibson said.

Leading the pack in the business construction field is the Southgate Towers, a seven million dollar, 550-unit hotel-apartment at the south end of Miami Beach.

The structure, which will be silhouetted by two 14-story towers, is expected to breathe new life into the South Beach.

Across the bay, operators of the Everglades Hotel on Biscayne Blvd. are shelling out almost 3.5 million dollars on a face-lifting job.

The one black mark in non-residential construction in 1958 was made in the unincorporated areas.

Building there slipped from $8,833,407 in 1957 to $7,206,338 during the past year.

The area, however, is expected to rebound in 1959.

A Better Tourist Season May Open Up More Jobs

By ARTHUR JOHNSEY
Herald Staff Writer

There's a rosy feeling at year's end that job opportunities for Dade Countians will be on the rise during the next few months of the tourist season.

This may happen despite continued high levels of unemployment, local officials of the Florida State Employment Service say.

The paradox of sharply rising unemployment and stability in the job market was pointed up by mid-November of 1958.

Unemployment was up 55.3 per cent over a year earlier and the rate of the unemployment rise was sharper, too.

But the number of Dade Countians employed when 1958 drew to a close was almost the same as the number holding jobs 12 months earlier.

This refusal of Dade's economy to retreat in offering employment during the year seemed the significant fact to D'Arcy O'Meara, manager of the employment service's commercial branch.

Both he and Harry Tyson, manager of the service's industrial office, feel job opportunities will show an increase during the season.

They feel the prospect is good for a "resurgence" from low levels brought by frigid weather and recession in 1958.

Unemployment increased during 1958 to a high of 55.3 per cent over the November figure in 1957. An estimated 26,400 jobless were counted as compared to 17,000 a year earlier. Strike-idled workers had not been counted.

But even without them, the rate of increase in unemployment was almost twice that of the preceding year. That, says Tyson, can be blamed almost entirely on the increased influx of workers from the North where industries affected by severe weather in their production schedules let their workers go early.

But the job market was good enough in Dade to keep a total of 369,600 employed, only 150 fewer than a year ago at mid-November.

Most of those holding jobs in manufacturing, at least, found weekly earnings up.

Latest figures, for October, showed the average weekly earnings for workers in all manufacturing industries in Dade reached $69.32 as compared to $66.17 in Oct. 1957.

On an hourly basis, the average was $1.72 for the manufacturing industries in October, and $1.65 a year earlier.

Much of the increased wage spread went to those employed in food and apparel manufacturing. Some, employed in transportation equipment and furniture manufacturing, were making less per week.

Has Our Housing Boom Hit Peak?

By FRED SHERMAN
Herald Real Estate Editor

All the figures aren't in yet from the county and municipal building departments, but it appears Dade's homebuilding in 1958 was off 8 per cent from the 12,406 permits issued for one and two-family dwellings in 1957.

SHERMAN

The story of what happened to Miami's home builders in 1958 can be found in the statistics for the months of July, August, September and October.

For it was then that the industry went into high gear to take advantage of the billion dollars provided by Congress in an emergency housing bill to stimulate FHA and VA projects. It was that easy money with a floor on mortgage prices that produced the houses that kept us within a respectable distance of the 1957 production.

Eugene Miles, a statistician for Dr. Reinhold Wolff's Bureau of Business and Economic Research at the University of Miami, reports Dade County and the 22 cities issued permits for 10,309 one and two-family homes during the first 11 months of this year. That compares with 10,920 for the same period of 1957.

Taking the four months of July through October of 1958, you find 4,788 permits for one and two-family dwellings. The bulk of these were issued for the unincorporated areas of Dade County. The cities are running out of building lots.

In the first six months of 1958, the county issued 3,005 permits for single-family homes with a valuation of $32,323,116.

Then came July, the biggest month of the year, with 958 permits valued at $9,164,378. In August it was 906 permits valued at $8,749,712; in September, 888 permits valued at $8,765,363, and in October, 905 permits valued at $8,811,772.

The mortgage money couldn't last at that rate and only 565 permits were issued by the county in November. Valuation was $5,480,052. It went up last month as the builders started to anticipate a free and easy attitude on the part of a Democratic Congress.

As of Monday, the county had issued 690 home permits valued at $6,799,627.

In his 12-month forecast for the year beginning today, Dr. Wolff says Dade and Broward counties will produce a total of 32,000 dwelling units. This includes apartments. It is the same forecast he made for the 12 months ending next Sept. 30.

The Florida forecast for calendar 1959 is 89,500 units, a slight increase over the 88,000 forecast for the year ending Sept. 30.

4th Year

2 Billion For Phones

NEW YORK —(P)— For the fourth straight year, the Bell System plans to spend more than two billion dollars for construction in 1959, Frederick R. Kappel, president of American Telephone and Telegraph Co., says.

Bell companies spent $2,200,000,000 in 1958 to expand telephone facilities and continue service betterment, he said in a yearend statement.

Kappel said the rate of telephone growth slowed temporarily in the early months of 1958, but the full year is estimated at close to 2½ millions. Long distance conversations have totaled five per cent more than in 1957, he estimated.

Here's the Forecast for American Business in 1959

AUTOS

The automobile industry expects to regain in 1959 the ground it lost in 1958, when sales dropped 25 per cent from 1957.

When 1958 production and sales are tabulated, they probably will come to nearly 4,780,000 retail deliveries, including about 300,000 foreign car sales.

In 1959, sales are expected to number 5½ million U.S. cars and 400,000 imported cars.

* * *

AVIATION

The aircraft-missile industry hopes for sales in excess of 10 billion dollars in 1959, less than the 11.8 billion expected for 1958.

The average net profit of the nation's 12 major airframe manufacturers has decreased from 3.7 per cent of sales in 1954 to about 2 per cent in the first nine months of 1958, and this trend may continue.

The industry expects to spend about 1 billion dollars for research and development in 1959.

* * *

COTTON

The Southern cotton belt will try in 1959 to recover from the 1958 cotton depression which saw crop acreage drop 12 per cent from 1957.

Recovery hinges, in part, on the industry's ability to get federal aid to make American cotton more competitive in foreign markets.

* * *

FARMS

Farmers broke all records in 1958 and boosted their income 20 per cent, but will have a hard time doing as well in 1959.

Agriculture Department economists predict farm income will dip 5 to 10 per cent in 1959 along with farm prices. Government payments will be smaller and production costs higher.

* * *

FOOD

Retail food expenditures in 1959 will approach 79 billion dollars in 1959, compared with about 75 billion in 1958, but competetition will keep profit margins below 3 per cent of sales.

Grocers plan an increase of 7 per cent in expenditures for plant and equipment which normally run about 600 million dollars a year.

Retail prices generally will remain at the 1958 level with the exception of meat which should cost less.

GAS

Natural gas, which should reach South Florida in 1959, is heading upwards in price and consumption is increasing at the rate of 5 to 7 per cent a year.

The Supreme Court has ruled that pipelines may increase rates without first applying to the Federal Power Commission, and industry leaders forecast this ruling will mean a sharp increase in expansion—and prices—in 1959.

* * *

LIQUOR

Americans, who showed less interest in beer and wine in 1958 and more in distilled spirits, are expected to down more hard liquor in 1959 than in any year since the repeal of prohibition.

Distilled spirit consumption totaled about 216 million gallons in 1958 and should reach 218 million in 1959. The distiller's profit margin is also expected to increase.

Brewers hope for modest sales gains and the wine industry is looking for an increase of 4 to 6 per cent in 1959.

* * *

OIL

The oil industry expects a 4 per cent growth in the new year, but tempers its optimism with caution and uncertainty.

U.S. crude production at year end topped 7.1 million barrels a day. Exploratory and drilling operations continued to decline.

Sporadic gasoline price wars are expected to continue through 1959, but the average retail price will remain about the same.

* * *

POWER

The electric utility industry scored small gains in output but big gains in income during 1958. Production of 641 kilowatt hours was up 1½ per cent from 1957. Income rose 7 per cent to $1,534,000,000.

The industry expects to boost output by 10 per cent in 1959 and hopes for a gain of 15 to 20 per cent in profits. About 3.8 billion dollars will be spent on expansion.

* * *

RAILS

Railroads suffered a severe loss of passenger business in 1958 and freight shipments also declined. Net income dropped about 20 per cent.

The industry hopes for substantial gains in 1959, principally in the freight field, but prospects are not encouraging.

RUBBER

Rubber consumption declined nearly 10 per cent in 1958, but industry leaders expect to more than make up this loss in the new year.

Sales of 6 billion dollars have been predicted for 1959, compared with about 5.5 billion dollars in 1958. About 65 per cent of consumption will be synthetic rubber.

* * *

STEEL

The steel industry had its worst year since 1949 in 1958 with production totaling about 85 million tons, a drop of 25 per cent.

Steel mills are expected to operate at 80 per cent of capacity in 1959 for a production increase of about 27 per cent.

However, three-year labor contracts expire June 30 and the industry has indicated it intends to stand firm against further wage hikes. If strikes develop, production will not meet anticipated levels.

* * *

TOBACCO

The tobacco industry topped its 1957 record by 4 per cent, and profits rose as much as 20 per cent in 1958.

The industry expects to do as well in 1959, but is worried about anti-tobacco legislation on the federal and state levels.

* * *

OTHERS

Advertising and Publishing: A rise of 6 to 8 per cent expected in 1959 after a 2 per cent drop in 1958.

Appliances: Prospects of a 12 to 15 per cent gain over 1958 which showed a 4 to 5 per cent decline.

Chemicals: A record output seen in 1959, topping 1958 by 7 to 8 per cent.

Coal: Down in 1958, but will rise to 450 million tons in 1959 with corresponding increase in earnings.

Containers: A rise of 4 to 5 per cent forecast for 1959 after a quiet 1958.

Dairy Products: Indications of higher earnings as a result of increased output.

Drugs: Gain expected to exceed the rise of 6 per cent in 1958.

Furniture: Factory output and sales to rise 2 to 4 per cent and profits more.

Motion Pictures: Movie attendance expected to rise 10 per cent over 1958.

'59 Fish Catch Will Be Larger

NEW YORK —(UPI)— Fish scientists and biologists think strict American conservation practices have begun to pay off and 1959 should see increased supplies of salmon and tuna off American waters, according to Sam Rubenstein, president of Gillnetter's, leading fish canners.

Rubenstein, in a year-end statement estimated the 1958 salmon "pack" would total about 3,586,000 cases worth $94 million. Total tuna canned in 1958 should have a value of about $376 million, the fish canning executive added.

MR. A INVITES YOU TO BE AN AMERICAN V.I.P.
FREE YOUR CHOICE OF Very Impressive Presents FOR Very Important People
all during the month of January when you open a savings account of $150 or more at . . .
AMERICAN SAVINGS BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION
American Savings in the past year has become the fastest-growing Savings Institution in all of Greater Miami . . . because people like you find it pleasant and profitable to save at American! American's over $12,000,000 in assets; its unusually large ratio of reserve to savings; the insured accounts; its sound, conservative and dedicated management make it a safe, sound place for your savings. But even more . . . American always pays an extra dividend in personal attention and thoughtfulness . . . in making each and every American Saver truly a VIP . . . no matter the size of his or her account! Where you save is Very Important . . . so today resolve to start the new year by saving where you are a Very Important Person . . . at American Savings!
ALL ACCOUNTS OPENED DURING THE FIRST TEN DAYS OF JANUARY EARN FULL DIVIDENDS FOR THE ENTIRE MONTH OF JANUARY!
American's VIP Rolls Royce Limousine . . . at your service!
You'll see the American VIP Rolls Royce complete with uniformed chauffeur outside our entrance...waiting to deliver you back to your door on regularly scheduled trips, after you've opened an American Savings account. Just our way of symbolizing the fact that you're a Very Important Person when you save at American!

DADE FARM SALES PASS $40,000,000 AGAIN... DESPITE TWO TOUGH SPELLS........

Last Year's Sales: $40 Million

We Feel Farm Losses

By NIXON SMILEY
Herald Farm and Garden Editor

Despite record losses from unseasonable weather during the past two years, Dade County's agricultural sales have passed the $40 million mark both seasons.

Last year's sales were $40,363,948, and the sales the year before were $49,827,262.

Thus farming becomes an important part of the business life of the area, and when farmers lose the community loses.

Last season, for instance, farmers suffered serious losses to their tomato crop from rains and freezes. Of the 30,200 acres planted only 21,600 acres were harvested and sales were $11,480,000. This compared with the harvesting of 30,110 or 32,310 acres planted the previous year, and with an income of $23,485,800.

Dade's big tomato year was during the 1954-55 season, when favorable weather and good markets combined to push income to $44,550,000 from this crop alone. Farm income for the county hit its highest level that year, when farmers received $75,653,498 for all crops.

It was thought that the county's rapid growth would push agriculture out of the picture, but farming had increased in the face of population expansion.

The only major decline has been in dairying. Only a few years ago Dade dairymen milked over 25,000 cows. Last year the milk cow population had declined to 7,100 cows and calves.

In the meantime, the plant nursery business has made a major increase. Last year's sales were $5,847,500, compared with sales of $3,741,070 two years ago. (Recent restrictions by the Metropolitan government against the further building of conventional greenhouses may curtail the further growth of this industry.)

Dade leads all other Florida counties in the production of several crops, including tomatoes, pole beans, avocados, persian limes and mangos.

Dade ranks 12th among all counties in the nation in vegetable production.

The area's agriculture is highly specialized, with the most modern methods being used for vegetable production, for the growing of greenhouse plants or for the production of eggs and poultry.

Most of the vegetable farms are located in South Dade.

U.S. Denies Tribe Got 'Raw Deal'

Indian Bureau Assails Attorney

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

DANIA SEMINOLE RESERVATION — A bitter feud broke into the open Wednesday between the Indian Affairs Bureau in Washington and a Miami attorney who has represented the Indians.

In a letter to Indian Commissioner Glenn Emmons in Washington, Attorney O. B. White charged the bureau and Indian agency here with engineering a "dirty deal" for the Seminole Indians in connection with a land lease.

"It's libelous, vile," Commissioner Emmons told The Herald from Washington.

Emmons said the bureau has not approved any leases for reservation land between the Indians and private investors. A preliminary proposal for a 62-acre frontier town is under consideration, Emmons said.

Virgil Harrington, local superintendent of Indian affairs now vacationing in Oklahoma, said in a phone conversation Wednesday that White is "greatly misinformed."

Harrington said a committee of four local bankers, appointed by Commissioner Emmons, was to meet with the Indians soon to discuss a 25-year lease for the 62-acre tract. White was to be invited, said Harrington.

The Rev. Billy Osceola, president of the governing Seminole Tribal Council, said White would be asked to attend the council's monthly meeting Jan. 5 to give a full explanation of his letter to Emmons.

"The council did not give White authority to write the letter," declared the Indian leader.

White said he acted on his own and "will continue to do so as long as I can help the Indians."

The flareup came as the Seminole Tribal Council was to give final approval to hiring White for two years. White's nomination already has the endorsement of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Emmons praised Harrington, and said the Seminoles have made great progress under his supervision.

In a recent letter to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, the Seminole Tribal Council praised the work of both Harrington and Emmons.

White's charge that the Indians have not been permitted to see the proposed lease was denied by the Rev. Bill Osceola, (no relation to the Rev. Billy Osceola), president of the Indian's business organization, the Seminole Tribe of Florida Corp.

"The board of directors has been studying the proposals. We plan to give them to the council for consideration after we complete our study," said the Rev. Osceola.

White, 67, has been representing the Indians off and on for several years. His formal two-year contract with the council, however, was drawn up only earlier this month.

R. W. International Enterprizes has asked for the frontier town lease. Projected cost of the attraction, which would feature daily gun fights and a posse, is $600,000, according to Richard Conant, principal in the venture.

"Our proposal is a honey as far as the Indians are concerned," Conant said.

Plane Makers Sued in Crash

A private airplane crash over Phoenix, Ariz., last Jan. 3 was the subject of a Dade Circuit Court suit filed Wednesday against Piper Aircraft Corp.

Mrs. Mary L. Roberts, along with her three sons, Gary, Kenneth and Robert, asked damages "in excess of $5,000" for the death of her husband, Raymond C. Roberts, who was piloting the plane.

The suit contends he rented the plane from Martin School of Aviation, Santa Ana, Calif., and the right wing fell off over Phoenix because of alleged negligence of the Piper plant where it was built.

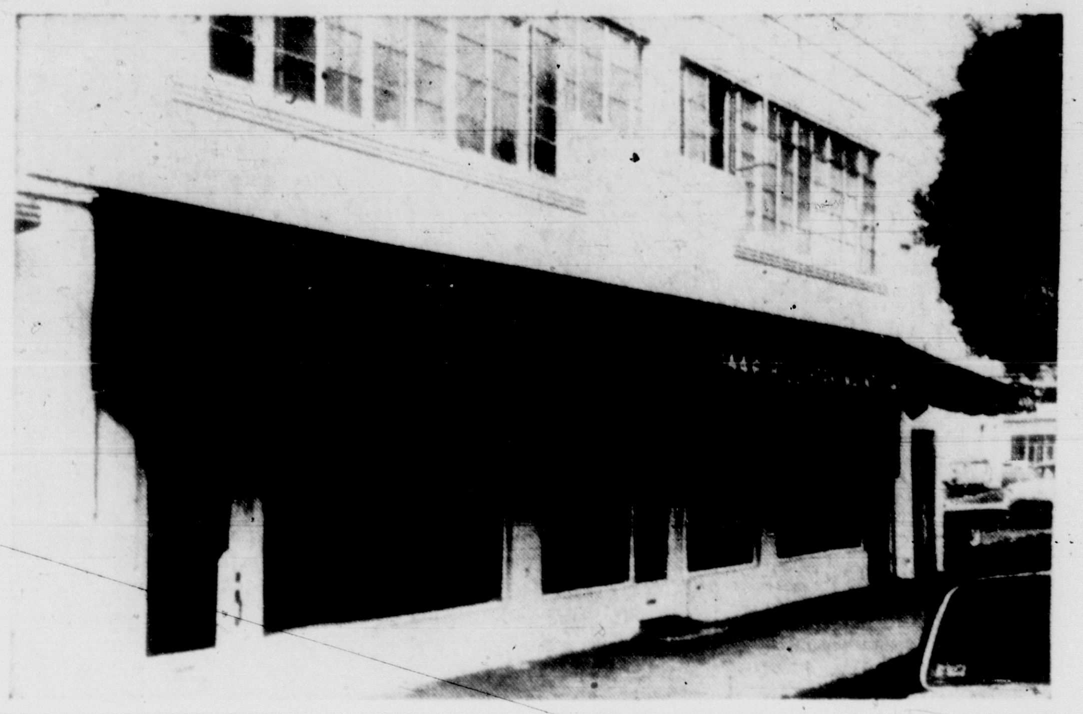
York Solarama Air Conditioning Brings Year-Round Comfort to Beach



BEACH YORK CORP., 1448 ALTON RD., Miami Beach, pioneered in the use of special marine type heat pumps with York air conditioning equipment.

The humidity is uncomfortably high in South Florida much of the time, even in the cooler winter months. This gives people the feeling that it is hotter or cooler than the thermometer shows.

"The perfect solution in combating this condition is the York twin-compressor Solarama air conditioning system," says Andrew R. (Dick) Dickterenko, manager of Beach York Corp. "This system gives constant, year-round humidity control, plus heating in the winter and cooling in the summer.

"People recall vividly the below-40-degree temperatures that hit South Florida last winter. They also recall that people who had York heat pump air conditioning found these systems were totally adequate to cope with the very low temperatures.

"Our twin compressor Solarama and three, five and seven and one-half horsepower air-conditioning units made many friends for York last winter. Hundreds of homes in South Florida's beautiful beach communities were delightfully warm on the coldest days and nights because of their great efficiency.

"Comments of many completely satisifed owners have been responsible for the record number of central heat pump air conditioning installations made in 1958. The perfect cooling and dehumidifying of York already was widely known and accepted. But it took a bitter cold winter to prove the unparalleled efficiency and economy of our heat pump."

Beach York is a member of the Hill York family of associates throughout South Florida.

"The Solarama reverse cycle heat pump provides safe, healthful, fuelless and flameless heat which is removed from sun-heated air and pumped into the home," explained the Beach York manager.

"Pioneered and developed by York," he explained, "the heat pump is the most efficient and complete means of safe, economical and healthful all-electric climate-control. The air conditioning system provides cool, dehumidified comfort on these hot, muggy summer days and a plentiful, smooth, even flow of warm air for winter.

"The York heat pump works on the principle that heat exists in all outside air and water. To extract this heat, we need only to pass air or water over the colder coils in the York unit. This heat gain is then transferred to the interior of the home for winter warmth. The process is reversed for summer cooling.

"Among the many salt water York hotel installations on Miami Beach are those at the Fontainebleau, Eden Roc, Sherry Frontenac and Kenilworth.

"The Beach resident who wants the perfect cooling and dehumidifying of York central air conditioning and the assured winter comfort provided only by the York heat pump, should visit the Beach York showroom at 1448 Alton Rd. Or a telephone call to JEfferson 8-4716 will bring a skilled sales engineer to the home or place of business to give a free estimate."

Other Hill York associates are Gables York, Coral Gables; Pan American York, 1225 SW 8th St.; Certified York, North Miami; Hill York Broward, Fort Lauderdale; and Gulfstream York, Pompano.

Egg Nog Now Available From McArthur Dairy

McARTHUR

Rich and delicious are words aptly used to describe McArthur Dairy's egg nog, a traditional holiday dairy treat.

The superior quality and flavor of McArthur egg nog makes it more popular every year. Children especially enjoy McArthur egg nog.

McArthur Dairy has for more than 20 years been using a specially developed formula to give people the very best egg nog for their holiday entertaining and for friends who drop in to visit.

Combining fresh cream, egg yolks, sugar, spices and other specal ingredients, McArthur produces an egg nog which is rich and heavy bodied.

Home owners may have this wonderful McArthur egg nog delivered throughout the holiday season.

Mothers like it because they know that when their children drink McArthur egg nog they get all the food value of whole milk plus eggs. They know, too, how necessary milk is in their children's diet.

McArthur Jersey Farm Dairy was started in 1929 by J. N. McArthur, a former school teacher who saw the need for a quality dairy farm. Since that time the dairy has grown so that today it is the largest individual producer of milk and milk products in the state.

McArthur home delivery route men are specially trained to be courteous and give good service. T. L. Plant, manager of McArthur Dairy, stresses service to customers and quality products above all.

Home delivery of all McArthur Dairy products may be secured by calling PLaza 4-4521 in Miami, CEdar 5-4441 in Perrine, LUdlow 3-4341 in Fort Lauderdale, WAbash 2-4061 in Hollywood or OVerland 3-2728 in West Palm Beach.

Fighting Bitter in Santa Clara

Desperate Castro Push Halted in Central Cuba

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — A desperate rebel attempt to slice Cuba in two and pose a direct threat to Havana faded Wednesday in a storm of government firepower. The army said it had the rebels on the run at Santa Clara and surrounding Las Villas Province in Central Cuba.

President Fulgencio Batista remained in the Presidential Palace with indications he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over the insurgent forces of Fidel Castro by the dawn of the new year.

The government said it smashes the rebel attempt to seize Santa Clara, but some fighting apparently still was in progress on the third day in that capital of sugar-rich Las Villas Province.

Rebel remnants were reported fighting a bitter rear-guard action street-by-street and house-by-house against army tanks and shock troops.

Streets of the bombed and bullet-torn old city were strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated more than 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They said the army was taking a 3-to-1 toll, indicating government casualties were 1,000 or more.

The first government communique on the fighting in Santa Clara reported an army armored column moving into the city wiped out hundreds of rebels.

Rebel Leader Fidel Castro obviously had counted on a popular uprising in daring to make his first frontal attack against the army in the two-year-old rebellion. But the uprising did not come.

An urgent radio appeal for reinforcements came from one rebel commander, Victor Bordon Machado, indicating the outnumbered rebels were running short of fighters and ammunition.

Another rebel broadcast admitted its forces just west of Santa Clara were "no longer able to resist in the face of attack by tanks" and said "there are numerous dead and wounded."

Army warplanes machine-gunned rebels holding out in Tinidad on the southern Las Villas coast and in Placetas, Cabaiguan and other sectors of Trinidad on the southern Las Villas.

Breaking a long official silence, Prime Minister Gonzalo Quell told newsmen triumphantly after conferring with President Batista that "all is going well and our troops are pushing toward Camaguey Province."

Low-lying Camaguey province — the second largest in Cuba — is between Las Villas and Oriente Province, the rebel stronghold at the eastern end of the island.

There were growing indications that Castro, in a daring bid for a quick knockout blow, had stretched his supply lines too far in striking out from his Oriente fortress in the last month.

The rebels were outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in the Las Villas Province offensive against government forces which had been greatly reinforced within the last few weeks.

There were indications that Castro had counted on desertions from the government forces.

Batista shook up the army command, however, to strengthen loyalty to the government. He even drew on armored forces and warplanes from already hard-pressed units in Oriente Province to hand on to Las Villas Province, which runs across the waistband of Cuba.

The insurgents, while making no victory claims in Las Villas, reported new successes in Oriente. One broadcast claimed the capture of Guantanamo City only 27 miles north of the big U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay.

The rebels have clamped a land blockade around Santiago, capital of Oriente province, where thousands of heavily armed government troops are braced for an expected assault. The government still has sea and air links with the big Caribean port.

Blunt Notes State Big 3 Stand

We Stay in Berlin, West Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Western Allies, bluntly rejecting Soviet demands that they quit Berlin by June 1, challenged the Kremlin Wednesday to take part in a four-power conference on the overall problem of European security.

But the U.S., Britain and France warned the Russians in separate but similar notes that they will not take part in any diplomatic discussions "under menace or ultimatum."

The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union in unmistakable terms they do not intend to yield to the Russians' Nov. 27 demand that they leave West Berlin and allow the former German capital to become a Communist-encircled "free city."

They also served notice that they will not recognize the Communist regime of East Germany even if the Russians carry out their threat to turn over East Berlin and the corridors leading to the city to the East Germans.

The Western notes were drafted in Paris last week in consultation with the West German government. They received full backing Monday from the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All were in agreement that the West must insist that the Russians respect its right to remain in Berlin and to have access to the city in accordance with an Allied postwar agreement.

The notes were made public shortly after they were delivered to the Kremlin by the Western embassies in Moscow. U. S. officials were said to be anxious to get the U.S. note in the hands of Russian leaders in time for ample study before Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan leaves Moscow for a two-week visit to the U.S.

It is understood that Berlin is among the subjects Mikoyan wants to discuss with top authorities here. He is expected to arrive in this country by plane early next week.

But the U.S. and its Allies made it plain that they do not intend to negotiate with Russia over Berlin or any other problem if the Kremlin intends to present them with any showdown ultimatum.

'Definitely Arson'

Thousands Flee California Flames

TOPANGA CANYON, Calif. — (AP) — A brush fire believed set by a firebug burst explosively through the Santa Monica mountains Wednesday. It burned several homes in its first two hours and threatened hundreds of others. Thousands fled its path.

The blaze broke out around 9:45 a.m. on the inland side of the mountains, which separate the San Fernando valley from the sea.

Two hours later a second fire broke out only two miles away in the exclusive valley community of Woodland Hills. It, too, threatened homes.

The first blaze was swept by 40-mph winds down Topanga Canyon, which winds westward through the hills toward the Pacific Ocean.

At least eight homes were touched off in the canyon's Glenview section before noon. Others were believed lost.

Police and sheriff's deputies raced their squad cars through the populous area, urging residents to evacuate. Cars with women and children streamed out. Many residents stayed to fight it out, playing hoses on their roofs.

The scene is in brushy hills bordering the Pacific about 20 miles west of downtown Los Angeles. Earlier this month, only a little farther west, a disastrous blaze near Malibu Beach blackened thousands of acres and destroyed a score of homes.

Firemen said this one, at the start at least, looks worse. They expect it to burn the eight miles to the sea.

Assistant County Fire Chief Paul Clark said after the second blaze started in Woodland Hills:

"We better catch this little firebug. He's set 20 fires in this area in the last three days. This is definitely arson."

Shortly after noon nearly 1,000 fire fighters were on the scene. All available personnel in the state were called for.

Officials planned for a major disaster. The Red Cross set up an evacuation center.

Los Angeles City Fire Captain Ralph Wade said at the scene: "We can't stop it. Too much wind, too low humidity, too much fire. All we can do is concentrate on saving houses, and seeing that no one gets hurt."

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Thousands Pack Route Of March

Spectacle Turns Night to Day

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled parade and party.

For more than two hours as the colorful and tuneful procession moved along downtown Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., the 19-block route was brilliantly lighted as if by a million candles.

The 31 bands provided the sound effects for the 50 floats, and there were dozens of marching units and baton twirlers.

Then, to the delight of the children, there were clowns aplenty and gigantic balloons that ranged from a turkey and a kangaroo to a realistic stage coach, pulled by four plunging horses and protected by a shotgun guard as bandits tried to rob it.

The giant spectacle, which Maestro Ernie Seiler proudly proclaimed the Orange Bowl Festival's proudest effort, was witnessed by crowds that jammed the curbs and sidewalks, filled hotel and office building windows, and sought vantage spots from fire escapes, the courthouse steps and on roofs.

The police preliminary estimate of 400,000 spectators seemed certain to have been fulfilled. At least the crowds made an early start toward reaching that number. By noon, scores of early arrivals already had established themselves in folding chairs or on blankets at curbs along the parade route, fortified for the long wait with lunch boxes and thermos jugs.

By the 7 p.m. stepoff time, when the police escort drove into Biscayne Blvd. from the Dupong Plaza assembly area, there wasn't room left for a lifted arm.

Early threats of showers disappeared by parade time, but a brisk southeast breeze made the low 70 temperature chilly for those who neglected to wear coats or sweaters. There was no indication, however, that any of the hundreds of scantily clad models on floats or baton twirlers developed any goose pimples.

The parade participants outdid themselves for this Silver Anniversary presentation in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally, to cover its float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright—if artifical—flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. float, which featured gorgeous models.

All types of transportation were depicted in the glittering procession.

Southern Dairies had a surrey, naturally with a fringe on top, led by a white horse; Eastern Air Lines had a propjet plane flying just as if there were no strike; Pan American World Airways showed a Clipper soaring over

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off Old OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivers will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback, Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on options.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Sen. Kennedy Out of Hospital

BOSTON — (AP) — U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was discharged from New England Baptist Hospital Wednesday where he had been under treatment for five days with a virus condition.

He left immediately by plane for the Palm Beach, Fla., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Kennedy.

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

Plane Crashes Into Atlantic

A small aircraft crashed into the ocean three miles east of Fort Lauderdale at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday, killing one person aboard and possibly another, the Coast Guard said.

The fishing vessel Peggy Ann recovered one body from the smashed plane but positive identification could not be made immediately.

The plane's only identification was the name, Globe-Swift, relayed to the Coast Guard by witnesses. The Coast Guard cutter Travis and a helicopter were dispatched to the crash scene from Miami.

Wagner to Fight Teamsters' Drive To Unionize Police

NEW YORK — (UPI) — A Teamsters official said Wednesday that organizers would wage a campaign in January and February to bring police in New York City and other parts of the nation into James R. Hoffa's union.

At the same time, the prospect of Teamster-affiliated policemen in the nation's largest city provoked a blistering statement from Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner. He said his administration would not countenance unionization of New York police by the Teamsters or any other union.

Henry Feinstein, head of a City Employes Teamster local, discussed plans for police unionizing at a conference with newsmen. He had announced previously that the union would begin picketing the New York police department Jan. 12.

Wednesday, he added that the drive would be extended from New York to other towns and cities throughout the country.

He said Teamster organizers already were active in police recruiting in Florida, from Palm Beach south to Key West. He said there was another union movement underway in Denver, Colo., but declined to say whether the Teamsters would attempt to move in there.

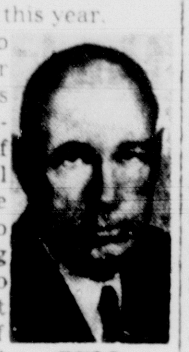
Wagner gave solid support to Police Commission Stephen P. Kennedy, who pledged Tuesday that every legal weapon would be used against any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

"I want to emphasize with all the sincerity and vigor at my command that this administration is opposed to any unionization of the police department and will take every stop to see that it doesn't happen," Wagner said.

New York's police also took a dim view of the Teamster plans. John Cassesse, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said that unionism was not for the police department. The PBA represents patrolmen in such things as grievances, but has no bargaining rights.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell



BELL

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeeesh."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

Outlook Warm for OB Game

Orange Bowl fans will be shirt-sleeved today while spectators shiver at the nation's other bowl games.

But there's "a chance of rain" here, Weatherman Sanford Neuman said. And if even a drop should fall it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25 year history.

"Last year it was sunny during the game. The showers held off until the game was over, and then it rained for three days," Neuman recalled.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasedena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

Takes Command

MANILA — (AP) — Maj. Gen. Manuel F. Cabal, brother-in-law of the late President Ramon Magsaysay, took over top command of the Philippine armed forces Wednesday. He succeeded Lt. Gen. Alfonso Arellano, who retired after 32 years service.

the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, and the Coliseum.

Capital Airlines had a plane speeding from snow-covered firs to a yellow-frond palm tree; Richards featured a sailboat, the Bon Homme Richard; the Fort Pierce Shrine Club clown unit drove a baby buggy, bicycles, row boat, and jalopies; Jordan Marsh displayed a moon-bound rocket.

Of course there were animals of all kinds. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriners hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a dragon.

Fish there were aplenty, with one of the biggest leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Florida living was made attractive on the patio built on the float of The Miami Herald. This included a fireplace with a chicken on the spit; and a small pool and diving board.

The Miami News stuck to the newspaper business in its float, with miniature presses rolling off papers as oversize reproductions of the front page were flashed on a huge screen.

The 10 theme floats recalled past glories of Orange Bowl Festival years and looked into dreams of the future. Subjects included Music, Events, Art and Production, Models, Costumes, Make-Up and other aspects of Miami Memories.

Last of the theme floats was entitled "Counting Our Blessings." Following it, and ending the parade, was the float of "Her Majesty The Queen," on which was enthroned Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene.

Although she had the place of honor, she was not the only royalty. Another participant had been Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, on the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University bands drew partisan cheers along the route. The football teams from those two schools meet this afternoon in the Orange Bowl classic. They were preceded by the U.S. Marine Fleet Band.

There also were bands from Omaha, Neb., Delray Beach, Bartlesville, Okla., Sylacauga, Ala., West Palm Beach, Tifton, Ga., Beacon, N.Y., Arcadia, Rockaway Beach, N.Y., Lake Worth, Fort Pierce, Columbus, Ga., Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, Fort Lauderdale, Albany, Ga., and all parts of Greater Miami.

Out-of-town floats were entered from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, and Fort Myers, along with those of Coral Gables, Miami, and Metro Dade County.

Mexican Boats Machinegunned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A press report Wednesday said Guatemalan planes machinegunned Mexican fishing boats off Guatemala's coast and some Mexicans were believed killed. There was no official confirmation.

The afternoon newspaper Ultimas Noticias in a dispatch from Salinas Cruz said the incident took place at the mouth of the Suchyate River, which divides the two countries.

Two Alices Waiting for Wonderland

. . . prize parade spots go early . . . .

They Waited All Afternoon For a Glimpse of Fairyland

By JOY REESE SHAW
Herald Staff Writer

The seats were front-row center on Flagler St.

Some were camp stools brought from home, and some were simply prize spots on a hard sidewalk.

In them, by noon, were Miamians settling down serenely to a long wait for the 1959 King Orange jamboree.

Why will people sit out the equivalent of an eight-hour working day to view a parade?

Two little girls provided the answer. A big girl confirmed it.

Pigtailed Rachel Cronan, 11, of 1637 SW Ninth St., and brown-eyed Patricia Ferber, 10, of 2126 NW Third St., spread out their newspapers on the sidewalk and tucked up their legs.

They were armed with a game of "Racko" and a portable Christmas radio.

"We'll hold the place and Mom will join us when she gets off work about 5:30 p.m.," Rachel explained. "She'll bring us something to eat and some wraps."

It was Pat's first Orange Bowl parade but Rachel explained she'd seen all of them.

"At least, all since I was born," she conceded.

What does she like best?

"The big balloons. They're so friendly and funny — and they almost nuzzle right up to you."

And why would a couple of little girls sit for hours on a cold, hard sidewalk to see a parade?

Rachel toyed with a blonde pigtail, gazed into the distance, and thought about it a moment. Pat, her straight dark hair lifting in the breeze, listened intently for the verdict.

Then: "When it comes," Rachel explained, "you feel all good and bubbly inside . . . like jumping up and running and running."

Pat nodded in understanding: "And people are happy."

"It makes you feel like a kid again," Rachel said.

You see, sometimes the world is very serious and girls worry about things.

"Like what you are going to look like when you grow up," said Pat. "Will you be pretty or not pretty—things like that . . ."

"Yes — and what kind of work you'll do, or if you'll be a housewife . . . if you'll be skinny and anybody will ask you to get married . . . stuff like that . . ." Rachel added.

There's quite a lot of responsibility when you are 10 and 11.

"When you were little and broke things, nobody fussed at you much," Pat pointed out . . .

"And school gets harder and harder," Rachel joined in.

And sometimes you even think about wars and it worries you . . .

"I wonder will it be here or there — or if there'll ever be a bomb in my yard sometimes," said Rachel . . .

"It makes you feel all chilled up inside," nodded Pat.

"But everything is beautiful and magic — and like real fairyland in the parade," Rachel announced softly.

"You feel thrilled . . ."

Down the street a grown-up child sat equally patient in her folding chair. Her hair was white and her voice was sweet.

She was Mrs. Mary Wagner, 1721 SW 19th St., and she was 73.

"I came promptly at 12 noon," she said, smiling.

Why?

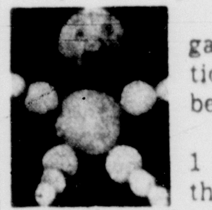
"I love EVERYTHING about a parade," she declared firmly.

"The music, the marching, the color, the fairyworld floats—the thrill of it. Cares float away."

And there it was, the answer:

For two wonderful hours, Miami is magic.

Today's the Day



The "Big Show" of King Orange's Silver Anniversary Jubilee goes on the road today.

There's the Oklahoma-Syracuse football game and ranking right with it for attention is the gigantic halftime spectacle of beauty, color and music.

The football classic gets under way at 1 p.m. this year, and for the early birds there's a pre-game show with more music, more fun and more color at 12:30 p.m.

Tickets, incidentally, for the few remaining seats will be on sale right up to game time.

Here's the rest of the festival schedule:

Police Face Annual 'Headache'

Watch Routes, Speed Traffic

By JAMES BUCHANAN
Herald Staff Writer

While Orange Bowl officials work to make today's festivities "the biggest and the most," Miami traffic police will be striving to keep the football game traffic jam "the littlest and the least."

"As many persons as possibly can should use public transportation and leave their cars either at home or well away from the stadium area," Inspector Denham of the traffic department said.

Besides the regular bus runs, Miami Transit Co. will operate its "Stadium Specials" from downtown direct to the south gate of the Orange Bowl. The buses will leave the corner of SE First St. and Miami Ave. at five-minute intervals beginning at 11 a.m.

Immediately after the game, buses will carry fans into the downtown area from the stadium's south gate and will operate as long as there are persons seeking rides.

For those who must drive their own cars, the city is opening a special parking lot for several thousand autos on NW 12th Ave., just north of the bridge.

"This parking is free," Denham said, "and the lot will be supervised by officers who will direct parking, watch over the cars and speed up the exiting traffic."

Private lots throughout the stadium area will be charging their "regular" Orange Bowl prices of $2 to $3 per car.

"Both those driving and those coming by bus should remember the pre-game entertainment begins at 12:30 p.m., and the game itself has been moved forward to 1 p.m.," Denham said.

"No-parking" areas will be clearly marked and violators' autos will be towed away during the game, the inspector reminded motorists.

More than 135 officers, including Florida Highway Patrol personnel, will be in the stadium area to handle the traffic and the mass exodus when the game is over.

"Take any street away from the stadium that will get you out of the area," Denham told drivers.

A helicopter, with traffic experts aboard, will hover over the streets at the conclusion of the game. Motorists can get helpful suggestions for avoiding jams by tuning 710 on their car radios.

Denham said this would be the first year that Bowl-bound traffic meets Tropical Park traffic going in the opposite direction. "Tropical's customers can help a great deal," he said, "by staying out of the Orange Bowl area enroute to the track and keeping well to the west."

Above all, the inspector said, "Motorists should keep a wary eye on pedestrian traffic, drive slow at all times, and never get behind the wheel if they've been drinking."

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

Booming Politics, Prosperity Predicted

Cabinet Expects Flourishing Florida in '59

By JOHN BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins and members of the State Cabinet sized up young 1959, and their predictions indicate the year ought to be a dilly from the standpoint of both prosperity and politics.

There was a degree of caution in the outlook, but Gov. Collins sounded the key to optimism with the observation that "Our economy probably is in better overall shape than at the beginning of any year."

And he sees plenty of political activity, too. "The 1959 legislative session will likely be the last session during my term as governor. I will not follow the usual pattern of term-ending governors, and seek to get by with as little controversy as possible. I intend to present a full legislative program this April."

Here is the composite forecast of the state's executive branch:

Radical legislation to deal with racial problems will be avoided, but local school administrators will be given greater flexibility, under the laws, to solve their own problems.

Continued growth will soup up the state's economy. Governmental revenue will improve, but it is unlikely the state will undertake new programs calling for substantial spending. The state should be able to get by without any tax increase.

There is hope for an equitable settlement of the reapportionment issue and a generally satisfactory revision of the state's constitution.

Traffic safety legislation will receive greater attention from the incoming Legislature, because high auto insurance rates are affecting constituent's pocketbooks and population growth is clogging urban roads with cars.

Wrinkles in Florida's new Division of Corrections, coordinating the state's penal institutions, will begin to smooth out and further advancement will be necessary in the fields of community planning, mental health, and recreation.

Tourist-wise 1959 should prove a banner year if there is an early resumption of normal airline service.

Industrially, Florida will continue to be the fastest-growing state in the Southeast.

By summertime, the natural gas pipeline will be completed throughout the Florida peninsula. This will attract new industry.

Agriculturally, the state should continue to expand. In the face of a 15-per-cent decline in farm income nationally, Florida's has increased seven per cent since 1950.

Gov. Collins believes "perhaps our biggest industrial growth this new year can be expected to come in the electronics field. And we should also experience a sizeable growth in our food processing industry."

The governor said he is not ready to detail his legislative program, but he is determined "that we can meet our responsibilities adequately without additional taxation—that we can cut our cloth to fit the pattern—that we can tailor expenditures to the existing revenue."

Collins said "We still have great legislative goals not yet met — constitutional revision and fair reapportionment of the Legislature, just to name two. I shall continue to press for their accomplishment to the fullest extent a governor lawfully and properly can."

Attorney General Richard Ervin declared the legislative year "should bring an end to much of the misunderstanding and mild frictional differences between sections of our state. The issues before the Legislature relating to reapportionment, state finances, and public functions are susceptible of being resolved harmoniously and fairly to all areas of the state.

Ervin predicted "The Legislature will not launch statutory programs widening the breach between the races, although it may find it advisable to allow a large degree of flexibility and local option to local school administrators and their people in solving local school problems."

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo believes that, "barring any unseen freezes or floods, Florida's commercial truck crop growers should come out in the black this year. Planted and harvested acreage for vegetables will slightly exceed that of 1956-57 —the year before last winter's freezes and floods—with increases in yields for all crops expected.

ERVIN

MAYO

"Citrus production came back faster than was expected and current indications are that there will be produced some 85 million boxes of oranges, 34 million boxes of grapefruit, and 4.5 million boxes of tangerines," Mayo reported.

State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson predicted "The Legislature will pass a realistic safety program, which will go a long way toward saving lives on our highways and reducing the terrific property loss from auto accidents.

"Much progress has been made," Larson said, "in gaining public support for recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Highway safety,

LARSON

GREEN

Larson forecast that "as Florida grows in other industrial fields, it will continue to attract insurance companies which are planning major expansions.

State Comptroller Ray E. Green asserted "The best days are still to come.

"I certainly see continued growth ahead for Florida. The pace, however, may have been slowed and our rate of growth and expansion may not meet previous high levels. The new growth is cautious and sound, and in the long run very substantial and solid.

Green said "We saw, graphically in 1958, how a recession, or a slowdown in business, in the rest of the nation can affect our state's economy. We also saw, equally as graphically, however, how our diversification of economic interests and our new industrial growth saved Florida from the severe and crippling recession pains suffered by other states.

BAILEY

GRAY

Superintendent of Schools Thomas D. Bailey warned "It will take full resources and concerted efforts of all interested in the welfare of our boys and girls to combat the isolated attacks on our schools, to seek solutions to many serious problems facing our educational system, and, possibly, even to save our free public school system from actual destruction."

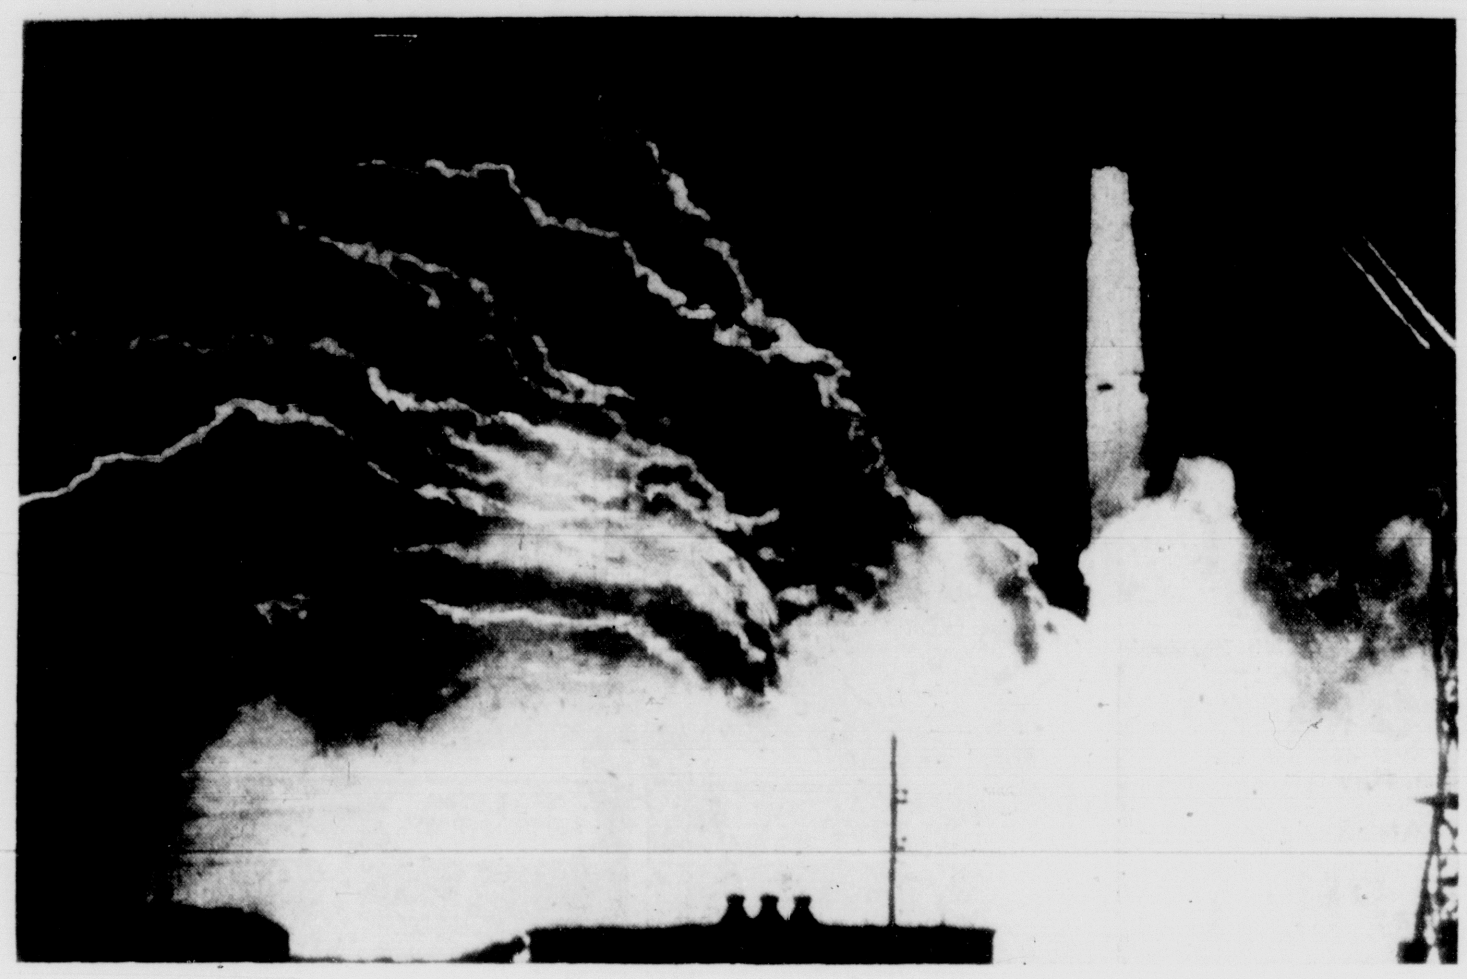
However, Bailey predicted "The people of Florida will rally to the support of public schools. Despite isolated talk of curtailing school funds because of the state's present financial condition, I believe Florida's school programs will be financed in full.

Secretary of State R. A. Gray, whose office issues charters for new business firms, said the trend of business activity is indicated by record daily output of new charters.

"We thought that, one day after Thanksgiving, we had reached an all-time high with 106 new charters in a single day; but the day after Christmas we had 144 — in one day.

"This indicates a much more rapid growth in corporations than I had ever imagined we would reach. This, boiled down, means we are having a lot of new business, whether small or large.

"I have always been an optimist," Gray said, "however, I think we should go into 1959 with cautious optimism, testing our way step by step.



Beginning of a Fizz

This is the fireworks display given off by a Thor rocket as it was launched at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral. The missile blew apart shortly after launching Tuesday night. Earlier in the day a Navy Polaris missile met with a similar fate when it was destroyed in flight. Rocketeers went to work at once to find out why two of their missiles went awry.

Synagogue 'Bomb' Is Shoebox

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — (AP) — An anonymous telephone call saying a bomb was placed at a synagogue and "set to go off in exactly 11 minutes," sent authorities rushing to the scene Tuesday night.

They found a shoebox crammed with railroad flares, one of them marked KKK, the usual symbol of the Ku Klux Klan.

Harold Flagg, a reporter for the Post-Times, got the call.

Flagg said a voice, perhaps recorded, told him:

"Listen carefully. I have just placed four sticks of TNT alongside the Jewish synagogue on North Flagler Street. It is set to go off in exactly 11 minutes. This is not a hoax. I repeat . . ."

Flagg said the message was repeated, then the connection was broken.

Within the time alloted by the telephone, Detective Sgt. William Kerr and Fire Captain Bim Powers led their men to the synagogue, blocked off streets and alerted Good Samaritan Hospital next door to the Jewish center.

Powers found the box, and cut a wire leading from the flares to a battery.

Detective E. J. McCann, who was on the call, commented "there was care taken in the assembly of the thing." It appeared innocent on the surface, he said.

The shoebox and its contents were to be shipped to the FBI lab in Washington for complete analysis, McCann said.

Asked by a newsman if he thought the flares could have ignited, he said it wouldn't be known definitely until tests are completed in Washington on the fuse assembly.

Mill Strike Is Ended

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— Striking electrical workers were called back to work Wednesday after the union and St. Regis Paper Co. reached an agreement.

Federal Mediator Gordon Duncan said union and management negotiated all day Tuesday and reached a settlement that night. The agreement was ratified by the union membership about 10:30 p.m.

Enhance His Political Future?

Collins May Visit Russia With Other State Governors

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins may visit Russia next summer.

He said the trip has been suggested for the nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference but "no arrangements have been made so far as I know. The whole project remains in an exploratory stage."

COLLINS

Collins said he could sum up the reaction of the council in this way:

"If the trip would likely result in good for the nation; if there is a request that we go from an approved sponsoring agency which is willing to pay the cost from non-tax sources; if the trip is approved by our own State Department; and if the Russians will welcome us, then I think the governors will go."

He asserted "it is premature to say that all of these ifs have been settled at this time, because I frankly do not believe that they have."

He said he hoped that all problematical factors will be cleared up by Feb. 23 when the executive committee meets in Biloxi, Miss.

Collins explained that the idea for the trip originated with Dr. John Ivey, executive vice president of New York University, who is a former executive secretary of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"There has been considerable visitation in Russia from the federal side of government," Collins said, "and Mr. Ivey feels that the executive committee of the Governors Conference could interpret for the Russians our federal-state relationship."

He said at the same time the governors would be able to present a composite report of their views on Russia that should be valuable to the United States. The trip, if it is taken, would come just before the 1959 National Governors Conference in Puerto Rico.

Although Collins said he knew little about preliminary details of the proposal "it ties in with my ideas that state officials ought to take more interest in international affairs." As chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Collins has been mentioned as Southern hopeful for a place on the national Democratic ticket.

If such an opportunity should arise, a trip to the Soviet Union might be an asset to his political future.

Four Men Spotted Shooting White Ibis

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE BEACH—Chandler Young, vice president of the Indian River Audubon Society, reported Wednesday that he watched four men shooting white ibis — a bird protected by federal law—on the south side of Sebastian Inlet.

Young, who was on the north side of the inlet fishing, said he saw 10 of the birds fall to the ground, but counted 100 shots fired. He said he watched the hunters for about four hours through powerful field glasses.

The society official plans to ask state and federal game officials to keep a closer watch there for further activity by hunters.

Rainy Debut Seen For the New Year

By United Press International

A rainy New Year's day was in store for most of sunny Florida, but the weatherman said Orange Bowl football fans should have nothing to worry about.

A low pressure system moving northeastward out of the Gulf was expected to bring showers over the north and central portions of the state Thursday. But only a few showers were likely in Miami and the extreme south.

Chief forecaster Walter Davis said Miami may get some rain, but said it probably wouldn't happen until after the Orange Bowl game.

He pointed out that tradition is on the side of football fans, because he said it never yet has rained during the annual new year's day classic.

The big worry, he said, was whether a squall line might develop in connection with the low pressure area.

This was what happened — and could happen again — last week when more than 12 inches of rain flooded Fort Lauderdale.

"It's kind of a toss-up situation," Davis said. "But for the present, we feel that south Florida has better than a 75 per cent chance for fair weather."

To date, South Florida has had some 6.77 inches of rain this month.

Execution Date Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins has signed a death warrant for execution of Willie Horne Jr., Jacksonville Negro, the week of Jan. 12 for the rape of a white grandmother.

The actual date for the electrocution will be set by the warden at Raiford Prison. Usually executions are carried out on Monday of the week in which they are scheduled.

Horne raped a 48-year-old woman near Jacksonville after halting the car in which she was riding and knocking out her escort with a heavy wrench.

RR's, Railway Express Petition For Rate Hike

Would Cost Shippers $300,000

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Railway express and railroads operating in Florida Wednesday requested increases which the State Utilities Commission estimated would cost shippers slightly more than $300,000 a year.

Railway Express asked for a 15 per cent increase in rates ed charges for switching, dicitrus gift packages, wearing apparel and certain carload traffic.

It would coincide with an interstate rate increase granted in October. Railway Express was given its last intrastate increase in November, 1957, and it affected only milk and cream products.

The Utilities Commission — which set Tuesday, Jan. 20, in Tallahassee, for a public hearing on the application, estimated the increase would cost Florida shippers $255,000 a year.

Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Tallahassee was set for the public hearing on the increased freight rates in Florida asked by Florida railroads. The commission estimated this hike, if granted, would cost shippers about $100,000 a year.

The railroads did not ask for any general percentage increase. Their application includes selective increases on certain commodities, some flat raises and some special percentage increases subject to both maximums and minimums.

They also asked for increas-1ed charges for switching, diversion, reconsignment, stop-offs for partial unloading and unloading.

The railroads were granted their last intrastate increase — amounting to nine per cent across the board — last April. It amounted in dollars and cents to about $593,000 a year, including $233,000 for Atlantic Coastline, $155,000 for Florida East Coast, $190,000 for Seaboard, $10,000 for L&N and a total of about $5,000 for all other lines.

Both Railway Express and the railroads cited increased wages and fringe benefits as the major reason for the proposed rate increases.

Anti-Trust Suit Motion Denied

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Federal Judge George W. Whitehurst has denied a motion to dismiss a 3¼-million dollar anti-trust suit against owners of the Sarasota Journal and Herald-Tribune.

David B. Lindsay, David B. Lindsay Jr. and the Lindsay Newspapers Inc., sought dismissal of the suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. McKinley and the Sarasota News Inc.

The News charged violations of both the Clayton and Sherman anti-trust laws in its action filed Aug. 26.

Youngster Chokes Self on Sandwich

JACKSONVILLE —(AP)— A 7-year-old boy choked to death while trying to eat a peanut butter sandwich, county investigators reported.

Lt. P. J. Pettersen of the sheriff's department said investigation was incomplete but information indicated that Charles E. Love choked on the sandwich Tuesday night at his home.

Two doctors from Cecil Field Naval Air Station, doing welfare work in the neighborhood, rushed to the Love home and performed surgery on the child's throat.

Pettersen said he and Deputy Sheriff R. P. McCauley were called to the scene at 7:15 p.m. after the child died.

Helicopter Escorts Trains at Crossings

ST. PETERSBURG —(AP)— A helicopter preceded all Seaboard Airline Railroad trains entering Pinellas county Wednesday sounding a warning to motorists to be cautious when approaching unguarded railroad crossings.

The helicopter, with a county patrolman aboard, flew directly in front of the trains and blared a siren and flashed a red light at each crossing. The craft picked up the trains as they entered the county and escorted them to the St. Petersburg city limits.

Several persons have been killed in recent weeks in a series of accidents at unguarded crossings.

County and railroad officials cooperated in the one-day project devised by a commercial firm to dramatize the need for alertness at railroad crossings.

LIFE WITH LARRY THOMPSON

Oklahoma Has the Best

AT THIS TIME every year I am privileged to introduce those brass-lunged visitors from Oklahoma who come to Miami regularly to see their football team beat the best that can be put up against them.

It's no wonder we're loud, partner, we got reason to be loud. Why we have the only state capitol in the whole world that doesn't have a dome on top, but has oil wells in its back yard.

We have more oil wells per square foot than Standard Oil has filling stations, and our oil is the oiliest that ever came out of the ground.

We have more Indians and we have more millionaires than any state anywhere.

Our millionaires are richer and our poor people are poorer, our politicians are louder and our pigs are fatter; when white faced cows die they go to our Hereford Heaven, and when a black Angus smells Oklahoma soil he snorts and yearns for home.

Our soil is redder and our clay is gummier; our dust is thicker and our rains are wetter; our tornadoes make a hurricane look like a spring breeze and our floods make a tidal wave look like a ripple in a bathtub.

When it's hot in our country, brother, it sizzles, and when it's cold, it would freeze an icicle's heart.

Our weather is as contrary as an old maid, and we have more of those than any place else, just like we have more pretty girls and they're the prettiest that ever came down any pike.

We've got the roughest roads and the best turnpike, we have the whitest cotton and the biggest boll weevils; we have the tallest corn and the spittinist grasshoppers, our rivers run dry when they feel like it and they change courses at the drop of a dewdrop.

I'm telling you, man, everything we have in Oklahoma has character.

The biggest catfish come from our state and so do the smallest scrub oak. Our dog wood is a sight to see, and when the wheat is good, it's so good the panhandle gets out of debt.

Our men have the toughest whiskers and our women folk bake the best biscuits. We have more bootleggers and more Baptists than the rest of the world put together. We have more churches and we have more juke joints, we have taller cowboys and buckiner bronchos, we got more of anything than anybody or anywhere.

Oh, sure, Texas claims a few more acres but how about the time Alfalfa Bill Murray called out our National Guard and threatened to invade Texas if they set foot on our side of the Red River?

The Texans shut up right quick, that's what happened, and if we have any trouble with this new state of Alaska, we can whittle her down to size the same way.

A lot of people get us confused with Texas, since they talk so big, but there's one way you can tell us apart. We Oklahomans are modest.

WE WERE ASKING awhile back about why women used to put egg shells in their coffee, and Teresa Fernandez, 820 NW 130th St., comes up with this explanation:

"Egg shells were put in boiled coffee to make the grounds settle and clear the coffee. In this day of percolators, drip, vacuum and automatic coffee makers, it's not necessary."

Our readers know the answers to about everything, particularly in the scientific world.

MR. AND MRS. R. RICKETTS, 537 SW 10th St., are natives of Kentucky. "We went on a vacation last summer," she says, "and ended up in Dead Horse Holler, and drove up Stinking Creek, to visit my brother."

Mrs. Ricketts also tells of the first day her son, now grown, attended kindergarten. The teacher had each pupil draw a picture and take it home to mother.

Her son drew a house with a fence around it and a long line of clothes hanging in the back yard, but there were two suns in the sky.

Mrs. Ricketts asked how come, and he said he wanted the clothes to get dry in a hurry.

NOW IS THE TIME to look back and figure out how much we accomplished during the past year. I think I'd better not do it. I'm afraid I wouldn't feel very accomplished.

QUESTION: What do we mean when we wish a friend "many happy returns of the day?" — M. C.

ANSWER: We are expressing the hope that his birthday will recur many times and that each recurrence will be a happy occasion for him. In other words, we are wishing him a long and happy life.

The phrase has become fixed with us solely as a greeting for birthdays. Until quite recently, however, it was applied to other occasions. Dr. Johnson wished his friends many happy returns on New Year's Day. And Charles Lamb wished his friends many happy returns of April Fools' Day.

I'm happy that you asked the meaning of this phrase because for years I was uncertain about it. Birthday presents played a large part in my childhood speculations and I thought returns here meant profit, like "returns on an investment." And I assumed that when you met a friend on his birthday you expressed the rational hope that he had received — or would receive — plenty of valuable presents.

Santa Clara Bid Crushed--Havana

Batista Troops Pound Retreating Rebel Units

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Government foot troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respites for the rebels," declared a source close to President Fulgencio Batista.

Batista remained in the presidential palace amid reports he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over Castro's insurgents soon.

Santa Clara's streets were described by a Batista spokesman as strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated that 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expects their flight toward easternmost Oriente province to gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle - raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive will be intensified once the rebels are pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there.

Insurgents still have the bulk of their forces in Oriente. They have entered or occupied a half dozen cities there and isolated the city of Santiago de Cuba. Some positions were given up by the government to rush reinforcements to Santa Clara.

The government, claiming Castro's bid to take Santa Clara and pose a threat to Havana has been smashed, said die-hard rebels in Santa Clara are being wiped out.

A late dispatch Wednesday night said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there harbored 200 rebels in a church and came out crying for peace although he carried a machinegun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American embassy to go to the U.S. Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the U.S.

Castro obviously had counted on a popular uprising in daring to make his first frontal attack against the army in the two-year-old rebellion. But the uprising did not come.

An urgent radio appeal for reinforcements came from one rebel commander, Victor Bordon Machado, indicating the outnumbered rebels were running short of fighters and ammunition.

Another rebel broadcast admitted its forces just west of Santa Clara were "no longer able to resist in the face of attack by tanks" and said "there are numerous dead and wounded."

There were growing indications that Castro, in a daring bid for a quick knockout blow, had stretched his supply lines too far in striking out from his Oriente fortress in the last month.

The rebels were outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in the Las Villas Province offensive against government forces which had been greatly reinforced within the last few weeks.

There were indications that Castro had counted on desertions from the government forces.

Batista shook up the army command, however, to strengthen loyalty to the government. He even drew on armored forces and warplanes from already hard-pressed units in Oriente Province to help out in Las Villas Province, which runs across the waistband of Cuba.

The insurgents, while making no victory claims in Las Villas, reported new successes in Oriente. One broadcast claimed the capture of Guantanamo City only 27 miles north of the big U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay.

We Stay in Berlin, West Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Western Allies, bluntly rejecting Soviet demands that they quit Berlin by June 1, challenged the Kremlin Wednesday to take part in a four-power conference on the overall problem of European security.

But the U.S., Britain and France warned the Russians in separate but similar notes that they will not take part in any diplomatic discussions "under menace or ultimatum."

The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union in unmistakable terms they do not intend to yield to the Russians' Nov. 27 demand that they leave West Berlin and allow the former German capital to become a Communist-encircled "free city."

They also served notice that they will not recognize the Communist regime of East Germany even if the Russians carry out their threat to turn over East Berlin and the corridors leading to the city to the East Germans.

The Western notes were drafted in Paris last week in consultation with the West German government. They received full backing Monday from the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All were in agreement that the West must insist that the Russians respect its right to remain in Berlin and to have access to the city in accordance with an Allied postwar agreement.

The notes were made public shortly after they were delivered to the Kremlin by the Western embassies in Moscow. U. S. officials were said to be anxious to get the U.S. note in the hands of Russian leaders in time for ample study before Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan leaves Moscow for a two-week visit to the U.S.

It is understood that Berlin is among the subjects Mikoyan wants to discuss with top authorities here. He is expected to arrive in this country by plane early next week.

But the U.S. and its Allies made it plain that they do not intend to negotiate with Russia over Berlin, or any other problem if the Kremlin intends to present them with any showdown ultimatum.

Miami Pilots Die In Broward Crash

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two Miami men were killed Wednesday when their small plane crashed in the ocean about a mile off Fort Lauderdale Beach.

Dead are Clair W. Barron, 28, of Hialeah, the instructor, and Len Jones, 24, of Miami, his student.

Barron's body was recovered and identified by William Conrad, president of Airlines Training Inc., Broward International Airport, which owned the Cessna 180. Jones' body is presumed to be with the plane. Navy divers volunteered to attempt to recover the plane and body.

A beach hotel doorman who saw the crash said the plane suddenly appeared to nose into the water. It fell east of Sunrise Blvd. in about 65 feet of water. The crash occurred about 3:45 p.m.

Conrad said both Barron and Jones, who was receiving advanced training, were "highly qualified" pilots. He could give no reason for the smash-up. Barron had been employed by Airlines Training Inc. as an instructor for the past six months.

Barron's body was recovered by the charter fishing boat, Peggy Anne.

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off Old OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivals will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback, Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on option.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Moon Mute Too Soon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's big Atlas satellite stopped "talking" Wednesday and the Defense Department indicated it believes the moon's batteries are dead or dying.

The department said Army ground stations were unable to trigger the Air Force satellite's transmitter.

The satellite was scheduled to receive and send back messages for 20 days but apparently has run out of steam after 12 days. It is expected to continue orbiting the earth until about Feb. 1 and then burn up in the atmosphere.

Thousands Pack Route Of March

Spectacle Turns Night to Day

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled parade and party.

For more than two hours as the colorful and tuneful procession moved along downtown Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., the 19-block route was brilliantly lighted as if by a million candles.

The 31 bands provided the sound effects for the 50 floats, and there were dozens of marching units and baton twirlers.

Then, to the delight of the children, there were clowns aplenty and gigantic balloons that ranged from a turkey and a kangaroo to a realistic stage coach, pulled by four plunging horses and protected by a shotgun guard as bandits tried to rob it.

The giant spectacle, which Maestro Ernie Seiler proudly proclaimed the Orange Bowl Festival's proudest effort, was witnessed by crowds that jammed the curbs and sidewalks, filled hotel and office building windows, and sought vantage spots from fire escapes, the courthouse steps and on roofs.

The police preliminary estimate of 400,000 spectators seemed certain to have been fulfilled. At least the crowds made an early start toward reaching that number. By noon, scores of early arrivals already had established themselves in folding chairs or on blankets at curbs along the parade route, fortified for the long wait with lunch boxes and thermos jugs.

By the 7 p.m. stepoff time, when the police escort drove into Biscayne Blvd. from the Dupont Plaza assembly area, there wasn't room left for a lifted arm.

Early threats of showers disappeared by parade time, but a brisk southeast breeze made the low 70 temperature chilly for those who neglected to wear coats or sweaters. There was no indication, however, that any of the hundreds of scantily clad models on floats or baton twirlers developed any goose pimples.

The parade participants outdid themselves for this Silver Anniversary presentation in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally, to cover its float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright—if artificial—flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. float, which featured gorgeous models.

All types of transportation were depicted in the glittering procession.

Southern Dairies had a surrey, naturally with a fringe on top, led by a white horse; Eastern Air Lines had a prop-jet plane flying just as if there were no strike; Pan American World Airways showed a Clipper soaring over

Won't Unionize Police Until They Ask, Hoffa Says

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa said Wednesday his union will try to organize policemen only if they ask to be organized. Even then, he said, they should not be allowed to strike.

Hoffa also ruled out any attempt by the Teamsters to halt deliveries to the New York police department in a drive to organize that city's law officers.

Hoffa's comments, issued by his headquarters in response to newsmen's requests for a policy statement, conflicted with an earlier announcement by Henry Feinstein, head of a New York City Employes' Teamster local.

Feinstein had said union members would cut off deliveries to the police department by setting up picket lines which members of the huge truck union would refuse to cross. Later, however, Feinstein retreated and said deliveries would move across picket lines.

Hoffa said "there will be no such service interruption by this international union now or at any time in the future." He said any talk of service interruption is "sheer nonsense."

A Teamster spokesman said any picketing would merely advertise the intention of the Teamsters to organize New York's policemen.

Hoffa said his union plans to organize all public employes, not only policemen.

"Police organization will be undertaken by the Teamsters' union only if they come to us seeking such organization," he said. He did not say whether he had received such requests.

But he said that even if policemen were unionized they should not have the right to strike because of the "emergency nature of their service to the general public."

The Teamster leader said police should be unionized to obtain machinery for arbitration of their grievances.

"We also feel that machinery is needed to eliminate the practice of leaving the police officers' welfare to the whims of department heads who quite often decide human relations on the basis of favoritism and politics," Hoffa said.

Wagner gave solid support to Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, who pledged Tuesday that every legal weapon would be used against any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

"I want to emphasize with all the sincerity and vigor at my command that this administration is opposed to any unionization of the police department and will take every step to see that it doesn't happen," Wagner said.

New York's police also took a dim view of the Teamster plans. John Cassesse, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said that unionism was not for the police department. The PBA represents patrolmen in such things as grievances, but has no bargaining rights.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.

BELL

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeeesh."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

25th Anniversary Parade a Knockout

the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, and the Coliseum.

Capital Airlines had a plane speeding from snow-covered firs to a yellow-frond palm tree; Richards featured a sailboat, the Bon Homme Richard; the Fort Pierce Shrine Club clown unit drove a baby buggy, bicycles, row boat, and jalopies; Jordan Marsh displayed a moon-bound rocket.

Of course there were animals of all kinds. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriners hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a dragon.

Fish there were aplenty, with one of the biggest leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Florida living was made attractive on the patio built on the float of The Miami Herald. This included a fireplace with a chicken on the spit; and a small pool and diving board.

The Miami News stuck to the newspaper business in its float, with miniature presses rolling off papers as oversize reproductions of the front page were flashed on a huge screen.

The 10 theme floats recalled past glories of Orange Bowl Festival years and looked into dreams of the future. Subjects included Music, Events, Art and Production, Models, Costumes, Make-Up and other aspects of Miami Memories.

Last of the theme floats was entitled "Counting Our Blessings." Following it, and ending the parade, was the float of "Her Majesty The Queen," on which was enthroned Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene.

Although she had the place of honor, she was not the only royalty. Another participant had been Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, on the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University bands drew partisan cheers along the route. The football teams from those two schools meet this afternoon in the Orange Bowl classic. They were preceded by the U.S. Marine Fleet Band.

There also were bands from Omaha, Neb., Delray Beach, Bartlesville, Okla., Sylacauga, Ala., West Palm Beach, Tifton, Ga., Beacon, N.Y., Arcadia, Rockaway Beach, N.Y., Lake Worth, Fort Pierce, Columbus, Ga., Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, Fort Lauderdale, Albany, Ga., and all parts of Greater Miami.

Out-of-town floats were entered from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, and Fort Myers, along with those of Coral Gables, Miami, and Metro Dade County.

Deaths Elsewhere

EDWARD S. (NED) JORDAN, 76, founder of the old Jordan Motor Car Co. of Cleveland, who entered the automotive field in 1907, at New York.

JOSEPH ALBERT CRAIG, 91, a retired vice president of General Motors, at St. Petersburg, Fla.

MRS. RIPLEY HITCHCOCK, 89, long prominent in New York art circles and women's affairs, at Greenwich, Conn.

MRS. ROBERT G. HUMPHREYS, 64, a nurse who founded St. Paul's Hospital in Livermore, Calif., and operated it for 28 years, at Trenton, N.J.

CHARLES S. HARRIS, European supervising engineer for the Westinghouse Electric Corp., at Thionville, Moselle, France.

THE MOST REV. CHARLES HUBERT LEBLOND, 75, retired bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of St. Joseph, at St. Joseph, Mo.

HAROLD F. BLANCHARD, 68, a retired editor of Motor Magazine, at Tuckahoe, N.Y.

JAMES J. TIERNEY, 76, former secretary of the New York Giants now San Francisco Giants baseball club, at Troy, N.Y.

DR. ADOLF KOBER, 79, widely-known rabbi and Jewish historian, at New York.

Mexican Boats Machinegunned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A press report Wednesday said Guatemalan planes machinegunned Mexican fishing boats off Guatemala's coast and some Mexicans were believed killed. There was no official confirmation.

The afternoon newspaper Ultimas Noticias in a dispatch from Salinas Cruz said the incident took place at the mouth of the Suchyate River, which divides the two countries.

Engineers and EAL Review Peace Plan

Striking flight engineers and Eastern Air Lines officials resumed separate talks with a federal mediator Wednesday under heavy pressure to settle the 39-day walkout.

The two sides screened a previously rejected proposal, item by item, to reduce their points of disagreement.

Officials of the Flight Engineers International Association turned down the offer, submitted by Federal Mediator Warren Lane, in a package deal Monday.

The company and union expressed hope, however, that the proposal might be acceptable if agreement is reached on a few disputed points.

"I don't think it will last much longer — there is great pressure on each side," one of the participants commented.

Lane's proposal was revived after the engineers refused to go along with a plan offered Tuesday by the National Mediation Board. The company had accepted the plan.

Outlook Warm for OB Game

Orange Bowl fans will be shirt-sleeved today while spectators shiver at the nation's other bowl games.

But there's "a chance of rain" here, Weatherman Sanford Neuman said. And if even a drop should fall it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25 year history.

"Last year it was sunny during the game. The showers held off until the game was over, and then it rained for three days," Neuman recalled.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasadena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

Arizonan Peeks, Sees New Flag

NOGALES, Ariz. — (AP) — A new American flag, apparently following the government-approved design recognizing Alaska as a state, arrived in this Mexican border town Wednesday.

Publisher H. R. Sisk of The Nogales Daily Herald, who got a peek at the flag in a stationary store, said it consists of the present 13 stripes and has a square blue field containing seven rows of seven stars each.

Debre Gets French Bid As Premier

PARIS — (UPI) — Informed political quarters reported Wednesday that Premier Charles de Gaulle has formally asked Gaullist Leader Michel Debre to be the first premier of France's Fifth Republic.

Debre is a 46-year-old lawyer who has been justice minister in De Gaulle's provisional government. An official communique on his appointment was expected to be issued next week.

Sources said that in selecting Debre for the top post, De Gaulle over-ruled strong opposition of European unification advocates who considered Debre too nationalistic and cool toward the idea of a united Europe.

DeGaulle, who has been premier since he returned to power June 1, will take over Jan. 8 as first "strongman" president of the Fifth Republic, with one of his extensive powers being that of naming the premier.

Ike and Mamie Just Baby-Sit

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — (UPI) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower spent New Year's Eve baby-sitting with their four grandchildren and playing host to some grown-ups at a small dinner party.

The Eisenhowers quietly rang in the New Year at their Gettysburg farm after the President worked during the day on a new draft of his Jan. 9 State of the Union message.

New Year's Storm Hits Midwest

Snow and Ice Peril Traffic

CHICAGO — (UPI) — A New Year's Eve snowstorm spanned the Midwest Wednesday night, icing roads and heightening the dangers of holiday traffic.

The snows were driving eastward through the Ohio Valley and sent out advance warnings in the form of thickening clouds into the Northeast.

The storm climaxed the nation's coldest December since 1917 and left scores of towns and cities digging out in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roads opened in the West, clearing the way for hundreds of motorists to continue their holiday travels, but snow piled up rapidly along roads in Missouri, eastern Kansas, and western Illinois. To the South, snow and freezing rain spread a sheet of ice along highways from south Central Missouri across Illinois into western Indiana.

As the storm moved eastward, heavy snows began falling on Chicago and threatened to mount to four inches deep. Weathermen predicted up to five inches of snow through southern Wisconsin, northern Indiana, Lower Michigan and Ohio. New snows were already eight inches deep at Concordia, Mo.

Other new snow depths included two to four inches in Oklahoma, seven inches at Clifton City, Mo., and two inches in Colorado, where an unheralded storm sneaked in without warning from the Weather Bureau. Forecasters explained that they had probably lost track of the storm when it moved over Washington state high in the atmosphere.

The Missouri highway patrol put its largest force in history, 455 men, on the snowswept roads to control New Year's Eve traffic. The patrol information officer, Lt. F. W. Shadwell, asked Missourians to do their celebrating at home, adding: "If you have to get out, use caution."

Although the snows which swept the plains were not rated in the blizzard class in most areas, they were listed as the cause of at least 46 deaths.

Almost all the deaths were in traffic, which worked itself into monumental snarls in Southwest cities. A two-inch snow at Dallas created the biggest traffic jam in memory Tuesday night and many workers hadn't reached home by Wednesday morning.

In Oklahoma City, hazardous roads were blamed for poor business in downtown stores and the Tinker Air Force Base urged its 14,000 workers to take their annual leave but avoid traveling.

Sen. Kennedy Out of Hospital

BOSTON — (AP) — U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was discharged from New England Baptist Hospital Wednesday where he had been under treatment for five days with a virus condition.

He left immediately by plane for the Palm Beach, Fla., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

Flying Home

LONDON — (AP) — The U.S. embassy announced Wednesday Ambassador John Hay Whitney will fly home Sunday for a three-week vacation at his Georgia farm near Thomasville.

Twelfth Month Snow, Rain, Stays Over to Greet New Year

LOWER EAST COAST, KEYS — Considerable cloudiness with risk of showers. High in upper 70s. East to southeast winds at 12 to 22 miles an hour.

Statistics

MIAMI readings at 6 p.m. Wednesday: Skies, cloudy; temperatures, 74 degrees; winds from the southeast at 12 miles an hour; barometer, 30.04 inches; relative humidity, 64 per cent.

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

Boom to Bring Headaches To Melbourne-Eau Gallie

(Last of a two-part series)

By BILL BUNGE

Melbourne Bureau Chief

BUNGE

MELBOURNE — You won't know the old place if all the people settle in the greater Melbourne-Eau Gallie area in the next five to 10 years that population forecasters claim.

There won't only be a lot of people here, but the predicted population influx of the next decade will force other kinds of growth necessary to turn this section into the big metropolitan area of Brevard County.

Air Force prognosticators predict 60,000 residents in the Melbourne-Eau Gallie area by 1963, which is 23,000 more than expected in the Cocoa-Rockledge area and 33,000 above Titusville's northern part of the county.

Anthony F. Pimentel of Fort Lauderdale, professional planning engineer employed by Melbourne to develop a 25-year master plan, culled the population estimates a bit closer and claims Melbourne proper should have 48,000 residents in the next 10 years.

* * *

BUT WHAT WILL all these new people do to this section of Brevard, you ask?

Well, Pimentel, who's supposed to be able to tell cities how to plan for future growth, has turned out some facts on changes to come to Melbourne during the next 10 years.

This city's case, probably typical of what neighboring towns can expect, was used because the planner was most familiar with the Melbourne situation.

Melbourne probably will have greatly expanded boundaries to handle all the new residents. The city recently took in a considerable number of undeveloped territory, and currently is dickering for more.

Pimentel says that local employment — besides at the Air Force Missile Test Center — will have to be given to 20 per cent of the city population. He suggested development of an industrial park to handle this situation.

However, some city officials feel the industrial park will develop naturally because the municipality has hundreds of acres of airport property zoned for industrial use.

* * *

MANY INDUSTRIAL and business firms are located there already, including Radiation, Inc., Melbourne's largest industry.

Here are some other needs that will have to be met by 1968, according to the planner: boost in elementary school seats for 4,471 children, 2,238 junior high school seats, 2,429 high school seats, 5,900 off-street parking spaces, and 12,061 dwelling units.

Pimentel claims that the 1968 population projection will cause 396,000 to 590,000 miles of inter and intra-city travel on Melbourne streets, excluding tourist travel.

The 10-year population growth also will require four times the present fire fighting equipment and personnel. This same growth need will hit the police department.

* * *

MELBOURNE'S BUSINESS area will spread out greatly, and a new shopping area — already started — will go along Babcock St., between Melbourne and Eau Gallie.

New construction projects planned by city officials for the municipal airport should help carry the air traffic load Pimentel sees for that facility in 10 years.

"A conservative conclusion on air travel requirements is that Melbourne Airport must be able to provide between 1,100 per cent and 1,200 per cent of its present service," declared Planner Pimentel.

Those suggested changes only scratch the surface, because there should be many more, he added.

St. Lucie Lauded For Park Plans

Interest Is Shown By State

By DOUG SILVER

Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — An ocean front state park for St. Lucie County moved into clearer focus Wednesday when the county commission made public a letter from Emmet L. Hill, director of the State Park Service, expressing definite interest in the project.

The letter was the result of recent discussions between county commissioners and various park board officials including members John Pennekamp, Mrs. Kathryn Abbey Hanna and Director Hill.

State Senator Harry Kicliter has also been working on the plan to provide the state with a 100 foot right-of-way several miles long fronting along the Atlantic Ocean on Hutchinsons's Island near Fort Pierce.

St. Lucie County claims the right of way since it was the site of an old road, but a circuit court suit has been filed by adjacent property owners protesting the claim.

In his letter Park Director Hill praised the commissioners for their efforts "to preserve this stretch of beach for public use".

He added that he hoped the county would win its suit because "such stretches of beach are becoming increasingly necessary for the public welfare. It is my opinion that our board would gladly entertain a proposal at the proper time for thefor the estment of a state park in this area."

The letter stated that since a 100 foot strip several miles long is not feasible for state park development it will be necessary to acquire more width for public facilities, parking and picnic areas.

Hill suggested this could be done by exchange of lands and consolidation of the long strip into one or two areas of adequate size for recreation facilities — extending from the ocean to the Indian River.

County Commission Chairman B. Y. Free said, that if and when the current litigation clears up the county's title to the 100 foot right of way strip, then the next step will be to follow the park board's suggestions.

Standards On Roads Tightened

By ANNE WILDER

Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — St. Lucie County commissioners served notice Wednesday that one of their first New Year's resolutions is to prevent any more building of marl and dirt roads in the county.

The commissioners instructed county attorney Ralph Wilson to see just what legal force the "tentative approval" given subdivision plats in the past carries.

Just before the present plat-filing regulations went into effect, a number of developers asked for "tentative approval" of subdivisions.

Since that time, individual units of these subdivisions have been brought in — for approval under the old regulations, which do not require paved streets.

In urging that no more of the old "tentative approval" obligations be honored, Commissioner Douglas Silver pointed out that all new developers are meeting the new requirements, which include paving of streets.

"We were told that the stiff requirements would drive developers out of St. Lucie county," Silver said. "But we have more developing than ever before — and better developing."

The commission held up their decision on allowing the use of soil cement for road construction under the plat filing regulations. The General Development Company, a Mackle firm, has asked approval for this type of road building.

The plat filing committee of the county has given its okay, with the provision that specifications modeled on requirements of the State Road Department be followed.

Wednesday, commissioners were hesitant about endorsing the new type of material without further study, but promised a decision Jan. 7.

County Commission Chairman B. Y. Free announced at the commission meeting that Road Board member William Singer will visit this county Jan. 13 at the invitation of the commission. This will be the road board member's first official visit here.

Rebel Sympathizers Hold Protest Meeting

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — For the third consecutive day, Cuban rebel sympathizers here publicly protested alleged aerial bombings in their country's civil war.

Between four and eight persons quietly picketed the Federal building here all day Wednesday. As in the past two days, their demonstration was orderly.

They carried Cuban and U.S. flags, plus posters denouncing the bombing of "innocent mothers and children in Cuba's cities." A similar demonstration, attended by some 50 persons, was staged before the same building Monday afternoon.

Tuesday night the supporters of Rebel Chieftain Fidel Castro shifted their public activities to Bayview Park in front of a bust of Jose Marti, Cuba's War of Independence hero.

Marti conducted many of his revolutionary activities from this island during the 1898 struggle to liberate Cuba from Spain.

At the Tuesday night meeting, the Fidelistas read a letter of protest being sent to the U.N. and the Organization of American States, roundly denounced Cuban President Fulgencio Batista and took up a collection for the rebel cause, which netted $40.

Airline Co-Pilot Is Hunted

By HARRY CAICEDO

Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Immigration and border patrol agents were on the lookout Wednesday for a Cuban commercial pilot who "jumped ship" here Tuesday evening at the International airport.

Federal authorities identified the man as Canadelario Delgado, a co-pilot on the Havana-Key West flight 955 of Aerovias Q Airways.

Delgado, it was reported, cleared through immigration and customs in routine fashion as required of all personnel on international flights.

But when the flight was ready to return to Havana, about 20 minutes later, the Cuban flyer had disappeared.

No one has positively admitted seeing Delgado leave the airport, but it was rumored that he drove off with two men in a station wagon.

Local sources speculated that Delgado is still in Key West.

Officials at Q Airways said Delgado is about 37 years old and had been flying with the airline for approximately 10 years. The could offer no explanation for his disappearance.

Sources close to the Cuban situation thought that Delgado may have been escaping forced duty in the Cuban Air Force and missions against his rebel countrymen.

Immigration officials said if Delgado is caught deportation proceedings would be started immediately.

Martin Company Gets Contract

ORLAND, Fla. — (AP) — The Martin Co., missile electronics Contractors, Wednesday was awarded a 54 million dollar contract to continue research and development of the Pershing weapon system.

Pershing is the U. S. Army's selective range, surface-to-surface ballistic missile system which has built-in guidance equipment to keep it heading on target without possibility of outside jamming.

Martin is responsible for engineering, research, laboratory and testing facilities, and system support for the development of the Pershing program.

Developers of River Park

Naples Councilmen Reject Street Bond Renewal Bid

By TOM MORGAN

Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — The developers of River Park, Negro housing area and subdivision, "haven't shown good faith" in carrying out construction of streets and utilities the City Council decided Wednesday.

It refused renewal of a street paving completion bond beyond the present 90 days left in the old bond dated 1953.

"They haven't shown good faith in going ahead," said Councilman Archie Turner. "They've taken almost twice the time others have."

"The corporation is gradually going out of business, isn't it?" questioned Councilman Bill Berry. He explained later he meant, "they're selling the corporate assets."

The developers are the Naples Development Corp. headed by Henry B. Watkins. The firm's board of directors is virtually a list of the area's most outstanding citizens.

In addition to Watkins, the board includes I. A. Sartorius, Barron Collier Jr., S. E. Hunkin, Mrs. Mary Morris, J. G. Sample, S. F. Briggs, Julis Fleischmann, Roy Ingram, Lester Norris and Thad Moss.

The group formed the firm to develop a large tract along the river into Negro housing with apartments and home sites. Watkins said Tuesday the outfit is neither intended as a charity nor a money-making proposition but to provide housing "on business-like lines."

So far it has spent $275,000, he said, in building five apartments with 54 units to replace slum-like quarters formerly used by Negroes.

"We're trying to work with the city, not against it," Watkins said.

He explained the firm now has "too much property and too little money" but an approaching sale of the section of land between Tenth Street and the railroad north of Carver school would finance two more apartments of 24 units.

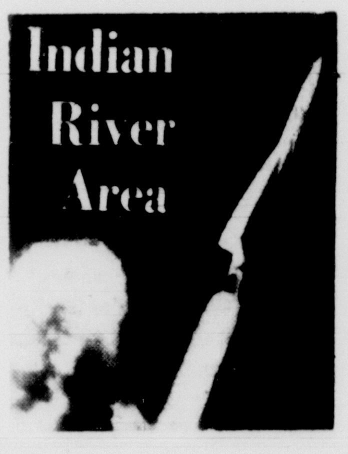
"There's no particular need for more improvements now," Watkins said. "We'll put them in when the purchase is made but there is no attempt to evade responsibility."

Manager Fred Lowdermilk at the council session said, "we want the water mains to go in" and said that as a result of lack of water there are no useable sanitary facilities at the colored recreation center.

He implied this was the developers' fault but the city is rectifying it "just this morning" by having a two-inch water line installed "and also fixing the sewer."

Aged Couple Hit By Truck in Vero

VERO BEACH — A West Orange, N.J. couple is in Indian River Memorial Hospital after being hit by a truck while walking across U.S. 1 near 17th Street at the south city limits of Vero Beach.



Mr. and Mrs. David A. Jenks, both 69, were spending Tuesday night at the Landmark Motel and apparently were returning to the motel from Howard Johnson's Restaurant across the highway.

Police have placed no charges against James Newton, 44-year-old Negro driver of the two-and one-half-ton truck who lives at Lincoln Park, Gifford, north of Vero Beach.

The hospital reported Mr. Jenks in critical condition Wednesday and Mrs. Jenks in poor condition.

COCOA — Brevard County United Appeal officials Wednesday reported they have ended their fund-rasing effort with $140,516 in their kitty. The campaign, which had dragged overtime, reached its $140,000 quota two weeks ago when an anonymous donor kicked in the last $2,000 needed.

Here Are Ships Due To Transfer

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — The Navy Wednesday released the names of the eight submarines and two surface ships which will be permanently transferred to Charleston, S.C., during 1959.

Topping the list is the submarine tender Howard W. Gilmore, which has made its homeport here since 1946. The other surface vessel is the submarine repair ship, USS Petrel.

The subs are the Corporal, Amberjack, Chivo, Sennet, Thornback, Clagamore, Odax and Trumpetfish.

The first four are from Submarine Squadron 12. The others, as well as the Gilmore and Petrel, are units of Submarine Squadron Four.

Capt. Sam Loomis, chief of staff at the Naval Base here, said that under current plans for the first phase of the fleet dispersal program, the Navy intends to complete the transfer by Aug. 1.

The first vessel to leave will be the Thornback, whose homeport will be officially changed to Charleston effective Feb. 1. Other units will leave gradually over the transfer period, Loomis said.

Atom Dose Perils Life Of Expert

LOS ALAMOS, New Mexico — (UPI) — A technician at the top-secret scientific laboratory here was in critical condition Wednesday after receiving a heavy overdose of radiation Tuesday in what was termed a "normally safe" operation.

The injured man was identified as Cecil W. Kelley, of Los Alamos. A spokesman for the atomic installation, birthplace of the atomic bomb, said Kelley was engaged in a plutonium metal recovery operation when the accident occurred.

Details of the mishap were not released, but it was believed the first at Los Alamos for this operation.

Construction Lags in 2 Other Cities

Cocoa Beach Sets Building Record

By DAN BROWN

Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA BEACH — Building broke all records here during 1958, but construction slowed in the other cities of central Brevard.

This city's building permits reached $1,862,005 as 1958 ended—almost six times the total for 1957.

In central Brevard's other two cities, Cocoa and Rockledge, permits were $1,208,219 below the figures for 1957. Figures for unincorporated areas were not available Wednesday.

The Ko-Ko Motel — a $1,200,000 resort being put up by Dr. and Mrs. Meyer Koch of Fort Lauderdale — and the rapid expansion of Cocoa Beach accounted for the city's gain.

The motel is goin up on State Rd. A1A frontage which wasn't part of Cocoa Beach until two months ago. It was taken in under an annexation program which has more than doubled the city's size since last August.

A permit for the Ko-Ko was issued in November and made that month the year's record month. The total for the month was $1,396,000.

Totals for other months were January, $800; February, $17,600; March, $55,200; April, $117,500; May, $75,555; June, $18,400; July, $6,350; August, $23,200; September, $57,250; October, $70,150; and December, $24,150.

The figures don't reflect the construction of several subdivisions which were built, then annexed to the city.

In Cocoa $5,329,905 worth of building got under way during 1958. The figure for 1957 was $6,727,813, a record year for the city.

In Rockledge permits fell from their 1957 peak of $1,322,978 to a 1958 total of $900,152.

Most of Cocoa's total represented new homes—396 of them for a total value of $4,150,145—but the figure was below 1957 when 468 new homes were constructed.

Commercial permits issued in Cocoa included one for $200,000. It was for the Sherwood building, an office and store building going up on the city's riverfront.

Most of Rockledge's 1958 permits went to Rockledge Estates Inc., a new subdivision in the city's western section.

October was Cocoa's briskest building month—$879,200 worth of permits were issued then. In Rockledge the big month was May with $210,477.

The Palm Beaches Greet a New Year In Proper Manner

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES—Snappy New Year! The Palm Beaches are wearing an ice cap this morning (on both its heads) and many are trembling like an aspirin leaf, as the old lady said.

Mrs. Smith

This morning there are still echoes of Auld Lang Syne as the Palm Beaches sweep up confetti, and toss paper hats and horns into the discard, along with the old year. There were celebrations at the Everglades Club, the Bath and Tennis Club, the Sailfish Club, hotels, night spots, and in private homes.

Egg nog parties and coffees dot the social landscape today, to climax a week of holiday partying.

Mrs. Nelle F. Smith, 215 Marlboro Rd., is among those who are holding open house all day. The Vince Mattesons, 1301 S. Flagler, had a New Year's Eve party with supper served at midnight.

A holiday party of unusual charm was that at the American Legion, given by four sets of parents for their pretty teenage daughters, and attended by some 250 members of the younger set.

Parents and daughters were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Russell and Jodi; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powell III, and Clair; and Mr. and Mrs. Sam O. Smith and Susan; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Sparks and Sally Anne.

The auditorium was in holiday array with a Christmas tree, poinsettias and tinsel, while a mistletoe "kissing ring," was suspended from the ceiling by a red satin ribbon.

The serving tables were appointed in linen and lace and gleaming with silver.

The girls were in formal evening frocks and danced the first number with their fathers. The music was gay and danceable, but not Rock 'N' Roll.

Spinsters Party Annual Event

PARTY CHATTER, festive decorations, and New Year's wishes were all in evidence last Friday night when the Spinsters Cotillion Club members held their eighth annual Christmas cocktail party. It was held at 1414 N. Ocean Blvd., in Palm Beach.

A number of out of town guests were at this party, including members of Fort Lauderdale Bachelors Club.

Hostesses were Mary Ellen Balfe, Maryanne O'Donnell, Joanne Anderson, Nancy Barney, Connie Cernea, Pasy Gibson, Joyce Gonzalez, Betty Grill, Mary Ann Anderson, Joan Dunlop, Mary Jo Hartwell, Theo Gibson, Barbara McCullough, Gail Hargadon, Joan Murphy, Barbara Nicholson, Reba Sterling, Betty Lee Thaxton, Barbara Wedgeworth, and Maureen Hinnegan.

We mention their names, because chances are that some of them will be brides by this time next year. It's long been a legend, "Join the Spinsters and Get Married."

One Holiday Party Saw Snake

LEAVING TOMORROW after a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Middleton, 1016 Almeria Rd., are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Middleton, and son, Richard O. Middleton, II (named for his grandpa.) Dick and Janet will go to Athens, Ga. They were here for the party given during the week by the Gordon Potters.

* * *

WHEN THEY SAW the snake, some guests thought they were really "seeing things." The snake, carried by a small boy, was a very short time guest at the cocktail buffet given by Dr. and Mrs. Russell M. Martin.

It was carried in by their grandson, Kim, who thought the snake entitled to go to the party.

Coming from Decatur, Ill., with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Martin; brother, Rusty, and sister, Nancy Lou, to spend the holidays Kim had written that he hoped to catch a snake and an alligator in Florida.

So the senior Martins acquired a small garter snake and a 10-inch alligator and presented it to the children. They were delighted. The snake escaped, returned, and has now departed again, and the alligator succumbed to too much petting. But the sight of that snake at the party created a sensation.

Synagogue 'Bomb' Is Shoebox

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The fake bomb planted at Temple Israel, 1901 N. Flagler Dr., had the earmarks of a collegiate prank, police said Wednesday.

Police, sheriff's men, FBI agents, and firemen converged on the Jewish Synagogue after an anonymous caller late Tuesday claimed a bomb had been planted at the temple.

The area was evacuated and Good Samaritan Hospital alerted for possible casualities.

Within 10 minutes, police found the fake bomb cushioned in wood shavings in a shoe box. It was made of four railroad flares, wiring and an alarm clock. The letters "KKK" were written on the flares.

Police said Wednesday they were following "every possible lead" in an effort to apprehend the bomb hoaxer.

Police believe the hoax may have been the work of pranksters.

The city of West Palm Beach recently passed a law against bomb hoaxes and provided stiff penalties.

Rain Due To Start New Year

By United Press International

A rainy New Year's day was in store for most of sunny Florida, but the weatherman said Orange Bowl football fans should have nothing to worry about.

A low pressure system moving northeastward out of the Gulf was expected to bring showers over the north and central portions of the state Thursday. But only a few showers were likely in Miami and the extreme south.

Chief forecaster Walter Davis said Miami may get some rain, but said it probably wouldn't happen until after the Orange Bowl game.

He pointed out that tradition is on the side of football fans, because he said it never yet has rained during the annual New Year's day classic.

The big worry, he said, was whether a squall line might develop in connection with the low pressure area.

This was what happened — and could happen again — last week when more than 12 inches of rain flooded Fort Lauderdale.

"It's kind of a toss-up situation," Davis said. "But for the present, we feel that south Florida has better than a 75 per cent chance for fair weather."

To date, South Florida has had some 6.77 inches of rain this month.

Execution Date Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins has signed a death warrant for execution of Willie Horne Jr., Jacksonville Negro, the week of Jan. 12 for the rape of a white grandmother.

The actual date for the electrocution will be set by the warden at Raiford Prison. Usually executions are carried out on Monday of the week in which they are scheduled.

Horne raped a 48-year-old woman near Jacksonville after halting the car in which she was riding and knocking out her escort with a heavy wrench.

Judge Named

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Tuesday appointed Ray E. Ulmer of Clearwater as Pinellas County judge. He will succeed Jack White, who was elected Circuit Judge.

30 Deaths Forecast

TAMPA — (AP) — The Florida Safety Council estimates that 30 persons will die in Florida accidents during the four-day New Year's holiday, 24 of them in traffic mishaps.

The council also predicts four persons will perish in fires and two in miscellaneous accidents.

The overall forecast is the same number that died over the four-day Christmas holiday. During that period, the state counted 25 traffic deaths, one from fire and three from suffocation.

Jax Bondsman Suspended

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— A Jacksonville bail bondsman was under six months suspension Tuesday in one of several cases of alleged violation of bail bond laws.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson suspended the license of Fred Guy Crews, who waived a hearing. Earlier, Bondsmen Ed Barber and Branson O. Arthn were charged with violations of bail bond laws.

They brought to eight the number of bondsmen Larson has taken action against in his investigation of court fixing in Duval County.

Enhance His Political Future?

Collins May Visit Russia With Other State Governors

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins may visit Russia next summer.

He said the trip has been suggested for the nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference but "no arrangements have been made so far as I know. The whole project remains in an exploratory stage."

COLLINS

Collins said he could sum up the reaction of the council in this way:

"If the trip would likely result in good for the nation; if there is a request that we go from an approved sponsoring agency which is willing to pay the cost from non-tax sources; if the trip is approved by our own State Department; and if the Russians will welcome us, then I think the governors will go."

He asserted "it is premature to say that all of these ifs have been settled at this time, because I frankly do not believe that they have."

He said he hoped that all problematical factors will be cleared up by Feb. 23 when the executive committee meets Collins explained that the in Biloxi, Miss. idea for the trip originated with Dr. John Ivey, executive vice president of New York University, who is a former executive secretary of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"There has been considerable visitation in Russia from the federal side of government," Collins said, "and Mr. Ivey feels that the executive committee of the Governors Conference could interpret for the Russians our federal-state relationship."

He said at the same time the governors would be able to present a composite report of their views on Russia that should be valuable to the United States. The trip, if it is taken, would come just before the 1959 National Governors Conference in Puerto Rico.

Although Collins said he knew little about preliminary details of the proposal "it ties in with my ideas that state officials ought to take more interest in international affairs." As chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Collins has been mentioned as Southern hopeful for a place on the national Democratic ticket.

If such an opportunity should arise, a trip to the Soviet Union might be an asset to his political future.

Four Men Spotted Shooting White Ibis

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE BEACH—Chandler Young, vice president of the Indian River Audubon Society, reported Wednesday that he watched four men shooting white ibis — a bird protected by federal law — on the south side of Sebastian Inlet.

Young, who was on the north side of the inlet fishing, said he saw 10 of the birds fall to the ground, but counted 100 shots fired. He said he watched the hunters for about four hours through powerful field glasses.

The society official plans to ask state and federal game officials to keep a closer watch there for further activity by hunters.

No Trace of Montayne

Missing Flyer Talked to Cuban

HOLLYWOOD — A Fort Lauderdale pilot missing since early Sunday morning was seen talking with a Cuban man late Sunday afternoon at North Perry Airport near here, The Herald learned Wednesday.

The mysterious disappearance of Ray Montayne, 28, deepened Wednesday as Civil Air Patrol and Coast Guard officials reported no trace of the man or his rented Cessna 182 following a two-day statewide search.

Davis Miller, flight instructor for Jackson Flying Service, told officials Wednesday he had spoken with Montayne at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at North Perry, 12 miles west of here.

Miller said Montayne was talking with a man who "appeared to be a Cuban."

The missing man rented a plane from Sunny South Aircraft in Fort Lauderdale at 7:15 Sunday morning. He told the airfield manager he was going to Orlando and would return the same day.

North Perry had no record of Montayne's plane landing there Sunday.

His wife of two months, Martha Ann Montayne, Fort Lauderdale, said her husband told her he was going to work Sunday and would return that evening.

Just before his disappearance, Montayne was given $100 from an Aldo Montes, of Miami, according to his wife.

Bud Moore, commander of the North Dade Civil Air Patrol Squadron, said the search for the missing craft would continue Thursday.

The U.S. Border Patrol in Miami has been alerted.

"We're very curious about it," said Tyler Winton, senior inspector.

Mrs. Montayne who said her husband had discussed the Cuban revolution recently, feared he may have become involved with Rebel forces in exile in Miami.

But a Rebel spokesman in Cuba denied Wednesday that the craft had landed in Cuba, according to the Search and Rescue Squadron of the 14th Air Force Division.

Mill Strike Is Ended

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— Striking electrical workers were called back to work Wednesday after the union and St. Regis Paper Co. reached an agreement.

Federal Mediator Gordon Duncan said union and management negotiated all day Tuesday and reached a settlement that night. The agreement was ratified by the union membership about 10:30 p.m.

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Federal Judge George W. Whitehurst has denied a motion to dismiss a 3¼-million dollar anti-trust suit against owners of the Sarasota Journal and Herald-Tribune.

David B. Lindsay, David B. Lindsay Jr. and the Lindsay Newspapers Inc. sought dismissal of the suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. McKinley and the Sarasota News Inc.

Milton Man Is Guilty Of Assault

PENSACOLA — (UPI) — Ed Golden, 23, of Milton, Wednesday was found guilty of a reduced charge of assault and battery in the wounding of his girlfriend's mother in a shooting incident June 15 in which a deputy sheriff was killed.

A six-member court of record jury deliberated three hours and 15 minutes and reduced the charge from assault with intent to commit first degree murder.

The maximum sentence on the assault and battery count is six months in jail, while the more serious charge carried a possible 20-year prison sentence.

Judge Ernest E. Mason set sentencing for Monday. The defense attorneys have 10 days to announce an appeal, but they made no immediate indication either way.

Golden went on trial Tuesday in the wounding of Mrs. Pearce Jernigan. Earlier he was acquitted of murder in the fatal wounding of Deputy Sheriff Len Burton Adams and also of assault with intent to murder Deputy Leslie Brock in the same incident.

At the earlier trials, Golden testified and other witnesses confirmed it, that Brock had drawn his gun before the youth fired. Golden said he was "afraid they were going to kill me."

The young car salesman is engaged to marry Wesie Jernigan, 20, daughter of the wounded couple. He still faces trial late in January for wounding Pearce Jernigan, with whom he argued over marrying the girl, in the action that precipitated the shootings.

Holdup Suspect Caught Enlisting

CHICAGO — (AP) — John Howard Laskoske, 17, of Michigan City, Ind., was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents as he attempted to enlist in the Army.

Laskoske was charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery in West Palm Beach, Fla. Florida police, said FBI Agent Earl E. Brown, have a warrant for Laskoske in connection with a Nov. 24 holdup of the Central Truck Lines office which netted $1,200. Police in West Palm Beach have arrested another man in connection with the holdup.

Laskoske will appear for a hearing before a U. S. commissioner.

RR's, Railway Express Apply For Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Railway express and railroads operating in Florida Wednesday requested increases which the State Utilities Commission estimated would cost shippers slightly more than $300,000 a year.

Railway Express asked for a 15 per cent increase in rates on all commodities except fish, citrus gift packages, wearing apparel and certain carload traffic.

It would coincide with an interstate rate increase granted in October. Railway Express was given its last intrastate increase in November, 1957, and it affected only milk and cream products.

The Utilities Commission — which set Tuesday, Jan. 20, in Tallahassee, for a public hearing on the application, estimated the increase would cost Florida shippers $255,000 a year.

Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Tallahassee was set for the public hearing on the increased freight rates in Florida asked by Florida railroads. The commission estimated this hike, if granted, would cost shippers about $100,000 a year.

The railroads did not ask for any general percentage increase. Their application includes selective increases on certain commodities, some flat raises and some special percentage increases subject to both maximums and minimums.

They also asked for increased charges for switching, diversion, reconsignment, stop-offs for partial unloading and unloading.

The railroads were granted their last intrastate increase — amounting to nine per cent across the board — last April. It amounted in dollars and cents to about $593,000 a year, including $233,000 for Atlantic Coastline, $155,000 for Florida East Coast, $190,000 for Seaboard, $10,000 for L&N and a total of about $5,000 for all other lines.

Both Railway Express and the railroads cited increased wages and fringe benefits as the major reason for the proposed rate increases.

Peanut Butter

Youngster Chokes Self on Sandwich

JACKSONVILLE —(AP)— A 7-year-old boy choked to death while trying to eat a peanut butter sandwich, county investigators reported.

Lt. P. J. Pettersen of the sheriff's department said investigation was incomplete but information indicated that Charles E. Love choked on the sandwich Tuesday night at his home.

Two doctors from Cecil Field Naval Air Station, doing welfare work in the neighborhood, rushed to the Love home and performed surgery on the child's throat.

Pettersen said he and Deputy Sheriff R. P. McCauley were called to the scene at 7:15 p.m. after the child died.

Helicopter Escorts Trains at Crossings

ST. PETERSBURG —(AP)— A helicopter preceded all Seaboard Airline Railroad trains entering Pinellas county Wednesday sounding a warning to motorists to be cautious when approaching unguarded railroad crossings.

The helicopter, with a county patrolman aboard, flew directly in front of the trains and blared a siren and flashed a red light at each crossing. The craft picked up the trains as they entered the county and escorted them to the St. Petersburg city limits.

Several persons have been killed in recent weeks in a series of accidents at unguarded crossings.

County and railroad officials cooperated in the one-day project devised by a commercial firm to dramatize the need for alertness at railroad crossings.

Florida To Boom

Cabinet: '59 a 'Dilly'

By JOHN BOYLES
Capitol Bureau Chief

ERVIN — MAYO — LARSON — GREEN — BAILEY — GRAY

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins and members of the State Cabinet sized up young 1959, and their predictions indicate the year ought to be a dilly from the standpoint of both prosperity and politics.

There was a degree of caution in the outlook, but Gov. Collins sounded the key to optimism with the observation that "Our economy probably is in better overall shape than at the beginning of any year."

And he sees plenty of political activity, too. "The 1959 legislative session will likely be the last session during my term as governor. I will not follow the usual pattern of term-ending governors, and seek to get by with as little controversy as possible. I intend to present a full legislative program this April."

Here is the composite forecast of the state's executive branch:

Radical legislation to deal with racial problems will be avoided, but local school administrators will be given greater flexibility, under the laws, to solve their own problems.

Continued growth will soup up the state's economy. Governmental revenue will improve, but it is unlikely the state will undertake new programs calling for substantial spending. The state should be able to get by without any tax increase.

There is hope for an equitable settlement of the reapportionment issue and a generally satisfactory revision of the state's constitution.

Traffic safety legislation will receive greater attention from the incoming Legislature, because high auto insurance rates are affecting constituent's pocketbooks and population growth is clogging urban roads with cars.

Wrinkles in Florida's new Division of Corrections, coordinating the state's penal institutions, will begin to smooth out and further advancement will be necessary in the fields of community planning, mental health, and recreation.

Tourist-wise 1959 should prove a banner year if there is an early resumption of normal airline service.

Industrially, Florida will continue to be the fastest-growing state in the Southeast.

By summertime, the natural gas pipeline will be completed throughout the Florida peninsula. This will attract new industry.

Agriculturally, the state should continue to expand. In the face of a 15-per-cent decline in farm income nationally, Florida's has increased seven per cent since 1950.

Gov. Collins believes "perhaps our biggest industrial growth this new year can be expected to come in the electronics field. And we should also experience a sizeable growth in our food processing industry."

The governor said he is not ready to detail his legislative program, but he is determined "that we can meet our responsibilities adequately without additional taxation—that we can cut our cloth to fit the pattern—that we can tailor expenditures to the existing revenue."

Collins said "We still have great legislative goals not yet met — constitutional revision and fair reapportionment of the Legislature, just to name two. I shall continue to press for their accomplishment to the fullest extent a governor lawfully and properly can."

Attorney General Richard Ervin declared the legislative year "should bring an end to much of the misunderstanding and mild frictional differences between sections of our state. The issues before the Legislature relating to reapportionment, state finances, and public functions are susceptible of being resolved harmoniously and fairly to all areas of the state.

Ervin predicted "The Legislature will not launch statutory programs widening the breach between the races, although it may find it advisable to allow a large degree of flexibility and local option to local school administrators and their people in solving local school problems."

Commissioner of Agriculture Nathan Mayo believes that, "barring any unseen freezes or floods, Florida's commercial truck crop growers should come out in the black this year. Planted and harvested acreage for vegetables will slightly exceed that of 1956-57—the year before last winter's freezes and floods—with increases in yields for all crops expected.

"Citrus production came back faster than was expected and current indications are that there will be produced some 85 million boxes of oranges, 34 million boxes of grapefruit, and 4.5 million boxes of tangerines," Mayo reported.

State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson predicted "The Legislature will pass a realistic safety program, which will go a long way toward saving lives on our highways and reducing the terrific property loss from auto accidents.

"Much progress has been made," Larson said, "in gaining public support for recommendations of the Citizens Advisory Committee on Highway Safety.

Larson forecast that "as Florida grows in other industrial fields, it will continue to attract insurance companies which are planning major expansions.

State Comptroller Ray E. Green asserted "The best days are still to come.

"I certainly see continued growth ahead for Florida. The pace, however, may have been slowed and our rate of growth and expansion may not meet previous high levels. The new growth is cautious and sound, and in the long run very substantial and solid.

Green said "We saw, graphically in 1958, how a recession, or a slowdown in business, in the rest of the nation can affect our state's economy. We also saw, equally as graphically, however, how our diversification of economic interests and our new industrial growth saved Florida from the severe and crippling recession pains suffered by other states.

Superintendent of Schools Thomas D. Bailey warned "It will take full resources and concerted efforts of all interested in the welfare of our boys and girls to combat the isolated attacks on our schools, to seek solutions to many serious problems facing our educational system, and, possibly, even to save our free public school system from actual destruction."

However, Bailey predicted "The people of Florida will rally to the support of public schools. Despite isolated talk of curtailing school funds because of the state's present financial condition, I believe Florida's school programs will be financed in full.

Secretary of State R. A. Gray, whose office issues charters for new business firms, said the trend of business activity is indicated by record daily output of new charters.

"We thought that, one day after Thanksgiving, we had reached an all-time high with 106 new charters in a single day, but the day after Christmas we had 144 — in one day.

"This indicates a much more rapid growth in corporations than I had ever imagined we would reach. This, boiled down, means we are having a lot of new business, whether small or large.

"I have always been an optimist," Gray said, "however, I think we should go into 1959 with cautious optimism, testing our way step by step.

Glance in Morror Shakes Him Up

Lone Resolution Will Not Shatter

By JIM BISHOP

BISHOP

THIS IS THE TIME for New Year's Resolutions.

At best, the resolution is nothing more than a moral crutch. It is a statement of intentions, not deeds.

This year, I will not make a lot of them and keep none. Instead, I will make one and keep none.

My resolution is that I promise to trim my weight. Instead of looking, in profile, like a little old pregnant lady, I'm going to look like a little old pregnant man.

My trouble is twofold: (1) I like food; (2) I earn my living sitting.

My friends assure me that I look fine. That's how we remain friends.

However, I have two lying mirrors in my bedroom. One covers a whole wall; the other is set length-wise in the bathroom door.

When I come out of the shower, I look like a busted barrel. Some of the staves are intact, but the hoops are shot.

From hammertoes to top of gray head, I measure five feet seven and a quarter inches. The scales say that I weigh 174 pounds.

There is a slight falling of the chest and the nether parts are reminiscent of a king-sized cherub being tossed out of heaven. The thighs would be attractive on an ox.

* * *

Something has to be done. I abhor exercise in all its dreadful forms. I wouldn't walk out to the front gate for the morning mail if I could use the car.

Deep knee bends and pushups are for uninformed peasants who do not know how to use their energies. Manual labor is found in the dictionary under M.

To me, food is no more important than the next breath.

I am up at 9:30 a.m. and I partake of orange juice, a big bowl of cornflakes, and two cups of coffee.

At 12:30, I have lunch at the bar in the living room. This consists of a bowl of soup, four slices of rye bread, a sandwich, a cup of coffee, and a piece of cake.

Dinner is served at 6 p.m. I open with tomato juice, follow it with a roast leg of lamb, or pork chops (two apiece), or meat loaf (three slices for me, one for her) and a big baked potato, peas, a tossed salad with French dressing, hot biscuits, and a wedge of homemade layer cake (chocolate or coconut).

At 10 p.m., I watch television and work my way through a dish of ice cream.

After the late show, I waddle off to my boudoir, turn on the brass tulip lamps, and read.

At 1 a.m. I am starved. I get out of bed, undulate to the refrigerator, and give the contents a going-over.

This concludes my food day — a thing for which I apologize because it would hardly keep an anemic parakeet alive.

* * *

HOWEVER, I MUST DIET. It is no accident that the first three letters of that word spell Murder.

I will start by giving up the 1 a.m. snack. This will be followed by a no bread, no potatoes routine.

Last, and not least, I will cut down on the desserts.

In six weeks, I expect to have a terrific figure and a lousy disposition . . .

And Saved Money, Too, Back in 1925

Bishop Worked Here for $22 a Week

By MIKE MORGAN
Herald Staff Writer

There isn't a gent in the word-putting-together business who's a better old pro than syndicated columnist Jim Bishop, whose column appears in The Herald.

Jim has millions of daily readers, several successful books to his byline and a wealth of writing experience.

But his success never seemed quite real to his mother — up to the day she died, she wondered when her boy would get over his "writing whim" and get into some solid work.

Bishop, a handsome, slender blue-eyed Irishman, will celebrate 30 years of following his particular "whim" on Jan. 2 right here.

He's in Miami for the first time since 1925. One of the first things he did was to visit The Herald newsroom and talk shop.

He also talked wonderingly about the changes in these parts since he worked in Miami back in 1925.

Seventeen years old at the time, he worked for The Miami Screen Works.

"Made 22 bucks a week and I'll have you know I even saved some money on it. Don't think I can do that in Miami today," he said.

And he talked about the nickel-fare jitneys; a girl friend in Coral Gables "whose old man owned a drug store," and a fellow named Jan Garber had a band and that was "the place to go."

Bishop, who is always on the side of the little man, and would just as soon write about the fascinating minor themes of life than tomes of social significance, went to work for a New York City paper Jan. 2, 1929.

"I never wanted to be the best editor in the world, or the best writer. But I wanted to be the second best of everything in the business," he said.

In pursuit of this goal he eventually handled every type of writing, every facet of executive work on newspapers and magazines.

He was executive editor of Liberty, had an executive job with Collier's, and turned out a tremendous amount of material for various publications.

Along the way he became one of the very finest chroniclers of the average Joe's pursuit of life, liberty and income tax payments.

"But mother never really took my work quite seriously," he recalled.

"I had been 25 years writing, and rather well-established, when I finished and sent off the manuscript of 'The Day Christ Died.'

"I remember talking with my Dad about the book that day. Mother heard us. She looked up and peered at me over her glasses, and with all the love in her heart, said, 'Jim, if this book isn't a success do you think you'll go out and look for a job?'

"Later, when the book sold well and was a Literary Guild selection, she was reading it again. And she looked up while reading and said to me: 'What a pity; you would have made a great priest.'"

No Compromise Rule Holds Good

1958 Pessimists Due Back in 1959

By FRED SPARKS

SPARKS

HAVE AMERICANS good reason to celebrate the New Year? We have, indeed!

During the year just ended, we dispelled the scary smog generated by our professional cry babies, their knees shaking like Las Vegas dice, who cried:

"Soviet Science has outdistanced us! The recession means an end to our economy of plenty!"

They were echoed by grumpy, gloomy pundits in Washington's martini-lined foxholes who, with the hysteria of fire-engine gongs, declared: "America is fast becoming a second-rate power!"

But 1958 made their goblins as terrifying as crushed Halloween pumpkins in the city dump.

Let us look back at their shadowy worries — then look ahead with fresh determination:

* * *

REMEMBER WHEN the Soviets hoisted the initial sputnik? The spineless and the appeasers united in wailing chorus to assure us it would be years before we could equal such an accomplishment.

And, because of Moscow's lead, we could never, never catch up in outer space.

We were urged to run, not walk, to the nearest conference table to seek an accommodation.

WHAT HAPPENED In 1958? Standing in Cape Canaveral's sandy scrubs I saw us send into orbit, with train-schedule regularity, a fistfull of satellites. Our latest Atlas is grander than the mightiest sputnik. And it is no dumb heavyweight monster, but a delicately instrumented brain that sees and talks — with more freedom than any commissar.

* * *

REMEMBER THOSE who told us the recession was but the advance agent of crippling depression, collapse? With them all was panic. Bust had replaced boom. The free enterprise system had gone malignant, doomed.

WHAT HAPPENED in 1958? The economy shook off the recession like Floyd Patterson would shake off a Civil War veteran's right hook. In recent weeks, touring the industrial heartland, Michigan, New Jersey, Illinois, I found assembly lines humming with orders for today. And laboratories researching miracles for tomorrow.

* * *

REMEMBER THOSE pessimists — and how they spoke falsely in 1958? Watch out! They'll be back. Khrushchev needs make but one threat, one demand, and they'll again dance attendance.

"Compromise on Berlin!" they'll wail. "Compromise on Red China! Compromise on nuclear testings!"

As if any compromise with the anti-Christ would satisfy him a second longer than it takes to serve his ugly cause, which remains world domination, slavery. When our pessimists say "compromise" don't they mean "crawl"?

U.S. Is Well Off Despite Big Debt

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Uncle Sam may owe a lot of money, but it turns out he owns almost as much as he owes.

In fact, a House committee reports the latest count shows that if the recently-acquired Hope Diamond is included and a realistic price is put on such things as the White House grounds, still carried at $1,000 because that's the original cost, the balance sheet might even come out in the black.

The House Committee on Government Operations says it prepared the inventory, for the fourth straight year, as a sort of report to the stockholders.

The report showed that as of last June 30 federal agencies owned land, buildings, and other things, all over the world, worth 262 billion dollars.

On the same day the national debt stood at about 276 billion dollars.

Although much of the increase represented steadily rising assets, a committee spokesman said a further factor was that government agencies keep coming up with property they didn't know they had.

A Cracker Viewpoint by Nixon Smiley

If Young, He'd Resolve To Try These Concepts

SMILEY

EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT ME many things which would have been helpful in my youth, had I been able to gain the knowledge through the genius of intuition and had I possessed the wisdom to use it to advantage.

But I was not blessed with intuition, and had I been I would have lacked the wisdom to use it.

And now, that experience has filled in where intuition failed, I'm a bit too old to be guided by resolutions, the implication being that it's hard to change an old dog's ways.

However, it might be entertaining to imagine one's self in his late teens, impatient to explore the unknown future, but with his mind filled with the normal conflicts of youthful optimism and doubt.

If you could go back to the time you stood on the threshold of life, at a time when you "held the world in your hands," as the poets say of youth, what resolutions would you make?

* * *

I WOULD MAKE the following:

TO HAVE PATIENCE with my elders, realizing that they are hopelessly ignorant, but because of their experience their opinions might be of some small value.

TO EXERCISE my blood pressure none over the apparent inability of humans to solve the problems of the world, always remembering that I am one of these idiots too.

TO BE A SAGACIOUS doubter; to believe firmly in nothing that is told me or that I read, unless there is ample evidence of its truth, and even then to reserve doubt until I have a chance to double-check the facts.

TO FOLLOW NO TENETS promulgated by individual philosophers or by groups, but to weigh the facts of life and nature as I understand them and draw my own conclusions.

TO FOLLOW NO POLITICAL line or party, and to be distrustful of politicians without being over cynical.

TO JOIN NEITHER the chorus of the optimists nor that of the pessimists, for both may be wrong.

TO NEVER WORRY about things which it is impossible for me to understand in the light of current knowledge, but to be content with whatever facts may be discovered through research by dedicated individuals.

TO READ WITH RESERVE — If at all —any publication issued under approval of the state or by any group.

TO ARGUE WITH NO ONE about anything, since it is difficult enough to convince others of your own viewpoint, even with the help of demonstration, whereas argument alone convinces no one.

TO NEVER LAUGH at the peculiarities of another human, unless through my travels I run into one who is odder than I, and then I will unashamedly indulge in a belly laugh.

TO MAINTAIN AN EVEN disposition—even cheerful when possible — and to be as generous with others as I can without becoming a sucker.

TO NEVER BECOME a slave to any person or group, nor to any creed, fad or habit.

TO KEEP OUT of my neighbors' business.

TO NEVER COMPARE myself with another in order to get comfort from some imagined physical or mental superiority.

TO FIGHT FOR PRINCIPLES in which I sincerely believe, but never to be afraid to run when I'm outnumbered and outgunned in order that I might fight another day.

Forget Private Worry Today

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Thursday, January 1, 1959
New Year's Day

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Forget that private worry that could today make you lose out on the many prospects that are present for increasing revenue, especially from data and ideas gleaned from your newspaper. P.M. avoid sarcasm or you will regret it sadly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Give an ear to the suggestions of true pals instead of following advice of advisor or own intuition. Be very factual in all that you do in late p.m. and steer clear of one who has too much imagination and an overly inflated ego.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Many strange situations come up concerning other folk, but that is no reason why you should become involved in what does not concern you personally. FOR YOUR COPY of Carroll Righter's individual 16-page Forecast for February send your birth date and 50c in coin (no stamps) to Carroll Righter Forecast, Miami Herald, Box 1895 Grand Central Sta., N.Y. 17, N.Y.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Imperative you take it very easy in earliest part of the day, and give particular care to matters of diet. Remainder of day excellent to size up relative position with all others.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Last night's merriment makes it necessary you spend this morning quietly reading or listening to good programs on the air. Run through your newspaper carefully for wonderful ideas.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid argument ensuing during a.m. between an associate and a family tie. Think out ways and means of making your daily living more economical and profitable.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may think that those outside duties awaiting you are matters of life and death, but you can easily put them aside and save your strength and health. Also, don't be sardonic.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't be extravagant in social or other affairs that have long lost their savor. A good day, also, for putting aside serious matters that require much thought.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A perfect day for getting into a perfect stew over matters at home. Don't be guilty of inciting matters even one least little bit. Then you can forget money worries.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) More generosity to start the year right will ease morning tension considerably. Spend rest of day putting abode in more charming condition, but get tips from mate, who is good with color especially.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Guard against being greedy or overly ambitious during a.m. Then it will be possible to get in contact with those persons who can make your just and fine ambitions an actuality in the very near future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Avoid that political or other public connection in a.m. or you are bound to commit yourself financially far above your means. Late p.m. a real friend comes along who helps you.

Peter Tangvald Aboard His 45-Foot Wooden English Yawl

. . . he calls his trip—alone—a "great adventure"

Never Again, Says Mariner After 13,000 Mile Voyage

LONG BEACH, Calif. —(AP)— "Never again," says handsome 34-year-old Peter Tangvald after a harrowing one-man sailing voyage halfway around the world. "It is too much for one man."

He should know. Tangvald sailed his 45-foot wooden yawl, Windflower, from West Mersey, England, to Long Beach, on the Southern California coast.

The 13,000-mile voyage took more than 14 months and nearly cost the Los Angeles design engineer his life.

He battled mountainous seas for four days in a hurricane, sailed 31 days without spotting another sign of human life, spent 48 unbroken hours at the tiller during a heavy fog without sleep, food or water, and broke two fingers which he bandaged himself.

The bearded mariner was following in the footsteps of his ancestors. He is of Norwegian descent and started sailing when he was 14.

He hadn't planned to make the trip alone. His attractive wife, Lillemore, accompanied him from England to France in the fall of 1957. Rough weather on that shakedown cruise led her to fly home to California.

"I tried to recruit a crew in England but all the seamen said it was 'the bad season' and refused to go," Tangvald says. "It was sail by myself or spend the winter in that miserable climate."

He set sail for Vigo, Spain, and spent most of the nine-day trip fighting a fierce storm in the Bay of Biscay.

A three-month layover in Spain found him still without a crew, so he set out alone. The Windflower covered the 3,100-miles from the Canary Islands to Antigua in the West Indies in 31 days. The sailor says this is the second fastest time on record for a sailing vessel.

Did he get bored? No, he was too busy working 14 to 16 hours a day. His sleep—eight hours a day—came in naps of two or three hours each.

After he passed through the Panama Canal into the Pacific Ocean in August Tangvald ignored advice not to sail along Mexico's west coast in hurricane season.

"This was almost his undoing. Halfway to Acapulco a storm with winds raging up to 70 miles an hour struck the vessel.

"It was the one time I regretted making the trip," he says. "I thought it was the end for sure."

But he managed to limp into Acapulco. There he stayed until Oct. 1 when all possibilities of coastal storms were considered past.

And despite his "never again" remark, the solo voyager adds: "It was a great adventure."

No Formal Ceremony

CAA Is No More: FAA Takes Reins

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Civil Aeronautics Administration vanished Wednesday from the aviation scene it long has dominated. It merged quietly into the swiftly expanding new Federal Aviation Agency.

FAA also absorbed an important segment of the CAA's companion agency, the Civil Aeronautics Board, by taking over the rule making functions of the CAB's bureau of safety.

The transition marked the assembly for the first time of all the major elements of the over-all agency ordered by Congress last fall to take over the reins of civil and military flying.

There was no formal changeover ceremony. FAA came into being Nov. 1 by absorbing the Airways Modernization Board, its 200 employes and its 30 million dollars of appropriations. The modernization board now operates as the FAA's bureau of research and development.

Next month both men and 550 staff members will move into a completely renovated office building, formerly a hospital, near the White House.

Wednesday's post-midnight transition involved the transfer to FAA of more than 27,000 CAA employees and 24 CAB workers, along with 365 million dollars in CAA appropriations and $102,000 allotted for CAB safety rule functions.

FAA also acquired 135 officers and enlisted men of the armed forces, the first of 15,000 military communications and traffic control personnel who will be permanently assigned to the mammoth new agency.

Heading the FAA is E. R. Quesada, former presidential aviation adviser. James T. Pyle, CAA administrator for the last two years, is deputy administrator.

Student Music Award Planned

The most accomplished student musician in the Dade County school system will be awarded a newly established music scholarship in June, by the George Gershwin Lodge 196, Knights of Pythias, Miami Beach.

New lodge officers are Harry Eilen, chancellor; Louis Speilman, vice chancellor; Louis Hoberman, prelate; Michael Jerome, master of work; William Reimer, master of arms; Irving Weinstein, treasurer; Harry Waldman, financial secretary, and Max Grossman, secretary.

Sailor's Trick Backfires

'It Costs an Appendix To Stay in the West

SVENDBORG, Denmark —(AP)— A young Polish sailor got himself rushed to a hospital so he could stay in the West. His ship sailed without him, but the sailor paid for his freedom with an appendix he didn't need to lose.

The 22-year-old seaman complained to the captain of the Polish ship that his stomach was aching violently. He was allowed ashore to see a doctor.

He went to the office of a shipping company which called an ambulance.

At the hospital, doctors removed his appendix without a diagnosis.

Conscious again after the operation, the sailor admitted he had feigned illness to get away from his ship.

Santa Clara Bid Crushed--Havana

Batista Troops Pound Retreating Rebel Units

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Government foot troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respites for the rebels," declared a source close to President Fulgencio Batista.

Batista remained in the presidential palace amid reports he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over Castro's insurgents soon.

Santa Clara's streets were described by a Batista spokesman as strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated that 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expects their flight toward easternmost Oriente province to gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle-raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive will be intensified once the rebels are pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there.

Insurgents still have the bulk of their forces in Oriente. They have entered or occupied a half dozen cities there and isolated the city of Santiago de Cuba. Some positions were given up by the government to rush reinforcements to Santa Clara.

The government, claiming Castro's bid to take Santa Clara and pose a threat to Havana has been smashed, said die-hard rebels in Santa Clara are being wiped out.

A late dispatch Wednesday night said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there harbored 200 rebels in a church and came out crying for peace although he carried a machinegun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American embassy to go to the U.S. Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the U.S.

Castro obviously had counted on a popular uprising in daring to make his first frontal attack against the army in the two-year-old rebellion. But the uprising did not come.

An urgent radio appeal for reinforcements, came from one rebel commander, Victor Bordon Machado, indicating the outnumbered rebels were running short of fighters and ammunition.

Another rebel broadcast admitted its forces just west of Santa Clara were "no longer able to resist in the face of attack by tanks" and said "there are numerous dead and wounded."

There were growing indications that Castro, in a daring bid for a quick knockout blow, had stretched his supply lines too far in striking out from his Oriente fortress in the last month.

The rebels were outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in the Las Villas Province offensive against government forces which had been greatly reinforced within the last few weeks.

There were indications that Castro had counted on desertions from the government forces.

Batista shook up the army command, however, to strengthen loyalty to the government. He even drew on armored forces and warplanes from already hard-pressed units in Oriente Province to help out in Las Villas Province, which runs across the waistband of Cuba.

The insurgents, while making no victory claims in Las Villas, reported new successes in Oriente. One broadcast claimed the capture of Guantanamo City only 27 miles north of the big U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay.

Blunt Notes State Big 3 Stand

We Stay in Berlin, West Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Western Allies, bluntly rejecting Soviet demands that they quit Berlin by June 1, challenged the Kremlin Wednesday to take part in a four-power conference on the overall problem of European security.

But the U.S., Britain and France warned the Russians in separate but similar notes that they will not take part in any diplomatic discussions "under menace or ultimatum."

The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union in unmistakable terms they do not intend to yield to the Russians' Nov. 27 demand that they leave West Berlin and allow the former German capital to become a Communist-encircled "free city."

They also served notice that they will not recognize the Communist regime of East Germany even if the Russians carry out their threat to turn over East Berlin and the corridors leading to the city to the East Germans.

The Western notes were drafted in Paris last week in consultation with the West German government. They received full backing Monday from the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All were in agreement that the West must insist that the Russians respect its right to remain in Berlin and to have access to the city in accordance with an Allied postwar agreement.

The notes were made public shortly after they were delivered to the Kremlin by the Western embassies in Moscow. U.S. officials were said to be anxious to get the U.S. note in the hands of Russian leaders in time for ample study before Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan leaves Moscow for a two-week visit to the U.S.

It is understood that Berlin is among the subjects Mikoyan wants to discuss with top authorities here. He is expected to arrive in this country by plane early next week.

But the U.S. and its Allies made it plain that they do not intend to negotiate with Russia over Berlin or any other problem if the Kremlin intends to present them with any showdown ultimatum.

Miami Pilots Die In Broward Crash

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two Miami men were killed Wednesday when their small plane crashed in the ocean about a mile off Fort Lauderdale Beach.

Dead are Clair W. Barron, 28, of Hialeah, the instructor, and Len Jones, 24, of Miami, his student.

Barron's body was recovered and identified by William Conrad, president of Airlines Training Inc., Broward International Airport, which owned the Cessna 180. Jones' body is presumed to be with the plane. Navy divers volunteered to attempt to recover the plane and body.

A beach hotel doorman who saw the crash said the plane suddenly appeared to nose into the water. It fell east of Sunrise Blvd. in about 65 feet of water. The crash occurred about 3:45 p.m.

Conrad said both Barron and Jones, who was receiving advanced training, were "highly qualified" pilots. He could give no reason for the smash-up. Barron had been employed by Airlines Training Inc. as an instructor for the past six months.

Barron's body was recovered by the charter fishing boat, Peggy Anne.

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off Old OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivals will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback, Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on option.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Moon Mute Too Soon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's big Atlas satellite stopped "talking" Wednesday and the Defense Department indicated it believes the moon's batteries are dead or dying.

The department said Army ground stations were unable to trigger the Air Force satellite's transmitter.

The satellite was scheduled to receive and send back messages for 20 days but apparently has run out of steam after 12 days. It is expected to continue orbiting the earth until about Feb. 1 and then burn up in the atmosphere.

Thousands Pack Route Of March

Spectacle Turns Night to Day

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled parade and party.

For more than two hours as the colorful and tuneful procession moved along downtown Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., the 19-block route was brilliantly lighted as if by a million candles.

The 31 bands provided the sound effects for the 50 floats, and there were dozens of marching units and baton twirlers.

Then, to the delight of the children, there were clowns aplenty and gigantic balloons that ranged from a turkey and a kangaroo to a realistic stage coach, pulled by four plunging horses and protected by a shotgun guard as bandits tried to rob it.

The giant spectacle, which Maestro Ernie Seiler proudly proclaimed the Orange Bowl Festival's proudest effort, was witnessed by crowds that jammed the curbs and sidewalks, filled hotel and office building windows, and sought vantage spots from fire escapes, the courthouse steps and on roofs.

The police preliminary estimate of 400,000 spectators seemed certain to have been fulfilled. At least the crowds made an early start toward reaching that number. By noon, scores of early arrivals already had established themselves in folding chairs or on blankets at curbs along the parade route, fortified for the long wait with lunch boxes and thermos jugs.

By the 7 p.m. stepoff time, when the police escort drove into Biscayne Blvd. from the Dupont Plaza assembly area, there wasn't room left for a lifted arm.

Early threats of showers disappeared by parade time, but a brisk southeast breeze made the low 70 temperature chilly for those who neglected to wear coats or sweaters. There was no indication, however, that any of the hundreds of scantily clad models on floats or baton twirlers developed any goose pimples.

The parade participants outdid themselves for this Silver Anniversary presentation in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally, to cover its float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright—if artificial—flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. float, which featured gorgeous models.

All types of transportation were depicted in the glittering procession.

Southern Dairies had a surrey, naturally with a fringe on top, led by a white horse; Eastern Air Lines had a prop-jet plane flying just as if there were no strike; Pan American World Airways showed a Clipper soaring over

Won't Unionize Police Until They Ask, Hoffa Says

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa said Wednesday his union will try to organize policemen only if they ask to be organized. Even then, he said, they should not be allowed to strike.

Hoffa also ruled out any attempt by the Teamsters to halt deliveries to the New York police department in a drive to organize that city's law officers.

Hoffa's comments, issued by his headquarters in response to newsmen's requests for a policy statement, conflicted with an earlier announcement by Henry Feinstein, head of a New York City Employes' Teamster local.

Feinstein had said union members would cut off deliveries to the police department by setting up picket lines which members of the huge truck union would refuse to cross. Later, however, Feinstein retreated and said deliveries would move across picket lines.

Hoffa said "there will be no such service interruption by this international union now or at any time in the future." He said any talk of service interruption is "sheer nonsense."

A Teamster spokesman said any picketing would merely advertise the intention of the Teamsters to organize New York's policemen.

Hoffa said his union plans to organize all public employes, not only policemen.

"Police organization will be undertaken by the Teamsters' union only if they come to us seeking such organization," he said. He did not say whether he had received such requests.

But he said that even if policemen were unionized they should not have the right to strike because of the "emergency nature of their service to the general public."

The Teamster leader said police should be unionized to obtain machinery for arbitration of their grievances.

"We also feel that machinery is needed to eliminate the practice of leaving the police officers' welfare to the whims of department heads who quite often decide human relations on the basis of favoritism and politics," Hoffa said.

Wagner gave solid support to Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, who pledged Tuesday that every legal weapon would be used against any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

"I want to emphasize with all the sincerity and vigor at my command that this administration is opposed to any unionization of the police department and will take every step to see that it doesn't happen," Wagner said.

New York's police also took a dim view of the Teamster plans. John Cassesse, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said that unionism was not for the police department. The PBA represents patrolmen in such things as grievances, but has no bargaining rights.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.

BELL

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeessh."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

Deaths Elsewhere

EDWARD S. (NED) JORDAN, 76, founder of the old Jordan Motor Car Co. of Cleveland, who entered the automotive field in 1907, at New York.

25th Anniversary Parade a Knockout

the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, and the Coliseum.

Capital Airlines had a plane speeding from snow-covered firs to a yellow-frond palm tree; Richards featured a sailboat, the Bon Homme Richard; the Fort Pierce Shrine Club clown unit drove a baby buggy, bicycles, row boat, and jalopies; Jordan Marsh displayed a moon-bound rocket.

Of course there were animals of all kinds. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriners hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a dragon.

Fish there were aplenty, with one of the biggest leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Florida living was made attractive on the patio built on the float of The Miami Herald. This included a fireplace with a chicken on the spit; and a small pool and diving board.

The Miami News stuck to the newspaper business in its float, with miniature presses rolling off papers as oversize reproductions of the front page were flashed on a huge screen.

The 10 theme floats recalled past glories of Orange Bowl Festival years and looked into dreams of the future. Subjects included Music, Events, Art and Production, Models, Costumes, Make-Up and other aspects of Miami Memories.

Last of the theme floats was entitled "Counting Our Blessings." Following it, and ending the parade, was the float of "Her Majesty The Queen," on which was enthroned Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene.

Although she had the place of honor, she was not the only royalty. Another participant had been Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, on the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University bands drew partisan cheers along the route. The football teams from those two schools meet this afternoon in the Orange Bowl classic. They were preceded by the U.S. Marine Fleet Band.

There also were bands from Omaha, Neb., Delray Beach, Bartlesville, Okla., Sylacauga, Ala., West Palm Beach, Tifton, Ga., Beacon, N.Y., Arcadia, Rockaway Beach, N.Y., Lake Worth, Fort Pierce, Columbus, Ga., Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, Fort Lauderdale, Albany, Ga., and all parts of Greater Miami.

Out-of-town floats were entered from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, and Fort Myers, along with those of Coral Gables, Miami, and Metro Dade County.

Mexican Boats Machinegunned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A press report Wednesday said Guatemalan planes machinegunned Mexican fishing boats off Guatemala's coast and some Mexicans were believed killed. There was no official confirmation.

The afternoon newspaper Ultimas Noticias in a dispatch from Salinas Cruz said the incident took place at the mouth of the Suchyate River, which divides the two countries.

Engineers and EAL Review Peace Plan

Striking flight engineers and Eastern Air Lines officials resumed separate talks with a federal mediator Wednesday under heavy pressure to settle the 39-day walkout.

The two sides screened a previously rejected proposal, item by item, to reduce their points of disagreement.

Officials of the Flight Engineers International Association turned down the offer, submitted by Federal Mediator Warren Lane, in a package deal Monday.

The company and union expressed hope, however, that the proposal might be acceptable if agreement is reached on a few disputed points.

"I don't think it will last much longer — there is great pressure on each side," one of the participants commented.

Lane's proposal was revived after the engineers refused to go along with a plan offered Tuesday by the National Mediation Board. The company had accepted the plan.

Outlook Warm for OB Game

Orange Bowl fans will be shirt-sleeved today while spectators shiver at the nation's other bowl games.

But there's "a chance of rain" here, Weatherman Sanford Neuman said. And if even a drop should fall it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25 year history.

"Last year it was sunny during the game. The showers held off until the game was over, and then it rained for three days," Neuman recalled.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasadena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

Debre Gets French Bid As Premier

PARIS —(UPI)— Informed political quarters reported Wednesday that Premier Charles de Gaulle has formally asked Gaullist Leader Michel Debre to be the first premier of France's Fifth Republic.

Debre is a 46-year-old lawyer who has been justice minister in De Gaulle's provisional government. An official communique on his appointment was expected to be issued next week.

Sources said that in selecting Debre for the top post, De Gaulle over-ruled strong opposition of European unification advocates who considered Debre too nationalistic and cool toward the idea of a united Europe.

DeGaulle, who has been premier since he returned to power June 1, will take over Jan. 8 as first "strongman" president of the Fifth Republic, with one of his extensive powers being that of naming the premier.

Arizonan Peeks, Sees New Flag

NOGALES, Ariz. —(AP)— A new American flag, apparently following the government-approved design recognizing Alaska as a state, arrived in this Mexican border town Wednesday.

Publisher H. R. Sisk of The Nogales Daily Herald, who got a peek at the flag in a stationary store, said it consists of the present 13 stripes and has a square blue field containing seven rows of seven stars each.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. —(UPI) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower spent New Year's Eve baby-sitting with their four grandchildren and playing host to some grown-ups at a small dinner party.

The Eisenhowers quietly rang in the New Year at their Gettysburg farm after the President worked during the day on a new draft of his Jan. 9 State of the Union message.

New Year's Storm Hits Midwest

Snow and Ice Peril Traffic

CHICAGO —(UPI)— A New Year's Eve snowstorm spanned the Midwest Wednesday night, icing roads and heightening the dangers of holiday traffic.

The snows were driving eastward through the Ohio Valley and sent out advance warnings in the form of thickening clouds into the Northeast.

The storm climaxed the nation's coldest December since 1917 and left scores of towns and cities digging out in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roads opened in the West, clearing the way for hundreds of motorists to continue their holiday travels, but snow piled up rapidly along roads in Missouri, eastern Kansas, and western Illinois. To the South, snow and freezing rain spread a sheet of ice along highways from south Central Missouri across Illinois into western Indiana.

As the storm moved eastward, heavy snows began falling on Chicago and threatened to mount to four inches deep. Weathermen predicted up to five inches of snow through southern Wisconsin, northern Indiana, Lower Michigan and Ohio. New snows were already eight inches deep at Concordia, Mo.

Other new snow depths included two to four inches in Oklahoma, seven inches at Clifton City, Mo., and two inches in Colorado, where an unheralded storm sneaked in without warning from the Weather Bureau. Forecasters explained that they had probably lost track of the storm when it moved over Washington state high in the atmosphere.

The Missouri highway patrol put its largest force in history, 455 men, on the snowswept roads to control New Year's Eve traffic. The patrol information officer, Lt. F. W. Shadwell, asked Missourians to do their celebrating at home, adding: "If you have to, get out, use caution."

Although the snows which swept the plains were not rated in the blizzard class in most areas, they were listed as the cause of at least 16 deaths.

Almost all the deaths were in traffic, which worked itself into monumental snarls in Southwest cities. A two-inch snow at Dallas created the biggest traffic jam in memory Tuesday night and many workers hadn't reached home by Wednesday morning.

In Oklahoma City, hazardous roads were blamed for poor business in downtown stores and the Tinker Air Force Base urged its 14,000 workers to take their annual leave but avoid traveling.

Sen. Kennedy Out of Hospital

BOSTON — (AP) — U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was discharged from New England Baptist Hospital Wednesday where he had been under treatment for five days with a virus condition.

He left immediately by plane for the Palm Beach, Fla., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

Flying Home

LONDON —(AP)— The U.S. embassy announced Wednesday Ambassador John Hay Whitney will fly home Sunday for a three-week vacation, at his Georgia farm near Thomasville.

Statistics

MIAMI readings at 4 p.m. Wednesday: Skies, cloudy; temperatures, 74 degrees; winds from the southeast at 12 miles an hour; barometer, 30.04 inches; relative humidity, 64 per cent.

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago, and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

Boom to Bring Headaches To Melbourne-Eau Gallie

(Last of a two-part series)

By BILL BUNGE
Melbourne Bureau Chief

BUNGE

MELBOURNE — You won't know the old place if all the people settle in the greater Melbourne-Eau Gallie area in the next five to 10 years that population forecasters claim.

There won't only be a lot of people here, but the predicted population influx of the next decade will force other kinds of growth necessary to turn this section into the big metropolitan area of Brevard County.

Air Force prognosticators predict 60,000 residents in the Melbourne-Eau Gallie area by 1963, which is 23,000 more than expected in the Cocoa-Rockledge area and 33,000 above Titusville's northern part of the county.

Anthony F. Pimentel of Fort Lauderdale, professional planning engineer employed by Melbourne to develop a 25-year master plan, culled the population estimates a bit closer and claims Melbourne proper should have 48,000 residents in the next 10 years.

* * *

BUT WHAT WILL all these new people do to this section of Brevard, you ask?

Well, Pimentel, who's supposed to be able to tell cities how to plan for future growth, has turned out some facts on changes to come to Melbourne during the next 10 years.

This city's case, probably typical of what neighboring towns can expect, was used because the planner was most familiar with the Melbourne situation.

Melbourne probably will have greatly expanded boundaries to handle all the new residents. The city recently took in a considerable number of undeveloped territory, and currently is dickering for more.

Pimentel says that local employment — besides at the Air Force Missile Test Center — will have to be given to 20 per cent of the city population. He suggested development of an industrial park to handle this situation.

However, some city officials feel the industrial park will develop naturally because the municipality has hundreds of acres of airport property zoned for industrial use.

* * *

MANY INDUSTRIAL and business firms are located there already, including Radiation, Inc., Melbourne's largest industry.

Here are some other needs that will have to be met by 1968, according to the planner: boost in elementary school seats for 4,471 children, 2,238 junior high school seats, 2,429 high school seats, 5,900 off-street parking spaces, and 12,061 dwelling units.

Pimentel claims that the 1968 population projection will cause 396,000 to 590,000 miles of inter and intracity travel on Melbourne streets, excluding tourist travel.

The 10-year population growth also will require four times the present fire fighting equipment and personnel. This same growth need will hit the police department.

* * *

MELBOURNE'S BUSINESS area will spread out greatly, and a new shopping area — already started — will go along Babcock St., between Melbourne and Eau Gallie.

New construction projects planned by city officials for the municipal airport should help carry the air traffic load Pimentel sees for that facility in 10 years.

"A conservative conclusion on air travel requirements is that Melbourne Airport must be able to provide between 1,100 per cent and 1,200 per cent of its present service," declared Planner Pimentel.

Those suggested changes only scratch the surface, because there should be many more, he added.

St. Lucie Lauded For Park Plans

Interest Is Shown By State

By DOUG SILVER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — An ocean front state park for St. Lucie County moved into clearer focus Wednesday when the county commission made public a letter from Emmet L. Hill, director of the State Park Service, expressing definite interest in the project.

The letter was the result of recent discussions between county commissioners and various park board officials including members John Pennekamp, Mrs. Kathryn Abbey Hanna and Director Hill.

State Senator Harry Kiclitter has also been working on the plan to provide the state with a 100 foot right-of-way several miles long fronting along the Atlantic Ocean on Hutchinsons's Island near Fort Pierce.

St. Lucie County claims the right of way since it was the site of an old road, but a circuit court suit has been filed by adjacent property owners protesting the claim.

In his letter Park Director Hill praised the commissioners for their efforts "to preserve this stretch of beach for public use."

He added that he hoped the county would win its suit because "such stretches of beach are becoming increasingly necessary for the public welfare. It is my opinion that our board would gladly entertain a proposal at the proper time for thefor the estment of a state park in this area."

The letter stated that since a 100 foot strip several miles long is not feasible for state park development it will be necessary to acquire more width for public facilities, parking and picnic areas.

Hill suggested this could be done by exchange of lands and consolidation of the long strip into one or two areas of adequate size for recreation facilities — extending from the ocean to the Indian River.

County Commission Chairman B. Y. Free said, that if and when the current litigation clears up the county's title to the 100 foot right of way strip, then the next step will be to follow the park board's suggestions.

Standards On Roads Tightened

By ANNE WILDER
Herald Correspondent

FORT PIERCE — St. Lucie County commissioners served notice Wednesday that one of their first New Year's resolutions is to prevent any more building of marl and dirt roads in the county.

The commissioners instructed county attorney Ralph Wilson to see just what legal force the "tentative approval" given subdivision plats in the past carries.

Just before the present plat-filing regulations went into effect, a number of developers asked for "tentative approval" of subdivisions.

Since that time, individual units of these subdivisions have been brought in — for approval under the old regulations, which do not require paved streets.

In urging that no more of the old "tentative approval" obligations be honored, Commissioner Douglas Silver pointed out that all new developers are meeting the new requirements, which include paving of streets.

"We were told that the stiff requirements would drive developers out of St. Lucie county," Silver said. "But we have more developing than ever before — and better developing."

The commission held up their decision on allowing the use of soil cement for road construction under the plat filing regulations. The General Development Company, a Mackle firm, has asked approval for this type of road building.

The plat filing committee of the county has given its okay, with the provision that specifications modeled on requirements of the State Road Department be followed.

Wednesday, commissioners were hesitant about endorsing the new type of material without further study, but promised a decision Jan. 7.

County Commission Chairman B. Y. Free announced at the commission meeting that Road Board member William Singer will visit this county Jan. 13 at the invitation of the commission. This will be the road board member's first official visit here.

Atom Dose Perils Life Of Expert

LOS ALAMOS, New Mexico — (UPI) — A technician at the top-secret scientific laboratory here was in critical condition Wednesday after receiving a heavy overdose of radiation Tuesday in what was termed a "normally safe" operation.

The injured man was identified as Cecil W. Kelley, of Los Alamos. A spokesman for the atomic installation, birthplace of the atomic bomb, said Kelley was engaged in a plutonium metal recovery operation when the accident occurred.

Details of the mishap were not released, but it was believed the first at Los Alamos for this operation.

Rebel Sympathizers Hold Protest Meeting

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — For the third consecutive day, Cuban rebel sympathizers here publicly protested alleged aerial bombings in their country's civil war.

Between four and eight persons quietly picketed the Federal building here all day Wednesday. As in the past two days, their demonstration was orderly.

They carried Cuban and U.S. flags, plus posters denouncing the bombing of "innocent mothers and children in Cuba's cities." A similar demonstration, attended by some 50 persons, was staged before the same building Monday afternoon.

Tuesday night the supporters of Rebel Chieftain Fidel Castro shifted their public activities to Bayview Park in front of a bust of Jose Marti, Cuba's War of Independence hero.

Marti conducted many of his revolutionary activities from this island during the 1898 struggle to liberate Cuba from Spain.

At the Tuesday night meeting, the Fidelistas read a letter of protest being sent to the U.N. and the Organization of American States, roundly denounced Cuban President Fulgencio Batista and took up a collection for the rebel cause, which netted $40.

Herman Fuhrmann's Funeral Rites Held

COCOA BEACH — Services were held Wednesday for Herman Fuhrmann, 77, who died Monday.

Mr. Fuhrmann of 2704 S. Atlantic Ave., was a 14-year resident of Cocoa Beach and a native of Brooklyn.

He is survived by his wife, Grace; a son, Herman of Jacksonville; a brother and two grandchildren.

Airline Co-Pilot Is Hunted

By HARRY CAICEDO
Key West Bureau Chief

KEY WEST — Immigration and border patrol agents were on the lookout Wednesday for a Cuban commercial pilot who "jumped ship" here Tuesday evening at the International airport.

Federal authorities identified the man as Canadelario Delgado, a co-pilot on the Havana-Key West flight 955 of Aerovias Q Airways.

Delgado, it was reported, cleared through immigration and customs in routine fashion as required of all personnel on international flights.

But when the flight was ready to return to Havana, about 20 minutes later, the Cuban flyer had disappeared.

No one has positively admitted seeing Delgado leave the airport, but it was rumored that he drove off with two men in a station wagon.

Local sources speculated that Delgado is still in Key West.

Officials at Q Airways said Delgado is about 37 years old and had been flying with the airline for approximately 10 years. The could offer no explanation for his disappearance.

Sources close to the Cuban situation thought that Delgado may have been escaping forced duty in the Cuban Air Force and missions against his rebel countrymen.

Immigration officials said if Delgado is caught deportation proceedings would be started immediately.

Martin Company Gets Contract

ORLAND, Fla. — (AP) — The Martin Co., missile electronics Contractors, Wednesday was awarded a 54 million dollar contract to continue research and development of the Pershing weapon system.

Pershing is the U. S. Army's selective range, surface-to-surface ballistic missile system which has built-in guidance equipment to keep it heading on target without possibility of outside jamming.

Martin is responsible for engineering, research, laboratory and testing facilities, and system support for the development of the Pershing program.

Developers of River Park

Naples Councilmen Reject Street Bond Renewal Bid

By TOM MORGAN
Naples Bureau Chief

NAPLES — The developers of River Park, Negro housing area and subdivision, "haven't shown good faith" in carrying out construction of streets and utilities the City Council decided Wednesday.

It refused renewal of a street paving completion bond beyond the present 90 days left in the old bond dated 1953.

"They haven't shown good faith in going ahead," said Councilman Archie Turner. "They've taken almost twice the time others have."

"The corporation is gradually going out of business, isn't it?" questioned Councilman Bill Berry. He explained later he meant, "they're selling the corporate assets."

The developers are the Naples Development Corp. headed by Henry B. Watkins. The firm's board of directors is virtually a list of the area's most outstanding citizens.

In addition to Watkins, the board includes I. A. Sartorius, Barron Collier Jr., S. E. Hunkin, Mrs. Mary Morris, J. G. Sample, S. F. Briggs, Julis Fleischmann, Roy Ingram, Lester Norris and Thad Moss.

The group formed the firm to develop a large tract along the river into Negro housing with apartments and home sites. Watkins said Tuesday the outfit is neither intended as a charity nor a money-making proposition but to provide housing "on business-like lines."

So far it has spent $275,000, he said, in building five apartments with 54 units to replace slum-like quarters formerly used by Negroes.

"We're trying to work with the city, not against it," Watkins said.

He explained the firm now has "too much property and too little money" but an approaching sale of the section of land between Tenth Street and the railroad north of Carver school would finance two more apartments of 24 units.

"There's no particular need for more improvements now," Watkins said. "We'll put them in when the purchase is made but there is no attempt to evade responsibility."

Manager Fred Lowdermilk at the council session said, "we want the water mains to go in" and said that as a result of lack of water there are no useable sanitary facilities at the colored recreation center.

He implied this was the developers' fault but the city is rectifying it "just this morning" by having a two-inch water line installed "and also fixing the sewer."

Aged Couple Hit By Truck in Vero

VERO BEACH — A West Orange, N.J. couple is in Indian River Memorial Hospital after being hit by a truck while walking across U.S. 1 near 17th Street at the south city limits of Vero Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. David A. Jenks, both 69, were spending Tuesday night at the Landmark Motel and apparently were returning to the motel from Howard Johnson's Restaurant across the highway.

Police have placed no charges against James Newton, 44-year-old Negro driver of the two-and one-half-ton truck who lives at Lincoln Park, Gifford, north of Vero Beach.

The hospital reported Mr. Jenks in critical condition Wednesday and Mrs. Jenks in poor condition.

Body Is Found

STUART, Fla. — (UPI) — The body of a 50-year-old local mechanic who left three suicide notes was found Wednesday floating among mangroves in the St. Lucie River.

Police said Ted Hensley left the notes in his apartment Friday morning.

Authorities dragged the river for his body but were unable to locate it until two fishermen spotted it Wednesday about six miles from the bridge.

COCOA — Brevard County United Appeal officials Wednesday reported they have ended their fund-rasing effort with $140,516 in their kitty. The campaign, which had dragged overtime, reached its $140,000 quota two weeks ago when an anonymous donor kicked in the last $2,000 needed.

Here Are Ships Due To Transfer

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — The Navy Wednesday released the names of the eight submarines and two surface ships which will be permanently transferred to Charleston, S.C., during 1959.

Topping the list is the submarine tender Howard W. Gilmore, which has made its homeport here since 1946. The other surface vessel is the submarine repair ship, USS Petrel.

The subs are the Corporal, Amberjack, Chivo, Sennet, Thornback, Clagamore, Odax and Trumpetfish.

The first four are from Submarine Squadron 12. The others, as well as the Gilmore and Petrel, are units of Submarine Squadron Four.

Capt. Sam Loomis, chief of staff at the Naval Base here, said that under current plans for the first phase of the fleet dispersal program, the Navy intends to complete the transfer by Aug. 1.

The first vessel to leave will be the Thornback, whose homeport will be officially changed to Charleston effective Feb. 1. Other units will leave gradually over the transfer period, Loomis said.

Construction Lags in 2 Other Cities

Cocoa Beach Sets Building Record

By DAN BROWN
Cocoa Bureau Chief

COCOA BEACH — Building broke all records here during 1958, but construction slowed in the other cities of central Brevard.

This city's building permits reached $1,862,005 as 1958 ended—almost six times the total for 1957.

In central Brevard's other two cities, Cocoa and Rockledge, permits were $1,208,219 below the figures for 1957. Figures for unincorporated areas were not available Wednesday.

The Ko-Ko Motel — a $1,200,000 resort being put up by Dr. and Mrs. Meyer Koch of Fort Lauderdale — and the rapid expansion of Cocoa Beach accounted for the city's gain.

The motel is goin up on State Rd. A1A frontage which wasn't part of Cocoa Beach until two months ago. It was taken in under an annexation program which has more than doubled the city's size since last August.

A permit for the Ko-Ko was issued in November and made that month the year's record month. The total for the month was $1,396,000.

Totals for other months were January, $800; February, $17,600; March, $55,200; April, $117,500; May, $75,555; June, $18,400; July, $6,350; August, $23,200; September, $57,250; October, $70,150; and December, $24,150.

The figures don't reflect the construction of several subdivisions which were built, then annexed to the city.

In Cocoa $5,329,905 worth of building got under way during 1958. The figure for 1957 was $6,727,813, a record year for the city.

In Rockledge permits fell from their 1957 peak of $1,322,978 to a 1958 total of $900,152.

Most of Cocoa's total represented new homes—396 of them for a total value of $4,150,145—but the figure was below 1957 when 468 new homes were constructed.

Commercial permits issued in Cocoa included one for $200,000. It was for the Sherwood building, an office and store building going up on the city's riverfront.

Most of Rockledge's 1958 permits went to Rockledge Estates Inc., a new subdivision in the city's western section.

October was Cocoa's briskest building month—$879,200 worth of permits were issued then. In Rockledge the big month was May with $210,477.

The Palm Beaches Greet a New Year In Proper Manner

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES—Snappy New Year! The Palm Beaches are wearing an ice cap this morning (on both its heads) and many are trembling like an aspirin leaf, as the old lady said.

This morning there are still echoes of Auld Lang Syne as the Palm Beaches sweep up confetti, and toss paper hats and horns into the discard, along with the old year. There were celebrations at the Everglades Club, the Bath and Tennis Club, the Sailfish Club, hotels, night spots, and in private homes.

Mrs. Smith

Egg nog parties and coffees dot the social landscape today, to climax a week of holiday partying.

Mrs. Nelle F. Smith, 215 Marlboro Rd., is among those who are holding open house all day. The Vince Mattesons, 1301 S. Flagler, had a New Year's Eve party with supper served at midnight.

A holiday party of unusual charm was that at the American Legion, given by four sets of parents for their pretty teenage daughters, and attended by some 250 members of the younger set.

Parents and daughters were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Russell and Jodi; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powell III, and Clair; and Mr. and Mrs. Sam O. Smith and Susan; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Sparks and Sally Anne.

The auditorium was in holiday array with a Christmas tree, poinsettias and tinsel, while a mistletoe "kissing ring," was suspended from the ceiling by a red satin ribbon.

The serving tables were appointed in linen and lace and gleaming with silver.

The girls were in formal evening frocks and danced the first number with their fathers. The music was gay and danceable, but not Rock 'N' Roll.

Spinsters Party Annual Event

PARTY CHATTER, festive decorations, and New Year's wishes were all in evidence last Friday night when the Spinsters Cotillion Club members held their eighth annual Christmas cocktail party. It was held at 1414 N. Ocean Blvd., in Palm Beach.

A number of out of town guests were at this party, including members of Fort Lauderdale Bachelors Club.

Hostesses were Mary Ellen Balfe, Maryanne O'Donnell, Joanne Anderson, Nancy Barney, Connie Cernea, Pasy Gibson, Joyce Gonzalez, Betty Grill, Mary Ann Anderson, Joan Dunlop, Mary Jo Hartwell, Theo Gibson, Barbara McCullough, Gail Hargadon, Joan Murphy, Barbara Nicholson, Reba Sterling, Betty Lee Thaxton, Barbara Wedgeworth, and Maureen Hinnegan.

We mention their names, because chances are that some of them will be brides by this time next year. It's long been a legend, "Join the Spinsters and Get Married."

One Holiday Party Saw Snake

LEAVING TOMORROW after a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Middleton, 1016 Almeria Rd., are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Middleton, and son, Richard O. Middleton, II (named for his grandpa.) Dick and Janet will go to Athens, Ga. They were here for the party given during the week by the Gordon Potters.

WHEN THEY SAW the snake, some guests thought they were really "seeing things." The snake, carried by a small boy, was a very short time guest at the cocktail buffet given by Dr. and Mrs. Russell M. Martin.

It was carried in by their grandson, Kim, who thought the snake entitled to go to the party.

Coming from Decatur, Ill., with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Martin; brother, Rusty, and sister, Nancy Lou, to spend the holidays Kim had written that he hoped to catch a snake and an alligator in Florida.

So the senior Martins acquired a small garter snake and a 10-inch alligator and presented it to the children. They were delighted. The snake escaped, returned, and has now departed again, and the alligator succumbed to too much petting. But the sight of that snake at the party created a sensation.

Disease Death Charges Filed

TAMPA —(AP)— Police Tuesday charged a 35-year-old Tampa man with manslaughter in the meningitis death of Edwin M. Rogers.

Maurice L. Halverson is accused of striking Rogers during a Christmas Eve fight outside a tavern. Rogers died Monday.

30 Deaths Forecast

TAMPA — (AP) — The Florida Safety Council estimates that 30 persons will die in Florida accidents during the four-day New Year's holiday, 24 of them in traffic mishaps.

The council also predicts four persons will perish in fires and two in miscellaneous accidents.

The overall forecast is the same number that died over the four-day Christmas holiday. During that period, the state counted 25 traffic deaths, one from fire and three from suffocation.

Jax Bondsman Suspended

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— A Jacksonville bail bondsman was under six months suspension Tuesday in one of several cases of alleged violation of bail bond laws.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson suspended the license of Fred Guy Crews, who waived a hearing. Earlier, Bondsmen Ed Barber and Branson O. Arflin were charged with violations of bail bond laws.

They brought to eight the number of bondsmen Larson has taken action against in his investigation of court fixing in Duval County.

Synagogue 'Bomb' Is Shoebox

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The fake bomb planted at Temple Israel, 1901 N. Flagler Dr., had the earmarks of a collegiate prank, police said Wednesday.

Police, sheriff's men, FBI agents, and firemen converged on the Jewish Synagogue after an anonymous caller late Tuesday claimed a bomb had been planted at the temple.

The area was evacuated and Good Samaritan Hospital alerted for possible casualities.

Within 10 minutes, police found the fake bomb cushioned in wood shavings in a shoe box. It was made of four railroad flares, wiring and an alarm clock. The letters "KKK" were written on the flares.

Police said Wednesday they were following "every possible lead" in an effort to apprehend the bomb hoaxer.

Police believe the hoax may have been the work of pranksters.

The city of West Palm Beach recently passed a law against bomb hoaxes and provided stiff penalties.

Rain Due To Start New Year

By United Press International

A rainy New Year's day was in store for most of sunny Florida, but the weatherman said Orange Bowl football fans should have nothing to worry about.

A low pressure system moving northeastward out of the Gulf was expected to bring showers over the north and central portions of the state Thursday. But only a few showers were likely in Miami and the extreme south.

Chief forecaster Walter Davis said Miami may get some rain, but said it probably wouldn't happen until after the Orange Bowl game.

He pointed out that tradition is on the side of football fans, because he said it never yet has rained during the annual New Year's day classic.

The big worry, he said, was whether a squall line might develop in connection with the low pressure area.

This was what happened — and could happen again — last week when more than 12 inches of rain flooded Fort Lauderdale.

"It's kind of a toss-up situation," Davis said. "But for the present, we feel that south Florida has better than a 75 per cent chance for fair weather."

To date, South Florida has had some 6.77 inches of rain this month.

Execution Date Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins has signed a death warrant for execution of Willie Horne Jr., Jacksonville Negro, the week of Jan. 12 for the rape of a white grandmother.

The actual date for the electrocution will be set by the warden at Raiford Prison. Usually executions are carried out on Monday of the week in which they are scheduled.

Horne raped a 48-year-old woman near Jacksonville after halting the car in which she was riding and knocking out her escort with a heavy wrench.

Judge Named

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Tuesday appointed Ray E. Ulmer of Clearwater as Pinellas County judge. He will succeed Jack White, who was elected Circuit Judge.

Enhance His Political Future?

Collins May Visit Russia With Other State Governors

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins may visit Russia next summer.

He said the trip has been suggested for the nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference but "no arrangements have been made so far as I know. The whole project remains in an exploratory stage."

COLLINS

Collins said he could sum up the reaction of the council in this way:

"If the trip would likely result in good for the nation; if there is a request that we go from an approved sponsoring agency which is willing to pay the cost from non-tax sources; if the trip is approved by our own State Department; and if the Russians will welcome us, then I think the governors will go."

He asserted "it is premature to say that all of these ifs have been settled at this time, because I frankly do not believe that they have."

He said he hoped that all problematical factors will be cleared up by Feb. 23 when the executive committee meets Collins explained that the in Biloxi, Miss. idea for the trip originated with Dr. John Ivey, executive vice president of New York University, who is a former executive secretary of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"There has been considerable visitation in Russia from the federal side of government," Collins said, "and Mr. Ivey feels that the executive committee of the Governors Conference could interpret for the Russians our federal-state relationship."

He said at the same time the governors would be able to present a composite report of their views on Russia that should be valuable to the United States. The trip, if it is taken, would come just before the 1959 National Governors Conference in Puerto Rico.

Although Collins said he knew little about preliminary details of the proposal "it ties in with my ideas that state officials ought to take more interest in international affairs." As chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Collins has been mentioned as Southern hopeful for a place on the national Democratic ticket.

If such an opportunity should arise, a trip to the Soviet Union might be an asset to his political future.

Four Men Spotted Shooting White Ibis

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE BEACH—Chandler Young, vice president of the Indian River Audubon Society, reported Wednesday that he watched four men shooting white ibis — a bird protected by federal law — on the south side of Sebastian Inlet.

Young, who was on the north side of the inlet fishing, said he saw 10 of the birds fall to the ground, but counted 100 shots fired. He said he watched the hunters for about four hours through powerful field glasses.

The society official plans to ask state and federal game officials to keep a closer watch there for further activity by hunters.

No Trace of Montayne

Missing Flyer Talked to Cuban

HOLLYWOOD — A Fort Lauderdale pilot missing since early Sunday morning was seen talking with a Cuban man late Sunday afternoon at North Perry Airport near here, The Herald learned Wednesday.

The mysterious disappearance of Ray Montayne, 28, deepened Wednesday as Civil Air Patrol and Coast Guard officials reported no trace of the man or his rented Cessna 182 following a two-day statewide search.

Davis Miller, flight instructor for Jackson Flying Service, told officials Wednesday he had spoken with Montayne at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at North Perry, 12 miles west of here.

Miller said Montayne was talking with a man who "appeared to be a Cuban."

The missing man rented a plane from Sunny South Aircraft in Fort Lauderdale at 7:15 Sunday morning. He told the airfield manager he was going to Orlando and would return the same day.

North Perry had no record of Montayne's plane landing there Sunday.

His wife of two months, Martha Ann Montayne, Fort Lauderdale, said her husband told her he was going to work Sunday and would return that evening.

Just before his disappearance, Montayne was given $100 from an Aldo Montes, of Miami, according to his wife.

Bud Moore, commander of the North Dade Civil Air Patrol Squadron, said the search for the missing craft would continue Thursday.

The U.S. Border Patrol in Miami has been alerted.

"We're very curious about it," said Tyler Winton, senior inspector.

Mrs. Montayne, who said her husband had discussed the Cuban revolution recently, feared he may have become involved with Rebel forces in exile in Miami.

But a Rebel spokesman in Cuba denied Wednesday that the craft had landed in Cuba, according to the Search and Rescue Squadron of the 14th Air Force Division.

Mill Strike Is Ended

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— Striking electrical workers were called back to work Wednesday after the union and St. Regis Paper Co. reached an agreement.

Federal Mediator Gordon Duncan said union and management negotiated all day Tuesday and reached a settlement that night. The agreement was ratified by the union membership about 10:30 p.m.

Anti-Trust Suit Motion Denied

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Federal Judge George W. Whitehurst has denied a motion to dismiss a 3¼-million dollar anti-trust suit against owners of the Sarasota Journal and Herald-Tribune.

David B. Lindsay, David B. Lindsay Jr. and the Lindsay Newspapers Inc. sought dismissal of the suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. McKinley and the Sarasota News Inc.

Milton Man Is Guilty Of Assault

PENSACOLA — (UPI) — Ed Golden, 23, of Milton, Wednesday was found guilty of a reduced charge of assault and battery in the wounding of his girlfriend's mother in a shooting incident June 15 in which a deputy sheriff was killed.

A six-member court of record jury deliberated three hours and 15 minutes and reduced the charge from assault with intent to commit first degree murder.

The maximum sentence on the assault and battery count is six months in jail, while the more serious charge carried a possible 20-year prison sentence.

Judge Ernest E. Mason set sentencing for Monday. The defense attorneys have 10 days to announce an appeal, but they made no immediate indication either way.

Golden went on trial Tuesday in the wounding of Mrs. Pearce Jernigan. Earlier he was acquitted of murder in the fatal wounding of Deputy Sheriff Len Burton Adams and also of assault with intent to murder Deputy Leslie Brock in the same incident.

At the earlier trials, Golden testified and other witnesses confirmed it, that Brock had drawn his gun before the youth fired. Golden said he was "afraid they were going to kill me."

The young car salesman is engaged to marry Wesie Jernigan, 20, daughter of the wounded couple. He still faces trial late in January for wounding Pearce Jernigan, with whom he argued over marrying the girl, in the action that precipitated the shootings.

Holdup Suspect Caught Enlisting

CHICAGO — (AP) — John Howard Laskoske, 17, of Michigan City, Ind., was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents as he attempted to enlist in the Army.

Laskoske was charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery in West Palm Beach, Fla. Florida police, said FBI Agent Earl E. Brown, have a warrant for Laskoske in connection with a Nov. 24 holdup of the Central Truck Lines office which netted $1,200. Police in West Palm Beach have arrested another man in connection with the holdup.

Laskoske will appear for a hearing before a U. S. commissioner.

RR's, Railway Express Apply For Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Railway express and railroads operating in Florida Wednesday requested increases which the State Utilities Commission estimated would cost shippers slightly more than $300,000 a year.

Railway Express asked for a 15 per cent increase in rates on all commodities except fish, citrus gift packages, wearing apparel and certain carload traffic.

It would coincide with an interstate rate increase granted in October. Railway Express was given its last intrastate increase in November, 1957, and it affected only milk and cream products.

The Utilities Commission — which set Tuesday, Jan. 20, in Tallahassee, for a public hearing on the application, estimated the increase would cost Florida shippers $255,000 a year.

Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Tallahassee was set for the public hearing on the increased freight rates in Florida asked by Florida railroads. The commission estimated this hike, if granted, would cost shippers about $100,000 a year.

The railroads did not ask for any general percentage increase. Their application includes selective increases on certain commodities, some flat raises and some special percentage increases subject to both maximums and minimums.

They also asked for increased charges for switching, diversion, reconsignment, stop-offs for partial unloading and unloading.

The railroads were granted their last intrastate increase — amounting to nine per cent across the board — last April. It amounted in dollars and cents to about $593,000 a year, including $233,000 for Atlantic Coastline, $155,000 for Florida East Coast, $190,000 for Seaboard, $10,000 for L&N and a total of about $5,000 for all other lines.

Both Railway Express and the railroads cited increased wages and fringe benefits as the major reason for the proposed rate increases.

Peanut Butter

Youngster Chokes Self on Sandwich

JACKSONVILLE —(AP)— A 7-year-old boy choked to death while trying to eat a peanut butter sandwich, county investigators reported.

Lt. P. J. Pettersen of the sheriff's department said investigation was incomplete but information indicated that Charles E. Love choked on the sandwich Tuesday night at his home.

Two doctors from Cecil Field Naval Air Station, doing welfare work in the neighborhood, rushed to the Love home and performed surgery on the child's throat.

Pettersen said he and Deputy Sheriff R. P. McCauley were called to the scene at 7:15 p.m. after the child died.

Helicopter Escorts Trains at Crossings

ST. PETERSBURG —(AP)— A helicopter preceded all Seaboard Airline Railroad trains entering Pinellas county Wednesday sounding a warning to motorists to be cautious when approaching unguarded railroad crossings.

The helicopter, with a county patrolman aboard, flew directly in front of the trains and blared a siren and flashed a red light at each crossing. The craft picked up the trains as they entered the county and escorted them to the St. Petersburg city limits.

Several persons have been killed in recent weeks in a series of accidents at unguarded crossings.

County and railroad officials cooperated in the one-day project devised by a commercial firm to dramatize the need for alertness at railroad crossings.

Santa Clara Bid Crushed--Havana

Batista Troops Pound Retreating Rebel Units

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Government foot troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respites for the rebels," declared a source close to President Fulgencio Batista.

Batista remained in the presidential palace amid reports he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over Castro's insurgents soon.

Santa Clara's streets were described by a Batista spokesman as strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated that 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expects their flight toward easternmost Oriente province to gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle-raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive will be intensified once the rebels are pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there.

Insurgents still have the bulk of their forces in Oriente. They have entered or occupied a half dozen cities there and isolated the city of Santiago de Cuba. Some positions were given up by the government to rush reinforcements to Santa Clara.

The government, claiming Castro's bid to take Santa Clara and pose a threat to Havana has been smashed, said die-hard rebels in Santa Clara are being wiped out.

A late dispatch Wednesday night said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there harbored 200 rebels in a church and came out crying for peace although he carried a machine-gun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American embassy to go to the U.S. Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the U.S.

Castro obviously had counted on a popular uprising in daring to make his first frontal attack against the army in the two-year-old rebellion. But the uprising did not come.

An urgent radio appeal for reinforcements came from one rebel commander, Victor Bordon Machado, indicating the outnumbered rebels were running short of fighters and ammunition.

Another rebel broadcast admitted its forces just west of Santa Clara were "no longer able to resist in the face of attack by tanks" and said "there are numerous dead and wounded."

There were growing indications that Castro, in a daring bid for a quick knockout blow, had stretched his supply lines too far in striking out from his Oriente fortress in the last month.

The rebels were outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in the Las Villas Province offensive against government forces which had been greatly reinforced within the last few weeks.

There were indications that Castro had counted on desertions from the government forces.

Batista shook up the army command, however, to strengthen loyalty to the government. He even drew on armored forces and warplanes from already hard-pressed units in Oriente Province to help out in Las Villas Province, which runs across the waistband of Cuba.

The insurgents, while making no victory claims in Las Villas, reported new successes in Oriente. One broadcast claimed the capture of Guantanamo City only 27 miles north of the big U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay.

Blunt Notes State Big 3 Stand

We Stay in Berlin, West Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Western Allies, bluntly rejecting Soviet demands that they quit Berlin by June 1, challenged the Kremlin Wednesday to take part in a four-power conference on the overall problem of European security.

But the U.S., Britain and France warned the Russians in separate but similar notes that they will not take part in any diplomatic discussions "under menace or ultimatum."

The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union in unmistakable terms they do not intend to yield to the Russians' Nov. 27 demand that they leave West Berlin and allow the former German capital to become a Communist-encircled "free city."

They also served notice that they will not recognize the Communist regime of East Germany even if the Russians carry out their threat to turn over East Berlin and the corridors leading to the city to the East Germans.

The Western notes were drafted in Paris last week in consultation with the West German government. They received full backing Monday from the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All were in agreement that the West must insist that the Russians respect its right to remain in Berlin and to have access to the city in accordance with an Allied postwar agreement.

The notes were made public shortly after they were delivered to the Kremlin by the Western embassies in Moscow. U. S. officials were said to be anxious to get the U.S. note in the hands of Russian leaders in time for ample study before Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan leaves Moscow for a two-week visit to the U.S.

It is understood that Berlin is among the subjects Mikoyan wants to discuss with top authorities here. He is expected to arrive in this country by plane early next week.

But the U.S. and its Allies made it plain that they do not intend to negotiate with Russia over Berlin or any other problem if the Kremlin intends to present them with any showdown ultimatum.

'Raw Deal' Denied By Indian Bureau

DANIA SEMINOLE RESERVATION — A bitter feud broke into the open Wednesday between the Indian Affairs Bureau in Washington and a Miami attorney who has represented the Indians.

In a letter to Indian Commissioner Glenn Emmons in Washington, Attorney O. B. White charged the bureau and Indian agency here with engineering a "dirty deal" for the Seminole Indians in connection with a land lease.

"It's libelous, vile," Commissioner Emmons told The Herald from Washington.

Emmons said the bureau has not approved any leases for reservation land between the Indians and private investors. A preliminary proposal for a 62-acre frontier town is under consideration, Emmons said.

Virgil Harrington, local superintendent of Indian affairs now vacationing in Oklahoma, said in a phone conversation Wednesday that White is "greatly misinformed."

Harrington said a committee of four local bankers, appointed by Commissioner Emmons, was to meet with the Indians soon to discuss a 25-year lease for the 62-acre tract. White was to be invited, said Harrington.

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off Old OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivals will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback, Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on option.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Moon Mute Too Soon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's big Atlas satellite stopped "talking" Wednesday and the Defense Department indicated it believes the moon's batteries are dead or dying.

The department said Army ground stations were unable to trigger the Air Force satellite's transmitter.

The satellite was scheduled to receive and send back messages for 20 days but apparently has run out of steam after 12 days. It is expected to continue orbiting the earth until about Feb. 1 and then burn up in the atmosphere.

Thousands Pack Route Of March

Spectacle Turns Night to Day

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled parade and party.

For more than two hours as the colorful and tuneful procession moved along downtown Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., the 19-block route was brilliantly lighted as if by a million candles.

The 31 bands provided the sound effects for the 50 floats, and there were dozens of marching units and baton twirlers.

Then, to the delight of the children, there were clowns aplenty and gigantic balloons that ranged from a turkey and a kangaroo to a realistic stage coach, pulled by four plunging horses and protected by a shotgun guard as bandits tried to rob it.

The giant spectacle, which Maestro Ernie Seiler proudly proclaimed the Orange Bowl Festival's proudest effort, was witnessed by crowds that jammed the curbs and sidewalks, filled hotel and office building windows, and sought vantage spots from fire escapes, the courthouse steps and on roofs.

The police preliminary estimate of 400,000 spectators seemed certain to have been fulfilled. At least the crowds made an early start toward reaching that number. By noon, scores of early arrivals already had established themselves in folding chairs or on blankets at curbs along the parade route, fortified for the long wait with lunch boxes and thermos jugs.

By the 7 p.m. stepoff time, when the police escort drove into Biscayne Blvd. from the Dupont Plaza assembly area, there wasn't room left for a lifted arm.

Early threats of showers disappeared by parade time, but a brisk southeast breeze made the low 70 temperature chilly for those who neglected to wear coats or sweaters. There was no indication, however, that any of the hundreds of scantily clad models on floats or baton twirlers developed any goose pimples.

The parade participants outdid themselves for this Silver Anniversary presentation in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally, to cover its float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright—if artificial—flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well- and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. float, which featured gorgeous models.

All types of transportation were depicted in the glittering procession.

Southern Dairies had a surrey, naturally with a fringe on top, led by a white horse; Eastern Air Lines had a propjet plane flying just as if there were no strike; Pan American World Airways showed a Clipper soaring over

Won't Unionize Police Until They Ask, Hoffa Says

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa said Wednesday his union will try to organize policemen only if they ask to be organized. Even then, he said, they should not be allowed to strike.

Hoffa also ruled out any attempt by the Teamsters to halt deliveries to the New York police department in a drive to organize that city's law officers.

Hoffa's comments, issued by his headquarters in response to newsmen's requests for a policy statement, conflicted with an earlier announcement by Henry Feinstein, head of a New York City Employes' Teamster local.

Feinstein had said union members would cut off deliveries to the police department by setting up picket lines which members of the huge truck union would refuse to cross. Later, however, Feinstein retreated and said deliveries would move across picket lines.

Hoffa said "there will be no such service interruption by this international union now or at any time in the future." He said any talk of service interruption is "sheer nonsense."

A Teamster spokesman said any picketing would merely advertise the intention of the Teamsters to organize New York's policemen.

Hoffa said his union plans to organize all public employes, not only policemen.

"Police organization will be undertaken by the Teamsters' union only if they come to us seeking such organization," he said. He did not say whether he had received such requests.

But he said that even if policemen were unionized they should not have the right to strike because of the "emergency nature of their service to the general public."

The Teamster leader said police should be unionized to obtain machinery for arbitration of their grievances.

"We also feel that machinery is needed to eliminate the practice of leaving the police officers' welfare to the whims of department heads who quite often decide human relations on the basis of favoritism and politics," Hoffa said.

Wagner gave solid support to Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, who pledged Tuesday that every legal weapon would be used against any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

"I want to emphasize with all the sincerity and vigor at my command that this administration is opposed to any unionization of the police department and will take every step to see that it doesn't happen," Wagner said.

New York's police also took a dim view of the Teamster plans. John Cassesse, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said that unionism was not for the police department. The PBA represents patrolmen in such things as grievances, but has no bargaining rights.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

BELL

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeessh."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

Arizonan Peeks, Sees New Flag

NOGALES, Ariz. —(AP)— A new American flag, apparently following the government-approved design recognizing Alaska as a state, arrived in this Mexican border town Wednesday.

Publisher H. R. Sisk of The Nogales Daily Herald, who got a peek at the flag in a stationary store, said it consists of the present 13 stripes and has a square blue field containing seven rows of seven stars each.

the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, and the Coliseum.

Capital Airlines had a plane speeding from snow-covered firs to a yellow-frond palm tree; Richards featured a sailboat, the Bon Homme Richard; the Fort Pierce Shrine Club clown unit drove a baby buggy, bicycles, row boat, and jalopies; Jordan Marsh displayed a moon-bound rocket.

Of course there were animals of all kinds. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriners hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a dragon.

Fish there were aplenty, with one of the biggest leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Florida living was made attractive on the patio built on the float of The Miami Herald. This included a fireplace with a chicken on the spit; and a small pool and diving board.

The Miami News stuck to the newspaper business in its float, with miniature presses rolling off papers as oversize reproductions of the front page were flashed on a huge screen.

The 10 theme floats recalled past glories of Orange Bowl Festival years and looked into dreams of the future. Subjects included Music, Events, Art and Production, Models, Costumes, Make-Up and other aspects of Miami Memories.

Last of the theme floats was entitled "Counting Our Blessings." Following it, and ending the parade, was the float of "Her Majesty The Queen," on which was enthroned Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene.

Although she had the place of honor, she was not the only royalty. Another participant had been Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, on the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University bands drew partisan cheers along the route. The football teams from those two schools meet this afternoon in the Orange Bowl classic. They were preceded by the U.S. Marine Fleet Band.

There also were bands from Omaha, Neb., Delray Beach, Bartlesville, Okla., Sylacauga, Ala., West Palm Beach, Tifton, Ga., Beacon, N.Y., Arcadia, Rockaway Beach, N.Y., Lake Worth, Fort Pierce, Columbus, Ga., Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, Fort Lauderdale, Albany, Ga., and all parts of Greater Miami.

Out-of-town floats were entered from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, and Fort Myers, along with those of Coral Gables, Miami, and Metro Dade County.

New Year's Storm Hits Midwest

Snow and Ice Peril Traffic

CHICAGO —(UPI)— A New Year's Eve snowstorm spanned the Midwest Wednesday night, icing roads and heightening the dangers of holiday traffic.

The snows were driving eastward through the Ohio Valley and sent out advance warnings in the form of thickening clouds into the Northeast.

The storm climaxed the nation's coldest December since 1917 and left scores of towns and cities digging out in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roads opened in the West, clearing the way for hundreds of motorists to continue their holiday travels, but snow piled up rapidly along roads in Missouri, eastern Kansas, and western Illinois. To the South, snow and freezing rain spread a sheet of ice along highways from south Central Missouri across Illinois into western Indiana.

As the storm moved eastward, heavy snows began falling on Chicago and threatened to mount to four inches deep. Weathermen predicted up to five inches of snow through southern Wisconsin, northern Indiana, Lower Michigan and Ohio. New snows were already eight inches deep at Concordia, Mo.

Other new snow depths included two to four inches in Oklahoma, seven inches at Clifton City, Mo., and two inches in Colorado, where an unheralded storm sneaked in without warning from the Weather Bureau. Forecasters explained that they had probably lost track of the storm when it moved over Washington state high in the atmosphere.

The Missouri highway patrol put its largest force in history, 455 men, on the snowswept roads to control New Year's Eve traffic. The patrol information officer, Lt. F. W. Shadwell, asked Missourians to do their celebrating at home, adding: "If you have to get out, use caution."

Although the snows which swept the plains were not rated in the blizzard class in most areas, they were listed as the cause of at least 16 deaths.

Almost all the deaths were in traffic, which worked itself into monumental snarls in Southwest cities. A two-inch snow at Dallas created the biggest traffic jam in memory Tuesday night and many workers hadn't reached home by Wednesday morning.

In Oklahoma City, hazardous roads were blamed for poor business in downtown stores and the Tinker Air Force Base urged its 14,000 workers to take their annual leave but avoid traveling.

Engineers and EAL Review Peace Plan

Striking flight engineers and Eastern Air Lines officials resumed separate talks with a federal mediator Wednesday under heavy pressure to settle the 39-day walkout.

The two sides screened a previously rejected proposal, item by item, to reduce their points of disagreement.

Officials of the Flight Engineers International Association turned down the offer, submitted by Federal Mediator Warren Lane, in a package deal Monday.

The company and union expressed hope, however, that the proposal might be acceptable if agreement is reached on a few disputed points.

"I don't think it will last much longer — there is great pressure on each side," one of the participants commented.

Lane's proposal was revived after the engineers refused to go along with a plan offered Tuesday by the National Mediation Board. The company had accepted the plan.

U.S. Bureau Denies Tribe Got Raw Deal

Tribal Council, said White would be asked to attend the council's monthly meeting Jan. 5 to give a full explanation of his letter to Emmons.

"The council did not give White authority to write the letter," declared the Indian leader.

White said he acted on his own and "will continue to do so as long as I can help the Indians."

The flareup came as the Seminole Tribal Council was to give final approval to hiring White for two years. White's nomination already has the endorsement of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Emmons praised Harrington, and said the Seminoles have made great progress under his supervision.

In a recent letter to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, the Seminole Tribal Council praised the work of both Harrington and Emmons.

White's charge that the Indians have not been permitted to see the proposed lease was denied by the Rev. Bill Osceola, (no relation to the Rev. Billy Osceola), president of the Indian's business organization, the Seminole Tribe of Florida Corp.

"The board of directors has been studying the proposals. We plan to give them to the council for consideration after we complete our study," said the Rev. Osceola.

White, 67, has been representing the Indians off and on for several years. His formal two-year contract with the council, however, was drawn up only earlier this month.

R. W. International Enterprizes has asked for the frontier town lease. Projected cost of the attraction, which would feature daily gun fights and a posse, is $600,000, according to Richard Conant, principal in the venture.

"Our proposal is a honey as far as the Indians are concerned," Conant said.

Outlook Warm for OB Game

Orange Bowl fans will be shirt-sleeved today while spectators shiver at the nation's other bowl games.

But there's "a chance of rain" here, Weatherman Sanford Neuman said. And if even a drop should fall it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25 year history.

"Last year it was sunny during the game. The showers held off until the game was over, and then it rained for three days," Neuman recalled.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasadena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

Sen. Kennedy Out of Hospital

BOSTON — (AP) — U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was discharged from New England Baptist Hospital Wednesday where he had been under treatment for five days with a virus condition.

He left immediately by plane for the Palm Beach, Fla., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

Flying Home

LONDON —(AP)— The U.S. embassy announced Wednesday Ambassador John Hay Whitney will fly home Sunday for a three-week vacation at his Georgia farm near Thomasville.

Twelfth Month Snow, Rain, Stays Over to Greet New Year

Forecasts

MIAMI AND VICINITY — Considerable cloudiness with some risk of a shower today, but continued mild. High, in the upper 70s. East to southeast winds at 10 to 20 miles an hour.

MARINE — Jacksonville through the Florida Straits: East to southeast winds at 15 to 25 miles an hour. Cloudy with occasional rain over north portion. Considerable cloudiness south portion with chance of showers. East Gulf: East to southeast winds at 15 to 25 miles an hour. Cloudy with occasional rain north portion and considerable cloudiness with scattered showers south portion.

SMALL BOAT BULLETIN — East to southeast winds at 15 to 25 miles an hour. Moderate seas and inland waters continued choppy. Partly cloudy.

LOWER EAST COAST, KEYS — Considerable cloudiness with risk of showers. High, in upper 70s. East to southeast winds at 12 to 22 miles an hour.

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain, sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

HENRY KINNEY

Tony Knows Road Ropes

THERE ARE certain political aspects to County Commissioner Herb Burke's proposal that retiring Commissioner Tony Salvino be made county road supervisor.

While the commission will continue to be Republican dominated, Salvino, a Democrat, is in pretty good standing with the state administration. It's calculated that this, combined with his knowledge of the ins and outs of state road politics, would be to the county's advantage in negotiations for highway improvements.

This Warbler Flaunts Rules

THE CHRISTMAS bird count by Audubon Society members revealed that at least one confused yellow warbler is still hanging around here, and probably very lonely. He's supposed to be in Peru or Brazil at this time of year.

The warblers are great migrants. They winter away down in South America and nest as far away as northern Canada.

Charles E. Wilson, American

AFTER SPENDING an hour or so with Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Electric and the mobilization czar of World War II, it's easy to be convinced that what this country needs is more men like him.

He would have made a splendid ambassador to Russia — and in fact he was once urged to take the job, but turned it down. People who feel we're giving away too much money abroad would love him. So would those who are the most concerned about government spending. His achievement in pushing aircraft production up to a rate of 109,000 planes a year in 1944 now appears monumental.

He recalls once, during the war, the Russians asked him for more aluminum than they needed and he refused to give it to them. "But the President said we could have it," was the reply. "I don't care what the President said," Wilson retorted, and listening to him tell the story you can almost hear him roaring it at some bullheaded Russian, "You can't have it!" They didn't get it, either.

In 1951, France received a billion dollars from the U.S., and came to him for more. "Not one more dime!" He told the French officials. "If you want more money, dig it up yourselves."

Wilson once spent seven hours with Russia's Jacob Malik in what apparently was a no-holds-barred conversation. Afterward Malik made arrangements for him to to the USSR on condition he'd speak just as frankly to the Kremlin. President Truman wouldn't let him go.

Wilson's concern over inflation and spending is impressive. He can see nothing but disaster ahead if we continue along the road we're pursuing.

This is a strong man, a man of power and determination. But, with his great affection for, and devotion to, his country, he almost weeps at the sight of her plunging headlong toward destruction. He cries out, and knows that no one listens. He now considers his warnings those of a voice in the wilderness.

Four Men Spotted Shooting White Ibis

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE BEACH—Chandler Young, vice president of the Indian River Audubon Society, reported Wednesday that he watched four men shooting white ibis — a bird protected by federal law— on the south side of Sebastian Inlet.

Young, who was on the north side of the inlet fishing, said he saw 10 of the birds fall to the ground, but counted 100 shots fired.

Plane Falls Into Sea, Pilot, Student Killed

One Body Found At Crash Scene

By PAT MANGAN
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two men were killed Wednesday when their small plane crashed in the ocean, about a mile off Fort Lauderdale beach.

Dead are Clair Barron, 28, of Hialeah, the instructor, and Len Jones, 24, of North Miami, his student.

Barron's body was recovered and identified by William Conrad, president of Airlines Training, Inc., of Broward International Airport, which owned the Cessna 180. Jones' body is presumed to be still in the plane.

Navy divers volunteered to attempt to recover the plane and body.

A beach hotel doorman who saw the crash, said the plane appeared to suddenly nose into the water. It fell east of Sunrise Blvd. in about 65 feet of water. The crash was about 3:45 p.m.

Conrad said both Barron and Jones, who was taking advanced flight training, were "highly qualified" pilots.

He could give no reason for the smashup. Barron had been employed by Airlines Training, Inc., as an instructor for six months.

Barron's body was recovered by a charter fishing boat, the Peggy Anne, and transferred to a Coast Guard auxiliary craft, the Fireball, owned by Stewart Roach and captained by Odd Lilleheil. Also aboard were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray and Mr. and Mrs. David Murray.

Robert Murray and Lilleheil managed to transfer the body to the Fireball despite heavy seas.

Another charter fishing boat, the Dream Girl, located the scene of the crash for a Coast Guard helicopter, taking part in the search. It took bearings to enable rescuers to return to search for the plane.

The Coast Guard cutter Travis, based at Port Everglades, is being overhauled and was unable to take part in the hunt.

The Coast Guard reported it would send two divers down to recover the second body this morning if weather permits.

Jones was taking the final five hours of instruction needed for his commercial pilot's license, his father, Francis M. Jones, of North Miami, said.

Wife Waits And Hopes After Call

FORT LAUDERDALE — Mrs. Clair Barron is a secretary at Airlines Training, Inc. When she answered the telephone Wednesday afternoon, it was the Coast Guard calling.

Could she identify the occupants of a Cessna 180, an Airlines Training, Inc., plane which crashed into the ocean off Fort Lauderdale Beach?

Shocked, Mrs. Barron replied only one of their planes was out. Her husband was the pilot and his passenger was Len Jones, another pilot taking instruction for instrument rating

While her boss, William H. Conrad, president of the firm, went to the dock to meet the Coast Guard boat and identify the one body which was recovered, she waited in the office.

Was it her husband's plane? Was the crash fatal?

She questioned callers for information. She listened to reports from the tower at Broward International Airport. She waited.

"We're just sitting here, waiting, not knowing," she said, describing her anxiety.

It was nearly two hours before she got word.

"They went out about 2:30," she explained later. "It was a training flight. They were to be gone an hour or so."

Inspector Innocent, Wife Says

WEST HOLLYWOOD — Mrs. Robert Power, wife of the building inspector indicted Tuesday by the Grand Jury, spoke out Wednesday in his defense. She said her husband had been accused of issuing irregular certificates of occupancy for homes near Lake Forest.

"It's absolutely untrue," Mrs. Power declared. "The complaints concern septic tanks. My husband had no jurisdiction over them at all." An expert report issued this week urges inspectors be given control of septic tanks.

"I believe in laying the blame where it belongs," Mrs. Power continued. "My husband's a fine man. He's done a lot for people out here."

Power, 63, has pleaded innocent to charges of malpractice and receiving unauthorized money.

Mill Strike Is Ended

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— Striking electrical workers were called back to work Wednesday after the union and St. Regis Paper Co. reached an agreement.

Federal Mediator Gordon Duncan said union and management negotiated all day Tuesday and reached a settlement that night. The agreement was ratified by the union membership about 10:30 p.m.

Second Trial Angle?

Welborn Defense Suggest Suicide

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

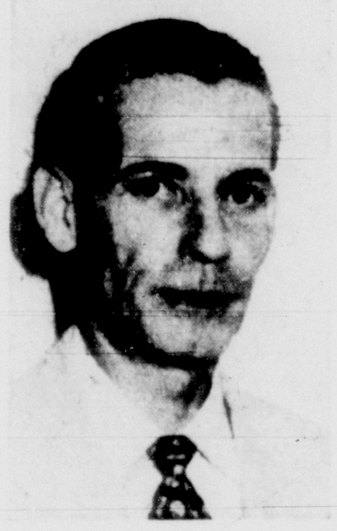
FORT LAUDERDALE — Mary Welborn's attorney, Ellis Rubin, strove Wednesday to show the man she is accused of killing could have committed suicide.

Rubin hammered away on the new defense strategy during a preamble to her second trial, starting Monday.

The 23-year-old redhead is charged with the second degree murder in the fatal shooting of Miami engineer, Robert Lee, on Christmas Day, 1957. Her first trial in November was ruled a mistrial when the jury failed to reach a verdict.

Wednesday's hearing was to take a deposition from Tommy Nunn, head of the sheriff's records bureau. Nunn suffered a heart attack at the first trial and has been seriously ill since. His deposition will be read at the trial next week.



Tommy Nunn
. . . it could happen

Mary Welborn
. . . on trial Monday

Under persistent questioning, Nunn told Rubin there was no conclusive evidence at the scene of the tragedy on U.S. 27 to show if the fatal shot was self-inflicted or not.

"Is it correct there's no conclusive evidence to show how the man died?" Rubin asked.

"That's correct," Nunn replied.

He told a small audience in Criminal Court Judge Louis Weissing's chambers it was "physically possible, for Lee to have shot himself.

Asked if there was anything to indicate accidental homicide, Nunn replied: "I can't answer." At Rubin's request, Nunn staged a dramatic demonstration with the dead man's rifle.

Nunn showed that a man holding the gun could fire it at the angle at which the bullet entered Lee's head.

State Rep. Emerson Allsworth, former county solicitor and now a special prosecutor in the case, objected repeatedly to Rubin's line of questioning.

Rubin referred to Nunn as "possibly the state's top expert" in criminal investigation. Nunn estimated that about 300 of the 1,000-odd homicide cases he's examined turned out to be suicides.

He assured the court once or twice that he felt well enough to continue giving evidence.

Client Held

Attorney Fumes As Trial Set

FORT LAUDERDALE — Criminal Court Judge Louis Weissing found "probable cause" Wednesday for sending Darwin Cunningham, 30, to trial on a charge of breaking and entering with intent to commit grand larceny.

County Solicitor Tom Coker was the only witness to testify at Cunningham's preliminary hearing.

Defense Attorney Steadman Stahl bitterly complained his client's rights were violated when the court refused to hear other witnesses.

"I've subpenaed five witnesses," Stahl declared. "Cunningham was entitled to this hearing long ago. He's been in jail 30 days."

"Probable cause is already shown," Judge Weissing said. "We're not going to trial today."

Stahl's rejected witnesses included Mr. and Mrs. John Pulda, owners of the home Cunningham is accused of robbing; William Jordan, awaiting sentence for robbery; Ben Grigsby, sheriff's chief criminal investigator, and Coker.

The jewelry Cunningham is suspected of stealing was allegedly received by James Gunn, employe of a bail bondsman, Claude Anderson.

The charge against Gunn was quashed Monday, but a new one was filed promptly. His arraignment is set for 9:30 a.m. Monday.

Questioned by his assistant, Wallace Allbritton, Coker told the court Cunningham admitted the robbery in Grigsby's presence. Coker said he first saw Cunningham in jail on Thanksgiving morning.

"There's no testimony Cunningham was advised of his rights," Stahl declared. "How did Coker happen to be at the jail that morning?"

Allbritton accused Stahl of trying to turn the hearing into "discovery proceedings." On Monday, Judge Weissing denied Stahl's motion for the hearing. Stahl said the judge changed his mind the next day. The trial is set for Wednesday.

Chilly OK Is Given To Sewer

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — School board members reluctantly went along with a new health department regulation Wednesday by agreeing to install a sewage disposal plant at the new Rock Island Junior High School.

Chairman Robert Ferris "Passed" his vote, and John Calvin opposed the move. The vote was 3-2.

Other members weren't sure the new type system would be an improvement over septic tanks, but went along with the health department "in a spirit of cooperation" and to expedite completion of the school.

The board was told Tuesday a central collection system would cost approximately $30,000 — twice as much as septic tanks.

Norman Tuckett, county sanitation officer, claimed septic tanks are inadequate for schools and contribute to soil and water pollution dangers.

School Attorney Ted Davis said the board wasn't bound by the health department rules. He pointed out both are county agencies and have no control over each other.

He warned, however, the health department could seek an injunction, which could delay construction of the school.

Board members said they may not approve sewage systems at other schools.

Police Arrive But All's Quiet

HOLLYWOOD—Three husky policemen were called Monday to straighten out a family argument.

A housewife called because she and her husband were battling over who was supposed to feed their dog.

But when the cops arrived, all was quiet. The 72-year-old woman said the argument with her 79-year-old hubby had been settled.

Police still don't know who fed the dog.

30 Deaths Forecast

TAMPA — (AP) — The Florida Safety Council estimates that 30 persons will die in Florida accidents during the four-day New Year's holiday, 24 of them in traffic mishaps.

The council also predicts four persons will perish in fires and two in miscellaneous accidents.

The overall forecast is the same number that died over the four-day Christmas holiday. During that period, the state counted 25 traffic deaths, one from fire and three from suffocation.

Execution Date Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins has signed a death warrant for execution of Willie Horne Jr., Jacksonville Negro, the week of Jan. 12 for the rape of a white grandmother.

The actual date for the electrocution will be set by the warden at Raiford Prison. Usually executions are carried out on Monday of the week in which they are scheduled.

Horne raped a 48-year-old woman near Jacksonville after halting the car in which she was riding and knocking out her escort with a heavy wrench.

Many Autos, Small Road

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH—"Too little roadway and too much traffic," was Police Chief James E. Boggs' summation of a paralyzing traffic tieup on Atlantic Blvd., between the Intracoastal Waterway and Ocean Blvd. Wednesday afternoon.

Boggs said he had six men handling traffic part of the afternoon. They were stationed at Ocean Blvd. A1A, Hibiscus Ave.-Riverside Dr., and 28th Ave.

Construction has limited traffic to two lanes in these areas. It was the funneling of four lanes of traffic into two that complicated matters.

But by mid-afternoon the contractor, R. H. Wright and Son, opened a portion of the southside of Atlantic Blvd. According to Boggs, "it cleared things up in four minutes."

For several weeks three policemen have been detailed to keep the traffic unsnarled. The contractor was not bound to furnish traffic patrolmen.

According to William Gunn, assistant city manager, this was not made a part of the contract because it "would have raised the cost." If the work had been completed according to schedule, the difficulty would not have come up, Gunn said.

During some crucial rush-hour periods last week, nearly all policemen on duty in the congested area were handling traffic.

Gunn said city crews were installing temporary traffic signals at A1A and 24th Ave., on Atlantic Blvd. This is being done, he said, because the permanent signal installation probably won't be in for another month.

Boggs said the tempory signals would not eliminate the cause of congestion — reducing the road use to two lanes. He said the "two-lane" situation would come up "periodically," until construction is completed.

Insurance Firm OKs Merger

MIAMI, Fla. —(AP)— Shareholders of Florida Sun Life Insurance Company of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Wednesday approved merging their company into American Investors Corporation of Nashville, Tenn.

James C. Dean, president of Florida Sun Life said more than 86 per cent of the shareholders voted and the vote favoring their acquisition by the Nashville financial concern was unanimous.

Harry A. McDonald of Washington, D.C., chief executive officer and vice chairman of the board of American Investors, said the company has received notification of the shareholders action in Fort Lauderdale and that exchange of the American Investors shares for those outstanding of Florida Sun Life will be made shortly.

The transaction was approved on a basis of two shares of American Investors Corporation common stock for three shares of Florida Sun Life Insurance Company stock.

This was the first stockholder action in a series of transactions that was announced two weeks ago by American Investors Corporation.

The board of directors of all concerned have approved each action and a merger of American Life Savings Insurance Company of Miami, and American Investors Corporation are both awaiting stockholder approval.

The other Florida company's shareholders are scheduled to vote shortly, a date has not yet been set for their meeting. The Houston company's shareholders are scheduled to vote in that city Jan. 5.

Merger of Florida Sun Life Insurance Company into American Investors increases the size of American Investors corporate family to six.

In addition to the New Fort Lauderdale subsidiary, other holdings of the Nashville firm are American Investment Life Insurance Company, Nashville, Tenn.; American Investment Life Insurance Company of Maryland, Baltimore, Maryland Southeastern fund, Financial Life and Casualty Company, Investors Fire Insurance Company and the GWG Corporation, all of Columbia, South Carolina.

With the merger of Florida Sun Life, the number of shareholders of American Investors is increased to about 11,800 and its shares outstanding to 4,032,151.

The Florida firm has more than $500,000 in assets and thus increased the American Investors total currently to slightly above 8½ million dollars.

Top Sooner Flays Third Term Ban

FORT LAUDERDALE — Gov.-Elect J. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma said Wednesday he favors repeal of the ban on third terms for presidents.

Edmondson, here for the Orange Bowl game, said he would like to see Oklahoma's congressional delegation take the lead in repealing the limitation "if there is a chance of accomplishing anything."

He added he has always opposed limitation on public offices.

Edmondson said the third term ban has "definitely hurt" President Eisenhower's power, and added he felt it was a contributing factor to the heavy Republican losses in the November election.

"It's rather amusing," he said, "to think that the Republicans pushed this (the ban) through during Truman's administration and it now has come home to roost with them."

The young governor - elect said he doesn't think New York Gov.-elect Nelson Rockefeller has a chance to be elected president.

He said the current boom for Rockefeller is merely a "stop Nixon drive."

Synagogue 'Bomb' Is Shoebox

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The fake bomb planted at Temple Israel, 1901 N. Flagler Dr., had the earmarks of a collegiate prank, police said Wednesday.

Police, sheriff's men, FBI agents, and firemen converged on the Jewish Synagogue after an anonymous caller late Tuesday claimed a bomb had been planted at the temple.

The area was evacuated and Good Samaritan Hospital alerted for possible casualities.

Within 10 minutes, police found the fake bomb cushioned in wood shavings in a shoe box. It was made of four railroad flares, wiring and an alarm clock. The letters "KKK" were written on the flares.

Police said Wednesday they were following "every possible lead" in an effort to apprehend the bomb hoaxer.

Police believe the hoax may have been the work of pranksters.

The city of West Palm Beach recently passed a law against bomb hoaxes and provided stiff penalties.

Steel Arrives For WPB Bridge

WEST PALM BEACH — County Commissioner Lake Lytal announced Wednesday that 90 per cent of the steel for Royal Park bridge lift span had arrived.

The bridge is presently closed while it is being widened and a modern lift span installed. Construction was held up by a strike at the steel producing plant.

Lytal said the contractor is working at top speed, but that he had no idea if they could finish before April 1, the predicted completion date.

FORT LAUDERDALE — Dr. Igor I. Sikorsky, consulting engineer for Sikorsky Aircraft, will be the speaker for the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences inaugural banquet Monday at Bahia Mar.

Dr. Igor I. Sikorsky
. . . to speak here

He will talk on transport and cargo crane helicopters.

Dr. Sikorsky, a leader in the aircraft industry for 50 years, built the first four-engine airplane in 1911, designed planes which pioneered crossings of five major oceans, and, at an age when most consider retiring, broke the world's helicopter endurance record.

John D. Gill of the school of engineering of the University of Miami, chairman of the South Florida section of the institute, said guests expected at the dinner probably represent the greatest cross section of aviation people to gather for one meeting in Florida.

They include Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Du Bose, commander of the air rescue service, Military Air Transport Service, Orlando; Rear Adm. W. G. Switzer, commander, Fleet Air, Jacksonville Naval Air Station; Col. Harry J. Halberstadt, director, cruise missile tests, Patrick AFB; Capt. W. C. Moore, commanding officer, Air Development Squadron One, U.S. Naval Base, Key West.

Cmdr. J. W. Williams, commanding officer, Coast Guard station, Dinner Key; Col. George Humbrecht, commander, Palm Beach AFB; Capt. J. T. Watson Jr., commanding officer, Ellyson Field, helicopter training base, Pensacola; Capt. E. W. Parish, commanding officer, U.S. Naval Air Station, Jacksonville; Col. George W. Peterson, commander, Palm Beach AFB; Col. Seth J. McKee, commander, 823rd Air Division, Homestead AFB.

Charles Roelke, general manager of the Florida research and development center, Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Co.; E. J. Venagila, division manager, Sperry Microwave Electronics Co., Clearwater; A. E. Persons, general manager, General Electric Co., St. Petersburg, Grover Loening, Key Biscayne, Mayor John V. Russell, and Charles Blaney, director of procurement, Martin Co., Orlando.

Guests from other technical societies and in the aircraft and missile industry have been invited. Tickets may be obtained from E. L. Eveleth, program chairman, Southeast Machinery Co., 1525 S. Andrews Ave.

After Baby Sitting

15-Year-Old Girl Hurt In Two-Car Accident

By TOM VINCIGUERRA
Herald Staff Writer

WEST HOLLYWOOD — A 15-year-old girl returning home from baby sitting was injured Tuesday night when the car she was riding in plowed into the rear of another vehicle.

Susan D. Short, of 6640 NW 20th St., Driftwood Acres, was treated at Memorial Hospital for deep lacerations of her face and knees.

Trooper W. S. Bateman, of the Florida Highway Patrol said she had just finished a baby sitting job at the home of Armando J. Salerno, 34, of 1275 NE 202nd St., North Miami Beach.

Salerno, who was driving, struck the rear of a car driven by Daniel P. Kaseta, 24, of 5907 NW 26th St., Bateman said. Kaseta was waiting to make a left turn at Garfield Street and State Road Seven.

Salerno and Kaseta apparently were not injured.

Witnesses, Bateman said, told him Salerno hit Kaseta's car while traveling about 45 miles an hour. The impact knocked Kaseta's vehicle about 160 feet forward, Bateman said.

Salerno, a branch circulation manager for the Miami News, was charged with failing to have his vehicle under control.

MIRAMAR — All was quiet on the policital front Wednesday although this city's first municipal election is little more than two weeks away.

No political rallies have been set by the 14 candidates who filed early in December for six council seats.

Qualifying deadline for the Jan. 13 election passed Monday without a new name being added to the list.

The present council, except for Charles Knapp, the lone local resident, cannot seek re-election because they live outside Miramar.

The men took office under a city charter obtained by Miramar Corp. developer of the community.

In the race for mayor, in addition to Knapp., are Bill Powers, Manuel Meritzer and August Chlig.

Running for the five councilman posts are P. D. Kennedy Jr., John G. Ferris, John Marini, R. H. Epstein, Samuel D. Ressner, Frederick Seames, Anthony Duane, Arthur Lindstrand, Roy Miricle and W. A. Carney.

Playhouse To Present Hit Musical

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Composer Richard Rogers will bring new version of his hit musical of the 1930s, "Babes in Arms" to the Royal Poinciana Playhouse this season.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Production Director Paul Crabtree, who also named four other productions scheduled for the 10 week season.

Rogers wrote "Babes in Arms" with the late Lorenz Hart in the musical, which included such tunes as "The Lady Is A Tramp," "I Wish I Were In Love Again," and "Where or When," was later made into a film starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

All the major musical numbers, including the title song will be retained. The book, however, has been rewritten by George Oppenheimer, newspaperman and author of the recent anthology, "The Passionate Playgoer."

The revised musical will be taken on tour following the performances at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse. Crabtree said Rogers plans to take it back to Broadway in the fall.

Other productions scheduled for the season:

"Not in the Book," currently London's top mystery-comedy. Edward Everett Horton, Ann Harding and Reginald Owen will star.

"Beachcombers," a new play by Crabtree, with Arthur Treacher and Fernanda Montel in the lead roles.

Jailbreak Planned?

'Always Get Blamed,' Wails Young Ex-Con

By DUANE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — A 19-year-old ex-convict, accused of plotting a mass break from the Broward County Jail, complained Wednesday that he's "blamed for everything that goes wrong around here."

Alwood Albright, described by jailers as a "loud mouth" and "disrespectful kid," claimed he "didn't now anything" about a jail break.

Sheriff's deputies said Albright has given jailers here "a rough time" and spent two months in maximum security cells at the state prison last summer while an inmate there.

"I don't know anything about a jail break," he meekly said Wednesday. "What are you talking about? I get blamed for everything that goes wrong around here."

Anticipating trouble, 15 armed deputies lined courthouse corridors as Albright was taken to Criminal Court to be arraigned on a breaking and entering charge.

The prisoner was arrested on a burglary charge here early last month. He was released from Raiford prison in September.

Stall-Owners Like Stable Agreement

By CLARENCE ZAITZ
North Broward Bureau

POMPANO BEACH — Representatives of a majority of stall owners at the city-owned Sand and Spurs Stables Wednesday expressed satisfaction with a new lease agreement adopted by the City Commission.

Thomas Keeher, spokesman for about 40 of the owners, said the new agreement would go a long way toward eliminating disunity that has made the equestrian sport one of the city's most controversial recreations. The commission more than once in recent months threatened to close down the whole operation.

Under the agreement, every lessee is automatically a member of the Stall Owners Association, a move to eliminate difficulties which surrounded the operation of two different clubs at the stables.

In addition to regular stall assessments ($4 monthly for city residents and $12 for others) the horse owners will be assessed a separate amount for payment of a night watchman.

Stables Supervisor Sam Rayburn said a watchman should be hired at once to protect against fire, accidents, and trespassers.

Keeher said the high out-of-town rates would force about 14 horse owners to pull out, but he failed in his plea that the commission reduce the $12 rate to $8 or $9.

BB Gun Warning Issued

POMPANO BEACH — Police are alarmed that a rash of vandalism may come from the hands of boys who received BB guns for christmas.

There's already been one incident.

The boys involved will receive their worst punishment at the hands of their parents — who are responsible for the damage.

Four boys, all about 11 years old, were picked up by Patrolman G. Peter Grande Monday, following a complaint by Edgar Smoak that windows in a new office building at 1199 NW Third Ave., had been peppered over the weekend.

Two were firing funs and the others were throwing rocks. When they finished, they had broken $15 worth of jalousie windows.

Juvenile Officer Mike Marinelli said if the boys were caught at a second offense, they'd be turned over to Juvenile Court.

The father of one of the boys involved said, "I had built a target for them in the backyard. But they just wandered across the street."

7 Get Call To Appear At Hearing

By PETER LAINE
Herald Staff Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE — Some Port Everglades commissioners will be asked to testify when the Grand Jury reconvenes at 10 a.m. Monday to study contract awards at the port.

They will appear in addition to seven witnesses subpenaed Wednesday.

"I shall ask one or two commissioners to testify," said Quentin Long, assistant state attorney. "I'm sure they'll respond to a telephone call."

The seven summoned are R. T. Spangler, port executive director who becomes acting manager today; E. W. Bassett, acting manager who resigned Wednesday; the former comptroller, Harlow Burt, who resigned last month; Frank Rule, Wyatt B. Hodges and Joe Heinz, contractors, and Paul Vyff, engineer and taxpayers league official.

The dispute arose over Rule's receipt of two large jobs in September — one for paving, the other for sprinkler installations.

The paving job cost $29,000, and the sprinklers about $53,000. They were awarded to Rule on change-of-work orders without advertising for bids.

The port charter requires advertising for bids for all purchases or contracts of more than $1,000.

The sprinkler work involved two warehouses. One was built by another contractor.

Sub-contractors who worked for Rule said he asked them to contribute to Port Chairman Nelson De Ban's election campaign fund. De Ban was defeated. Monday is the last day of the present port board's term of office.

Long repeated Wednesday the Grand Jury's study of the county building department is completed.

"I have nothing else to present on it," he said. "Tuesday's report was final."

Rain Due To Start New Year

By United Press International

A rainy New Year's day was in store for most of sunny Florida, but the weatherman said Orange Bowl football fans should have nothing to worry about.

A low pressure system moving northeastward out of the Gulf was expected to bring showers over the north and central portions of the state Thursday. But only a few showers were likely in Miami and the extreme south.

Chief forecaster Walter Davis said Miami may get some rain, but said it probably wouldn't happen until after the Orange Bowl game.

He pointed out that tradition is on the side of football fans, because he said it never yet has rained during the annual New Year's day classic.

The big worry, he said, was whether a squall line might develop in connection with the low pressure area.

This was what happened — and could happen again — last week when more than 12 inches of rain flooded Fort Lauderdale.

"It's kind of a toss-up situation," Davis said. "But for the present, we feel that south Florida has better than a 75 per cent chance for fair weather."

To date, South Florida has had some 6.77 inches of rain this month.

Jax Bondsman Suspended

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— A Jacksonville bail bondsman was under six months suspension Tuesday in one of several cases of alleged violation of bail bond laws.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson suspended the license of Fred Guy Crews, who waived a hearing. Earlier, Bondsmen Ed Barber and Branson O. Arflin were charged with violations of bail bond laws.

They brought to eight the number of bondsmen Larson has taken action against in his investigation of court fixing in Duval County.

Santa Clara Bid Crushed--Havana

Batista Troops Pound Retreating Rebel Units

HAVANA, Cuba — (AP) — Government foot troops, backed by armor and warplanes, hammered retreating rebel forces around Santa Clara Wednesday night and drove them eastward out of Las Villas province. The army said the rebel bid to seize Santa Clara, cut Cuba in two and threaten Havana had been crushed.

As loyalist forces pushed Fidel Castro's fighters toward Camaguey, Las Villas and Oriente provinces, the government called on its forces to keep on fighting until the revolutionary movement is utterly wrecked.

"There will be no New Year's holiday and no truces or respites for the rebels," declared a source close to President Fulgencio Batista.

Batista remained in the presidential palace amid reports he hoped to announce a sweeping victory over Castro's insurgents soon.

Santa Clara's streets were described by a Batista spokesman as strewn with dead and wounded. Government informants estimated that 3,000 rebels had been killed or wounded. They indicated government casualties were at least 1,000.

Once rebel forces are pushed into Camaguey, the government expects their flight toward easternmost Oriente province to gain momentum. Camaguey is the heart of Cuba's flat cattle - raising country where rebels would have little chance against armored forces and air attacks.

Presidential palace sources emphasized the drive will be intensified once the rebels are pushed into Oriente, to destroy their strongholds there.

Insurgents still have the bulk of their forces in Oriente. They have entered or occupied a half dozen cities there and isolated the city of Santiago de Cuba. Some positions were given up by the government to rush reinforcements to Santa Clara.

The government, claiming Castro's bid to take Santa Clara and pose a threat to Havana has been smashed, said die-hard rebels in Santa Clara are being wiped out.

A late dispatch Wednesday night said government forces had driven the rebels out of the town of Cruces, 30 miles southwest of Santa Clara. An official source said a Roman Catholic priest there harbored 200 rebels in a church and came out crying for peace although he carried a machinegun under his garments.

Planes were bombing or strafing rebels elsewhere in Las Villas, including the city of Trinidad on the southern coast.

In Havana, a group of government officials and lawmakers sought visas from the American embassy to go to the U.S. Families of some prominent Cubans already have left for the U.S.

Castro obviously had counted on a popular uprising in daring to make his first frontal attack against the army in the two-year-old rebellion. But the uprising did not come.

An urgent radio appeal for reinforcements came from one rebel commander, Victor Bordon Machado, indicating the outnumbered rebels were running short of fighters and ammunition.

Another rebel broadcast admitted its forces just west of Santa Clara were "no longer able to resist in the face of attack by tanks" and said "there are numerous dead and wounded."

There were growing indications that Castro, in a daring bid for a quick knockout blow, had stretched his supply lines too far in striking out from his Oriente fortress in the last month.

The rebels were outnumbered up to 10 to 1 in the Las Villas Province offensive against government forces which had been greatly reinforced within the last few weeks.

There were indications that Castro had counted on desertions from the government forces.

Batista shook up the army command, however, to strengthen loyalty to the government. He even drew on armored forces and warplanes from already hard-pressed units in Oriente Province to help out in Las Villas Province, which runs across the waistband of Cuba.

The insurgents, while making no victory claims in Las Villas, reported new successes in Oriente. One broadcast claimed the capture of Guantanamo City only 27 miles north of the big U.S. Navy base on Guantanamo Bay.

Blunt Notes State Big 3 Stand

We Stay in Berlin, West Tells Soviet

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — The Western Allies, bluntly rejecting Soviet demands that they quit Berlin by June 1, challenged the Kremlin Wednesday to take part in a four-power conference on the overall problem of European security.

But the U.S., Britain and France warned the Russians in separate but similar notes that they will not take part in any diplomatic discussions "under menace or ultimatum."

The Western Big Three told the Soviet Union in unmistakable terms they do not intend to yield to the Russians' Nov. 27 demand that they leave West Berlin and allow the former German capital to become a Communist-encircled "free city."

They also served notice that they will not recognize the Communist regime of East Germany even if the Russians carry out their threat to turn over East Berlin and the corridors leading to the city to the East Germans.

The Western notes were drafted in Paris last week in consultation with the West German government. They received full backing Monday from the permanent council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

All were in agreement that the West must insist that the Russians respect its right to remain in Berlin and to have access to the city in accordance with an Allied postwar agreement.

The notes were made public shortly after they were delivered to the Kremlin by the Western embassies in Moscow. U. S. officials were said to be anxious to get the U.S. note in the hands of Russian leaders in time for ample study before Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan leaves Moscow for a two-week visit to the U.S.

It is understood that Berlin is among the subjects Mikoyan wants to discuss with top authorities here. He is expected to arrive in this country by plane early next week.

But the U.S. and its Allies made it plain that they do not intend to negotiate with Russia over Berlin or any other problem if the Kremlin intends to present them with any showdown ultimatum.

Miami Pilots Die In Broward Crash

FORT LAUDERDALE — Two Miami men were killed Wednesday when their small plane crashed in the ocean about a mile off Fort Lauderdale Beach.

Dead are Clair W. Barron, 28, of Hialeah, the instructor, and Len Jones, 24, of Miami, his student.

Barron's body was recovered and identified by William Conrad, president of Airlines Training Inc., Broward International Airport, which owned the Cessna 180. Jones' body is presumed to be with the plane. Navy divers volunteered to attempt to recover the plane and body.

A beach hotel doorman who saw the crash said the plane suddenly appeared to nose into the water. It fell east of Sunrise Blvd. in about 65 feet of water. The crash occurred about 3:45 p.m.

Conrad said both Barron and Jones, who was receiving advanced training, were "highly qualified" pilots. He could give no reason for the smash-up. Barron had been employed by Airlines Training Inc. as an instructor for the past six months.

Barron's body was recovered by the charter fishing boat, Peggy Anne.

Classified Ads Booming

All-time high marks for classified advertising were made by The Miami Herald in 1958.

Total count of individual classified advertisements soared to 1,805,831. This is an increase of 61,398 over the 1957 total.

Volume of classified advertising kept pace with number of advertisements. The new record for total volume is 16,770,075 lines of advertising, an increase of 227,499 over the previous year's total.

Many business analysts of South Florida consider The Herald's classified advertising totals one of the reliable barometers of general business activity.

O's Have It: Oklahoma, Orangemen Kick Off Old OB Oval at One O'Clock

By JIMMY BURNS
Herald Sports Editor

Miami's finest football hour, the Silver Anniversary Orange Bowl game kickoff between Oklahoma (9-1) and Syracuse (8-1), comes at one o'clock this afternoon.

A crowd of 74,000 — second largest in history — is predicted for the 25th game in a series inaugurated in 1935 before 5,134 spectators. Millions will watch and hear the contest over Columbia Broadcasting System's television and radio networks. Local TV coverage will be over Channel 4.

The weather forecast calls for cloudy skies, but the Orange Bowl game, which reached an attendance peak of 76,531 in 1956 and again last year, is expected to maintain its record of escaping rain.

Early arrivals will be entertained with a pre-game show beginning at 12:30 o'clock. And at intermission, Ernie Seiler, Orange Bowl Committee executive vice president, has promised the greatest halftime extravaganza in the history of this colorful, thrill-provoking series.

Oklahoma, which under Coach Bud Wilkinson has scored three Orange Bowl victories in the past five years, remains a 13-point favorite — a drop of one point from odds established when Syracuse was matched with the Big Eight champion.

It is the Orangemen's big chance to confound their critics and atone for the 1953 debacle in which Alabama routed Syracuse, 61-6. This is the second time since that embarrassing day that Coach Floyd Schwartzwalder has prepared a team for bowl competition.

In the 1957 Cotton Bowl game, with Jim Brown, now a pro star, running wild, the Orangemen were photoed by TCU, 28-27. That year Syracuse trained at Norman, Okla., home of the Sooners, and this time the Orangemen did their preliminary work at Raleigh, N. C.

The Sooners came to town Christmas Day to finish their preparations and the Orangemen arrived last Sunday.

Both teams are at full strength, but Oklahoma has a new quarterback, Sophomore Bob Cornell operating the first team. He replaced David Baker, dropped from school for failure to maintain his academic standing.

Each team has an all-America star. Oklahoma's standout is Center Bob Harrison, a tremendous defender, and Syracuse is proud of Ron Luciano, outside tackle, rated by Coach Schwartzwalder as the greatest interior linemen in his coaching career.

Syracuse's chances of springing an upset hinge on Quarterback Chuck Zimmerman, who mixes a running and passing attack well. The Orangemen were beaten only by Holy Cross, 14-13, and Oklahoma's lone defeat also was a one-pointer, 15-14, to Texas in the third game of the season.

Experts rate this Olahoma team as the best defensive one Coach Wilkinson has brought to an Orange Bowl game. The Sooners yielded only 4.9 points per game and ground out an average of 27.9 per contest. Fullback Prentice Gautt carries the load on the split-T, but there are light, swift backs who can run and pass on option.

Syracuse, operating from the straight T with an unbalanced line, averaged 29.3 points per game and held the opposition to a 5.8 average.

Rebel Radio Batista's?

A group of young Cuban exiles, followers of ex-President Carlos Prio Socarras, declared in Miami Wednesday that a new Communist radio station in Cuba "is a propaganda organ of President Batista."

"The station claims to be broadcasting from the free territory of Cuba," the young men said, "but this powerful station is really located in Havana and is trying to confuse public opinion at home and abroad.

"Batista wants the world to think that the rebel movement is a Communist movement. The Cuban revolutionaries are fighting for the sacred ideals of justice and liberty and never have had anything to do with the Communist party."

Moon Mute Too Soon

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — America's big Atlas satellite stopped "talking" Wednesday and the Defense Department indicated it believes the moon's batteries are dead or dying.

The department said Army ground stations were unable to trigger the Air Force satellite's transmitter.

The satellite was scheduled to receive and send back messages for 20 days but apparently has run out of steam after 12 days. It is expected to continue orbiting the earth until about Feb. 1 and then burn up in the atmosphere.

Thousands Pack Route Of March

Spectacle Turns Night to Day

By LAWRENCE THOMPSON
Herald Staff Writer

King Orange celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Orange Bowl Festival Wednesday night with a star-spangled parade and party.

For more than two hours as the colorful and tuneful procession moved along downtown Biscayne Blvd. and Flagler St., the 19-block route was brilliantly lighted as if by a million candles.

The 31 bands provided the sound effects for the 50 floats, and there were dozens of marching units and baton twirlers.

Then, to the delight of the children, there were clowns aplenty and gigantic balloons that ranged from a turkey and a kangaroo to a realistic stage coach, pulled by four plunging horses and protected by a shotgun guard as bandits tried to rob it.

The giant spectacle, which Maestro Ernie Seiler proudly proclaimed the Orange Bowl Festival's proudest effort, was witnessed by crowds that jammed the curbs and sidewalks, filled hotel and office building windows, and sought vantage spots from fire escapes, the courthouse steps and on roofs.

The police preliminary estimate of 400,000 spectators seemed certain to have been fulfilled. At least the crowds made an early start toward reaching that number. By noon, scores of early arrivals already had established themselves in folding chairs or on blankets at curbs along the parade route, fortified for the long wait with lunch boxes and thermos jugs.

By the 7 p.m. stepoff time, when the police escort drove into Biscayne Blvd. from the Dupont Plaza assembly area, there wasn't room left for a lifted arm.

Early threats of showers disappeared by parade time, but a brisk southeast breeze made the low 70 temperature chilly for those who neglected to wear coats or sweaters. There was no indication, however, that any of the hundreds of scantily clad models on floats or baton twirlers developed any goose pimples.

The parade participants outdid themselves for this Silver Anniversary presentation in throwing the colors of the rainbow into decorations and costumes.

The Miami Park Department plucked its own flowers liberally, to cover its float with 30,000 real chrysanthemums of varied hues.

Seaboard Air Line Railroad chose tulips, displaying hundreds of these bright—if artificial—flowers amidst its display of a Dutch windmill, well and huge wooden shoe.

Mammoth straw baskets overflowing with flowers were hung along each side of the elaborate Florida Power and Light Co. float, which featured gorgeous models.

All types of transportation were depicted in the glittering procession.

Southern Dairies had a surrey, naturally with a fringe on top, led by a white horse; Eastern Air Lines had a propjet plane flying just as if there were no strike; Pan American World Airways showed a Clipper soaring over

Won't Unionize Police Until They Ask, Hoffa Says

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa said Wednesday his union will try to organize policemen only if they ask to be organized. Even then, he said, they should not be allowed to strike.

Hoffa also ruled out any attempt by the Teamsters to halt deliveries to the New York police department in a drive to organize that city's law officers.

Hoffa's comments, issued by his headquarters in response to newsmen's requests for a policy statement, conflicted with an earlier announcement by Henry Feinstein, head of a New York City Employes' Teamster local.

Feinstein had said union members would cut off deliveries to the police department by setting up picket lines which members of the huge truck union would refuse to cross. Later, however, Feinstein retreated and said deliveries would move across picket lines.

Hoffa said "there will be no such service interruption by this international union now or at any time in the future." He said any talk of service interruption is "sheer nonsense."

A Teamster spokesman said any picketing would merely advertise the intention of the Teamsters to organize New York's policemen.

Hoffa said his union plans to organize all public employes, not only policemen.

"Police organization will be undertaken by the Teamsters' union only if they come to us seeking such organization," he said. He did not say whether he had received such requests.

But he said that even if policemen were unionized they should not have the right to strike because of the "emergency nature of their service to the general public."

The Teamster leader said police should be unionized to obtain machinery for arbitration of their grievances.

"We also feel that machinery is needed to eliminate the practice of leaving the police officers' welfare to the whims of department heads who quite often decide human relations on the basis of favoritism and politics," Hoffa said.

Wagner gave solid support to Police Commissioner Stephen P. Kennedy, who pledged Tuesday that every legal weapon would be used against any interference with operation of the 23,600-man force.

"I want to emphasize with all the sincerity and vigor at my command that this administration is opposed to any unionization of the police department and will take every step to see that it doesn't happen," Wagner said.

New York's police also took a dim view of the Teamster plans. John Cassesse, president of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, said that unionism was not for the police department. The PBA represents patrolmen in such things as grievances, but has no bargaining rights.

The Town Crier

BY Jack Bell

IT'S 1959 this morning, time for wishes and resolutions; time to hark back, to determine to do a little better this year.

BELL

One year ago this Town Crier column was pretty much devoted to a belief that we're all not going to be plunged into war. Nothing has happened to disprove that statement. If war starts it'll be the fault of either the U. S. or Russia. And neither is in the mood. No other nation would dare start anything without a promise of support by one of the "Big Two."

Since the beginning of history we've read of powerful monarchies seeking to gobble up everything, finally toppled by jealous, beefed-up rivals. The one big difference today is that we're both beefed up so much we fear total extinction if war starts. Y'see, I'm not basing peace claims on a spiritual awakening of human dictators.

* * *

Opening Mind

If you're seeking a good resolution for 1959, why not try one I'm adopting. When a situation arises I'll have my opinion. Others probably will differ. So I hereby resolve that I'll keep my big mouth shut and let them talk. Then I'll toss their ideas in with my own, having seen their reasons for thinking differently.

Now, a self-centered person like Joe Stalin, after hearing the other guy's argument, would go right along doing things as Joe Stalin wished. Hitler was that way, too, and Mussolini and Napoleon and Louis XVI and Charles V and Jim Hoffa—and lots more.

I pledge myself to weigh all the factors, then do what seems bestest for the mostest. When you analyze this resolution it's a honey. My big task will be to make it tick for 365 days. After that it'll be easy.

Let me wish the best for '59 to our horse tracks, dog tracks, jai alai frontons; to our hotels and motels and apartment houses; to our new airport and our proposed traffic improvements. Let us work with Metro and hope that 11 county commissioners will do likewise. Let us pray that the Marlins will come up with a good manager and a real long-ball hitter. Let us get down on our knees and pray for Andy Gustafson and his Hurricanes. Have you seen the '59 schedule?

* * *

Big Resolution

And now—until we get the NEW HERALD — a friendly word to ye hecklers. I hereby resolve:

I cannot pay your rent, no matter how many children you have. I cannot get jobs for you. I cannot persuade unfriendly landlords to let you go a fourth month for free. I cannot run a free lunch service every time you're let out of the stockade. When your husbands desert you and you're "expecting," I'm not taking over. I've no use for your old Christmas cards. In the future when you call and say "I've got a problem," I'm going to hang up. Only money can cure the problems y'all bring me.

You'll note I mentioned the NEW HERALD. Dick Fitzgerald has promised me a trap door beside the desk, with a chute leading into Biscayne Bay. Lee Hills wants to revise the plans, giving me an escalator which will go into reverse when I press a button.

Until I get this modern ouster equipment the answer is "No spik'a da Eeeengleeessh."

Newspaper Strike Curbs Recommended

WASHINGTON — (UPI) — Rep. Frank Chelf (D., Ky.) called on the House Labor Committee to draft legislation against newspaper strikes. He called such walkouts an indirect violation of freedom of the press.

Chelf said in a telegram to Committee Chairman Graham A. Barden (D., N.C.) that huge advertising losses were suffered by New York newspapers in a 19-day strike which ended Monday.

"But what's far more important is the millions who make up the poor innocent public who had to bear the brunt and have been deprived of their rights as free American citizens," he said.

He said such strikes may be "at least an indirect violation" of the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Chelf asked the labor committee to explore this issue "with a view of drafting the remedial legislation that would keep the newspapers of our nation rolling off the presses and thereby available to the public while and during the time that proper negotiations of labor and management are under way."

"In my judgment it is just as serious to shut down a newspaper by strike as it is by an order or an edict of a ruthless dictator," Chelf said.

the Eiffel Tower, Big Ben, and the Coliseum.

Capital Airlines had a plane speeding from snow-covered firs to a yellow-frond palm tree; Richards featured a sailboat, the Bon Homme Richard; the Fort Pierce Shrine Club clown unit drove a baby buggy, bicycles, row boat, and jalopies; Jordan Marsh displayed a moon-bound rocket.

Of course there were animals of all kinds. Flagler Federal Savings and Loan showed off a giant squirrel; a camel led the Mahi Shrine Temple float, which plugged the Shriners hospitals for crippled children; and the funny balloons ranged from Ferdinand the Bull to a dragon.

Fish there were aplenty, with one of the biggest leaping out of the Kwik Chek ocean, almost bumping its head on an overhanging tree bedecked with Spanish moss.

Florida living was made attractive on the patio built on the float of The Miami Herald. This included a fireplace with a chicken on the spit; and a small pool and diving board.

The Miami News stuck to the newspaper business in its float, with miniature presses rolling off papers as oversize reproductions of the front page were flashed on a huge screen.

The 10 theme floats recalled past glories of Orange Bowl Festival years and looked into dreams of the future. Subjects included Music, Events, Art and Production, Models, Costumes, Make-Up and other aspects of Miami Memories.

Last of the theme floats was entitled "Counting Our Blessings." Following it, and ending the parade, was the float of "Her Majesty The Queen," on which was enthroned Orange Bowl Queen Nanita Greene.

Although she had the place of honor, she was not the only royalty. Another participant had been Miss America, Mary Ann Mobley, on the Pepsi Cola Bottling Co. float.

The University of Oklahoma and Syracuse University bands drew partisan cheers along the route. The football teams from those two schools meet this afternoon in the Orange Bowl classic. They were preceded by the U.S. Marine Fleet Band.

There also were bands from Omaha, Neb., Delray Beach, Bartlesville, Okla., Sylacauga, Ala., West Palm Beach, Tifton, Ga., Beacon, N.Y., Arcadia, Rockaway Beach, N.Y., Lake Worth, Fort Pierce, Columbus, Ga., Ramey Air Force Base, Puerto Rico, Fort Lauderdale, Albany, Ga., and all parts of Greater Miami.

Out-of-town floats were entered from St. Petersburg, Lakeland, and Fort Myers, along with those of Coral Gables, Miami, and Metro Dade County.

Arizonan Peeks, Sees New Flag

NOGALES, Ariz. — (AP) — A new American flag, apparently following the government-approved design recognizing Alaska as a state, arrived in this Mexican border town Wednesday.

Mexican Boats Machinegunned

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A press report Wednesday said Guatemalan planes machine-gunned Mexican fishing boats off Guatemala's coast and some Mexicans were believed killed. There was no official confirmation.

Engineers and EAL Review Peace Plan

Striking flight engineers and Eastern Air Lines officials resumed separate talks with a federal mediator Wednesday under heavy pressure to settle the 39-day walkout.

The two sides screened a previously rejected proposal, item by item, to reduce their points of disagreement.

Officials of the Flight Engineers International Association turned down the offer, submitted by Federal Mediator Warren Lane, in a package deal Monday.

The company and union expressed hope, however, that the proposal might be acceptable if agreement is reached on a few disputed points.

"I don't think it will last much longer — there is great pressure on each side," one of the participants commented.

Lane's proposal was revived after the engineers refused to go along with a plan offered Tuesday by the National Mediation Board. The company had accepted the plan.

U.S. Bureau Denies Tribe Got Raw Deal

Tribal Council, said White would be asked to attend the council's monthly meeting Jan. 5 to give a full explanation of his letter to Emmons.

"The council did not give White authority to write the letter," declared the Indian leader.

White said he acted on his own and "will continue to do so as long as I can help the Indians."

The flareup came as the Seminole Tribal Council was to give final approval to hiring White for two years. White's nomination already has the endorsement of the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

Emmons praised Harrington, and said the Seminoles have made great progress under his supervision.

In a recent letter to Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, the Seminole Tribal Council praised the work of both Harrington and Emmons.

White's charge that the Indians have not been permitted to see the proposed lease was denied by the Rev. Bill Osceola, (no relation to the Rev. Billy Osceola), president of the Indian's business organization, the Seminole Tribe of Florida Corp.

"The board of directors has been studying the proposals. We plan to give them to the council for consideration after we complete our study," said the Rev. Osceola.

White, 67, has been representing the Indians off and on for several years. His formal two-year contract with the council, however, was drawn up only earlier this month.

R. W. International Enterprizes has asked for the frontier town lease. Projected cost of the attraction, which would feature daily gun fights and a posse, is $600,000, according to Richard Conant, principal in the venture.

"Our proposal is a honey as far as the Indians are concerned," Conant said.

Outlook Warm for OB Game

Orange Bowl fans will be shirt-sleeved today while spectators shiver at the nation's other bowl games.

But there's "a chance of rain" here, Weatherman Sanford Neuman said. And if even a drop should fall it will be the first in the Orange Bowl's 25 year history.

"Last year it was sunny during the game. The showers held off until the game was over, and then it rained for three days," Neuman recalled.

The comparative Bowl outlook:

ORANGE BOWL: Temperatures in the high 70s, partly cloudy.

ROSE BOWL (Pasadena, Calif.): Clear, 60 degrees.

SUGAR BOWL (New Orleans): Cloudy, 40 degrees. Rain in the morning.

COTTON BOWL (Dallas, Texas): Clear, 40 degrees.

New Year's Storm Hits Midwest

Snow and Ice Peril Traffic

CHICAGO —(UPI)— A New Year's Eve snowstorm spanned the Midwest Wednesday night, icing roads and heightening the dangers of holiday traffic.

The snows were driving eastward through the Ohio Valley and sent out advance warnings in the form of thickening clouds into the Northeast.

The storm climaxed the nation's coldest December since 1917 and left scores of towns and cities digging out in New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Roads opened in the West, clearing the way for hundreds of motorists to continue their holiday travels, but snow piled up rapidly along roads in Missouri, eastern Kansas, and western Illinois. To the South, snow and freezing rain spread a sheet of ice along highways from south Central Missouri across Illinois into western Indiana.

As the storm moved eastward, heavy snows began falling on Chicago and threatened to mount to four inches deep. Weathermen predicted up to five inches of snow through southern Wisconsin, northern Indiana, Lower Michigan and Ohio. New snows were already eight inches deep at Concordia, Mo.

Other new snow depths included two to four inches in Oklahoma, seven inches at Clifton City, Mo., and two inches in Colorado, where an unheralded storm sneaked in without warning from the Weather Bureau. Forecasters explained that they had probably lost track of the storm when it moved over Washington state high in the atmosphere.

The Missouri highway patrol put its largest force in history, 455 men, on the snowswept roads to control New Year's Eve traffic. The patrol information officer, Lt. F. W. Shadwell, asked Missourians to do their celebrating at home, adding: "If you have to get out, use caution."

Although the snows which swept the plains were not rated in the blizzard class in most areas, they were listed as the cause of at least 16 deaths.

Almost all the deaths were in traffic, which worked itself into monumental snarls in Southwest cities. A two-inch snow at Dallas created the biggest traffic jam in memory Tuesday night and many workers hadn't reached home by Wednesday morning.

In Oklahoma City, hazardous roads were blamed for poor business in downtown stores and the Tinker Air Force Base urged its 14,000 workers to take their annual leave but avoid traveling.

Sen. Kennedy Out of Hospital

BOSTON — (AP) — U.S. Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) was discharged from New England Baptist Hospital Wednesday where he had been under treatment for five days with a virus condition.

He left immediately by plane for the Palm Beach, Fla., home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

National Summary

At the end of the coldest December since 1917, many sections of the northern and northeastern states are again beginning to report the thickening clouds and fall pressures of the northeastward moving weather pattern from the Mississippi valley.

During the morning, snow spread northward through Iowa into Southern Wisconsin across Illinois to Chicago and into northern Indiana.

Fair cold weather is expected to continue over New England and sunshine is promised for New Years Day in the far southwest while partly cloudy skies will screen the sunshine over most of the plains.

Rain or drizzle will dampen the northern Pacific coast with light snow mixed with the rain pattern into Montana while snow flurries linger across the Rockies into New Mexico. Rain is forecast across the Gulf states from Louisiana into Florida northward into the Carolinas and Ohio Valley and will extend a mixture of rain sleet or snow over most of the middle Atlantic states.

Additional snow of two to four inches is expected from eastern Kansas and northern Arkansas into Wisconsin and Michigan with up to 5 inches in portions of Illinois and Iowa.

Sleeps New Year In

Kennedy Acts As Candidate

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

PALM BEACH—A boyish, sleepy-eyed Sen. John F. Kennedy stood in the tiled hallway of his father's Palm Beach estate in his pajamas, robe and slippers.

It was mid-afternoon but he was planning—and prepared to sleep in the new year.

"I'm staying home," he said, pulling the belt of his robe tighter.

Senator Kennedy
. . . 'limit Hoffa's power'

Staying up til midnight?

"No-o-o."

He woke up long enough, though, to talk about Jimmy Hoffa and his Teamsters.

"The attempt to organize New York City police is just the latest evidence of the contempt Hoffa feels for the public," the Massachusetts Senator and 1960 presidential hopeful said.

There will be an attempt by legislation in the upcoming Congress to limit Hoffa's power.

The recommendations of the McClellan committee will be considered and the Kennedy-Ives Labor bill, dropped near the end of the last session of Congress, will come up in some form, the senator said.

"The Senate will consider labor legislation," he said in summary.

He arrived by plane from New York Wednesday afternoon to spend the holiday with his family—his wife, child, and parents. He leaves Tuesday to prepare for the opening of Congress.

On government spending and President Eisenhower's anti-spending policy, he had this to say:

"We all agree spending must be confined."

But, there are limits, he added. The nation, Kennedy said, must maintain "full employment" and "national security."

The front-running contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960 wouldn't venture an opinion on how a Yankee can muster the popularity he has in the south.

Nor would he concede that he has been described as "weak" in foreign policy.

"I'm on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee," he said.

Furthermore, unlike Minnesota's Sen. Hubert Humphrey, another Democratic presidential hopeful, Kennedy will not globe-trot. He plans no trips abroad when Congress ends its sessions.

With that the interview was over and the sleepy-eyed senator from Massachusetts went back to his New Year's napping.

Mott to Whip Things Into New Shape

'There'll Be Changes Made'

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — The city has a new theme song for 1959. It goes something like this: "There'll be some changes made."

The first six months of city government is expected to bring widespread changes in personnel and general organization.

City commissioners set the stage in 1958 when they hired a new city manager, James J. Mott Jr.

Now commissioners are looking to Mott to whip the city's administrative set-up into a new shape. The changes in organization and personnel are to be completed before budget time—now six months off, according to reliable sources.

Some sources also feel that 1959 will find city commissioners meddling less and less in administration, keeping their noses more strictly to the policy grindstone.

But, no doubt, 1959 will bring its share of squabbles just like 1958 which saw commissioners jumping from one frying pan to another.

City fathers haggled over leasing and-or buying Florida Cities Bus, Inc., when the company's financial legs were wobbling last January. The city took over the buses for one week, then handed them back.

Traffic and parking sparked a few skirmishes. Commissioners and traffic committee members had their touchy moments over proposed traffic measures. They finally ended the year on a harmonious "we-understand-each-other-better" note at lunch this past week.

MOTT

HOLLAND

BURDICK

KELLOWAY

City Engineer John Klinck and Commissioner L. W. Kelloway, always at loggerheads, were no different in 1958. Their feud went on.

City commissioners also fought over the post of vice mayor with W. P. Holland finally selected as a compromise. Kelloway who was fighting Commissioner Sylvan Burdick for the office, died hard. He nominated himself.

Police fussed with commissioners over the state of their clubhouse, an issue still unresolved. The clubhouse was badly damaged when it was moved to make way for a new army reserve center.

Then there was a battle over "trash" movies, with theater operators promising to clean up their bill of fare. The proposed censorship ordinance never reached the commission hopper.

The city's multi-million dollar marina-civic center was contested in court and suffered a setback in Circuit Court. The suit to validate $7 million worth of bonds to finance the projects is now on appeal to the State Supreme Court.

The old wrangle over the advertising commission was revived in 1958 only to die again. Spearheaded by Burdick, the move would have put the city's advertising dollars in the hands of a city advertising department instead of a lay commission.

City fathers were successful in winning voter approval on a charter amendment which gives it power to annex land without an act of the Legislature.

It used the power in attempt to annex 500 acres on the western outskirts of the city and is now in a legal hassle with the town of Mangonia Park which wants the acreage for itself.

The bill to change the police chief's job from an elective post to an appointive is still bouncing around, awaiting a vote of the people. It is believed the city will set the election to coincide with the April municipal balloting for city posts.

But the biggest thing came in the selection of a new city manager which heralds the approach of changes in city hall. Keith R. Chinn stepped out and James J. Mott Jr. stepped in. Chinn is now finance director.

Playhouse To Present Hit Musical

Herald Bureau

PALM BEACH — Composer Richard Rogers will bring a new version of his hit musical of the 1930s, "Babes in Arms" to the Royal Poinciana Playhouse this season.

The announcement was made Wednesday by Production Director Paul Crabtree, who also named four other productions scheduled for the 10 week season.

Rogers wrote "Babes in Arms" with the late Lorenz Hart in the musical, which included such tunes as "The Lady Is A Tramp," "I Wish I Were In Love Again," and "Where or When," was later made into a film starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland.

All the major musical numbers, including the title song will be retained. The book, however, has been rewritten by George Oppenheimer, newspaperman and author of the recent anthology, "The Passionate Playgoer."

The revised musical will be taken on tour following the performances at the Royal Poinciana Playhouse. Crabtree said Rogers plans to take it back to Broadway in the fall.

Other productions scheduled for the season:

"Not in the Book," currently London's top mystery-comedy. Edward Everett Horton, Ann Harding and Reginald Owen will star.

"Beachcombers," a new play by Crabtree, with Arthur Treacher and Fernanda Montel in the lead roles.

"Pound In Your Pocket," a new musical.

"States with Pretty Names," a comedy by Elliott Baker.

Woman Sues for $250,000

By PETE WEITZEL
Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — A local woman renewed her efforts in Circuit Court here Wednesday to collect $250,000 damages from her former husband, a former constable, and three Miami private detectives.

A prior $250,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Frances Joy Allen, formerly Mrs. Myron Widett, had been dismissed on a technicality.

Mrs. Allen names as defendants Myron Widett, one time Miami mortgage broker now living in London, England; the estate of the late Hugh Anderson, former district 3 constable; Anderson's heirs; and Clifford Mark, Floyd Minor and Barbara Herberholtz, Miami private detectives.

The suit stemmed from a so-called "raid" led by Constable Anderson on the plaintiff's Palm Beach home in the early morning of Jan. 2, 1956.

The complaint charges Anderson unlawfully turned over to Widett and three detectives his "powers of office." It said he allowed them to use a warrant he was to serve against her and her present husband as a "cloak for staging a raid on the house."

Mrs. Allen alleges the purpose of the raid was to "create an embarrassing and humiliating situation to be used as evidence in custody proceedings" over the child of her marriage to Widett.

She claims, months later, the evidence obtained by the "unlawful trespass" was used at the hearing and resulted in the loss of custody of her daughter.

She asks $150,000 compensatory damages and $100,000 punitive damages.

The suit is a development of a divorce decree granted to Widett in 1955 and the ensuing struggle for custody of the minor daughter. The mother was originally given custody.

Mrs. Frank's Last Rites Set Friday

WEST PALM BEACH—Funeral services for Mrs. Kathryn Frank, 78, mother of West Palm Beach financier Maurice Frank, will be conducted at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Lake Worth at 9:15 a.m. Friday.

Mrs. Frank, who lived at 1310 NE 40th Ct., Pompano Beach, died Tuesday in a West Palm Beach hospital.

She came to Miami Beach 20 years ago from Chicago and moved to Pompano Beach two years ago.

She was a member of Our Lady of Assumption Catholic Church in Pompano and was the widow of August Frank.

Survivors besides her son, include a daughter, Mrs. Helen Hodowal, Pompano Beach; a sister, Mrs. Nellie M. Ryan, Pompano Beach; and four grandchildren.

Burial will be in Pinecrest. Rosary services will be held at E. Earl Smith and Son chapel at 8 p.m. today.

George N. Arnold

WEST PALM BEACH — Funeral services for George N. Arnold, 80, retired railroad dispatcher of 226 Almera Rd., will be held at 2 p.m. Friday at Mizell-Simon-Faville chapel. The Rev. Warren Hurck, pastor of First Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Woodlawn. Mr. Arnold, who died Tuesday night, was a member of the order of Railroad Telegraphers and came to West Palm Beach in 1931 from Memphis, Tenn. Survivors include his wife, Zula, and a daughter, Mrs. R.M. Rioulfi, both of West Palm Beach.

Judge Validates Lake Worth's Sewer Bonds

Gives Go-Ahead On $2,500,000 Job

By PETE WEITZEL
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH—Circuit Judge Culver Smith Wednesday validated Lake Worth's $2.5 million sewer revenue bond issue.

The action gives the city the go ahead on a mammoth project of improving the present sewer system and extending the lines throughout the expanding municipality.

The present system, built over 30 years ago, covers only one-third of the city.

Validation of the bonds was staunchly opposed by a citizen's group headed by Walter Quinn, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor, and Thomas Phiegler, who intervened in the validation court proceedings as objectors.

They attacked the prepayment provision of the bond issue as discriminatory and claimed the $50,000 fishing and recreation pier included in the project is an unlawful expenditure.

The group also filed a petition signed by over 1,100 voters asking the City Commission to call a referendum on the bond issue.

The board refused to act on the petition, however, after City Attorney William Martin ruled it had not been filed according to city charter.

Judge Smith held Wednesday that the objections of Quinn, Phiegler and Mrs. Taylor, and State Attorney Phil O'Connell, representing the Commonwealth, failed to state sufficient reason why the bond issue should not be validated.

Their objections, he ruled, "disclosed no irregularities" in the bond ordinances or the procedure by which it was adopted.

He further said the sewer system was "necessary and essential due to increased expansion and growth."

The case is the second circuit court action the city has won in two weeks. Last week, Judge Joseph S. White tossed out a complaint aimed at ousting four of the commissioners.

The city is also currently appealing a decision by Judge Smith denying validation of $2.1 million in bonds to finance an improvement to the municipal power plant.

The first phase of the sewer program, which the $2.5 million will finance, calls for an ocean outfall system with a pipe line extending 7,000 feet into the Atlantic, conversion of the outfall construction pier into a recreation pier, a master pumping station, and installation of interceptor and force mains throughout the city.

Judge Smith
. . . okays mammoth project

Once this is done, construction of the sewer lines to the new sections of the unsewered sections of the city will begin. This phase will be financed by a revolving fund with property owners paying a front foot assessment.

$50,000 Asked in Libel Action

Widow Sues for $150,000 In Belle Glade Accident

By ROSE ALLEGATO
Herald Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH — A Palm Beach County man who claims he was libeled is suing a Fort Lauderdale beauty supplier for $50,000.

In another Circuit Court suit, a widow is seeking $150,000 for the death of her husband, a State Road Department guard, in a Nov. 13 accident in Belle Glade.

George Silvers, a beauty supplies salesman, complained in a suit filed Tuesday that his former employer, Henry A. Budde, of Bud-E Beauty Supply, Fort Lauderdale, libeled him by "maliciously and falsely publishing" a letter accusing him of a "criminal offense."

The letter, quoted in the complaint, was sent to beauty shop owners in Palm Beach County. It said Silvers had collected funds due to the Bud-E firm after the date he resigned. The letter called the action a "criminal offense."

Silvers contended the letter deprived him "of the public confidence and esteem which he had previously enjoyed" and damaged his reputation as a beauty salesman.

He said he had been held "in contempt, distrust and ridicule" as a result of the letter and has suffered a "great financial loss." He asks $25,000 compensatory damages and $25,000 punitive.

Mrs. Josephine Hayes, in another suit, seeks $150,000 for the death of her husband, Carl T. Hayes, 46, State Road Department guard.

Hayes, father of four, was killed when he was struck by a car while he was guarding convicts in a work gang on State Road 80 a half mile east of Belle Glade.

The suit is against Mrs. Leona Paige, driver of the car, and her husband, Earl, the owner.

Rebel Sympathizers Hold Protest Meeting

Herald Bureau

KEY WEST — For the third consecutive day, Cuban rebel sympathizers here publicly protested alleged aerial bombings in their country's civil war.

Between four and eight persons quietly picketed the Federal building here all day Wednesday. As in the past two days, their demonstration was orderly.

They carried Cuban and U.S. flags, plus posters denouncing the bombing of "innocent mothers and children in Cuba's cities." A similar demonstration, attended by some 50 persons, was staged before the same building Monday afternoon.

Tuesday night the supporters of Rebel Chieftain Fidel Castro shifted their public activities to Bayview Park in front of a bust of Jose Marti, Cuba's War of Independence hero.

Marti conducted many of his revolutionary activities from this island during the 1898 struggle to liberate Cuba from Spain.

At the Tuesday night meeting, the Fidelistas read a letter of protest being sent to the U.N. and the Organization of American States, roundly denounced Cuban President Fulgencio Batista and took up a collection for the rebel cause, which netted $40.

Steel Arrives For WPB Bridge

WEST PALM BEACH — County Commissioner Lake Lyttal announced Wednesday that 90 per cent of the steel for Royal Park bridge lift span had arrived.

The bridge is presently closed while it is being widened and a modern lift span installed. Construction was held up by a strike at the steel producing plant.

Lytal said the contractor is working at top speed, but that he had no idea if they could finish before April 1, the predicted completion date.

Elmore Vossler Dies at Age 73

WEST PALM BEACH — Elmore W. Vossler, 73, vice president of Palm Beach Chemical Co., died in a West Palm Beach Hospital Wednesday after a sudden illness.

He had resided at 309 Lantana Ave., Lantana, where he moved in 1941 from Lancaster, Ohio. He was a member of the United Lutheran Church in West Palm Beach.

Survivors include his wife, Marie; a daughter, Mrs. John Mahoy, Columbus, Ohio; a sister, Mrs. Herbert Heil, Cincinnati, Ohio; and four grandchildren.

Private funeral services will be announced by E. Earl Smith and Son.

Palm Beach Ushers in New Year

'Have an Aspirin This Morn'

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — Have an aspirin.

Palm Beach County ushered in 1959 with giddy Auld Lang Synes, revelry and, for contrast, church bells.

Party - goers, their ranks swelled by a holiday influx of out-of-towners, frolicked in the new year with boisterous merry making in private clubs throughout Palm Beach and in smaller scale soirees at homes and nightclubs.

The bells of Bethesda-by-The-Sea Church in Palm Beach chimed the midnight hour, blending in with the other sounds of a New Year's Eve.

Many forsook parties to welcome in 1959 at Watch Night services in various churches throughout the area.

More church services were scheduled today, observed by Roman Catholics as a Holy Day of obligation.

Businesses and financial institutions as well as city, county, state and federal offices started 1959 with closed doors.

West Palm Beach City Hall and the Palm Beach Courthouse will take a long holiday weekend. Palm Beach Town Hall, however, re-opens Friday as do state and federal offices.

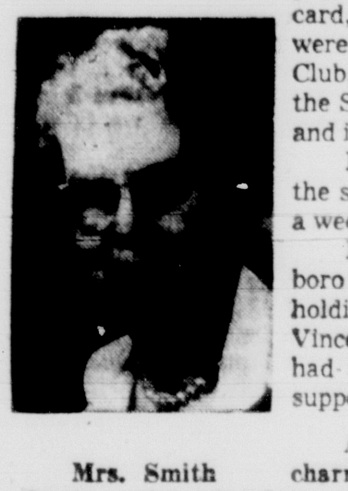
The Palm Beaches Greet a New Year In Proper Manner

By HELEN VAN HOY SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

THE PALM BEACHES—Snappy New Year! The Palm Beaches are wearing an ice cap this morning (on both its heads) and many are trembling like an aspirin leaf, as the old lady said.

This morning there are still echoes of Auld Lang Syne as the Palm Beaches sweep up confetti, and toss paper hats and horns into the discard, along with the old year. There were celebrations at the Everglades Club, the Bath and Tennis Club, the Sailfish Club, hotels, night spots, and in private homes.



Mrs. Smith

Egg nog parties and coffees dot the social landscape today, to climax a week of holiday partying.

Mrs. Nelle F. Smith, 215 Marlboro Rd., is among those who are holding open house all day. The Vince Mattesons, 1301 S. Flagler, had a New Year's Eve party with supper served at midnight.

A holiday party of unusual charm was that at the American Legion, given by four sets of parents for their pretty teenage daughters, and attended by some 250 members of the younger set.

Parents and daughters were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Russell and Jodi; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Powell III, and Clair; and Mr. and Mrs. Sam O. Smith and Susan; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Ray Sparks and Sally Anne.

The auditorium was in holiday array with a Christmas tree, poinsettias and tinsel, while a mistletoe "kissing ring," was suspended from the ceiling by a red satin ribbon.

The serving tables were appointed in linen and lace and gleaming with silver.

The girls were in formal evening frocks and danced the first number with their fathers. The music was gay and danceable, but not Rock 'N' Roll.

Spinsters Party Annual Event

PARTY CHATTER, festive decorations, and New Year's wishes were all in evidence last Friday night when the Spinsters Cotillion Club members held their eighth annual Christmas cocktail party. It was held at 1414 N. Ocean Blvd., in Palm Beach.

A number of out of town guests were at this party, including members of Fort Lauderdale Bachelors Club.

Hostesses were Mary Ellen Balfe, Maryanne O'Donnell, Joanne Anderson, Nancy Barney, Connie Cernea, Pasy Gibson, Joyce Gonzalez, Betty Grill, Mary Ann Anderson, Joan Dunlop, Mary Jo Hartwell, Theo Gibson, Barbara McCullough, Gail Hargadon, Joan Murphy, Barbara Nicholson, Reba Sterling, Betty Lee Thaxton, Barbara Wedgeworth, and Maureen Hinnegan.

We mention their names, because chances are that some of them will be brides by this time next year. It's long been a legend, "Join the Spinsters and Get Married."

One Holiday Party Saw Snake

LEAVING TOMORROW after a holiday visit with Mr. and Mrs. Richard O. Middleton, 1016 Almeria Rd., are their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Middleton, and son, Richard O. Middleton, II (named for his grandpa.) Dick and Janet will go to Athens, Ga. They were here for the party given during the week by the Gordon Potters.

WHEN THEY SAW the snake, some guests thought they were really "seeing things." The snake, carried by a small boy, was a very short time guest at the cocktail buffet given by Dr. and Mrs. Russell M. Martin.

It was carried in by their grandson, Kim, who thought the snake entitled to go to the party.

Coming from Decatur, Ill., with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. William Martin; brother, Rusty, and sister, Nancy Lou, to spend the holidays Kim had written that he hoped to catch a snake and an alligator in Florida.

So the senior Martins acquired a small garter snake and a 10-inch alligator and presented it to the children. They were delighted. The snake escaped, returned, and has now departed again, and the alligator succumbed to too much petting. But the sight of that snake at the party created a sensation.

MRS. REUBEN GRYZMISH of Brookline, Mass., is at Whitehall for the season. She was joined for the holidays by Dr. and Mrs. Harry Shpiner, and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Schulman, and children, all of Brooklyn.

'Take That! Now Collect . . . or Else'

JACKSONVILLE — (UPI) — A customer complained to M. F. Newton, garbage service operator, that garbagemen hadn't been picking up his rubbish.

And, as the man walked out of the clean collection service office, Newton said the customer dumped a box of garbage on the floor.

SRD Seeks Radio Bids

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— The State Road Department said bids will be opened Jan. 20 on radio equipment to expand its radio network. Bids were asked on mobile radio units and base stations for the second and third districts, and installation of radio units and base stations in the first, fourth and fifth districts.

Disease Death Charges Filed

TAMPA —(AP)— Police Tuesday charged a 35-year-old Tampa man with manslaughter in the meningitis death of Edwin M. Rogers.

Maurice L. Halverson is accused of striking Rogers during a Christmas Eve fight outside a tavern, Rogers died Monday.

30 Deaths Forecast

TAMPA — (AP) — The Florida Safety Council estimates that 30 persons will die in Florida accidents during the four-day New Year's holiday, 24 of them in traffic mishaps.

The council also predicts four persons will perish in fires and two in miscellaneous accidents.

The overall forecast is the same number that died over the four-day Christmas holiday. During that period, the state counted 25 traffic deaths, one from fire and three from suffocation.

Jax Bondsman Suspended

TALLAHASSEE —(UPI)— A Jacksonville bail bondsman was under six months suspension Tuesday in one of several cases of alleged violation of bail bond laws.

State Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson suspended the license of Fred Guy Crews, who waived a hearing. Earlier, Bondsmen Ed Barber and Branson O. Arflin were charged with violations of bail bond laws.

They brought to eight the number of bondsmen Larson has taken action against in his investigation of court fixing in Duval County.

Beginning of a Fizz

This is the fireworks display given off by a Thor rocket as it was launched at the missile test center at Cape Canaveral. The missile blew apart shortly after launching Tuesday night. Earlier in the day a Navy Polaris missile met with a similar fate when it was destroyed in flight. Rocketeers went to work at once to find out why two of their missiles went awry.

Synagogue 'Bomb' Is Shoebox

Herald Bureau

WEST PALM BEACH — The fake bomb planted at Temple Israel, 1901 N. Flagler Dr., had the earmarks of a collegiate prank, police said Wednesday.

Police, sheriff's men, FBI agents, and firemen converged on the Jewish Synagogue after an anonymous caller late Tuesday claimed a bomb had been planted at the temple.

The area was evacuated and Good Samaritan Hospital alerted for possible casualities.

Within 10 minutes, police found the fake bomb cushioned in wood shavings in a shoe box. It was made of four railroad flares, wiring and an alarm clock. The letters "KKK" were written on the flares.

Police said Wednesday they were following "every possible lead" in an effort to apprehend the bomb hoaxer.

Police believe the hoax may have been the work of pranksters.

The city of West Palm Beach recently passed a law against bomb hoaxes and provided stiff penalties.

Rain Due To Start New Year

By United Press International

A rainy New Year's day was in store for most of sunny Florida, but the weatherman said Orange Bowl football fans should have nothing to worry about.

A low pressure system moving northeastward out of the Gulf was expected to bring showers over the north and central portions of the state Thursday. But only a few showers were likely in Miami and the extreme south.

Chief forecaster Walter Davis said Miami may get some rain, but said it probably wouldn't happen until after the Orange Bowl game.

He pointed out that tradition is on the side of football fans, because he said it never yet has rained during the annual New Year's day classic.

The big worry, he said, was whether a squall line might develop in connection with the low pressure area.

This was what happened — and could happen again — last week when more than 12 inches of rain flooded Fort Lauderdale.

"It's kind of a toss-up situation," Davis said. "But for the present, we feel that south Florida has better than a 75 per cent chance for fair weather."

To date, South Florida has had some 6.77 inches of rain this month.

Execution Date Set

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins has signed a death warrant for execution of Willie Horne Jr., Jacksonville Negro, the week of Jan. 12 for the rape of a white grandmother.

The actual date for the electrocution will be set by the warden at Raiford Prison. Usually executions are carried out on Monday of the week in which they are scheduled.

Horne raped a 48-year-old woman near Jacksonville after halting the car in which she was riding and knocking out her escort with a heavy wrench.

Judge Named

TALLAHASSEE —(AP)— Gov. LeRoy Collins Tuesday appointed Ray E. Ulmer of Clearwater as Pinellas County judge. He will succeed Jack White, who was elected Circuit Judge.

Enhance His Political Future?

Collins May Visit Russia With Other State Governors

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. LeRoy Collins may visit Russia next summer.

He said the trip has been suggested for the nine members of the Executive Council of the National Governors' Conference but "no arrangements have been made so far as I know. The whole project remains in an exploratory stage."

COLLINS

Collins said he could sum up the reaction of the council in this way:

"If the trip would likely result in good for the nation; if there is a request that we go from an approved sponsoring agency which is willing to pay the cost from non-tax sources; if the trip is approved by our own State Department; and if the Russians will welcome us, then I think the governors will go."

He asserted "it is premature to say that all of these ifs have been settled at this time, because I frankly do not believe that they have."

He said he hoped that all problematical factors will be cleared up by Feb. 23 when the executive committee meets Collins explained that the in Biloxi, Miss. idea for the trip originated with Dr. John Ivey, executive vice president of New York University, who is a former executive secretary of the Southern Regional Education Board.

"There has been considerable visitation in Russia from the federal side of government," Collins said, "and Mr. Ivey feels that the executive committee of the Governors Conference could interpret for the Russians our federal-state relationship."

He said at the same time the governors would be able to present a composite report of their views on Russia that should be valuable to the United States. The trip, if it is taken, would come just before the 1959 National Governors Conference in Puerto Rico.

Although Collins said he knew little about preliminary details of the proposal "it ties in with my ideas that state officials ought to take more interest in international affairs." As chairman of the National Governors' Conference, Collins has been mentioned as Southern hopeful for a place on the national Democratic ticket.

If such an opportunity should arise, a trip to the Soviet Union might be an asset to his political future.

Four Men Spotted Shooting White Ibis

By BILL BUNGE
Herald Bureau

MELBOURNE BEACH—Chandler Young, vice president of the Indian River Audubon Society, reported Wednesday that he watched four men shooting white ibis — a bird protected by federal law— on the south side of Sebastian Inlet.

Young, who was on the north side of the inlet fishing, said he saw 10 of the birds fall to the ground, but counted 100 shots fired. He said he watched the hunters for about four hours through powerful field glasses.

The society official plans to ask state and federal game officials to keep a closer watch there for further activity by hunters.

No Trace of Montayne

Missing Flyer Talked to Cuban

HOLLYWOOD — A Fort Lauderdale pilot missing since early Sunday morning was seen talking with a Cuban man late Sunday afternoon at North Perry Airport near here, The Herald learned Wednesday.

The mysterious disappearance of Ray Montayne, 28, deepened Wednesday as Civil Air Patrol and Coast Guard officials reported no trace of the man or his rented Cessna 182 following a two-day statewide search.

Davis Miller, flight instructor for Jackson Flying Service, told officials Wednesday he had spoken with Montayne at 6:30 p.m. Sunday at North Perry, 12 miles west of here.

Miller said Montayne was talking with a man who "appeared to be a Cuban."

The missing man rented a plane from Sunny South Aircraft in Fort Lauderdale at 7:15 Sunday morning. He told the airfield manager he was going to Orlando and would return the same day.

North Perry had no record of Montayne's plane landing there Sunday.

His wife of two months, Martha Ann Montayne, Fort Lauderdale, said her husband told her he was going to work Sunday and would return that evening.

Just before his disappearance, Montayne was given $100 from an Aldo Montes, of Miami, according to his wife.

Bud Moore, commander of the North Dade Civil Air Patrol Squadron, said the search for the missing craft would continue Thursday.

The U.S. Border Patrol in Miami has been alerted.

"We're very curious about it," said Tyler Winton, senior inspector.

Mrs. Montayne, who said her husband had discussed the Cuban revolution recently, feared he may have become involved with Rebel forces in exile in Miami.

But a Rebel spokesman in Cuba denied Wednesday that the craft had landed in Cuba, according to the Search and Rescue Squadron of the 14th Air Force Division.

Mill Strike Is Ended

JACKSONVILLE —(UPI)— Striking electrical workers were called back to work Wednesday after the union and St. Regis Paper Co. reached an agreement.

Federal Mediator Gordon Duncan said union and management negotiated all day Tuesday and reached a settlement that night. The agreement was ratified by the union membership about 10:30 p.m.

Anti-Trust Suit Motion Denied

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Federal Judge George W. Whitehurst has denied a motion to dismiss a 3¼-million dollar anti-trust suit against owners of the Sarasota Journal and Herald-Tribune.

David B. Lindsay, David B. Lindsay Jr. and the Lindsay Newspapers Inc. sought dismissal of the suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Kent S. McKinley and the Sarasota News Inc.

Milton Man Is Guilty Of Assault

PENSACOLA — (UPI) — Ed Golden, 23, of Milton, Wednesday was found guilty of a reduced charge of assault and battery in the wounding of his girlfriend's mother in a shooting incident June 15 in which a deputy sheriff was killed.

A six-member court of record jury deliberated three hours and 15 minutes and reduced the charge from assault with intent to commit first degree murder.

The maximum sentence on the assault and battery count is six months in jail, while the more serious charge carried a possible 20-year prison sentence.

Judge Ernest E. Mason set sentencing for Monday. The defense attorneys have 10 days to announce an appeal, but they made no immediate indication either way.

Golden went on trial Tuesday in the wounding of Mrs. Pearce Jernigan. Earlier he was acquitted of murder in the fatal wounding of Deputy Sheriff Len Burton Adams and also of assault with intent to murder Deputy Leslie Brock in the same incident.

At the earlier trials, Golden testified and other witnesses confirmed it, that Brock had drawn his gun before the youth fired. Golden said he was "afraid they were going to kill me."

The young car salesman is engaged to marry Wesie Jernigan, 20, daughter of the wounded couple. He still faces trial late in January for wounding Pearce Jernigan, with whom he argued over marrying the girl, in the action that precipitated the shootings.

Holdup Suspect Caught Enlisting

CHICAGO — (AP) — John Howard Laskoske, 17, of Michigan City, Ind., was arrested Tuesday by FBI agents as he attempted to enlist in the Army.

Laskoske was charged with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for armed robbery in West Palm Beach, Fla. Florida police, said FBI Agent Earl E. Brown, have a warrant for Laskoske in connection with a Nov. 24 holdup of the Central Truck Lines office which netted $1,200. Police in West Palm Beach have arrested another man in connection with the holdup.

Laskoske will appear for a hearing before a U. S. commissioner.

RR's, Railway Express Apply For Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE — (UPI) — Railway express and railroads operating in Florida Wednesday requested increases which the State Utilities Commission estimated would cost shippers slightly more than $300,000 a year.

Railway Express asked for a 15 per cent increase in rates on all commodities except fish, citrus gift packages, wearing apparel and certain carload traffic.

It would coincide with an interstate rate increase granted in October. Railway Express was given its last intrastate increase in November, 1957, and it affected only milk and cream products.

The Utilities Commission — which set Tuesday, Jan. 20, in Tallahassee, for a public hearing on the application, estimated the increase would cost Florida shippers $255,000 a year.

Wednesday, Jan. 21 in Tallahassee was set for the public hearing on the increased freight rates in Florida asked by Florida railroads. The commission estimated this hike, if granted, would cost shippers about $100,000 a year.

The railroads did not ask for any general percentage increase. Their application includes selective increases on certain commodities, some flat raises and some special percentage increases subject to both maximums and minimums.

They also asked for increased charges for switching, diversion, reconsignment, stop-offs for partial unloading and unloading.

The railroads were granted their last intrastate increase — amounting to nine per cent across the board — last April. It amounted in dollars and cents to about $593,000 a year, including $233,000 for Atlantic Coastline, $155,000 for Florida East Coast, $190,000 for Seaboard, $10,000 for L&N and a total of about $5,000 for all other lines.

Both Railway Express and the railroads cited increased wages and fringe benefits as the major reason for the proposed rate increases.

Peanut Butter

Youngster Chokes Self on Sandwich

JACKSONVILLE —(AP)— A 7-year-old boy choked to death while trying to eat a peanut butter sandwich, county investigators reported.

Lt. P. J. Pettersen of the sheriff's department said investigation was incomplete but information indicated that Charles E. Love choked on the sandwich Tuesday night at his home.

Two doctors from Cecil Field Naval Air Station, doing welfare work in the neighborhood, rushed to the Love home and performed surgery on the child's throat.

Pettersen said he and Deputy Sheriff R. P. McCauley were called to the scene at 7:15 p.m. after the child died.

Helicopter Escorts Trains at Crossings

ST. PETERSBURG —(AP)— A helicopter preceded all Seaboard Airline Railroad trains entering Pinellas county Wednesday sounding a warning to motorists to be cautious when approaching unguarded railroad crossings.

The helicopter, with a county patrolman aboard, flew directly in front of the trains and blared a siren and flashed a red light at each crossing. The craft picked up the trains as they entered the county and escorted them to the St. Petersburg city limits.

Several persons have been killed in recent weeks in a series of accidents at unguarded crossings.

County and railroad officials cooperated in the one-day project devised by a commercial firm to dramatize the need for alertness at railroad crossings.
